FOR EXCISE LAW CHANGE

Mayor Believes in Limiting Saloon Number and Making Fee at Least $1,000

FAVORS LOCAL OPTION

Mr. Fisk Stands By Statement Made In Grand Jury's Presentment Which Gives Reasons Why.

The sentiment for local option has a friend in the person of Mayor Charles J. Fisk, foreman of the Union County Grand Jury, whose recent presentment regarding the condition of the liquor traffic in Union county has caused widespread comment. He is an ardent advocate of self-government and in his opinion the inhabitants of a given township, village, borough or city should have the right to say whether liquor shall be sold where they reside.

It was during Mayor Fisk's first term ten years ago that a resolution was passed by the Common Council through the efforts of the mayor and City Judge Runyon, who was then a member of the lawmaking body and the people at a special election decreed that this should be a license town. Since then there has been perfect control of the excise matter and the features of the Bishops' law were long in force here before the bill favored by the two Catholic and the two Episcopal bishops was favorably acted upon by the Legislature.

Mayor Fisk, in conversation with a Daily Press correspondent today, voiced his sentiments for local option, adding that in his opinion some amendments to the present Bishops' law would be desirable. He asserted that there is no reason why the number of licensed places should not be limited to one for every 1,000 inhabitants and that the minimum license fee be placed at $1,000.

"I can say no more than what you will find stated in the Grand Jury's recent presentment," said Mayor Fisk. "There it is in cold type and I can not add to it or take anything from it."

The paragraph in the presentment to which the live mayor referred reads thus:

"In nearly every municipality and in all parts of the county the number of places granted license to sell liquor is greatly in excess of the needs of the community and a detriment to the peace and good morals of our county. This matter is in the power of the licensing power to correct, failing to do so, we recommend that the Legislature be petitioned to enact a law limiting the number of places to be licensed to sell intoxicating liquors to one to every one thousand population, and that the minimum license fee be raised to at least $1,000. In the opinion of this grand inquest a limited number of saloons and a high license fee will do more than anything else to correct the evils and regulate the selling of intoxicating liquors."

A HOME WEDDING.

Home Ceremony United Francis Milton Mague and Miss Mary Wright McInnes.

Miss Mary Wright McInnes, daughter of James McInnes, of West Third street, and Francis Milton Mague, of West Fourth street, were married at the home of the bride's father, last night. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel, and was witnessed by sixty relatives and near friends. Miss Agnes McInnes, sister of the bride, and Gerald Cashman, of this city, were the attendants.

Following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Mague were tendered a reception. They will make their home on West Fourth street, the groom being employed in the draughting department of one of the local shops and is also well known as a musician.

Renewing 'Phone Wires and Poles.

Part of the construction gang of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company is engaged today in taking down the old unused wires on East Front street, between Park and Watchung avenues. As soon as they are all taken down, the several poles will be removed, leaving a clear and unobstructed thoroughfare. The various places along West and East Front street have phone connection through the underground conduits.

CALL FOR REV. G. B. SHAW

Seventh-Day Baptist Pastor Invited to a Church at North Loup, Neb.

CONSIDERS INVITATION

Pulpit in the West Made Vacant by Election of Dr. Gardner to Editorship of Local Publication.

Co-incident with the recent call of Rev. T. L. Gardner, of North Loup, Nebraska, to the editorship of the Sabbath Recorder, and his acceptance thereof, comes a call to Rev. George B. Shaw, of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, to become the pastor of the denominational church at North Loup, to succeed Mr. Gardner. Mr. Shaw has not yet given a decision in the matter and probably will not for several weeks.

Mr. Gardner, who will come to Plainfield on September 1 to assume the editorship of the Sabbath Recorder, has been pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church at North Loup and recently resigned the charge. The members of Dr. Shaw's congregation are deeply interested in his decision. Since coming the Plainfield from the pastorate of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, of New York, he has been successful as a pastor and preacher and has succeeded in building up the local church and advancing its interests. His people are anxious that he should remain.

Prior to taking the charge at North Loup, Mr. Gardner was president of Salem College, W. Va., for many years. He is a scholarly divine, and great success has attended his efforts as president of Salem College and as a pastor.

The fact that Mr. Gardner is to reside here and that Mr. Shaw had been called to North Loup, has given rise to the report that possibly the former might combine the pastorate of the local church with his new position as editor of the Recorder, but prominent members of the denomination declare that there is no significance in the report and that it is highly improbable that such an arrangement be made.

Elks Arranging Clambake.

Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., has decided to hold its annual clambake on Saturday, August 24, at the grounds of the Watchung Spring Water Company, off Mountain avenue. The committee arranging the plans comprises B. Frank Boos, chairman; Erwin Y. Neighbor, John Conway and W. DeLa. R. Anderson. They have asserted that the coming affair will exceed all previous efforts in every way.

Hope Chapel Excursion Next.

If you have thus far failed to enjoy any of the numerous excursions to Asbury Park, this season, you still have another opportunity. On Saturday, August 10, Hope chapel Sunday-school, will make its annual trip to the shore. The train will leave Grant avenue station at 7.50, Plainfield at 8 o'clock and returning leave the shore at 7.50 in the evening.

FISK HUNT CLUB HEAD

Newly-Elected President will Work for Merger with the Riding and Driving Club.

PAYING OFF ITS DEBT

Simeon A. Cruikshank Is Chosen Vice President—Waring Is Shaping Plans.

Mayor Charles J. Fisk was elected president and Simeon A. Cruikshank, vice president, of the Watchung Hunt Club, at a meeting of the stewards at the Casino, last night. They take the places vacated by the resignation of President C. C. Marshall and Vice President Lewis E. Waring. Mr. Marshall resigned because he is living at Millbrook, N. Y., and is too far away from Plainfield to give his attention to the club. Mr. Waring withdrew as vice president because he was previously elected master of the hounds and does not care to hold two offices.

The meeting was a harmonious one in every respect and gratifying reports were received in the effort to liquidate the club's indebtedness. It was stated that over fifty per cent. of the membership has been heard from and will continue as members. It is expected that the full amount will be received to pay off the debts previously incurred within a short time.

The choice of Mayor Fisk as the head of the organization will assure success for the club. He is especially interested in the affairs of the organization, besides being an officer in the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club, the interests of both will be conserved and as stated by The Daily Press recently, will assist in the proposed merger later on, whereby the combined club will have its home at the horse show grounds.

In the election of Mr. Cruikshank as vice president, another staunch member has been secured to make the Hunt Club a success. Ever since the formation of the club Mr. Cruikshank has been closely identified with its interests and has frequently taken part in the hunts. Another fact that will tend to increase the riding membership is the eelction of Lewis E. Waring as master of the hounds. He intends to be active in this position and extensive plans will be adopted between now and fall for a number of hunts throughout Middlesex and Union counties.

Held Watermelon Social.

Members of Hope chapel enjoyed a watermelon social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald McInnes, of West Third street, last night. A large number of the luscious fruit was cut and served and an informal program added to the occasion. The proceeds were for the benefit of the chapel organ fund.

"Phil." McGuire Promoted.

Philip McGuire, formerly superintendent of the Plainfield division of the trolley line, has been promoted to a lucrative position in the main office of the P. S. C. at Newark, with a large increase in salary.

FAMILY ON VACATION; HOUSE IS RANSACKED

JOSEPH SATTELS REPORTS THAT BURGLAR GOT NOTHING.

Several days ago during the absence of the family of Joseph Sattels, a "gentleman burglar" entered their home on East Sixth street, and after ransacking the house from top to bottom, departed without taking a thing. He evidently was in search of money and finding none decided that there was nothing else that he wanted. A neighbor noticed a strange man approach the house and calling to him as he neared the door, informed him that the family was away. Just then she heard his say, "Good afternoon Mrs. Sattels," and thinking that possibly she had returned from her vacation, paid no further attention to the incident.

When Mr. Sattels returned home that night he discovered that someone had entered the house and made a thorough inspection. The contents of bureau drawers and closets were scattered all over, but thus far Mr. Sattels has missed nothing of any value. It is said that another attempt was made to rob a house in the same neighborhood that day, but the thief was frightened off.

BOROUGH PROPERTY OWNERS OUT FOR IMPROVEMENTS

SCHEME ON FOOT TO HAVE CONCRETE SIDEWALK ON SOMERSET STREET.

There is a big improvement boom being agitated among the tradesmen on the West side of Somerset street in the borough. With the new Hassam pavement almost completed, there is a strong feeling that the tradesmen ought to "chirk up" the appearance of the thoroughfare a bit, and there is a movement on foot to have a broad pavement laid all the way from the school house to Front street. This feeling, which is pretty well shared by the property owners, has had its origin in the sidewalk improvements made at the school, and the adjoining property, and at the fire house.

If this sort of innovation is continued, the feeling is that this section will become the borough's Rialto, "The Great White Way" of Somerset street. The buildings along Somerset street are set so far back from the street on that side that it is possible to have a broad concrete sidewalk laid along there which will do much toward bringing boroughites to use that street as a thoroughfare, instead of Duer street or Grove street.

The property owners, in undertaking this thing, are planning to have such a sidewalk promenade laid as a single job. This will save expense and in this way the work can be done most rapidly, and all at one time. Each tradesman would be assessed according to his curb frontage and the contract may be placed in the hands of the borough city officials to carry out the work. About a dozen of the Somerset street tradesmen are actively interested in seeing the improvement put through and there is a possibility that a committee will be appointed to take the affair in hand.

CO. K WINS THE TROPHY

Plainfield Military Victorious in Tournament on the Sea Girt Range.

DEFEAT FOR COMPANY L

Princeton Boys Their Closest Rivals —Get the Prize Cup By Six Points.

A shifty, fish-tail wind at the ranges at Sea Girt yesterday made conditions for shooting in the contest for the Williams trophy as hard as they were Tuesday when the Co. K team was on the range. As a result, the teams of the companies in the Second Regiment did not turn in scores up to the standard, and the local boys are declared the winner of the cup, with their five man team score of 604, made at the ranges Tuesday. The shooters were badly handicapped by the wind, which was what riflemen term a "fish-tail" wind, and had the clock indicators at the targets continually on the move.

While the local boys felt practically sure of bringing the trophy back to this city with them as soon as they heard tha Co. . of Princeton, had turned in a score six points lower than that made by the Plainfield military, they were waiting for a "dark horse" team in the companies of the Third Battalion. The condition of the weather and the wind made the scores poor, however, and the average net out of a possible 150 points was less than 100. All the members of the Plainfield team finished over 100. This is the first year that the cup has been offered, and the Co. K team will have the honor of having their names engraved on it as the first holders. The cup will be competed for again next year.

Announcement has been made by Brigadier General Dennis F. Collins that the sham battle, which is one of the most important military manoeuvres of the week, will be conducted tomorrow morning instead of tomorrow afternoon as has been the case heretofore.

The scene of the conflict will also be changed in part. This latter fact will also be made necessary by the presence of a boys' brigade from Pittsburg, which will arrive here during the latter part of the week to make their camp in the field adjoining the parade ground, where it has been the custom to conduct the sham battles. One of the principal features of the fight will be an attack on the camp. The regiment, along the Second troop and Battery B, will be almost equally divided into opposing armies for the conflict.

Governor Stokes entertained at dinner tonight several prominent guests in honor of Ferdinand Roebling, of Trenton. The guests were: Senator Frank O. Briggs, former Senator Jonathan H. Blackwell, of Trenton; Thomas N. McCarter, of Newark; Robert Barr, Anthony R. Kuser, R. V. Kuser and B. C. Kuser.

UNITED ON CITY JUDGE

New Idea Men and Organization Leaders all Favor Renomination of Runyon.

THERE'S REASONS WHY

Present Incumbent Has Made a Good Record and Is Strong In All Parts of the City.

Although it is positive that there will be a bitter clash over candidates at the coming primaries in this city, particularly as the New Idea will make a determined fight to wrest control of the councilmanic nominees and county and State delegates from the organization, one man will not figure as a bone of contention politically, City Judge William N. Runyon being the officeholder against whom no opposition will be made by either faction. Since he filled his last term in the Common Council, the popular and talented young man has served three times in succession as city judge and there appears to be no argument as to his having given the utmost satisfaction.

Runyon led the Colby forces in the last campaign and it was due largely to his efforts on the stump and in a personal canvas that the New Idea obtained the majority of votes for its mayoralty candidate at the election and made such a surprisingly good showing all around. He had enjoyed the reputation of being the "brains of the organization" and when he came out on a platform of civic righteousness, his ability was equally appreciated.

It is whispered about on the "inside" now that the organization will make no fight against Runyon's renomination, but that it is really anxious for him to run. To center a fight against him might possibly mean the loss of the city and no such chances are going to be taken by the regulars at this stage of the game particularly when they have their eyes open that two years hence John Kean will want a solid delegation from his home county in the Legislature. This also accounts for the cries emanating from the organization's camp for harmony; they want it because they realize that the true motto at this perilous moment is "united we stand, divided we fall."

Local Option Meeting August 18.

The next meeting of the Anti-Saloon League in this city will be held Sunday, August 18, in the Monroe Avenue church, when Emmett H. Curtis will again be in the city, urging the cause of the local option league. Tuesday evening the league held an open air meeting at Garwood, at which Curtis spoke in the interest of the local option bill to an audience of about a hundred men, mostly factory employees. Curtis gave the record of the various assemblymen of Union county and had some critical remarks to make about the record of Perkins.

PERKINS IS A CANDIDATE

Assemblyman Says No Two or Three Men Can Force His Retirement.

IT'S UP TO THE PEOPLE

Assemblyman In Announcing His Candidacy For Fourth Term Says He's Responsible to Constituents.

If any two or three men in the Republican party in Union county have decided that Randolph Perkins "must go," there's going to be some trouble ahead before the primaries are held for the doughty young Assemblyman declared to a representative of The Daily Press last night that he's out for a renomination and lame excuses about party customs won't deter him from putting up a good stiff battle for the office.

When Mr. Perkins was asked about the stories current that the organization would oppose his renomination, he admitted that he had eagerly read the newspaper accounts but had received no direct information from party leaders to that effect. He declared that a large number of leading Republicans in the county had expressed their preference for him and that he knew of but one man of power who was out and out against him. This man he refused to name although he admitted that he hails from Plainfield.

In announcing his candidacy for a fourth term, the Westfielder said that the only objection of any weight that he had heard was the one regarding party custom. The opposition, if any there is, against his renomination, he declared, is based on the fact that he is now ending his third term and that it has been a fixed rule for assemblyman in Union county only to be given two terms. If this rule is to be enforced, he said, it should be made to apply to all officeholders in the county. There are others who have held more than three terms, he declared, and no one has taken ground against them on that point. If they are to be allowed as many terms as they want, he saw no reason why he should not be allowed to run again.

"I am accountable to my constituents," said Mr. Perkins, "and they know my record. I voted against the re-election of United States Senator because I was carrying out the wishes of my constituents. For that action I am accountable to them and to no one else. If the people are disappointed in my record and do not want me to run again, I will retire, but if two or three men, regardless of what my constituents demand, say that I can't have another nomination, there's going to be a fight."

WILLIAM H. CLUM WEDS HIS SISTER-IN-LAW.

Architect Quietly Married by Elizabeth Pastor on Sunday Night.

William H. Clum, an architect having offices in the Codington building, became a benedict for the second time on Sunday night, his second wife being a sister of his first, who died about a year ago. The bride is Mrs. J. R. Cole, of Elizabeth.

Without letting his friends into the secret, it is said, Mr. Clum went to Elizabeth on Sunday and the wedding took place that evening in the parsonage of the Epworth M. E. Church. Rev. S. F. Davis, the pastor, officiated. After a short honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Clum returned home yesterday. They have taken up their residence in Lincoln place, Dunellen.

"Ram's Horn" Camp Is Popular.

John P. Hall's "Ram's Horn" camp on Halsey Island, Lake Hopatcong, has proven to be one of the most popular of the many dotting the shores of the big water sheet. Among the Plainfielders there at present are Alfred Lacey, John Duckworth, Alfred Osmun, Harvey Morrison, Harry Blimm and Thomas DeMeza. This number will be increased by eight more who go up next Monday for a two weeks' stay. "Jack" is kept busy arranging musicales for the neighboring campers as all the talent is housed under his tents.

The officers made the trip over the Pennsylvania road, going from here to Elizabeth on the 4.45 train yesterday afternoon.

CLOSED FOR 20 YEARS, MEETING HOUSE ERECTED IN YEAR 1758 WILL BE RE-OPENED FOR WORSHIP

After a lapse of about twenty years during which no services have been held in the Randolph Quaker Meeting-house, located at Mill Brook, about one and a half miles south of Dover, it has been planned to hold a service there. The building is within the bounds of the New York yearly meeting of the Religious Society of Friends. The committee for the advancement of Friends' principles of this yearly meeting will hold a service there on Sunday, August 11, at 3 o'clock p. m. It is expected that William and Anna M. Jackson, of New York; Henry W. Wilbur, of Swarthmore, Pa., and other Friends will be present and make addresses. In 1682 East Jersey had 1,000 settlers, many of whom were Quakers. Randolph Township was chiefly settled by them, prominent among whom was Hartzhorn Fitz Randolph, after whom the township and meeting-house was named. The first Quaker meeting-house built in Randolph Township, date unknown, was erected about half a mile south of Dover, near the residence of Daniel Lamson, near which was located a cemetery, scarcely a trace of either remaining at this time.

The Society of Friends increasing in 1758, they erected another meeting-house about one mile farther west and nearer the residence of Richard Brotherton and other prominent Quakers. The building is about 25x26 feet, two stories high, with an opening about six feet square in the upper floor, allowing those above scant means of seeing below. Everything is of the primitive mode of construction of one hundred and forty-nine years ago, but the timbers were smoothly hewn from rafters to posts and girders. Instead of spikes, wooden pins were used to fasten down the planks of the floor. The inside fittings are of the simplest and rudest construction. The seats were made of plain boards, while what are known as the shutters to divide the sexes when holding business meetings consist of two battened horizontal doors, ten feet long and three feet high, each side of the middle doorway and held in place with wooden buttons, while hanging from the overhead cross-beam are corresponding traps, which swing down to meet the lower division. The building was originally warmed with a charcoal fire built in a pit beneath the floor, but in 1845 a more modern stove was installed and is there today. The cemetery adjoining the building is enclosed on three sides with a stone wall and an iron fence in front. James W. Brotherton, with his sister, Rachael B. Vail, form the last resident living members who used to attend meetings in the old Quaker church.

Before leaving her home for a shopping trip in New York, yesterday, a well known Plainfield woman who lives on West Sixth street, just below Grant avenue, noticed that her comely servant girl, Elsie Johanson, was unusually happy. She sang snatches of wishy-washy songs as she flitted about from one room to another and laughed and smiled at the least provocation. The lady of the house made no comment but she had occasion to remember all about it when she returned home last night, tired out from her wanderings through Sixth avenue and Twenty-third street, to find her home closed tightly and no sign of life about.

Elsie had been given instructions to have everything cosy and inviting for her mistress, because she knew that bargain-hunting is not the easiest thing in the world. She had misgivings when she ascended the porch and found the door locked and she became uneasy after she had hauled the key from the accustomed hiding place and entered the hall. It became consternation when she looked into the dining room and found that it was just as she had left it at breakfast time. There were no indications of preparation for the evening meal and everything seemed to have a forlorn and desolate air. A hasty inspection of the other rooms revealed the fact that Elsie had suddenly taken a dislike to work and had cared not for the disorder that ruled.

In her search the mistress located a note on one of the tables. With apologies to Vesta Victoria, here's the very note, this is what Elsie wrote:

"Please excuse haste, I've gone to get married."

The simple message explained a whole lot of things, especially Elsie's buoyancy of spirits in the morning, but the tired-out shopper found little consolation in the thought that the young woman had suddenly found her affinity and had lost no time to hold fast to him. All of the girl's possessions had been packed up and taken away but nothing else was disturbed. For all that, the mistress believed it was her duty to inform the police and she did so. They are figuring out on just what charge they can go after Elsie but as running away to be married is not a crime or a misdemeanor the young woman is not likely to be annoyed by the sleuths.

Elsie figured in a police court case several weeks ago. When Frank Muliner, of this city, was arraigned on a charge of deserting his wife and family it was declared that he had been lured away by the charms of Miss Johanson. As he was turned over to the Rahway reformatory, having been on parole, and is there now, some other fellow must have taken his place in her affections.

One of our clients owed $48 between four people. His salary is $14 weekly; rent $12 monthly. To have paid $2 weekly to each creditor, combined with rent, would have left only $3 per week to meet expenses, buy clothing, etc.—an impossibility you will agree. He borrowed $50, paid all his creditors, made his future credit good, if ever needed; pays his rent, the loan payments, and has $9 each week to use as his judgment dictates.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

The Fatal Fourth.

The death harvest of the recent Fourth of July is not yet all gathered in by the Grim Reaper, but already five victims have lingered and suered and died in this State; the most of them in horrible agony. The latest case was one to wring pity from the most unsympathetic heart. It ought to be enough, in itself, to bring about the banishment of the insane methods of celebrating the day, and it would be enough if people could have witnessed the poor little victim's agonies. He was a lad of eleven years, whose parents live at Scotch Plains. He was wounded on the Fourth with a toy pistol from which he was firing blank cartridges, a piece of wadding embedding itself in the fleshy part of his hand. A physician dressed the wound, but in less than two weeks he developed symptoms of lockjaw. He grew rapidly worse; his jaws set, and though he was starving for food he could not eat. Conscious of his hopeless condition and suffering unspeakable mental anguish and the intense tortures off pain, he lingered for more than a week. Death ended his sufferings last week. Four cases preceded his. In Paterson some reckless person threw a pack of lighted firecrackers in a little girl's lap, and she was burned so that she could not live. At Garfield a cannon cracker which a man held in his hand exploded prematurely, and he was so lacerated by the explosion that lockjaw set in and he died. At Morristown a toy cannon burst while a boy was loading it. He was wounded by the fragments; lockjaw ensued and he is dead and buried. At New Brunswick a young girl thoughtlessly snapped a toy pistol in the face of a young man. A piece of the wadding of the cap inflicted a wound in his forehead, and, after suffering the agonies of tetanue for several days, he paid for her folly with his life. And the end is not yet. Isn't it a fearful price to pay for horrible and inhuman methods of celebrating the nation's birthday? This whole State is righteously indignant over the carelessness which resulted in the outbreak of typhoid in the State Hospital at Trenton, and the death of eleven insane patients; but from every humane and economic standpoint the slaughter of five bright, young, hopeful, intelligent and prospectively useful boys and girls must be considered a far greater loss to the State than the death of the helpless and hopeless adult inmates of the insane asylum.—Newark News.

Re-printed from The Constitutionalist

From the issue of June 17, 1869:

"On Tuesday evening, June 10, quite an affair came off at the new and elegant residence of J. A. J. Neaffie, (the late eminent tragedian, who has now retired from the stage) No. 243 East 82nd street, New York, in the shape of a magnificent wedding between Thomas A. Longking and Miss Viola Neaffie, by Rev. John Longking, father of the groom. The bride was splendidly attired in a beautiful white satin, bridal veil, and her hair festooned with elegant white flowers. Although the night was stormy, the attendance was large and all enjoyed themselves finely.

"We are personally acquainted with Mr. N. and his son-in-law, (our old townsman, Chas. H. Andrews) and we would take this opportunity of returning them our thanks for the wedding cake which they kindly sent us. We shall be happy to give a small piece of the cake to any of the young ladies of our city who may want a piece to dream on."

Fourth of July. As yet we have heard of no preparation being made for the celebration of the anniversary of our Independence in our new city, while at Dunellen, that little hamlet a short distance from here, the citizens are making preparations for a grand celebration of the Fourth. Is it possible there is not enough patriotism left in our city to celebrate the day too. If it was a concert or a festival how quickly our citizens would respond to the call, but when it comes to celebrating the day every American honors, no one is found to take the lead. Is the custom of celebrating the Fourth dying out? It would seem so—especially in Plainfield. Come, who will set the ball in motion?"

"The first sleeping car through to San Francisco without change left Jersey City last Friday afternoon. It was a splendid coach and attracted much attention. Passengers for China will take the train on the right. All aboard."

"SMITH—THOMPSON. In this city, June 10th, by Rev. Wm. Day, William H. Smith to Ellen Thompson, all of this city."

"The heavy thunderstorm of Monday afternoon last caused a general inundation of some of our streets. On Cherry street, some of the planks forming bridges over the gutters, were forced from their fastenings, and swept to one side, and the way filth, dead rats, cats, etc., were swept into Green brook was a caution."

"We are sorry to learn that friend Wallace Vail met with an accident a few days since which will confine him to crutches for some time. He was carrying a stone pot of lard, weighing some 30 pounds, out of the cellar, when it slipped from him, one edge of the jar striking him on the foot, cutting it very severely.

"We presume the accident sorely tries 'Wall,' as he is a thorough business man, and is not now able to get around with his usual activity; meanwhile, however, the postoffice, under the efficient supervision of Mr. Vail's worthy lady, and the assistance of gentlemanly clerks, is progressing finely."

Mr. and Mrs. William Woodland, formerly of this city, but now of Newark, are parents of a daughter, born to them a few days ago.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

Minford and Randolph will divide the pitching honors at Crescent Oval, Saturday, when the Y. M. C. A. and Clinton Avenue teams will meet for the last time this season, and the fans should see a royal battle for supremacy. Clinton Avenue must win the contest if it hopes to secure the pennant, while the association nine must take the contest if it has any idea of securing the rag. The result will be watched with unusual interest. The followers of each team assert that their favorites will win. Much will depend on the condition of the batteries and as they are said to be the best, it is argued that there will be little left for the fielders to do.

While Clinton Avenue and Y. M. C. A. are fighting for first place at Crescent Oval, Saturday, the Laurels, of Bound Brook, will be at Scotch Plains, trying to defeat the team from that place. Both of these teams are playing fast ball and the contest should be a fine one.

Walter Clarkson, pitching for Cleveland against St. Louis, lost a hard game on Tuesday. He allowed the opposing team but three hits, but his own team-mates were credited with five errors, all of which helped to lose the contest.

Mike Lynch, formerly of the Pittsburgs, pitched for the Giants against St. Louis on Tuesday and his team won by a score of 11 to 5. McGraw's boys piled up seventeen hits.

The Rochester Eastern League Club has sold Pitcher Walters to Little Rock.

Efforts to play Sunday baseball in Trenton is meeting with strong opposition. Last Sunday the police stopped the exhibition contest scheduled to take place between Trenton and Lancaster Tri-State teams and arrested the players of both teams and the owner and manager of the Trenton club.

Lou Wiltse, of this city, who was let go by the Johnstown Tri-State League team, has reopened his case for reinstatement before the National Commission, and is hopeful of getting back to Eastern League company again in a few weeks. Wiltse is now a free agent, and last week he visited Baltimore and received assurances from Mr. Frank, of that club, that his petition will not be opposed from that end. Wiltse also had a conference with President Pulliam, of the National League, in which he placed his case before that official, and the player says Mr. Pulliam will use his endeavors to get his troubles speedily disposed of. While the National Commission is considering his appeal, Wiltse will play first base and pitch for the Reading Atlantic League team. This week he met Manager Lawson and fixed up this temporary arrangement. Wiltse says as soon as he is reinstated he will consider two offers he has received from East League clubs. The lanky twirler, who three seasons ago ranked among the top-notchers of the Eastern League, declares that his arm is as good as it ever was, and that he is capable of doing good work.

GOLF.

Vice Chancellor Stevens led the field at the Morris County Golf Club on Saturday for the President's cup, finishing 1 down. It was a contest against bogey.

The Montclair Golf Club has about decided to give an invitation tournament in the fall. Officials of the organization are to determine the matter within a short time.

Robert Abbott's score failed to appear in the opening day's play at VanCortlandt Park on Tuesday. He was prominently mentioned among the amateurs to compete and an excellent picture of the Plainfield boy appeared in the Evening Sun of that day.

Golfers who have been playing on the Montclair Golf Club course recently are generally pleased with the rearrangements of the circuit, which now takes in the long holes on the outward journey. The playing length to the turn is 3,207 yards. The home journey, however, has been considerably shortened so that the 2,693 yards makes a grand total of 5,900 yards.

In the thirty-six hole final for the daily cup at Forest Hill on Saturday, A. E. Allsopp beat Frank Dana, by 7 up and 6 to play.

The many improvements made on the Plainfield Country Club course this season are greatly appreciated by the playing members and while it makes the game more difficult, now that the contestants are getting used to conditions, like the course much better.

Frank O. Reinhart still continues to play a strong game of golf and he makes a warm rival for any player who happens to be contesting against him. On Saturday he finished second with a 79 from scratch.

Plainfield, N. J., August 1, 1907.

THE GUESSING GAME.

As the respective political checkerboards appear at present, Frank S. Katzenbach has his opponent, George S. Silzer, cornered for the Democratic nomination, while Justice J. Mahlon Pitney has a decided advantage over his most formidable competitor, Justice Fort. That's the situation just now, but there's many a slip, you know.—Plainfield Press.

Good political gossip, but not absolutely good. Neither of those estimable German-American Jersey Democrats will corral the nomination of his party unless "Jim" Smith gets over his present inclination for Judge Child, or if he returns to his desire for victory with John R. Hardin as the party standard bearer. As for the Republican end of the surmise, there won't be much enthusiasm for Pitney until there is some sign from the Judge that he will accept the nomination if it is offered to him. If he won't give a sign—well, Joe Frelinghuysen will soon be convalescent and Judge Fort will be back from Europe before the State convention meets.—New Brunswick Home News.

The Home News generally gets its field glasses on the right spot during a political engagement, but it's away off when it counts on "Jim" Smith coming out at this early date for either Childs or Hardin. He's altogether too shrewd a master of the political game to let his views be known before he has made a complete survey of the battle-ground. When the time comes, if Newark's "Jim" lines up his forces against Plainfield's "Jim" we miss our guess, for whatever can be said of the Millionaire Democrat he cannot be accused of being an utter ingrate. Now as for the statement that there will be no great enthusiasm for Pitney until he comes out from under cover, we will take issue with the News again. When a prospective candidate knows that the leaders will pass the word around at the opportune moment, he is not apt to have his boom killed by an early frost.

FOR ASSEMBLY DISTRICTS.

The proposed amendment to the Constitution of New Jersey, advertised in last night's issue of The Daily Press, provides for a renewal of the method of choosing assemblymen by districts instead of by counties as is now the practice. The amendment in question was passed by the recent Legislature and following its advertisement throughout the State will be acted upon again by the next Legislature. If passed in 1908, it will then be put before the voters for their approval. Should the scheme be sanctioned by the people, it will then be the duty of the succeeding Legislature in 1909, to apportion the several counties into assembly districts.

As an exchange says, "Under the system now in vogue, no matter how large a proportion the minority voters in a county may bear to a majority, the minority as a rule get no representation whatever in the Assembly, while as representation is arranged in the Senate, the most populous county has no more voting power than the smallest. For example, Essex county with over 30,000 electors, has no larger representation in the Senate than Cape May with about 3,000. If in Essex in a close election the Democrats or Republicans as the case might be, polled ever so few less than half the votes they might not have a single representative in the lower House. This arrangement is undemocratic and unrepublican."

The proposed arrangement will be much more satisfactory and vastly more democratic than the present unfair and unrepresentative method.

Cortlandt Parker was not only the Nestor of the New Jersey bar but was a rare type of the gentleman of the old school. On the headstone of his grave should be inscribed "Here repose the remains of one who was every inch a man."

MISS MARY BALDWIN BECOMES MRS. T. H. BECK

PRETTY CEREMONY AT THE HOME OF W. R. HETFIELD IN DUNELLEN.

Beneath a floral arch of white carnations and smilax at the home of her uncle, W. R. Hetfield, of North avenue, Dunellen, Miss Mary A. Baldwin, daughter of Mrs. Emma L. Baldwin, of Front street, Dunellen, became the wife of Thomas R. Beck, of Elizabeth, last evening. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. W. Casselberry, pastor of the Dunellen Methodist church, and the house was thronged with the friends and relatives of the bride and groom.

The bride was gowned in white suesine silk, trimmed with embroidered net and Cluny lace. She wore a bridal veil, trimmed with orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of white roses. She was attended by Miss Bertha Peck, as bridesmaid. Miss Peck wore pink silk mull, and carried pink roses. The best man was Ralph Gordon, of Roselle. The Episcopal ceremony was used, with two rings. As the bridal couple entered the room, Miss Nettie Baldwin played the Lohengrin wedding march on the piano. John Cole, of Newark, acted as sponsor, and gave away the bride. The ushers were Frederick B. Tallamy and Leslie Miller.

At the conclusion of the ceremony there was a reception and a collation was served on the lawn. About one hundred guests were present. The bride, who is well known in this city, was the recipient of an abundance of gifts of cut glass, linen and silverware. Francis J. Blatz, with whom Miss Baldwin was employed for nearly three years, presented her with a set of silver tea spoons and her other Plainfield friends remembered her with gifts. The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome crescent pin of forget-me-nots and pearls and the best man and ushers received diamond solitaire scarf pins.

After the reception, the couple left immediately for their new home on East Grand street, Elizabeth, and left this morning to spend their honeymoon in Catasaqua, Pa.

SUMMIT REPUBLICANS CHOOSE CANDIDATES

CHOICE FOR VARIOUS CITY OFFICES AND CONVENTION DELEGATES.

The meeting of the Summit Republican Club, held Tuesday night in Odd Fellows' Hall, was largely attended. Owing to the withdrawal of George F. Vreeland from the contest for the Mayoralty honors, Ruford Frankin was the unanimous choice of the club.

The nomination of Thomas B. Adams for councilman-at-large was approved with no sign of opposition. Dr. J. Edward Rowe was the choice of the club for the office of city clerk, to succeed himself.

Competition was close in the voting for a candidate for councilman from the First ward to service in that capacity for three years. The final choice was O. B. Merrill, who received a total of thirty-seven votes against the thirty-two cast for his opponent, Chester C. Henry. Rivalry was equally keen in the case of the selection of a candidate for councilman from the Second ward, D. Arthur Youngs defeating his opponent, William E. Baldwin, by four votes. Charles D. Ferry was the clubs' choice to succeed himself as councilman from the First ward, to fill the unexpired term of John Thompson, resigned.

The delegates to the county convention are as follows: First ward, J. O. Chrystal, Dr. Edward J. Gray, H. W. Smith and Fred Laurence; Second ward, Eugene C. Pierson, Edward C. Holmes, William E. Baldwin and D. C. Tingley.

HIS POLITENESS COSTLY

Westfield Youth a Model of Unselfishness, But He Comes to Grief.

HIS BICYCLE IS GONE

Raymond Layton Let a Stranger Ride His Wheel and Now He's Hunting For It.

Raymond Layton, a young man living in Westfield, has always been taught to be obliging and extend the "gland hand," if the term might be pardoned. His mother frequently told him that a selfish boy has no place in the world and the manly fellow who shares his prosperity with others is the one who succeeds in life, etc. These teachings came to Raymond's mind as he was enjoying a ride on his new wheel along Mountain avenue near Scotch Plains, yesterday afternoon, and he was in a mood to hold a conversation when a strange young fellow hailed him.

Raymond dismounted and he and his chance acquaintance enjoyed a few minutes conversation. The stranger admired the new bicycle and when he expressed a desire to try its riding powers Raymond was only too willing to let him have it. Surely, thought the owner, here is a chance to show that home teaching can be put in effect.

The stranger mounted the wheel and was delighted with it. He circled around for a few minutes to show Raymond that he was an expert in the saddle and then announced that he would take a sprint up around a turn in the road and return. He told Raymond to wait and like a dutiful boy Raymond waited. He waited ten minutes and then an hour. The sun began setting behind the Watchung hills and the shadows slowly lengthened, but Raymond consoled himself with the thought that the stranger's pleasure would more than repay him for his trouble. The boys from a nearby farm started after the cows in a distant meadow and then a light or two twinkled from houses up the road and Raymond chafed. When darkness finally spread its mantle over Scotch Plains and the rest of the world, Raymond murmured "stung" and took the Shanks Mare special to Westfield.

He told the folks at home what had happened and the family circle decided that anybody who so imposed on a boy's generosity should be punished and it was decided to tell the police. Raymond conceived the idea that the borrower of his wheel belonged in Plainfield and the blue coats in this city received full details of how Raymond waited. Chief Kiely told him he would do what he could and Raymond is figuring up what it means to be kindly and hospitable toward strangers.

RARE OLD VOLUME

UNIQUE COPY OF THE KORAN OWNED IN KANSAS CITY.

All Hand Work and Must Represent Labor of Many Years—Proof That Moro Art Was Once of High Grade.

A rare old book is owned by Frederick C. Butler of 1224 Harrison street, says the Kansas City Star. He found it in a deserted bamboo house in Sulu island while he was with the Fourteenth United States cavalry in the Philippines in 1903. It had been owned by a Moro Mohammedan priest.

The book is a copy of the Koran and is made wholly by hand. Even the paper is hand made. The binding is of thick, stiff caribou hide. Each folio is sewed with cord made from help fibers and is of an even size, showing cleverness and skill in spinning. In one place there is a little piece of smooth bamboo twisted in the cord to bring it tight when slackened from use. As for age, that cannot be denied by anyone on seeing the pages. The leaves at the beginning and end are frayed and worn and the paper throughout is yellow with age.

The most wonderful thing about the book is that every character, it being written in Arabic, was made with a stub pen or flat reed. Each page is covered on both sides with closely written characters that appear to be printed when viewed from a little distance. Around the writing is a margin of an inch or so and in this margin are single characters, display letters or characters, and sprays of tiny flowers done in color. Dispersed through the writing at irregular intervals are little circles drawn with a compass, the center picture of the needle being plain in a majority of the circles. The circles are filled with different colors and are appropriately punctuation marks.

Two pages in particular always excite wonder and admiration. They alone, of all others, show the height that Moro art had reached at the time the book was made. These pages were executed with a pen or reed as the others were, except that the writer brought a brush and gold leaf into play. The marginal design departs radically from the rest of the book and the writer made a design distinctly oriental. It looks like the border of a Bokara or Damascus rug. It is almost impossible to describe the many little painstaking curves and curlycues that he put in these two pages, the color of which is still bright and clear notwithstanding the age of it.

When the book was found it was taken to Hadji Buto, prime minister of the sultan of Sulu, and he said of it:

"This book is a Koran, written by a Moro in Arabic many years ago. There are nowadays no people in this island can write such a book. I myself can write it; it would take me about three months. I know the Koran by heart and could write out of my memory, although it is Arabic. It must have taken that writer more than a year to finish the work. We Moros don't have a Koran in the Moro language. We read it in Arabic and the priests, or hadjis, tell us what it means in our language."

Routed by Snapping Turtles.

As John Patterson, a huckster, was driving into town from Darlington this morning he came upon a drove of 15 or 20 snapping turtles crossing the road, says a Beaver Falls correspondent of the Pittsburg Despatch. Thinking a few of them would meet with ready sale he attempted to catch them, whereupon the turtles showed fight, and, hissing angrily, made for him with outstreached heads and snapping jaws.

Patterson hastily got back into his wagon, turned his horse and beat a retreat. He says most of the turtles were as large as a washtub. He drove into town by another route.

Half of Snake Fought.

Church Barkley had a terrible battle with a monster snake a few days ago, says a Harrodsburg, Ky., dispatch. He heard a nose upstairs and went to investigate, and found a snake coiled on the bed. He fired at it with his shotgun and cut it in two. The part with the head, about three feet long, made battle and tried to bite and coil around Barkley's legs. He had to fight it out with part of the snake, and he says he never did faster kicking, but finally dispatched that part of the reptile. The entire snake measured nine feet nine inches in length, and had a horn, or some hard substance, three inchhes long, on the end of its tail.

LIFE FOR MARTINE BOOM

Some Union County Men Still Stand Out for Farmer Orator, According to the Story Current.

Frederick Zior, secretary of the Democratic County Committee, sent out a call last night, by direction of General D. F. Collins, the county chairman, for a special meeting of the committee next Tuesday. The political pot has certainly begun to boil early in Union county this year. The Democrats, who have already displayed considerable activity in launching booms—some of them only to be quickly submerged—will give notice on Tuesday night that it is time to get down to real work by appointing election officers.

This is the specific purpose for which the chairman has issued the call to meet, but besides a lot of routine business, there is certain to develop a most interesting discussion on "who's who" in the political calendar this year.

Just now the backers of Frank Katzenbach, Jr., of Trenton, are in jubilant mood because it is acknowledged that their candidate seems to be the favorite for the Gubernatorial nomination. The Union county Democrats, a few months ago so confident that James E. Martine was going to be the standard-bearer, have hardly a word to say nowadays. One prominent Democratic worker said today, however, that the Martine boom was by no means dead. He declared that friends of the "Farmer Orator" realized now that there had been entirely too much talk early in the season. "The boom had been inflated with too much hot air," as he put it, and while it is recognized that there is now some heroic work to be done if life is to be restored to the boom there are still those who are willing to undertake it. There is going to be no talking, at least no loud talking, but from now on a number of the Union county Democrats are going to do everything they can to convince the politicians and leaders throughout the State that in James E. Martine lies the only hope and salvation of the Democratic party in the coming election.

A campaign along these lines will, it is said, be suggested and launched when the Democratic Committee meets next Tuesday.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 4.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—The consecration of our bodies.—1 Cor. vi, 19, 20; Rom. xii, 1. (A vacation consecration meeting.)

Christianity is sometimes criticised upon the ground that it considers the soul and not the body of men; that it deals only with a future heaven and not with practical questions of human life. But such criticism only displays the ignorance of the critics. Christianity is the one thing that does not despise any form or phase of man's life. It emphasizes the care of the physical as well as the spiritual life, the temporal as well as the eternal, while of course it places supreme emphasis upon the most important of all, the spiritual and eternal life. Other professions are chiefly concerned with the other phases of man and his life. The supreme care of the physician is the body, while professors and teachers give their lives to the development of the mind. Why should not religion give supreme place to the soul and its life? God knew what He was doing when He organized His church, the supreme mission of which is to save and sanctify the human soul.

But, while the supreme mission of the church is to care for the soul, it does not neglect the mind or body. In the early days of our history the church did most of our educational work, and our great universities, such as Harvard, Yale and Princeton, were founded by Christian men, and until recently their presidents have been ministers of the gospel. And the church today, as always, does all in its power to keep the mind of man free from religious errors, such as skepticism, unbelief and infidelity. The body has also been the object of the church's care. God's word demands the consecration of our bodies to Him. "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God * * * with all thy strength" is His own command. This practically means that our bodies must be consecrated to Him, and that they may be they must be kept healthy and clean and our physical natures free from sins that defile and destroy the body.

Our bodies should therefore be consecrated to God, first, because He demands their consecration to Him. Paul writing under the inspiration of God makes a similar demand—"I beseech you, brethren, by the mercy of God that you present your bodies, a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable to God. * * * and be not conformed to this world." God therefore demands our bodies of us. Second, because all phases of man's life are so closely interwoven that weakness in one part means weakness in all. The ideal Christian is one whose entire being is consecrated to God, who loves God "with his heart, soul, mind and strength." While sweetest saints have sometimes possessed weakly bodies, yet imperfect health is often a hindrance to growth in grace, and, of course, this is always true where physical life is abandoned to sin and evil. The Holy Spirit, as the representative of Christ, dwells in us. "Know ye not that ye are the temple of God?" How sacred our very bodies should become to us for this reason. God dwells in them. They are his temple. Let no sin defile them. Let no neglect unfit for the habitation of God.

BIBLE READINGS.

Lev. xix, 26-28; Ps. xxxiv, 12-14; I Cor. iii, 16, 17; vi, 12, 13; xv, 35-44; II Cor. vi, 1-18; Eph. v, 15-20; Gal. v, 19-26; Jas. iii, 1-11; I John iii, 1-3.

Killing Monotony.

Monotony is the result of getting into ruts. In some things ruts are good. Indiscriminate condemnation of them is shortsighted. Some ruts are in place in a prayer meeting. It is helpful to observe some forms, such as having the leader face the led, as having a certain time to begin and to close, as having every one seated, and as always having prayer in a prayer meeting. Some things never become monotonous, no matter how often repeated. Breathing does not become monotonous. Your heart beats are not monotonous. Vital things do not become stereotyped and stale. It is getting into ruts in non-essential things that becomes tiresome. The leader may always face these beliefs, but he need not always do it in the same way. A prayer meeting should always have prayer and singing and Scripture reading and testimonies, but not always in the same order and the same style. And that is just the way monotony in a meeting puts it to sleep. The same invariable order of things, it doesn't matter whether it is sing, pray, read, or read, pray, sing, or pray, read, sing, tends to kill the interest and make the meeting dull.—Dr. John F. Cowan in the Australian Golden Link.

How to Help the Pastor.

We know of Christian Endeavor societies which have a standing committee whose business it is to run errands for the pastor and thus save his valuable time. When a few of the young come together regularly fifteen minutes before the service and pray for God's blessing on the sermon, it strengthens him more than they can ever know as he strives to break the bread of life. But one does not need to be on a committee or to join with others in order to serve and to pray for his pastor. How many of us are accustomed in our private devotions to lift a petition for him whom God has set to be our spiritual guide?—Rev. Francis E. Clark, D. D., LL. D.

The Greatest Force.

Christian Endeavor is the world's greatest moral and spiritual force among the young, and Endeavorers should take it in dead earnest. Pray for it. Labor in it.—Lyman S. Stone in Endeavorer.

Aug. 4: "Desiring Righteousness."—Matt. v, 6.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D

Passages for reference—Ps. xlii, 1, 2; lxxxiv, 2; Isa. lv, 1; John iv, 13, 14; vi, 35; Rev. xxi, 6; xxii, 17.

"Blessed are they that do hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled."

The hungry feeling is one of discomfort. It is a craving which brings to consciousness a condition of need. The supply of that need brings comfort and satisfaction. This is true of all bodily, mental and soul craving. The most persistent and insistent need of our nature is rightness. Before this hunger all lesser appetites must wait. No matter what other demands of our makeup are met, if this remains unfilled we cannot find ease and rest.

Each one carries his own measure and, regardless of how others have weighed and measured things, insists on making his own estimate of right. We measure everything by our own yardstick. I care not if you say the thing is better, let me taste for myself, and if it seems sweet to me, then sweet it shall be, nay, sweet it must be to me, whatever others may declare it. Each will know for himself, if he has any true selfhood.

But, strong as is this power of knowing the distinctions between right and wrong, not less is the vigor of the soul's insistence on the maintenance of the right. Woe to him who for a single time carelessly measures and weighs the things of right and wrong. If he puts a wrong label on any item, he cannot falsify the thing, but only becomes himself the false one, and all the universe is leagued against him and with all its myriad tongues will cry down his fraud and proclaim himself as fraudulent. And deeper condemnation on him who dares make the false thing the object of his preference. His unrighteousness cannot overturn the righteousness of things, for that is based in the eternal and changeless nature of God, but he does turn every battery of truth and good against himself. Worst of all, his inmost consciousness cries out against his crime, his sin, against himself, his fellow man and God.

I am not skillful to estimate which is the more intolerable, if there are any degrees to the intolerable, whether the man's self condemnation, the condemnation of his fellows or the condemnation of his God. Certain I am of this—that where he pronounces himself guilty the others will not be likely to disagree or to reverse the verdict. The finding of the court of his own conscience will stand.

Many things I would like to have, many things I wish to know and many I desire to do. Most of these are not possible to me. One thing I must know—I must know the right. One thing I must and will have—that is the consciousness of inward right. One thing I will do at whatever cost of effort. I will do the right as I know it to the best of my ability, God being my helper. That should be the inmost decision of every leaguer—yes, of every Christian.

This is not merely in the great concerns of life and in what we call religious things. It holds for all the thoughts, the choices and acts of life of every sort whatsoever. Two-thirds of all our acts are scarcely touched as yet by any consideration of a moral bearing in them. All this is to be lifted into moral light and filled with righteousness. All business, home life, politics, social enjoyment and whatsoever we do and think and feel are to come to this weighing and choosing process of right.

Have you this hunger? Blessed art thou. You may in other things never find filling. In this supreme need you shall be filled, so says the Christ.

Prayer.

The extreme of offering long, wearying prayers once in vogue has been forsaken and we fear in many instances has gone to the opposite extreme. It is noticeable that many of our brethren appear to be in such a hurry to get through with that exercise as to disappoint those present who have a feeling of devotion and who desire to supplicate the Lord for His favor and the inspiration of the Holy Ghost to guide the speakers and enlighten and comfort the congregation. The preachers and all who are present need praying for. This does not require a long invocation, nor is the throne of grace moved upon by "much speaking." At the same time the spirit of prayer ought not to be quenched nor undue haste be exhibited. The purpose of prayer, the particular occasion when it is offered, the circumstances surrounding the assembly, should be taken into consideration, and there should be no hurry or formality or rigid rule to prevent a free flow of the spirit of supplication.—Desert News.

Which Road?

If you could go back to the forks of the road—
Back the long miles you have carried the load,
Back to the place where you had to decide
By this way or that through your life to abide:
Back of the sorrow and back of the care,
Back to the place where the future was fair—
If you were there now, a decision to make,
Oh, pilgrim of sorrow, which road would you take?

Then, after you'd trodden the other long track,
Suppose that again to the forks you went back,
After you found that its promises fair
Were but a delusion that led to a snare—
That the road you first traveled with sigh and unrest,
Though dreary and rough, was most graciously blest
With balm for each bruise and charm for each ache—

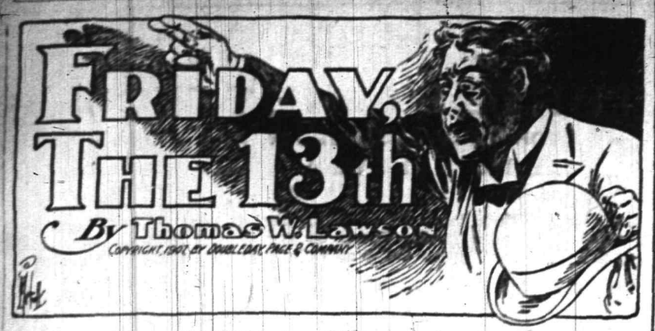
—Nixon Waterman.



"Well, Jim, I know the Washington boying his begun. All I know I have dug out for myself and am free to use it my way I choose. I have gone over the deal with Beulah Sands, and we have decided to plunge. She has a balance of about $400,000, and I am going to spread it thin. I am going to buy her 20,000 shares and take or 10,000 for myself. If you went in for 20,000 more, it would give me a wide sea to sail in. I know you never speculate, Jim, for the house, but I thought you might in this case go in personally."

"Don't say anything more, Bob," I replied. "This time the rule goes by the board. But I will do better; I'll put up a million and you can go as high as 70,000 for me. That will give you a buying power of 100,000, and I want you to use my last 50,000 shares as a lifter."

I had never speculated in a share of stock since I entered the firm of Randolph & Randolph, and on general, special, and every other principle was opposed to stock gambling, but I saw how Bob had worked it out, and that to make the deal sure it was necessary for him to have a good reserve buying power to fall back on if, after he got started, the "System" masters, whose game he was butting in to and whose plans he might upset should try to shake down the price to drive him out of their preserves. Bob knew how I looked at his proposed deal and ordinarily would not have allowed me to have the short end of it, but so changed had he become in his anxiety to make that money for the Virginians that he grabbed at my acceptance.

"Thank you, Jim," he said, fervently, and he continued: "Of course, I see what's going through your head, but I'll accept the favor, for the deal is bound to be successful. I know your reason for coming in is just to help out, and that you won't feel badly because your last 50,000 shares will be used more as a guarantee for the deal's success than for profit. And Miss Sands could not object to the part you play, as she did at the underwriting, for you will get a big profit anyway."

Next day sugar was lively on the exchange. Bob bought all in sight and said:

"Katherine Randolph, you and Jim don't know what misery I have been in for three months, and now—will tomorrow never come, so I may get into the whirl and clean up this deal and send that girl back to her father with the money! I wanted her to telegraph the judge that things looked like she would win out and bring back the relief, but she would not hear of it. She is a marvelous woman. She has not turned a hair to-day. I don't think her pulse is up an eighth tonight. She has not sent home a word of encouragement since she has been here, more than to tell her father she is doing well with her stories. It seems they both agreed the only way to work the thing out was 'whole hog or none,' and that she was to say nothing until she could herself bring the word 'saved' or 'lost.' I don't know but she is right. She says if she should raise her father's hopes, and then be compelled to dash them, the effect would be fatal."

Bob rushed the talk along, flitting from one point to another, but invariably returning to Beulah Sands and tomorrow and its saving profits. Finally, he got to a pitch where it seemed as though he must take off the lid, and before Kate or I realized what was coming he placed himself in front of us and said:

"Jim, Kate, I cannot go into to-morrow without telling you something that neither of you suspect. I must tell some one, now that everything is coming out right and that Beulah is to be saved; and whom can I tell but you, who have been everything to me? —I love Beulah Sands, surely, deeply, with every bit of me. I worship her, I tell you, and to-morrow, to-morrow if this deal comes out as it must come, and I can put $1,500,000 into her hands and send her home to her father, then, then, I will tell her I love her, and Jim, Kate, if she'll marry me, good-by, good-by to this hell of dollar-hunting, good-by to such misery as I have been in for three months, and home, a Virginia home, for Beulah and me." He sank into a chair and tears rolled down his cheeks. Poor, poor Bob, strong as a lion in adversity, hysterical as a woman with victory in sight.

"I Have Gone Over the Deal with Beulah Sands, and We Are Going to Plunge."

handled the buying in a masterly way. When the closing gong struck, Beulah Sands had 20,000 shares, which averaged her 115; Bob and I had 30,000 at an average of 125, and the stock had closed 132 bid and in big demand. Sands' 20,000 showed $340,000 profit, while our 30,000 showed $210,000 at the closing price. All the offices with Washington wires were busily scrambling for sugar as soon as it began to jump. And it certainly looked as though the shares were good for the figures set for them by Bob, that at which price the Sands' profits would be $1,200,000. Bob was beside himself with joy. He dined with Kate and me, and as I watched him my heart almost stopped beating at the thought—"if anything should happen to his plans!" His happiness was hectic to witness. He was like a boy. He threw away all the reserve of the last three months and laughed and played grave by turns. After dinner we sat in the library over our cigars. I leaned over to my wife and said:

The next day sugar opened with a wild rush: "25,000 shares from 140 to 152." That is the way it came on the tape, which meant that the crowd around the sugar-pole was a mob and that the transactions were so heavy, quick and tangled that no one could tell to a certainty just what the first or opening price was; but after the first lull, after the gong, there were officially reported transactions aggregating 25,000 shares and at prices varying from 140 to 152. I was over on the floor to see the scramble, for it was noised about long before ten o'clock that sugar would open wild, and then, too, I wanted to be handy if Bob should need any quick advice.

A minute before the gong struck, there were 300 men jammed around the sugar-pole; men with set, determined faces; men with their coats buttoned tight and shoulders thrown back for the rush to which, by comparison, that of a football team is child's play. Every man in that crowd was a picked man, picked for what was coming. Each felt that upon his individual powers to keep a clear head, to shout loudest, to forget nothing, to keep his feet, and to stay as near the center of the crowd as possible, depended his "floor honor," perhaps his fortune, or, what was more to him, his client's fortune. Nearly every man of them was a college graduate who had won his spurs at athletics or a seasoned floor man whose training had been even more severe than that of the college campus. When it was known before the opening of the exchange that there are to be "things doing" in a certain stock, it is the rule to send only the picked floor men into the crowd. There may be a fortune to make or to lose in a minute or a sliver of a minute. For instance, the man who that morning was able to snatch the first 5,000 shares sold at 130 could have resold them a few minutes afterward at 152 and secured $60,000 profit. And the man who was sent into the crowd by his client to sell 5,000 shares at the "opening" and who got but 140, when the price would be 152 by the time he reported to his customer, was a man to be pitied. Again, the trader who the night before had decided that sugar had gone up too fast, and who had "shorted" (that is, sold what he did not have, with the intention of repurchasing at a lower price than he sold it for) 5,000 shares at 140 and who, finding himself in that surging mob with sugar selling at 152, could only get out by taking a loss of $60,000, or by taking another chance of later paying 162—such a trader was also to be pitied.

No one who scanned the crowd that morning would have believed that the calm, set face on that erect Indian figure, occupying the very center of that horde of gamblers who were only awaiting the ringing clang of the gong to hurl themselves like madmen at each other, was the hysterical man who the night before was wildly praying for this moment. Nearly every man in that crowd was calm, but Bob Brownley was the calmest of them all. It's the exchange code that at any cost of heart or nerve-tear a man must retain good form until the gong strikes. Then, that he must be as near the uncaged tiger as human mind and body can be made. Only I realized what volcano raged inside my chum's bosom. If any other man of the crowd had known, Bob's chances of success would have been on par with a Canadian canoeist short-cutting Niagara for Buffalo. Nine-tenths of the stock exchange game is not letting your left brain lobe know what race your right is in until the winning numbers and the also-rans are on the board. If one of those 300 chain-lightning thinkers or any of their 10,000 alert associates knew in advance the intentions of a fellow broker, the word would sweep through that crowd with the quickness of uncorked ether, and the other 299, at gong strike, would be at each other's throats for his vitals, and before he knew the game had started would have his bones picked to a vulture finish cleanness.

Suddenly, as I watched the scene, there rang through the great hall the first sharp stroke of the gong. There were no echoes heard that morning. The metallic voice was yet shaping its command to "at 'em, you fiends" when from 300 throats burst the wild sound of the stock exchange yell. No other sound in any of the open or hidden places of all nature duplicates the yell of a great stock exchange at an exciting opening. It not only fills and refills space, for the volume is terrific, but it has an individuality all its own, coming from the incisive "take-mine-I've-got yours," from the aggressive, almost arrogant "you-can't-you-won't-have-your-way," the confident "by-heaven-I-will" individual notes that enter into the whole, as they blend with the shrill scream of triumph and the die-away note of disappointment, when the floor men realize their success or their failure. I picked Bob's magnificently resonant voice from the mass—"40 for any part of 10,000 Sugar." It was this daring bid that struck terror to the bears and filled the bulls with a frenzy of encouragement. Again it rang out—"45 for any part of 25,000;" and a third time—"50 for any part of 50,000."

The great crowd was surging all over the room. Hats were smashed and coats were being stripped from their owners' backs as though made of paper, and now and then a particularly frantic buyer or seller would be borne to the floor by the impetus of those who sought to fill his bid or grab his offer. Through all the wild whirl, straight and erect and commanding was the form of Bob, his face cold and expressionless as an iceberg. In five minutes the human mass had worked back to the Sugar pole and there was the inevitable lull while its members "verified."

I could see by the few entries Bob was making on his pad that he had been compelled to buy but little. This meant that his campaign was working smoothly, that he was driving the market up by merely bidding, and that he had the greater part of my 50,000 yet unbought, which in turn meant he could continue to push up the price, or in the event of his opponents' attempting to run it down, he would be under the market with big supporting orders.

Suddenly the lull was broken. Bob's voice rang out again—"153 for any part of 10,000 Sugar." Again the gamblers closed in and for another five minutes the opening scene was duplicated, with only a shade less fierceness. After ten minutes' mad trading a mighty burst of sound told that Sugar was 160 bid. Then Bob worked his way out of the crowd, and passing by me fairly hissed, "By heaven, Jim, I've got them cinched!"

"MARTY" O'LOUGHLIN PLAYS GOOD GOLF IN TOURNEY

YOUNG "PRO" AND PARTNER ONE OF FIVE PAIRS TIED.

"Marty" O'Loughlin, the "pro" from the Plainfield Country Club, and Charles L. Marshall, of the New York Golf Club, were one of five pairs that were tied yesterday with a net score of 304 open to amateur and professional golfers, on the public links at VanCortlandt Park.

There was a tie for first place in the four ball handicap competition. G. D. Woodworth, New York, and George Pearson, Yountakah, and Gilman P. Tiffany, Powelton, and Bob Peebles, Fairview, returned net totals of 297 for thirty-six holes. The former pair had a card of 319, 22—297, while Tiffany and his partner returned 303, 6—297.

In addition to first and second net prizes purses were also offered to the two professionals making the best individual scores. Gilbert Nicholls, of Woodland, won the first with a net score of 144, while Alec. Smith, of Nassau, came next with 145.

There were eighty-eight starters, and according to the conditions the handicap of the amateur member of each team was subtracted from the combined total to determine the net score. The only scratch team was Jerome D. Travers, of Montclair, the national champion, and Tom Anderson, which returned 315.

GOLF.

The dinner-dances held at the Plainfield Country Club every Saturday night are largely attended and the young people thoroughly enjoy the dance at the popular club.

"Marty" O'Loughlin, the "pro" at the Plainfield Country Club, has received invitations to play on several prominent golf courses this season and he will probably accept some of them.

TRINITY'S EXCURSION ATTRACTS FULLY 1,200

SIXTEEN COACHES REQUIRED TO CONVEY PARTY TO SHORE.

It required sixteen coaches, divided into two sections of eight each, to carry the members of Trinity Reformed church and Sunday-school, Marconnier chapel and their friends to Asbury Park, this morning. It is estimated that fully 1,200 excursionists were aboard the two trains when they left town. There was some confusion, because the railroad company had failed to notify the committee that the excursion would this year be run in two sections, instead of one, as formerly, consequently when the first section of eight coaches pulled up to the station everyone tried to get aboard, and it was several minutes before the crowd could be informed that another train would be along soon.

The crowd got so close to the tracks, that when one of the Philadelphia-New York two-hour trains came along, the engineer was obliged to run very slow and at the same time give a warning to the bystanders.

Both sections were comprised of the company's best coaches. The first one was in charge of the genial and popular conductor, Frank O. Webster, of Duer street, well known for his excellent care of excursionists, while Lester Brightman, of Somerville, was the conductor of the second section. The first train left at 8:15, but it was fully twenty minutes later when the second one pulled out with its happy crowd of young and old people.

OPEN ITS BIG WAREHOUSE

5,000 People Attend Informal Ceremony at Jersey Central's Big Structure.

PLAINFIELDERS THERE

George F. Baer, Head of the Reading System, On Hand—Building Described.

Among the 5,000 people who attended the opening of the big storage warehouse of the New Jersey Central at Newark, last night, were a large number of Plainfielders. A special Pullman coach carried the officials and their wives from this city, as well as other nearby points along the line. Others from the city at the reception were Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. V. Moy, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Woolston and J. F. Buckle.

Some of the officials and their families present included Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Besler, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Edgar, William McIntosh, Miss McIntosh, Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Sherman, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O. Osgood, Miss Sarah Sanderson, Harry Sanderson, Mr. and Mrs. Burton P. Flory, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Haynes. The officials, including Pres. George F. Baer, of the Reading system, formed a receiving party on the fifth floor of the mamouth structure while a large party of the clerical force of the company from the New York office devoted their time to seeing that the guests had a good time.

No expense was spared in making the affair complete, and every convenience was provided for the comfort and pleasure of the large throng. Between the hours of 7.30 and 10.30 elaborate refreshments were served and a brass band discoursed popular airs throughout the evening. The building was lavishly decorated from top to bottom, the electric lighting, under the direction of Superintendent of Telegraph F. G. Sherman, being noteworthy.

Few freight storehouses are so large or so well equipped for the purpose for which it was built. In point of size, construction and equipment the Newark warehouse is regarded, in the commercial and railroad world, as unique, and with the exception of the office furniture and the flooring in the elevators, no wood has been used anywhere, even the window frames being of steel. Each compartment is fitted up with metal doors, as are the elevators and air chutes, which close automatically as soon as they are submitted to a certain degree of heat. The entire building is equipped with water-sprinkling devices, which are controlled automatically by the temperature of the rooms.

Two electrically driven pumps, each capable of discharging 750 gallons of water a minute, are located in the basement. A large tank in the basement contains 150,000 gallons of water, while a reserve supply of 60,000 gallons is contained in two large tanks on the roof.

An idea of the size of the building may be had from the following figures: The length of the structure is 3x7 feet, its average depth 145 feet and its height from the curb 102 feet. The ground area is 52,000 square feet, giving approximately an aggregate of 200,000 square feet for the four floors used for storage purposes.

In its construction over 700 tons of steel were used, while 30,000 barrels of cement and 25,000 cubic yards of cracked stone, besides carloads of sand, were put in the walls and floors. The weight capacity of the floors is 300 pounds per square foot throughout and 500 pounds per square foot within certain areas. The building has room for 1,200 carloads of freight, while fifty cars can be accommodated on the six tracks adjoining the freight platforms on the second floor. The ground floor is principally given over to loading and unloading platforms and wagon driveways.

There are nine large freight elevators, five barrel lifts and eight spiral chutes connecting with each floor and the freight platform in the basement. The platform elevators have a capacity of 6,000 pounds each while the lifts, on which barrels of flour or bags of feed are automatically loaded and discharged, each has a capacity of eight barrels a minute.

52 YEARS A RAILROADER

Joseph A. Haynes, of this City, in Jersey Central Service for that Period.

LONG A STATION AGENT

Started In Life As Brakeman and He Has Never Quit Connection With the Company.

Among the veteran employes of the New Jersey Central, Joseph E. Haynes, the agent at the North Avenue station, has completed a record of which he feels justly proud. Yesterday marked the fifty-second anniversary of his connection with the company, and while the event was not celebrated in any special manner, it brought to Mr. Haynes and his old-time friends' pleasant memories of the past. As station agent for the company in this city for thirty years, Mr. Haynes has filled the position in a manner that has been justly recognized by the officials of the road. Always accommodating and courteous, Mr. Haynes has made many friends for the company and has assisted largely in the successful handling of the railroad's business to and from this city.

Born in Sussex county, Mr. Haynes at an early age began railroading. He first took a position as brakeman on a passenger train and a little later was promoted to the position of conductor. His runs in the early days were between Easton and New York and Easton and Harrisburg. He was then appointed station agent for the company at Elizabeth, which position he held for five years, when he was transferred to Plainfield to take a similar place. That was thirty years ago and his long record, marked by faithfulness, has made him one of the honored employes of the company. He is still hale and hearty and strictly attends to his many duties every day with remarkable regularity. It has been his fortune to see the company and its business grow from small proportions to one of the most important in this section of the country.

Mr. and Mrs. Haynes were among those who attended the opening of the company's new warehouse at Newark, last night, and both were the recipients of congratulations from a large host of friends.

SILENT ON PERKINS' 'DEFI'

Leaders Decline to Discuss Assemblyman's Tart Announcement.

HE FEELS SANGUINE

As Told In The Daily Press Yesterday He Believes Only One Leader Opposes Him—Who's the One?

The broadside from Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, the Republican leader in the lower house, following the announcement in The Daily Press that the party leaders are said to be determined that his ambitions must be curbed as he has already had more terms than custom allots in such cases, has silenced the guns in the regulars camp here where it is pretty well conceded that the Westfielder will get little succor. No one among the heavy artillery could be induced today to return the volley although there is no doubt that there have been some hot telephone wires in use since The Daily Press told of Perkins' defi last night.

"What do you think of Mr. Perkins' statement?" James T. MacMurray was asked. "It's too hot to talk politics; I'll see you again," came the quick reply. County Chairman Frank H. Smith sparred the same query in like fashion. Getting off his stereotyped statement, he declared, "I have nothing to say; I refuse to be quoted. A county chairman has no business in mixing up in squabbles." The right hand man of United States Senator Kean declared, as did also City Clerk MacMurray, that he was not sure to whom Mr. Perkins had referred when he said that he only knew of one leader opposed to him and that that particular one is a Plainfielder.

Despite the Westfielder's optimism, it is a dead certainty that he is going to get all the fight he asks for if he carries out his resolution to go before the people as a candidate for renomination to the position he now holds.

Leads the Homebreds With a Score of 145 and Gets in the Money.

"Marty" O'Loughlin, the Plainfield "pro," finished sixth yesterday in the first day's play of the seventy-two hole medal play professional tournament on the public links at VanCortlandt Park, yesterday, with a total score of 74, 71-145. He led the homebred "pros" and finished well within the money, of which he will receive a generous slice.

George Sparling, unknown to fame in the golfing world, led the field with two seventies for a total of 140. He represented the Haworth Country club. Gilbert Nicholls broke the course record with a 69 in the afternoon, and, following his morning effort of 75, gave him a total of 144.

SALOONKEEPER ACQUITTED.

First of the 99 Tried For Violating the Screen Provision.

The first of the cases against the ninety-nine Elizabeth saloon-keepers charged with violation of the screen provision of the excise laws, was heard by the Elizabeth Excise Board yesterday afternoon, and resulted in the dismissal of the charge after a session which lasted nearly four hours. Patrick Burke, who conducts a saloon at Catherine and Bond streets, and who was one of those against whom complaints were made by the police as the result of the activity of the Grand Jury, was the defendant.

Preceding the trial President Keron handed in a report which declared that every one of the fifty-four inns and taverns alleged by the Grand Jury to be holding their licenses contrary to law are today complying with legal requirements. This report will be forarded to Mayor Ryan, and through him to Mayor Fisk, foreman of the Grand Jury.

SCOTCH PLAINS MAN SUES WIFE FOR DIVORCE

JOHN RADIN BEGINS ACTION AFTER A BRIEF MATRIMONIAL CAREER.

Papers have been issued in the divorce proceedings instituted by John Radin, of Scotch Plains, against his wife, Viola Radin, who is at present living at Alton. The action is on statutory grounds.

The couple have been married for only four years. At the time of their marriage they lived in Scotch Plains, where Radin is employed. There is one child, a daughter about three years of age. According to the claim by Radin, his wife left him about two years ago, and has been living at Alton ever since. He has let the matter delay, hoping for a satisfactory settlement with the woman, but he has now petitioned for divorce.

The papers are returnable August 24. It is not known what action Mrs. Radin will take about the matter, but the case will come up this fall in the chancery court at Trenton.

MAYOR SMALLEY BOOMS JOS. S. FRELINGHUYSEN

FAVORS SENATOR FOR GUBERNATORIAL NOMINATION.

Once bitter factional enemies, Mayor Newton B. Smalley, of North Plainfield, and State Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, of Raritan, are now allied with each other as leaders of the Republican party in Somerset county, where Frelinghuysen is county chairman. This accounts for Mr. Smalley's call to arms for the support of "Uncle Joe" in the campaign being waged to land the Raritan man in the Governor's chair at Trenton. There's no lukewarmness in the mayor's efforts on behalf of Somerset's "favorite son," and if the latter does not get the coveted nomination, the blame will not be charged up to the North Plainfield leader.

"Joe Frelinghuysen is a first-rate fellow," said the mayor yesterday, in talking about Frelinghuysen's chances," and I hope to see him bag the game. He's on the level and is as clean as silver dollar just out of the mint. What's more, he's as honest as the day is long and is a believer in the 'square deal.'

"I know we fought Joe four years ago," continued Mr. Smalley, "but that was because he butted in on our family quarrel so to speak. We were working tooth and nail to win the annexation fight and when Frelinghuysen came along and had his say. Well we vowed we would get square and we did. Frelinghuysen was defeated for assembly right after that, but the whole thing has blown over now and we've got no grudges against him. He's a winner, I tell you and we'll whoop it for him at the convention."

COST OWNER $28 TO LET HIS DOG RUN AT LARGE.

Edward Brimble Will Keep His Hound Chained in the Future.

Because he permitted his hound dog to run at large at this time of the year, when it is a "closed" season for canines, Edward Brimble, of Stone street, was arrested on Wednesday by one of the deputy game wardens from Watchung and arraigned before Justice Snape. It was explained by the warden that he found the hound running about the upper part of the borough and knowing that it was in direct violation of the law proceeded to find the owner.

Inquiries were made and the warden soon learned that the dog belonged to Brimble. Taking the animal to the latter's home he was promptly claimed by the owner. The arrest followed. Justice Snape imposed a fine of $25 and costs, amounting in all to about $28, and the prisoner was given until yesterday to settle. Last night Brimble paid the fine.

KANE'S CASE A FIZZLE

Tried to be His Own Lawyer in Monglo Complaint, but Made a Botch of It.

HE ACCUSED WITNESSES

Informed the Court That Three of Them, Including His Brother, Had Committed Perjury.

It was plainly evident to the officials and spectators in the city court this morning that Aleck Kane has never heard the old saying that "a man who is his own lawyer has a fool for a client." If he had, it isn't likely that he would have attempted to represent himself in his complaint of assault and battery against Michael Monglo, the Richmond street storekeeper he alleges struck him when he made an accusation of illegal liquor selling. The defendant went to the trouble of hiring a lawyer but Aleck's side of the matter ended in such a fizzle that it was a waste of money. When the plaintiff-counsel concluded his testimony, Judge Runyon curtly explained, "case dismissed" and shooed all hands away, Aleck included.

Kane contended to friends in the East End that he had evidence to show that Monglo was selling rum on the sly and bet $5 with his brother Pat that he could prove it. Denny Carney, Jr., held the stakes but no one knows who held Denny. At any rate, Aleck set out to win the five bucks and Monglo laid plans to get even for the charges that were being made against him. The game seesawed along for a week or more and finally on the night of July 22 matters reached a climax.

Aleck was trundling his wheel along Richmond street when he was suddenly knocked from the saddle and jabbed into the spokes. It was done by two men, so he claimed, one of whom was Monglo. After he had measured his length on the ground he got a kick in the right cheek and when he preferred complaint he said it was Monglo's foot that had delivered it.

When Kane appeared in court this morning, he had three witnesses to prove his side of the fracas, his brother Pat, the sewer contractor and former North avenue merchant; Denny Carney, Jr., and a Hebrew boy named Pratz. Aleck proceeded to get their testimony but their recollection of the occurrence was frightfully hazy. When the plaintiff attempted to draw them out it only made them worse and under some rapid-fire from Monglo's counsel, John P. Owens, they got badly tangled. Aleck attempted to cross examine them but when told he couldn't do it to his own witnesses he fell back on his own remembrance of what had taken place but Lawyer Owens made him admit that practically was hearsay. It was the finishing blow to the complainant but he made one last feeble effort by exclaiming hotly to Judge Runyon:

"Your Honor, what these witnesses said here wasn't true. They all committed perjury and I can show it. The whole trouble is, the people up there are all ruled by the Queen of Richmond street."

"Who do you mean by the Queen of Richmond street?" asked the court.

"Mrs. Monglo," said Aleck, "and Mike is the King."

The magistrate opined that the Royal family of the East End had better be left out of the case and as nobody took the perjury charge seriously the accuser didn't get a chance to make good. Lawyer Owens asked for dismissal of the case and it came quickly. Aleck muttered "all right" and faded away.

Detective-Sergeant John Flynn unconsciously gave Mrs. Monglo a terrible fright afterward by requesting her husband to step into a back room so that he could talk with him. It was purely for a confidential chat on another matter but the "Queen" thought Monglo had been found guilty and was being held for the Grand Jury. She screamed "Mike", and then made a dash from the court room, reappearing with a local merchant to act as bondsman. She gave a great sigh of relief when told that her "royal" husband was free.

MORE PERMANENT PAVE

Union County Freeholders Arrange to Give it a Trial on Somerset Street.

TO PAINT 14 BRIDGES

Three Structures Over Green Brook In This City to Be Repaired By The W. T. Kirk Co.

The proposition made by Freeholder J. Hervey Doane to lay a permanent pavement on Somerset street over the county line bridge, was favorably received at the August meeting of the Union County Board of Freeholders, yesterday, and he was appointed chairman of a committee to look after the matter. The other members of the committee are Freeholders Jones and Donahue and they will arrange with the Somerset County Board of Freeholders for a meeting to decide what shall be done. It is estimated that the cost of pavement on the bridge will be about $250, each county bearing half the expense. A pavement similar to the Hassam is proposed.

In presenting the question, Mr. Doane explained that that part of Somerset street is always in need of repair and a source of constant expense to the two counties and he thought it would be a policy of economy to put a permanent pavement there.

The bids for repairing the county line bridges on Washington and Watchung avenues and Grove street, were opened and the W. T. Kirk Iron Company received the contract, its bids being $259. The other bid of the New Jersey Structural Iron Company, of this city, was about $100 higher. The work will include new upper and lower iron rails and a considerable amount of repair work on the Washington avenue bridge.

In connection with the work, Freeholder Doane, also succeeded in securing an appropriation for the painting of the county lines bridges in the city, fourteen in all, the estimated expense to be borne by both counties being $1,200. Arrangements will be made with the Somerset County Board to have this work done at once.

NEIGHBORS' QUARREL TO BE AIRED IN COURT.

Frank Moncton Must Explain All About It to Recorder Dolliver.

Trouble between neighbors living in the Green Brook district in the borough has resulted in Frank Moncton being arrested on a warrant sworn out by John Bremmer, who lives next door to him on Greenbrook road. The trouble has been a long standing one, and there have been unneighborly words exchanged between the two for several weeks past. The matter came to a climax Wednesday night. It is alleged that Moncton came to the Bremmer house late at night in an intoxicated condition and used all sorts of abusive language, which proved to be more than Bremmer could endure.

Moncton was arrested last night by Marshal Keller and he will be given a hearing at 7 o'clock tonight by Borough Recorder Charles M. Dolliver. Friends of the interested parties anticipate a lively session of the borough court.

SULTAN'S DENTIST HOME

Dr. F. B. Bostwick, Son-in-law of C. W. Eoff, Returns from Eastern Court.

HE TREATED ROYALTY

Was at Sultan's Court at Fez This Spring Doing Dental Work With the Sultan, His Wives and Brothers.

Returning from abroad to spend his three months' vacation in this country, Frank B. Bostwick, son-in-law of Charles W. Eoff, of Crescent avenue, arrived in this city yesterday, having made the ocean trip on the North German Lloyd steamer "Konig Albert." This spring, Dr. Bostwick, who is a practising dentist at Gibraltar, has been busy in the court of His Shereffian Majesty the Sultan of Morocco, "fixing up the mouths" of the Eastern ruler, his wives, father, brothers and members of the court of the East.

The Plainfielder's career has been a brilliant one. For many years a dentist in the court retinue of Spanish royalty, Dr. Bostwick, as assistant to Dr. Florestan Aquilar, of the Spanish court, has had in his charge the care of the teeth of Spanish royalty. He is now at Gibraltar nine months of the year, where he has a large dental profession. His title, "Dentist to His Shereffian Majesty the Sultan of Morocco," makes him subject to calls from the East, whenever the royalty at Morocco are troubled with toothache.

In speaking to a Daily Press reporter yesterday afternoon, Dr. Bostwick said that Western civilization has not penetrated at all into the Sultan's kingdom; the dentist of the East is the barber. 'When a man has any trouble with his 'ivories' in the East," he said, "there is only one remedy. Have the tooth pulled. This is done by the barber. That tradesman has none of the 'painless appliances' known to us. The man who goes to him for treatment is solely at his mercy. The usual mode of procedure for a toothache is this: The patient is placed on his back on the floor. The barber crouches over him, holding the man's head between his knees in a grip like a vise. Attendants hold firmly his arms and legs. The barber gets a good grip on the painful tooth with a clumsy pair of forceps, the attendants hold fast, and the barber pulls. Such is his tenacity about the matter that the tooth always comes out, perhaps with a part of the jawbone with it."

Now the Sultan won't stand for this sort of thing, niether will any of the members of the royal family, so Western methods are introduced. Fortunately, the teeth of the Easterner are hard and as a rule perfect, so there is but little treatment necessary.

"The Moorish men are great cowards," said Dr. Bostwick, when asked how his Eastern patients stood the treatment, "but the women of the East endure any amount of pain without a murmur. Why, I believe you could cut a Moorish woman's throat from ear to ear, and she'd never say 'scat.' They are unusually brave and nervy."

Dr. Bostwick went to Fez, where the Sultan's palace is, in March. He made the trip from Tangier by mule in nine days, stopping off a day at Alcazar Kebir, a walled city, on the way. The mule is the common method of transportation in the East, for while the horses are the world's best, they have not that strength and endurance which makes the mule so valuable in travelling long distances. The doctor made the trip with a retinue of two muleteers and two servants, the muleteers running along by the side of the mules to guide them. The country through which he passed is mainly an open district, through pasture lands. There are several small villages on the road, and these are securely surrounded with impenetrable hedges of thick growing cactus, or the cruel Oriental thistle. Alcazar Kebir is a walled city of some 20,000 inhabitants. At Fez, Dr. Bostwick was accommodated at the quarters of the British vice consul, in a typical Eastern house, windowless and pitch dark except for a skylight, and approached through a hundred foot "subway," so that unwelcome visitors may be disposed of before they succeed in presenting their cards at the house door. While at the Sultan's court, Dr. Bostwick filled several of the Sultan's teeth and did other dental work with the ruler's father, his Sheref brothers and his wives.

As a mark of the esteem in which he is held in the East, the doctor brought home with him a handsome leather Moorish saddle of excellent workmanship. It is gold mounted and beautifully carved, stirrups and

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

There will be a change in the line-up of the local team in the game against Bound Brook on the home grounds tomorrow. Allen will do the backstop work, Manager Frentz will cover the initial bag, instead of second, and Flannery will come in from center field and play second. This change should strengthen the team some.

The league games tomorrow will be Bound Brook against the locals on the home grounds, and Clinton Avenue against Y. M. C. A. at Crescent Oval. If the local team plays its usual game it should win and retain its position in the race. If Y. M. C. A. defeats Clinton Avenue the three teams will be tie again for first place.

It might be well for the Township Committee to investigate the trouble with the streets lights. For two nights in succession the entire circuit in the middle of town has been out of service. A tab kept on the lights not burning during the course of a year would mean quite an item for the taxpayers. Other towns do not pay for service which is not rendered and there is no reason why this town should do so.

Can't Bring Battleship.

After a consultation with Captain Kimball, of the battleship "New Jersey," Captain James Parker, of Perth Amboy, has announced that it will be impossible to anchor the warship off Perth Amboy. The vessel requires thirty feet draught and at high tide the channel there is but twenty-six feet deep. This disposes of the agitation to have the battleship brought to New Jersey for the presentation of the silver service given by the State.

One of our clients owed $48 between four people. His salary is $14 weekly; rent $12 monthly. To have paid $2 weekly to each creditor, combined with rent, would have left only $4 per week to meet expenses, buy clothing, etc.—an impossibility you will agree. He borrowed $50, paid all his creditors, made his future credit good, if ever needed; pays his rent, the loan payments, and has $9 each week to use as his judgment dictates.

LITTLETON IS THAW'S NEW LEADING COUNSEL.

Ex-Borough President of Brooklyn to Conduct Case for the Defense at Second Trial.

Announcement was made yesterday that Martin W. Littleton, former Borough president of Brooklyn, has been selected as chief counsel for Harry K. Thaw in his next trial for the murder of Sanford White. The announcement was made by Dan. O'Reilly, one of the attorneys in the first trial, who is still in Thaw's employ, after a family conference of Thaw's relatives at the Tomb's. This consultation was attended by Mrs. William Thaw, of Pittsburg, Thaw's mother; Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, his wife, and O'Reilly.

In assuming the place left vacant by Delphin M. Delmas, is is said that Littleton made the condition that he is to be given full charge of the case and that he will brook no interference from any one. It is hinted that his retaining fee is $25,000.

Littleton's acceptance of the full control of the defense is believed to mean that in the next hearing there will be no "dementia Americana" defense, but a straight insanitary plea.

It was reported early in the summer that Mr. Littleton had been engaged, but this was then denied. It is now said that negotiations were opened with the Brooklyn lawyer at that time, but inability to agree upon his fee and the conditions of his service prevented his being retained. These difficulties are understood to have been overcome.

Littleton came to New York several years ago from Texas, where he has established a reputation as an orator. He took an active part in politics on coming to New York and was selected to make the speech nominating Judge Alton Brooks Parker for President at the Democratic national convention at St. Louis. He served one term as borough president.

A Watermelon Cutting.

It is easy enough for anybody to claim a big reduction in prices, but when a store like VanArsdale's announces a reduction sale, it can be taken as bona fide in every way and the public may buy there with the assurance that they are getting the VanArsdale quality at reduced prices. There is no faking or substitution, for this store has the reputation of giving a square deal at all times. The sale this year, which he calls a "watermelon cutting," is of particular interest, on account of the cold spring, the buying of low shoes was greatly curtailed, VanArsdale finds today that he has twice the stock that he should have at this season of the year. The price reductions are the most generous and should prove exceedingly tempting to every economical and thrifty person. If you go to the sale, kindly tell them that you saw the advertisement in The Daily Press.

Elder, whom he selected, and his coffin will be wrapped in an American flag.

TENNIS.

There will be the final tennis play at the Plainfield Country Club, tomorrow, for the championship of Plainfield and North Plainfield, started a week ago.

The next interesting event in tennis at the Plainfield Country Club will be a team match with the Elizabeth Town and Country Club, Saturday afternoon, August 10, at 2:30 o'clock. The local club has some fine material from which to select a team and the victory should come here. Following the team match there will be a cessation of tennis at the club until Saturday, September 14, when the women's singles for the club championship will begin. The cup will be presented by Councilman George P. Mellick.

Found Dead On a Lounge.

Rahway, Aug. 2.—Robert Blacklock, fifty-nine years old, was found dead, Wednesday afternoon, on a lounge, where he had been resting most of the day. One son, George, was with his father and discovered his death. The youngest son, Alexander, and Mrs. Blacklock were away for the day at Asbury Park. Mr. Blacklock had resided here for twenty-eight years.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

There are strong possibilities that the Newark Atlantic League team will soon be transferred to York, Pa., as Newark is not supporting the aggregation to make it a paying proposition. The Newark club has been losing money throughout the season and can stand it no longer. The Atlantic League is not having smooth sailing during this, its first season, and it would not be surprising if it failed to materialize another year.

Crescent Oval will be the scene of a great ball game tomorrow afternoon, when the Clinton Avenues, leaders in the Inter-City Amateur League, will try to maintain its position against the invasion of the Y. M. C. A. The teams are in the pink of condition and fit in every way for a hard fight. The regular lineups will be presented and it will be Minford and Randolph on the slab. You can take your choice as to who will win, but at all events the victorious nine will have to play ball all the time and cannot afford to make many errors.

It will be the Laurels, of Bound Brook, and Scotch Plains at the latter place tomorrow afternoon and according to reports from the down-the-line village there will be something doing.

Mueller, who pitched a few games for Baltimore early in the season, and who has since been playing with the Hobokens, has returned to the Newark Eastern League club, where he expects to do good work.

The Skeeters have been enjoying themselves immensely this week by taking three straight from the Newark Eastern League aggregation.

Although Jimmy Mullen was not fast enough for the Giants, he has been playing the fastest kind of a game for Newark. One day this week he cloted out a pair of singles and a double out of four times at the bat. His fielding has been sensational.

The many friends of "Lou" Wiltse are hoping that the National Commission will reinstate him and give him a chance to get back to the Eastern League again. Wiltse is deserving of far better treatment than that accorded him by the commission.

GOLF.

Robert Abbott and W. Lester Glenney failed to play in the open tournament at VanCortlandt Park on Wednesday, as they planned to do.

The showing made by the professionals in the open tournament at VanCortlandt Park on Wednesday, gave evidence of what may be expected of this class of golfers. In nearly every instance they returned low scores. They also proved a benefit to the amateurs, who seldom have such an opportunity to improve their game.

There will be the usual competitions at the Plainfield Country Club, the Park Golf Club and the Westfield Golf Club, tomorrow.

A team of eight men from the Park Golf Club will play a team from the Middlebrook Country Club at Finderne, tomorrow afternoon. This will be the first team match arranged by the borough club this season and it is hoped it won't be the last. The eight players for the team will be selected today.

The entries for the annual open tournament of the Deal Golf and Country Club, to be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday, August 22, 23 and 24, will close Monday, August 19, with William R. Delehanty, Deal Golf Club, Deal, N. J.

Dave Hunter, the Essex County Country Club professional, has smashed all records for the Hutton Park course. In a recent round with J. E. Cheesman, one of the club members, Hunter went out in 33 and back in 34 for a 67.

The merit of this performance is better appreciated when it is remembered that only a short time ago the record for the new course was 73. In the latest efforts Hunter made seven threes. In fact his card showed only two fives. The playing length of the course is 5,888 yards.

Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers has recovered from a recent indisposition and expects to be back in the game within a short time.

"Marty" O'Loughlin is devoting more attention this season to putting than driving. He always was very strong on his drives, in fact there are but few professionals who can outdistance him, but in putting he has not bee nas proficient. If he was as strong in putting as driving he would be almost invincible.

Oddfellows' Outing.

Odd Fellows from all parts of Jersey, numbering thousands, attended the big picnic at Alcyon Park Wednesday. A feature of the day was the initiation of forty-eight members and the exhibition drill given by the "Ladies of Rebekah."

Mrs. John P. Van Horn, of Duer street, is detained at home with an attack of quinsy sore throat.

With it was a handsomely embroidered saddle cloth, of the Sultan's own court colors. This is the only instance in which a foreigner not a member of the court retinue has been known to be allowed to wear the Sultan's colors.

IT IS to day the finest building site in Plainfield, with broad avenues macadamized their entire width, concrete curb, sidewalks, trees, gas, electric light, in fact all improvements. Nearly $100,000 expended in new and handsome dwellings, now ready for the market.

WHAT IT WILL BE we hardly dare predict, with contracts out for even more extensive improvements and twelve more handsome residences.

COMMISSIONER GAVETT WILL HURRY SEWER JOB

DELAY CAUSED BY CUSACK'S DISAPPEARANCE CAUSING TROUBLE.

The delay caused by the disappearance of Thomas J. Cusack, the subcontractor for Peter Morgan in the job of laying sewer pipes in the streets of the south side is causing the city considerable trouble on technicalities of the law. There seems little prospect of a rapid adjustment of the matter, and in the meanwhile the job is tied up.

The contract as originally granted by the city to the contractors called for the completion of the work by a date in June, but this was subsequently changed to September 30. Since the disappearance of the contractor, the work has been at a standstill because of the legal proceedings about payment of firms supplying material and for the Italians at work on the job. The piping has been seized in attachments by the Warren Foundry Co., of Phillipsburg, and the J. D. Loizeaux Lumber Co., of this city. At the time of Cusacks' disappearance, the Metropolitan Surety Co., of New York, which acted as bondsmen for Peter Morgan to the city for the carrying out of the contract, decided to assume the risk for continuing the work.

Andrew J. Gavett, the street commissioner, is now in charge of the work in this city, but is unable to proceed because of the legal tie-up. It is possible that there will have to be another extension of time from the date of completion last set, September 30, and this will make it late in the fall before the contract is completed. Mr. Gavett said to a Daily Press reporter this morning that he was planning to begin work on the contract again very shortly. The supply of pipe having been attached, it may be necessary to secure new material for the contract. The delay in the laying of the sewer is preventing the macadamizing of Arlington avenue and is leaving the streets of the south side in a torn up condition.

CO. K PARTICIPATES IN A SHAM BATTLE

PLAINFIELD MILITIA RETURNS FROM SEA GIRT TOMORROW.

The first sham battle in which three armies of the service participated, was witnessed by a large crowd of spectators at Sea Girt, this morning. The manoeuvres consisted of an attack and a defense with the Second Regiment divided into two "war" parties. The Second Troop, representing the cavalry, and Battery B as the artillery, had important parts in the mimic conflict. Co. K, as part of the regiment, comprised a part of the defense.

Blank ammunition was used and to all appearance the fighting was as real as possible. The manoeuver was worked out in advanced by Captain Sheldon. In consequence of the sham battle this morning, the regimental muster and inspection, scheduled for that time, was changed to this afternoon.

Special manoeuvers yesterday were planned as a preparation for the mimic warfare this morning, the movement of training in attack and reconnoisance was designed to teach the troops how to operate in attacking the enemy. The manoeuvers were carried out by battalions, and the troops were formed into a reconnoitering force, an attacking force and the reserves.

The members of Co. K will break camp tomorrow and will reach Plainfield by night. There has been a noticeable decrease in illness of any kind among the Plainfield boys this year and they have thoroughly enjoyed the week spent in camp. They are particularly jubilant over the fact that they won the Williams trophy, beating thefr old rivals, Co. L, of Princeton.

OBITUARY.

Trinity Excursion a Success.

The annual excursion of Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school and Marconnier chapel, to Asbury Park, yesterday, was successful financially and otherwise. Taking last year's receipts from the Home Department as a basis, it is expected that there will be a slight profit. The day was a delightful one at the shore and not a single accident occurred throughout the trip to mar anyone's pleasure.

GILFORD MAYER'S FUNERAL.

Simple Service Conducted at His Late Home Yesterday Afternoon.

In the presence of a large gathering of friends, the funeral of Gilford Mayer was held at his late home on Park avenue yesterday. It was extremely simple and conducted by Dr. E. M. Rodman, who was the family rector for many years.

During the service a trio composed of Mrs. Otto Arens, Miss Lulu Coleman and E. E. Runyon sang "Abide With Me." The floral tributes were numerous, many being contributed by Mr. Mayer's former New York business associates.

Burial was made at Hillside, the bearers being O. T. Waring, William R. Cock, Howard Fleming and F. R. Stevens.

Workmen Start Slight Blaze.

Workmen vulcanizing tires in the P. L. C. Martin company's building, this morning, caused a slight fire on one of the upper floors. A start was made to turn in a still alarm but the blaze was gotten under control before it was done. The damage was trifling.

Plainfield in the Olden Days...

From the issue of July 1, 1869:

"We think our Common Council can do the people good service by prohibiting the furious speed at which some of the railroad trains approach the Plainfield depot. The way the 7:30 a. m. train for New York dashes across Cherry street and past the station platform is exceedingly dangerous, entire unnecessary, and should be at once changed. It is much better to arrest the cause of violent death than to await the coroner's inquest."

"The Plainfield Water Supply Company' is a corporate body in Plainfield."

"A trot will take place at the Plainfield Driving Park, Monday, July 5, at 3 p. m. Sweepstakes $100 a side. John Roselle enters "Belle," Owner enters "Mount Holly," E. A. Campbell enters "Zeka Davis," Owner enters "Shadow." This will be an interesting trot. Let all attend."

"A rather serious accident happened to a young lad named Richard Marsh (aged 10) on Tuesday evening last. It appears that he, in company with other lads, were playing on the lumber in Wm. S. Cook & Co.'s Lumber Yard, on Third street, when a pile of lumber fell over on young Marsh, completely burying him. The timbers were as quickly as possible thrown to one side and he was extricated from his perilous position, when it was found that he was considerably injured about the legs and otherwise. He was conveyed to his home and waited upon by Drs. Lewis Craig and Probasco. It is a miracle that he was not crushed to death, as some of the timbers that lay over him were very heavy. Dicky is a remarkably bright little fellow, and we hope his injuries are not serious."

"The new fire well, recently put down by the Fire Department, corner of Fifth and Mechanic streets, was tried by "Plainfield No. II" last Thursday evening and proved that it was a good well every way. With 20 minutes' steady playing through 2 open butts, the water was lowered 4 feet 3 inches and in 5 minutes filled up again. The well was built by David Martin, (colored)."

"The first arrest under the ordinance passed at the last meeting of the Council, fining a person $5 for being found intoxicated in the streets of the city took place Wednesday. A poor fellow, under the influence of too much adulterated water was brought up before Alderman Moore and fined."

"ROLL OF HONOR of Plainfield Public School, for June:

Academic Department.

Dawson, Carrie Mitchel, Laura Shangle, Julia Scribner, Emma Bainbridge, Mary Bainbridge, Millie Humpston, Annie Day, Lizzie Force, Lydia Arnold, Esther Gavett, Kate McCarthy, Andrew J. Gavett, Alfred J. Wilson, Willie Dunning, Hugh M. Gilligan, Olin Jenkins, Frazee Marsh, Craig Marsh, Lewis Moore, Ebbie Hart, Steven Vail and Fred Smillie.

Griffiths, Charlie Sebring, Charlie Dunn, Ellie Crater, George Compton, Charles Smith, Josie Hewat, Henry Day, Elwin Leland, Howard Dawson, and Lafayette Angleman."

WANTS HONNECKER TO PAY.

Elizabeth Man Sues Populist Candidate for Printing.

George A. Honnecker, the one time Populist candidate for Governor of New Jersey, is defendant in a suit brought by George W. Harrison, which will be tried at the October term of the Union County Court. Harrison, who is represented by Sidney W. Eldridge, is suing for $356.

He claims that in the campaign of 1904 he printed a lot of tracts setting forth the Honnecker remedy for all the political ills New Jersey was suffering, and some other literature explaining how the piling up of enough votes for the Populist candidates positively meant wiping boodlers and other dishonest persons off the face of the earth. The Populists met with defeat. Honnecker, therefore, didn't pay his bills, says Harrison. Shortly after the complainant secured a verdict for $385.33. Honnecker secured a new trial.

Tonsilitis.

Tonsilitis in the first stages can often be cured at once by gargling with a wash made by adding to one glass of water one teaspoonful of baking soda, one teaspoonful of borax and two tablespoonsful of listerine.

A Hebrew Proverb.

If a man make but a mouse trap better than his fellows, thought he makes his tent in the wilderness, the world will beat a path to his door, says a Hebrew proverb.

that are superior in quality is what we make. We do our own curing. All the Hams and Bacon are taken from genuine Jersey Pork. It's very easy to keep a stock of meats which will be partly good and partly inferior, and to sell a little of both to each customer; this we never do.

SHORT TALKS BY L. T. COOPER.

INDIGESTION.

MRS. E. KEOGH.

Show me a person who suffers from indigestion or dyspepsia and I will show you a person with the meanest disposition on earth. You can't blame them. Nothing in the world takes all the cheer and brightness out of life like a balky stomach. People who suffer in this way feel out of humor, out of sorts and irritable all the time. They can't eat a meal without suffering intensely afterward. Their faces are usually covered with pimples and blotches. They always have headache, constipation, are tired and listless and as many whom I have talked to put it 'just feel mean and bad all over.' They are always dosing themselves on pills and pre-digested foods and the like until they have so weakened their stomachs that they can't eat anything. It's all nonsense. I have seen and talked with people who had lived for months on milk and toast, take a bottle or two of Cooper's New Discovery and inside of two weeks sit down and eat a big meal at night then go to bed and sleep as well as any one. Here is one case I have in mind.

Mrs. Ellen Keogh, 1907 Ogden Ave., Superior, Wis., recently wrote me:

"No one knows what awful suffering I have endured from indigestion. My stomach would not digest the simplest foods and no matter what I ate I would be sure to suffer afterwards. I was also constipated and had queer dizzy spells and frightful headaches. Oft times I felt so badly that I could scarcely walk. I had taken Cooper's New Discovery but a short time when I noticed a decided improvement. Now I can truthfully say I feel greatly improved in every way and today for the first time in ten years I enjoyed a hearty meal. I am indeed very grateful to you."

The fact that Mr. Cooper's medicines enjoy larger sales than any others is proof of their great merit.

I went back to the office. In a few minutes Bob without a word strode through my office and into the little room occupied by Beulah Sands. He closed the door behind him, a thing that he had never done before. It was only a minute till he opened it and called to me. In his eyes was a strange look, a look that came from the blending of two mighty passions, one joy, the other I could not make out, unless it was that soft one, which suppressed love, emerging from terrible uncertainty, generates in deep natures and which usually finds vent in tears. Beulah Sands was a study. Her heart was evidently swaying and tugging with the news Bob had brought her. She must have seen the nearness of release from the torture that had been filling her soul during the past three months, and yet such was the remarkable self-control of the woman, such her noble courage, that she refused to show any outward sign of her feelings. She was the reserved, dignified girl I had ever seen her.

"Jim, Miss Sands and I thought it best that we should have a little match up at this stage of our deal," Bob began. "I want to know if you both agree with me on adhering to the original plans to close out at 175. I never felt surer of my ground than in this deal. The stock is 163 on the tape right now." He glanced at the white paper ribbon whose every foot on certain days spells heaven or hell to countless mortals, as it rolled out of the ticker in the corner of the office. "Yes, there she goes again—3¾, 4, 4¼, and 1,200 at a half. There is a tremendous demand from all quarters. Washington's buying is unlimited; the commission houses are tumbling over one another to get aboard and the shorts are scared to a paralyzed muteness. They don't know whether to jump in and cover or to stand their present hands, but they have no pluck to fight the rise, that is down again.

"I've bought 20,000 more for you, Jim, on that bulge. I've 38,000 in all of the last 50,000, which leaves me 12,000 reserve. The average is way under 75, and there must be $400,000 for you in it now and a strong $1,400,000 in Miss Sands' 20,000, and $1,800,000 in our 30,000. They say it's bad business to count chickens in the shell, but ours are tapping so hard to get out I can't help doing it this once. I'm going to keep away from the floor for an hour or so, then I will go over and wind it up and—good God, Beulah—Miss Sands—are you ill?"

The girl's face was ashen gray and she seemed to be gasping for breath. I rushed for some water while Bob seized both her hands, but in an instant the blood came to her cheeks with a rush and she said, "I was dizzy for a moment. It must have been the thought of taking $1,800,000 back to father that upset me. With that amount father could make good all the trust funds, and have back enough for his own fortune to make us seem, after what we have been going through, richer than we were before. Pardon me, Mr. Randolph, won't you, when I say—God bless you and every one whom you hold dear, God bless you? What could I or my father have done but for you and Mr. Brownley?"

She turned her big eyes full upon Bob, filled with a light such as can come only to a woman's eyes, only to a woman before whom, as she stands on the brink of hell, suddenly looms her heaven.

Sharp and shrill rang Bob's exchange telephone. The ring seemed shriller; it certainly was longer than usual. Bob jumped for the receiver.

CHAPTER III.

He listened a moment, then answered, "Stand on it at 80 for 12,000 shares. I will be there in a second."

For Twenty Minutes He Was a Madman.

He dropped the receiver. "Jim, we have struck a snag. Arthur Perkins, whom I left on guard at the pole, says Barry Conant has jumped in and supplied all the bids. He has it down to 81 and is offering it in 5,000 blocks and is aggressive. I must get there quick," and he shot out of the office.

I sprang for Bob's telephone. "Perkins, quick!" "What are they doing, Perkins?" I asked a moment later.

"Conant has almost filled me up. He seems to have a hogshead of it on tap," he answered.

"Buy 50,000 shares, 5,000 each point down; and anything unfilled, give to Bob when he gets there. He is on the way."

I shut off and turned to Miss Sands: "This is no time to stand on ceremony, Miss Sands. Barry Conant is Camemeyer's and Standard Oil's head broker. His being on the floor means mischief. He never goes into a big whirl personally unless they are out for blood. Bob has exhausted his buying power, and though I tell you frankly that I never speculate, don't believe in speculation and am in this deal only for Bob—and for you—I swear I don't intend to let them wipe the floor with him without at least making them swallow some of the dust they kick up. Please don't object to my helping out, Miss Sands. Ordinarily I would defer to your wishes, but I love Bob Brownley only second to my wife, and I have money enough to warrant a plunge in stock. If they should turn Bob over in this deal, he—well, they're not going to, if I can prevent it," and I started for the exchange on the run.

When I got there the scene beggared description. That of the morning was tame in comparison. A bull market, however, terrific, always is tame beside a bear crash. In the few moments it took me to get to the floor, the battle had started. The greater part of the exchange membership was in a dense mob wedged against the rail behind the Sugar pole. I could not have got within yards of the center of that crowd of men, fast becoming panic-stricken, if the fate of nations had depended on my errand. I had witnessed such a scene before. It represented a certain phase of stock exchange gambling procedure, where one man apparently has every other man on the floor against him. I understood. Bob against them all—he trying to stay the onrushing current of dropping prices; they bent on keeping the sluice gates open. He was oacked up against the rail—not the Bob of the morning; not a vestige of that cold, brain-nerve-and-body-in-hand gambler remained. His hat was gone, his collar torn and hanging over his shoulder. His coat and waistcoat were ripped open, showing the full length of his white shirt front, and his eyes were fairly mad. Bob was no longer a human being, but a monarch of the forest at bay, with the hunter in front of him, and closing in upon him, in a great half circle, the pack of harriers, all gnashing their teeth, baring their fangs, and howling for blood. The hunter directly facing Bob, was Barry Conant—very slight, very short, a marvellously compact, handsome, miniature man, with a fascinating face, dark olive in tint, lighted by a pair of sparkling black eyes and framed in jet-black hair; a black mustache was parted over white teeth, which, when he was stalking his game, looked like those of a wolf. An interesting man at all times was this Barry Conant, and he had been on more and fiercer battlefields than any other half-score members combined. The scene was a rare one for a student of animalized men.

While every other man in the crowd was at a high tension of excitement, Barry Conant was as calm as though standing in the center of a ten-acre daisy field cutting off the helpless flowers' heads with every swing of his arm. Switching stock gamblers into eternity had grown to be a pastime to Barry Conant. Here was Bob thundering, with terrific emphasis "78 for 5,000," "77 for 5,000," "75 for 5,000," "74 for 5,000," "73 for 5,000," "72 for 5,000," seemingly expecting through sheer power of voice to crush his opponent into silence. But with the regularity of a trip-hammer Barry Conant's right hand, raised in unhurried gesture, and his clear calm "Sold" met Bob's every retreating bid. It was a battle royal—a king on one side, a Richelieu on the other. Though there was frantic buying and selling all around, these two generals, the trading was gauged by the trend of their battle. All knew that if Bob should be beaten down by this concentrated modern finance devil, a panic would ensue and Sugar would go none could say how low. But if Bob should play him to a standstill by exhausting his selling power, Sugar would quickly soar to even higher figures than before. It was known that Barry Conant's usual order from his clients, the "System" masters, for such an occasion as the present was "Break the price at any cost." On the other hand, every one knew that Randolph & Randolph were usually behind Bob's big operations; this was evidently one of his biggest, and every man there knew that Randolph & Randolph were seldom backed down by any force.

As Bob made his bid "72 for 5,000," and got it, I saw a quick flash of pain shoot across his face, and realized that it probably meant he was nearing the end of my last order. I sized it up that there was deviltry of more than usual significance behind this selling movement; that Barry Conant must have unlimited orders to sell and smash. My final order of 50,000 brought our total up to 150,000 shares, a large amount for even Randolph & Randolph to buy of a stock selling at nearly $200 a share. I then and there decided that whatever happened I would go no further. Just then Bob's wild eye caught mine, and there was in it a piteous appeal, such an appeal as one sees in the eye of the wounded doe when she gives up her attempt to swim to shore and waits the coming of the pursuing hunter's canoe. I sadly signaled that I was through. As Bob caught the sign, he threw his head back and bellowed a deep, hoarse "70 for 10,000." I knew then that he had already bought 40,000, and that this was the last ditch stand. Barry Conant must have caught the meaning, too. Instantly, like a revolver report, came his "Sold!" Then the compact, miniature mass of human springs and wires, which had until now been held in perfect control, suddenly burst from its clamps and Barry Conant was the fiend his Wall street reputation pictured him. His five feet five inches seemed to loom to the height of a giant. His arms, with their fate-pointing fingers, rose and fell with bewildering rapidity as his piercing voice rang out—"5,000 at 69, 68, 65," "10,000 at 63," "25,000 at 60." Pandemonium reigned. Every man in the crowd seemed to have the capital stock of the Sugar trust to sell, and at any price. A score seemed to be bent on selling as low as possible instead of for as much as they could get. These were the shorts who had been punished the day before by Bob's uplift.

BAD STREET SPRINKLING

Property-Owner Appears Before Borough Council to Make a Protest.

THE MAYOR EXPLAINS

Official Admits That Work Is Not Properly Done But That Efficient Service Would Be Costly.

The question of street sprinkling in the borough was the subject for an animated discussion at the August meeting of the Council, last night. J. V. E. Vanderhoef, of Prospect place, brought the matter to the attention of the members, when he asked for the privilege of the floor. He cited many instances to prove that the work is not being properly done; the constant running of automobiles and other vehcles caused the dust to rise in clouds and settle in the houses on the streets which are travelled the most.

Mayor Smalley said that it was not the first time that complaints have been received about the sprinkling, but added by way of explanation that it is difficult to secure competent drivers for the water wagons. He said that the citizens must recognize the fact that the borough of 6,000 inhabitants is the only one of its size that attempts to sprinkle its streets and that it must be conceded that with two wagons the territory is covered pretty well.

In the opinion of the Mayor the only way to improve the service is by putting on extra wagons and this is said would raise the taxes, something that the taxpayers would not relish. He realized that the sprinkling in the borough is not up to the standard, "but, said the Mayor, "I have seen dust blowing about the streets in Plainfield, a place three times as large as the borough, with a great many more wagons. All that we can do is to do the best possible under the circumstances. We frequently have to change drivers, and this some times works to a disadvantage. I repeatedly caution the drivers to use common sense and discretion in sprinkling the streets. Only a few days ago I noticed one of the drivers standing almost knee deep in water, after filling his wagon, not knowing how to shut off the hydrant. It seems to me that if I could find the right kind of man I would chain him fast to the water wagon to prevent his escape.

"This is one of the most perplexing questions to be handled in the borough and it is one of the reasons why we are going to have a new Mayor in the fall. I need a vacation. As anyone who has had to deal with labor this year knows, it is a difficult problem. One thing we will do which may help conditions to some extent is to sprnkle the streets on Sunday. The sprinkling done Saturday nights is not sufficient to hold the dust down on Sunday with the large increase in the travel of automobiles and carriages."

The talk by the Mayor semed to have wholesome effect and Mr. Vanderhoef, at least, felt that his mission had not been in vain. It is the general impression that conditions will be improved.

Appointed Assistant Manager.

Frederick Patman, of 735 Carlton avenue, who for several years has been agent of the Great Eastern Railway, of England, in the New York office, has been promoted to assistant general manager of that road with headquarters in London, England. Mr. Patman leaves for London next month. His family will accompany him.

Approaching Wedding.

An announcement of interest to many Plainfielders is the approaching marriage of George L. Babcock, of West Eighth street, to Miss Ruth Stillman, of Alfred, N. Y., which will take place at the home of the bride early in September. Miss Stillman is a niece of Dr. Martha Stillman, of this city.

SECRETLY MARRIED SEVENTEEN DAYS AGO

POPULAR PRINTER QUIETLY TOOK UNTO HIMSELF A WIFE.

After keeping the matter secret since July 17, Robert Scott, of West Fifth street, this city, and Miss Mary Margaret Smyth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Smith, of South Bound Brook, announced today that they had been married on that date. The ceremony was performed in St. Joseph's church, Bound Brook, by Rev. Father Dietrich, and was witnessed by Miss Susie Smyth, a sister of the bride, and James Monohan, of this city, acting as attendants. The young people have since been living at their respective homes but will reside on West Fifth street after Monday.

The groom is the son of Neill Scott, of West Fifth street, and is assistant foreman in the composing room of The Daily Press office. He has been prominent in baseball and athletic circles and has a wide acquaintance in the city and borough. Mrs. Scott is also well known in Plainfield, having been a member of the operating staff at the local telephone exchange.

WOOLSTON VICE-PRES'T OF N. J. BUILDERS ASSN.

150 MEMBERS ATTEND MEETING AT NEW BRUNSWICK.

L. B. Woolston, of this city, was among the members attending the second quarterly meeting of the Master Builders' Association, of New Jersey, held at New Brunswick, yesterday. There were about 150 delegates present from all parts of the State and all were greatly interested in the reports of prosperity throughout New Jersey, most of the builders having all the work they can handle. It was also reported that ther are but few strikes and that labor and capital are having few differences.

In the absence of Mayor Drury W. Cooper, who is abroad, President Edward Tallman extended the greeting of the New Brunswick association and welcomed them on behalf of the city. President Hugh D. King, of Bloomfield, the head of the State association, expressed his appreciation of the treatment of the delegates and the courtesies of the citizens.

An elaborate collation was served in the Temple banquet hall, last night, by Captain J. Tyler Lewis. It was decided to hold the next meeting in Westfield in October. The following officers of the State association were present:

President, Hugh D. King, Bloomfield; secretary A. E. Pearson, Orange; treasurer, A. J. Crowder, of Newark, and the following vice presidents: Henry W. Enger, Union county; L. B. Woolston, Somerset county; J. M. Lathrop, Hudson county; George A. Mills, Morris county; R. H. Hughes, Monmouth county; Andrew Dickinson, Passaic county; A. D. Bogart, Bergen county; David Buist, Somerset county; F. M. Cunningham, Atlantic county.

O'LOUGHLIN'S SHOWING.

"Marty" O'Loughlin, the Plainfield "pro," finished in the professional golf tournament yesterday at VanCortlandt Park, with a total score of 302 for the two days. His score yesterday for the thirty-six holes was 81, 76—157, and he was only a few strokes behind Alec. Smith and the other crack "pros." At the end of the morning round he was tied with several players for third money, but in the afternoon he met with hard luck. Someone picked up his ball on the course, causing him to lose several strokes, and besides he drove his ball into a couple of park benches, causing another penalty.

A match of unusual interest has been arranged for tomorrow at Dunwoodie, when "Marty" O'Loughlin and Donald Duff, the veteran from VanCortlandt Park, will play Gilman P. Tiffany and W. Watson, the latter the amateur champion at Dunwoodie. Duff and O'Loughlin will give the other pair four strokes.

Will Give Clerks a Day Off.

For the purpose of giving the clerks a day off, A. E. Force & Co., proprietors of "The White Store," will close their store all day Tuesday, August 6. The clerks have decided to have a monster picnic away from the hum and activity of business, and the committee in charge has arranged for a tally-ho coach that will convey the large party to the mountains, where the day will be spent in having a genuine good time.

BOROUGH BUDGET BIGGER

Increase of $4,000 will Bring Total Up to $25,800 for the Year.

TAX RATE IS THE SAME

New Buildings Will Prevent a Higher Rate—How the Sum Is Apportioned.

For the first time in five years there will be an increase in the borough tax budget this year. In arranging for the various amounts to be raised, the Borough Council, at its August meeting, last night, decided that the increase shall be $4,000, making a total amount of $25,800 to be raised for all purposes. However, no material increase in the tax rate is anticipated for the reason that this will be considerably offset by the increase in the ratables on account of new buildings.

The most important items in the budget will remain the same, except that for street lighting which is increased by $500, owing to the number of additional lights required throughout the borough. The largest increase is for incidentals, including interest, amounting to $1,500, but this will help to cover a long-standing note and which has been gradually cut down to $5,000. When this note is taken care of the incidental expenses will go back to its original sum.

Last year the Board of Health was given no appropriation and its funds were getting low. For this reason $500 has been set aside for this department. The council aiso made provision for a payment on the bond for the Somerset street widening and other improvements in connection with this thoroughfare, increasing the amount to be paid from $500 to $1,500. After all the only actual increase is to be found in the $500 for the Board of Health and that for street lighting.

The budget for this year as compared with that of last year follows:

1907—Police, $3,000; fire department, $3,000; streets, $6,000; lights $5,500; water, $1,300; poor, $1,000; Board of Health, $500; incidentals, $2,500; Watchung avenue bond, $1,000; Somerset street bond, $1,500; total, $25,300.

1906—Police, $3,000; fire department, $3,000; streets, $6,000; lights, $5,000; water, $1,300; poor, $1,000; incidentals, $1,000; Watchung avenue bond, $1,000; Somerset street bond, $500; total, $21,800.

Miraculous Escape.

Mrs. Hall, wife of T. W. Hall, the president of the American Hide and Leather Company, and who owns most of the stock of the Aluminum Press and Plate Company, accompanied by her daughter, Miss Hall, Miss Anderson and a chauffeur, were passengers in a large touring car which dashed down a thirty foot embankment, turned a somersault and then landed in a pond at Bedford, Conn., late last night. Though they were buried beneath the machine in five feet of water they managed to escape with slight bruises. The Hall family is well known here where they have visited frequently.

Strange Meeting of Plainfielders.

By a strange co-incidence eleven Plainfielders met on the Steamship "North Star," bound for Portland, ...aine, on Wednesday, July 31, none of them knowing that the others were aboard until they all met in the dining-room. The Plainfielders comprised the following: Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Probasco, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Huntington, Mr. and Mrs. William Myers, Miss Martine, Joseph A. Hubbard, Mr. and Mrs. William C. WILL APPEAL BIMBLE CASE

AN ALLEGED INJUSTICE

Boy's Lost Dog Returned With Warrant For Arrest By Game Warden Straight—Dog Strayed Away.

Certain prominent boroughites are up in arms over the action taken against Edward Bimble, of Stone street, who was held before Justice of the Peace Snape last night to pay a fine of $20 for "violating the game ordinance," and William G. DeMeza has been retained as Bimble's counsel to fight the matter for the young man.

The fact of the case, it is alleged, show that injustice has been done to Bimble who is a lad of 17 years of age. About a week ago, a valuable hound dog owned by the boy broke away from the yard where it was tied and strayed off. Bimble was heartbroken at the loss of the animal and made every effort to find traces of it. He instituted a search in the city and borough and went over to the dog pound to see if "Jim" Babbitt had rounded up the animal. Last Wednesday afternoon, as Bimble was sitting on the piazza at his home, Game Warden Freeman Straight, of Watchung, came along and asked if Bimble had lost the dog. The game warden is alleged to have taken a friendly attitude toward the boy, praised the dog, and offered $10 for it, if Bimble would sell it. The led was greatly pleased at recovering the animal again, and claimed ownership. At this, the game warden, it is said, produced a warrant for Bimble's arrest and took him to borough police headquarters. Justice of the Peace Snape conducted the hearing there Wednesday evening, and it is alleged that the boy pleaded guilty to the violation of the game ordinance by having a hound dog running free, after he had been threatened, it is said, with a sentence at Somerville or Trenton. Bimble claimed that as the animal broke loose and that as he had made every effort to recover it, he was not responsible, but Justice Snape held him for a $20 fine, and costs of the action.

Under protest, Bimble paid a deposit of $13 as part of the fine and thus secured his freedom. Though there was another hearing in the matter before Justice Snape last evening, the balance of the fine has not yet been paid, and will be protested by Bimble's counsel. The lad will be brought before the court this afternoon by Lawyer William G. DeMeza with a request to re-open the case again. If this request is refused, he will file an appeal before the Court of Common Pleas at Somerville, which will come up in the fall term. In cases of this kind, the game warden is entitled to half the fine collected.

Custodians of Union County.

Mayor Fisk, of Plainfield, who is foreman of the present grand jury, says he does not consider it a slap because the excise commissioners of Elizabeth granted licenses to eighteen of the fifty-four places the jury reported as violators of the law, as the commissioners may have been convinced that the applicants had complied with the requirements. But, the Mayor says: "You know this grand jury is on duty until October, and you may depend upon it that we will use our best endeavors to see that the law is lived up to both in spirit and letter."—Rahway Democrat.

To Play Independent Ball.

The Dover A. A., having decided to leave the Lackawanna League, will play independent baseball beginning this afternoon, with the New York Colored Giants as its opponents. Stallings and Wasmer have been released and the rest of the team will be retained as in league games. Newswander will play at third, Tim Rogers at short and Acker may go in to catch, while Schiffner will go to the outfield. Raymond Cox, a local boy, who played at Rugby, S. D., part of this season, will play in right field. Stroud will pitch.

ARREST MURDER SUSPECT

Detective Sergeant Flynn Captures Negro Accused of Killing Cousin

NORTH CAROLINA CRIME

June Alston Must Answer for Death of Jesse Williams—Now at Headquarters.

The local police effected another important fugitive capture at noon today when Detective-Sergeant John Flynn arrested at the Pond Tool Works, June Alston, colored, wanted for murder committed in Warren county, North Carolina, on January 20 last. He at first denied his identity but when the officer detailed facts that showed familiarity with the case, Alston admitted that the right man had been caught but that the affair was not murder but an accidental shooting.

When taken to Police Headquarters, Alston made a statement in which he declared that the man who had been killed was his cousin, Jesse Williams, and that with a crowd of young men and women they were walking along a country road near Odell, N. C. One of the young men had a pistol and Alston asked to be allowed to examine it. He pulled the trigger several times and suddenly there was an explosion. Williams clapped his hand to his groin and shouted that he had been shot. Alston asserted that he didn't mean to do it and Williams replied: "I know you didn't June."

Williams was taken home and Alston went to his home, but afterward became frightened. He first went to Baltimore and from there came to Plainfield, having a brother living in the West End. He has been working at Pond's since February 16 and the police located him there yesterday. He was arrested today as he called at the office for his pay.

Chief Kiely wired Sheriff Davis, of Warren county, and received an immediate reply to hold Alston. The message stated that officers would start for Plainfield as soon as possible, bearing the necessary extradition papers. This evidently indicates that the affair was not accidental.

Alston's arrest is the sixth the Plainfield police have made on out-of-town charges within the past two weeks.

LIVELY BLAZE CAUSED ALARM AMONG NEGROES.

Slight Damage Done By Fire in the Salvation Army Store House.

Patrolman Charles Flynn saw smoke and flames issuing from the front of the Salvation Army store rooms on Madison avenue, near Front street, at about 1.30 today and turned in an alarm from box 12. The firemen found the rear of the building in a lively blaze, but a stream from the chemical engine soon extinguished the flames. The loss will be but slight, though at first it looked as though Kelly's barber shop in the adjoining building might be damaged.

Such was the excitement among the colored families in this building that there was a general attempt made to move out on th espur of the moment. The local police succeeded in explaining that there was no danger after a good part of the household effects had been brought to the sidewalk and the moving work ceased. The cause of the fire is not known, but the flames had made good headway in the rear of the Salvation Army storehouse the rear wall of which was entirely destroped. The colored people in the colony there were in a great state of excitement because the firemen persisted in being on the safe side and tearing down part of the walls of the adjoining house.

Little Boy's Funeral.

The funeral of Edwin Schomp, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schomp, of Oxford place, was held at the parents' home yesterday afternoon. It was conducted by Rev. J. O. BOROUGH PAYS BILLS AGGREGATING $3,442

P. S. C. MAKES A DEDUCTION ON ITS ORIGINAL CLAIM.

In th routine order of business at the August meeting of the Borough Council, last night, bills amounting to $3,442.44 were audited and warrants were ordered drawn for their payment. The largest bill was for street lighting, $909, but the Public Service Corporation made a reduction of $23 for lights out durng the past two months. The report of Collector George F. Brown showed receipts of $5,418.36 and disbursements of $3,137.47, with a balance of $2,280.89.

Mayor Smalley presented the name of Cornelius W. Higgins for special marshal, and the appointment was confirmed, after which Mr. Higgins was sworn into office. He will begin his duties at once.

The petition of John Becker, of 58 Watchung avenue, for permssion to erect an automobile shed on his property was referred to the street committee and will be reported on later. A resolution was offered by B. R. Waldron, and adopted, providing for be the borrowing of $1,000, the same to be secured by notes.

PENNSYLVANIAN HIT BY OVERHEAD BRIDGE

STRUCK AS HE WAS BEATING HIS WAY HOME ON CENTRAL FREIGHT TRAIN.

While stealing a ride on a Jersey Central freight train, Frank Wilson, of Harrison Valley, Pa., was struck by an overhead bridge at Fanwood shortly after three o'clock this morning. He was knocked to the top of a car and was found in an unconscious condition when the train reached the Richmond street yards in this city. The ambulance was called and conveyed him to Muhlenberg Hospital.

An examination conducted by physicians showed that the head had been badly crushed at the base of the skull but this morning he had partially regained his senses and his chances for recovery are good. He is a young man and was beating his way home from Jersey City when the accident occurred.

Polack's Hearing.

As the result of a drunken fracas in the Polish colony at South Plainfield, half a dozen of the foreigners were hailed before Judge Smith at the South Plainfield court last evening for a hearing. The arrests were made on complaint of the neighbors, who allege that Polish liquor and Polish profanity, together with various wicked looking knives were much in evidence among the foreigners in the colony Wednesday night. After a session lasting slightly more than two hours, the case was adjourned until this evening, when the Judge hopes to be able to finish it up.

Machinists' Hearings Set.

In the City Court this morning, Judge Runyon fixed dates for the hearings in the assault charges preferred by Henry E. Close, the Krom employe, against Thomas Muldowney and Andrew McConnell, the union machinists. They will be tried separately in the Common Council chambers, Muldowney's case next Thursday morning and McConnel's on Friday morning. A jury has been called for both cases.

To Transfer Property.

The absurd story published yesterday by another paper that in the absence of a will, supposed to have been left by the late Joseph B. Coward, the conveyance of his property on East Front street, now occupied as police headquarters, to Henry Haurand, is being held up, is groundless. The transfer of the property will be completed next week.

To Trot on Buffalo Circuit.

Charles E. Bonwell's trotter, "May Earle," is to be entered in the trotting races on the Buffalo circuit, commencing with next week. The horse will be entered in the 2:40 class and will run on the entire circuit, which will conclude in September. The animal is showing fine form, and Mr. Bonwell expects will make good in the season's races.

3 DROWNED AT BOYNTON

Plainfield Colored Girl One of of Those Lost in Boating Accident Yesterday.

ANOTHER ONE RESCUED

Fatality Followed by Serious Injury to Brother of One of the Victims—Reports Cause Excitement.

Death stalked into a crowd of colored pleasure seekers enjoying the first Salt Water day of the season at Boynton Beach, yesterday afternoon, and claimed three victims when a light row boat was overturned about half a mile from the Staten Island shore. Miss Laura Peterson, eighteen years old, of West Third street, this city; Homer Reid and William Gray, of Orange, were drowned before help could reach them, and Miss Iva Henry, fifteen years old, also of West Third street, was rescued just as she was about to sink. She was brought to Plainfield as soon as possible and is still in a precariou condition.

The drowning accident was indirectly responsible for another later on in which Hudson Peterson, brother of Laura, was the participant. The young man was highly excited by his sister's death, and started for home by trolley to tell his mother. He hardly realized what he was doing and as the car rounded a curve he was thrown off. When picked up he had three ribs fractured and several severe contusions.

While it has not been definitely ascertained, it is declared that the fatality was brought about by the Peterson girl attempting to change her seat.

The sea was quite choppy and the boat, being of light build, turned turtle as the woman swayed to one side in making for a seat near the bow, where Reid was sitting.

When the boat went over Miss Peterson sank at once. Reid was swimming close to the overturned craft, and would have saved himself had not Gray grabbed him around the neck and dragged him down, despite his desperate struggles to free himself from the grip of his frenzied friend.

The overturning of the boat was seen from a launch nearby, bearing C. Milton Meeker, Norman K. Barnes, and Walter Wikoff, all of Plainfield. They turned their craft toward the upturned boat and arrived just in time to allow Meeker to catch Miss Henry as she was two feet below the surface. His grasp failed to hold but it raised her sufficiently for Wikoff to grab her about the waist and hang fast until the others could help him pull her in. They immediately searched about for the others but they had disappeared. The bodies of the three victims were quickly recovered and were taken to the morgue at Tompkinsville, S. I.

Reid and Gray were members of a Sunday-school at Orange and had gone to the beach on a combined excursion conducted by the colored churches of that place. The accident cast a gloom over all further pleasure of the excursionists and it was a saddened crowd that returned home last night. The Peterson and Henry girls were among a crowd of Plainfielders who journeyed to the beach by trolley, the latter being accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Addie Henry.

When news of the fatality was brought to Plainfield, all the section around West Third street and Plainfield avenue, where there are scores of colored families, was thrown into an uproar. The details were meagre at first and more than one father or mother who had someone at the beach ran hither and thither in an effort to learn who had figured in the accident. One of the first reports had it that a launch had blown up and that six Plainfielders were killed. The street about the Peterson and Henry homes was crowded until late last night.

G. O. P. Annual Outing.

Elaborate arrangements are being made for the annual outing of the Union County Republicans on Saturday, August 10. The committee in charge of the affair comprises Andrew McCardell, chairman; S. R. Ryno, Edward Bauer, Henry Pfug and Herbert Buxton. Tickets for the outing may be had of any member of the committee. WAR RELICS ARE NOW IN CAPITOL ROTUNDA

FLAGS CARRIED BY JERSEY VETERANS HAVE BEEN MOVED.

Custodian Weseman Thursday moved the southeast flag case from its old position opposite the corridor leading to the governor's chambers to a corner of the rotunda in the State house at Trenton.

This was made necessary because of the new elevator to be cut through the wall back of the position occupied formerly by the case. The remaining three cases will not be disturbed.

When the new elevator is running, the old front elevator will be discontinued, according to the present plans of the State house commission. People visiting the State house daily throughout the legislative sessions are of the opinion that the congestion in front of the governor's corridor, where the new elevator is to be placed, will make that point much worse than at present. Lawyers and others going to the chancery and supreme court clerk's offices will have to walk a distance of a hundred feet further into the building before going to the upper floors. Those who visit the State library will be in the same predicament.

Because of this foreseen congestion when the legislative crowds are here, it will be almost impossible to get to the upper floors. Those familiar with the situation on legislative days, say that with the dense crowds standing in the corridors, the new elevator will be almost impossible to reach. People have in the past gone upstairs on the front elevator to the second floor and then walked back to the first staircase and descended to get to the back of the building in comfort. What it will be when the front elevator is abandoned agitates those who have business in the State House.

Because of these things, it is possible that the State house commission may be induced to continue the front elevator.

THE "ASBURY PARK" JABS THE "RED BANK"

BOATS COME TOGETHER OFF A NEW NEW YORK PIER; PASSENGERS COOL.

Carrying a big crowd of seashore resort cottagers, the New Jersey Central Railroad's Sandy Hook flyer Asbury Park struck the ferryboat Red Bank, of the same line, off the Cedar street, New York, pier in the North River Thursday morning. Among the Asbury Park's passengers were many wealthy Wall street men.

The guard of the Red Bank was cut through, a portion of her overhang carried away and windows in the women's cabin were smashed. Still the shock was so slight that many passengers on the opposite side of the Red Bank did not know a collision had occurred. She had only 150 passengers aboard. The stem of the Asbury Park was badly twisted and her fore compartment filled.

Passengers on both boats behaved with admirable coolness. Continuing her trip to Communipaw, the Red Bank lay off for repairs. The Asbury Park was able to make her return trip to Atlantic Highlands. Later in the day she lay up for repairs.

THREATENED TO DRAG DAUGHTER BACK HOME.

Rhode Island Parent Incensed When Runaway Child Refuses to Return to Him.

Threatening to drag his nineteen year old daughter, Esther, back to his home in Providence, R. I., Jacob Lazarus, of Paterson was warned by the police yesterday he would be placed under arrest in every city he visited if he pursued that course. The angry father thereupon decided to seek other means to induce his daughter to return to him.

The girl says she ran away from home because of ill-treatment and the appropriation by her parents of all her earnings. Lazarus sought the aid of the State S. P. C. C. officials, and the young woman was located at work in a silk mill. The society agents decided the parents were to blame for their daughter's action.

Plainfield in the Olden Days...

Re-printed from The Constitutionalist

From the issue of July 8, 1869:

"Serious Conflagration—A Half Block of Buildings Destroyed—Loss Estimated at About $60,000—Partly Insured.

"Tuesday morning last was ushered in with a great conflagration in Plainfield, which came nigh destroying the heaviest business portion of our city. About half-past one o'clock a fire was discovered in the rear of Picknell & Ramsey's dry goods store on Front street, and the alarm was at once sounded. Our Fire Department was on hand with their usual promptness. The fire-well, corner of Front and Somerset streets, was taken by Gazelle, which arrived on the ground-first, while the steamer took water from the brook at the rear of the Bank, and the Zephyrs got their ledders off in a twinkling. The doors were burst open, and a stream from Gazelle sent into the flames, which had gained such headway before being discovered, that is resembled a furnace inside when the doors were opened.

"The steamer in the meantime got to work in the rear, and directed her powerful stream upon the flames, but the fact that the buildings were composed entirely of wood, and very old, they burnt like tinder and it was impossible to stay the progress of the flames. The continuous buildings, (owned by M. Vermeule and I. S. Dunham) occupied by M. Vermeule, hatter, I. S. Dunham, manufacturer of clothing, Elmore D. Moffett, grocer, and G. Thorn, photographer, were speedily one mass of flames, although the firemen worked with herculean efforts to stay their progress. Perceiving that it was useless to try and save the buildings, already in flames, Chief Engineer Frazer directed the companies to put water on the brick buildings on either side of the vortex of flames—Berry & Thorn's hardware store, corner Cherry street, and Ira Pruden's building on the other side, which were already in flames. The steamer directed one stream upon Pruden's building, while Gazelle carried their hose up into the third story of Berry & Thorn's building and poured a steady stream upon the flames, and the steamer put another stream in the rear, where the fire had gained considerable headway. The Zephyrs in the meantime doing good service by pulling down such portions of the burning building as they could, passing water on the flames with buckets, etc.—doing effective service. By the strenuous efforts of the firemen, Pruden's block and Berry & Thorn's were finally saved. Hormich's candy store, T. Smith's barber shop and the residence of B. T. Mumford were in eminent danger, so much so that their contents were removed. The postoffice effects were also arranged for hasty removal if it became necessary.

"The losses and insurance are as follows:

"Picknell & Ramsey—loss, $16,000; insured in the following Newark companies, Merchants' Mutual, $4,000; City Mutual, $3,000; Firemen's Mutual, $1,500; People's Mutual, $3,000; and in the Springfield, Mass., Co., $1,500, and Home, Conn., $2,000.

"I. S. Dunham, loss $15,000 to $18,000; insured as follows: Rahway Mutual, $2,500; Newark Mutual, $2,000; American Mutual, Plainfield, $1,100; Bound Brook Mutual, $2,000; American Mutual, Newark, $3,000; Firemen's Mutual, Newark, $2,500.

"M. Vermeule, loss on building, $8,000; loss on stock, fixtures, etc., from $6,000 to $8,000; insured on stock, Newark Mutual, $2,500; American Mutual, Plainfield, $1,000; Firemen's Mutual, Newark, $3,000.

"A Berry, loss on building, $1,500; insured for $8,000 in Firemen's and Mutual of Newark. Berry & Thorn, loss on stock and fixtures, principally by water, $5,000; insured for $4,000.

"Elmore D. Moffett, loss on stock, $400; insured in Newark Mutual for $1,000.

"C. E. Dunham, loss about $1,000 by water, insured in Newark Mutual for $2,700.

"Ira Pruden, loss about $1,000 by water, fully insured in Firemen's Mutual of Newark and Mutual of Elizabeth.

"J. W. Soper & Co., loss on maps, plans, etc., about $100. No insurance.

"G. Thorn, photographer, loss $1,000; insured for $575 in the Firemen's of Jersey City.

"Wm. A. Woodruff & Co., loss about $200, fully insured.

"This fire is the largest and most destructive that has ever visited Plainfield, and had it not been for the close proximity of water, and the efficiency of the Fire Department, there is no doubt but that side of Front street, from Cherry street to Mechanic, would now be a mass of ruins. The great difficulty experienced by the firemen is the insufficient quantity of hose. That of Gazelle has been in use for years and in some departments would be condemned as worthless. Our Department is willing and ready to buy more hose, if they had the money, but their means are indaequate to supply wells, apparatus, etc., all at once. We hope the public will now see the necessity of having more fire appurtenances and act accordingly. "Gazelle" has done Plainfield great service in time gone-by, and has a good set of men, ready and willing at all times to do their duty. Steam, however, must take the place of hand power and we hope the day is not far distant, when we shall see more hose and another steamer in Plainfield.

"We are sorry to record a rather serious accident to Mr. Samuel Bogart, who in his endeavors to save goods from Vermeule's was struck by a falling window frame, and his foot badly crushed. Mr. J. F. Layton and James Carmon were also injured by falling timber, but not seriously hurt.

"The origin of the fire is a mystery. Various rumors are afloat, one is that the back door was kicked in by parties, who aver that there was no bar up against it, which would seem to imply that the store was first robbed and then set on fire; we are assured again by parties who were endeavoring to get the back door open, that the flames were so hot that they could not reach it at all. From the view obtained of the flames when a stream was first put upon it from the front door, the middle of the store, between the counters, was burned through to the cellar, while beams overhead were one mass of flame. Mr. Picknell says he was in the store about 7 o'clock in the evening and lit the gas, and everything was all right then.

"The whole amount of insurance on the buildings, stock, etc., foot up to about $60,000, of which some $30,000 was in companies of Zachariah Webster, Esq., as agent.

No evidence can be stronger than the direct testimony of people you know. The public expression of friends and neighbors is the proof of merit we offer. If you still remain a skeptic, talk it over with this testifier.

Mrs. Agnes Christiansen, of 311 Prescott place, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Several years ago I was sick with kidney disease, suffered all kinds of hard pains in my back and loins, and about the kidneys. I could not bend over to pick up anything, and occasionally had dizzy spells and headaches. I could not rest well at night and on the whole my condition was such that life did not seem worth living. Doctors being unable to help me I decided to try Doan's Kidney Pills, which had been used with success in our family. I took them, finding relief in a short time and continued the treatment until cured."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

Clinton Avenue against Y. M. C. A. at Crescent Oval, and Bound Brook against Scotch Plains at the 'Plains will furnish the fans with good sport, this afternoon. Both games have an important bearing on the league standing.

The West Ends, of Somerville, entertain High Bridge at home this afternoon.

The East Millstone team has the enviable reputation of not having lost a game this season. Last week it defeated the Mono F. C., of this city, 9 to 5. Today the aggregation will play Metuchen.

The Dunellen Field Club, recently organized, will play the Cranford team at Cranford, this afternoon.

Joe Weaner, the slab artist for the Flemington team, still holds the Indian sign for all comers, and it was largely through his efforts that the nine won the championship of Hunterdon county, this year.

Manager Kid Gleason has put new life into the Jersey City Eastern League team and under his direction the club has jumed into the first division.

Hughey Jennings, of the Detroits, is the most entertaining coacher in the business, even if he does occasionally incur the displeasure of baseball magnates.

Clark Griffith has succeeded in landing Raymond Tift, the crack pitcher for Brown University, and he reported to the club on Thursday. His college team held the record this season for games won, as the aggregation did not lose a single contest. Tift will probably be given a chance soon to demonstrate his ability in fast company.

The Giants were compelled to do some heavy hitting in St. Louis to do as well as they did against the tail-enders. McGraw's men have been unusually weak with the stick this year, which accounts for many of their defeats.

GOLF.

The Park Golf Club team will play a match this afternoon on the course of the Middlebrook Country Club, Finderne, with a team from that club.

In the play-off for the net prize in the professional and amateur four-ball match at VanCortlandt Park on Thursday, G. P. Tiffany, Powelton, and R. Peebles, Fairview, beat G. D. Woodworth, New York, and George Pearson, Yountakah. Tiffany equalled the amateur record with 73.

The qualifying round of the sixth annual Vermont State golf championship opened at Manchester on Thursday in a drenching rain. Twenty-eight golfers out of an entry list of nearly forty, started. Edward W. Clark, 3d, was medallist in the preliminary round, completing it with a score of 82.

There will be several interesting golf matches on the Cranford Golf Club course, tomorrow. The links were never in better condition and both amateurs and pros like to try for new honors there.

Finishing sixth in such a large field of notable golfers of the "pro" ranks, is good work. "Marty" O'Loughlin proved that he was going some when he completed thirty-six holes with a 145.

Although Miss Lydie Loizeaux fails to hold a high position in the weekly competitions at the Park Golf Club, she is playing an excellent game and there are but few of the male members who can beat her, when she is at the top of her game. Miss Loizeaux is also a strong tennis player.

The departure of Rev. J. O. McKelvey on his vacation Monday will give someone a chance to beat him out for the Park Golf Club cup. He now holds the lead with ten points, but as he will be away during August the chances are he will lose his position for the scratch trophy in the meantime.

Rev. C. L. Goodrich is another member of the Park Golf Club who is losing an opportunity to win points for the trophies by absenting himself from the city on a vacation. He is spending the month in Colorado and will probably not have a chance to play on the local course again before September.

Received a State Scholarship.

F. E. Smith, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Smith, of West Fourth street, who was graduated from the Plainfield High School last year, has been given a high honor in the presentation of one of the State scholarships at Rutgers College, the result of a competitive examination. The fact that the scholarship comes through competition is all the more gratifying, although it is believed that Mr. Smith would have received one as a result of his high standing in scholarship at the High School. He will enter Rutgers College in September.

FRELINGHUYSEN THE MAN.

Taking the position that it would be bad politics to nominate for governor a resident of either Hudson or Essex counties, the centres of factional turmoil at the present time, the Jersey City Journal advocates the selection of State Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen. That paper is not alone in endorsing the brilliant young man from Raritan for the exalted place now held by his personal friend, E. C. Stokes, for from other influential sections comes the word that the leaders deem it wise to offer a candidate who is not mixed up in the factional fight that has shaken the State from one end to the other during the last two years.

"The best thing to do under the circumstances," says the Jersey City Journal, "is to select a candidate for Governor who is unaffiliated with either faction. It was this belief that caused the Evening Journal to indorse the candidacy of Senator Frelinghuysen of Somerset. That county is neither North Jersey or South Jersey. It has no part nor interest in the Hudson and Essex disturbance. It is not big enough to nominate a Governor without outside aid and at this time it will be wise to give it that aid. Senator Frelinghuysen is still reported to be a sick man, but getting better. If he is well enough to make the campaign he is the best man in sight."

WHERE THE BLAME LAYS.

The Elizabeth Times devotes a two column editorial to take the Newark Morning Star to task for calling Judge Atwater a "judicial donkey," because he showed surprising leniency to the nineteen year old negro who pleaded non vult to the indictment charging him with an attempt to despoil a three year old white girl. We believe that the responsibility for this undeserved light sentence rests with those whose misdirected efforts, no doubt, gave the court a wrong impression of the seriousness of the case. Edward S. Atwater is a conscientious and painstaking jurist but it appears that he was grievously imposed upon in this instance and we believe that he will investigate the facts more thoroughly in similar cases in the future and will not be governed by the pleadings of those, of whom it is only fair to say in this case did not acquaint themselves with the real facts.

In connection with its story on Bishop Henry C. Potter's charge that the Church today is indifferent to the masses' welfare, the Philadelphia North American this morning attempted to make its article a feature by reproducing a likeness of the New York prelate. The picture, however, is that of Richard Harding Davis, the novelist and former newspaperman. The small dailies are not alone, sometimes, in making serious "bulls."

Inspected Hassam Pavement.

Former Mayor J. F. Buckle, Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett, Freeholder J. H. Doane and representatives of the two local dailies yesterday made an inspection of the new Hassam pavement on Somerset street, between Lincoln place and Jackson avenue. Mr. Keenan, the local agent for the Hassam company, explained the method of laying the patent pave and vouchsafed the information that New England towns had found it the most satisfactory to be had. Time will tell how serviceable it will prove here, but it has a nice appearance and leads to the belief that it will prove durable and economical.

Moncton Gets Three Days.

Frank Moncton, of Greenbrook road, was sentenced to three days' imprisonment in the borough lock-up by Borough Recorder Dolliver at the session of court last evening for picking a quarrel with John Bremmer, a neighbor, when in an intoxicated condition Thursday night. He and Peterson, the colored prisoner serving a week's sentence, now sit and smoke the live long day in adjoining cells, under the fatherly guidance of Chief Marshal George Weiss.

Colored Children Give Band Concert.

The Jenkins' Orphan Band, of Charleston, South Carolina, composed of colored orphans, both boys and girls, gave a successful concert in Y. M. C. A. Hall, last night. The selections were well rendered. Previous to the concert, the band paraded through the city streets playing.

SEWER REPORT RECEIVED

Borough Council Approves Commission's Findings and will Act Accordingly.

MAYOR SMALLEY'S VIEW

Explains That Nothing Can Be Done This Year and That His Successor Will Handle Problem.

At last night's meeting of the Borough Council, the sewer report recently submitted by the Investigating Commission, was formally presented by Councilman VanArsdale with a resolution that it be approved and that action be taken as soon as possible to comply with its suggestions. After a discussion of some length, the matter was put to a vote and all the members of the Council, excepting Mayor Smalley, expressed themselves in favor of it.

When the report was originally presented last week, Mayor Smalley expressed himself as being disappointed with its recommendations so far as using the Plainfield disposal beds was concerned. He declared last night before the vote was taken that Borough Counsel Reed was unable to be present to explain the legal side of the question and asked that action be deferred until September. He added that it was impossible to do anything this year as in order to install a sewer system, a petition must first be received from fifty per cent. of the property owners and after that a special election has to be held to appropriate the necessary funds.

"In the meantime," the Mayor continued, "we will elect a new mayor, and this work will come under his jurisdiction. Personally, I am not in favor of the borough sewering upon the Plainfield beds. I will not oppose the measure, and so far as consistent, whatever the Borough Council may do in this matter will have no objection raised from the chair. We need good legal advice on the matter, and our borough counsel is away at this time. I have no objection to hurrying the matter along, except that we must necessarily take time to do it properly.

"The borough needs sewers but this fact will not incline me to vote for something that I do not like. The probability is that a new mayor will have this matter to handle, and personally, I am glad of it. I am sorry I cannot favor the proposition, because no one needs the sewers more than I. This is not the time to tell all the reasons why I do not favor the plan. It is no reflection on the commission which prepared the report, for they did good work, and deserve great credit. I don't like to disagree with others, but I would not give a rap for a man who had no opinion, and who was not willing to stand by what he thinks. I have not been able to believe in the propriety of the location of the Plainfield sewer system, and am not in favor of the borough going to them."

Tanned to a healthy brown by a week's manoeuvres in camp at Sea Girt, the members of Co. K will arrive in this city at shortly after 5 o'clock this afternoon. Tents will be struck today and everything packed up in soldier fashion early so that the boys may be ready to come to this city on the special train. Yesterday was the occasion of the grand review of the State troops at the camp by Governor Stokes.

VanArsdale's Great Watermelon Cutting Sale Started Today.

This feast of good, old fashioned bargains—such as you used to be invited to before the price of leather went kiting—has been a God send to many a family who have been forced to count the pennies before every expenditure. Every thrifty man and woman must appreciate such glorious opportunities for money-saving. Every economical person will come to this "Watermelon Cutting" if they have got footwear to buy. MILL OWNERS WOULD ENJOIN JAMES E. DUKE

RARITAN MANUFACTURERS OBJECT TO RIVER'S DIVERSION.

Injunction proceedings are to be begun by the Raritan Woolen Mills to prevent James E. Duke, the tobacco king, from pumping the Raritan River again to make his 2,000-acre park look like a fairyland for his bride.

Representatives of the Einstine estate, which represents the woolen mill, say their plant has already been stopped once with heavy loss and that a State Supreme Court decision already prohibits Duke from infringing on the rights of individuals or corporations farther down the Raritan River than his own estate.

There are several artificial lakes and innumerable fountains and waterfalls in the Duke preserves, supplied from the river and it was in honor of Mrs. Duke that the fountains were made to shoot their sprays higher, the lakes were filled to overflowing and the cascades dashed with unusual volume until the river dwindled to a brooklet, leaving scarcely enough water to supply the woolen mill's boilers.

As Mr. and Mrs. Duke have now gone on a three weeks' auto tour, the manager of the Duke estate took it on himself to stop the pumps Wednesday night.

THE FORUM.

Explains Local Option.

Editor, The Daily Press:

Will you kindly allow me to present to your readers a synopsis of the local option bill as proposed by the United Churches of New Jersey through the Anti-Saloon League?

The bill provide that "upon application for an election by a petition signed by not less than thirty per cent. of the legal voters of any county or political division in this State," either the judge of the Inferior Court of Common Pleas or the justice of the Supreme Court holding Circuit Court in the county will set a time and place for the hearing of the application, and if he shall find that the applicants constitute thirty per cent. of the legal voters in the county or political division, "he shall within ten days after the presentation of such petition, order a special election to be held within not less than thirty days nor more than forty days from the date of filing such petition," to determine by ballot whether or not the sale of intoxicating liquor as a beverage shall be prohibited within the limits of such political division.

The elections shall be separate and distinct from any other election and shall be held at the usual places of holding elections.

In all trials for violation of this act the original entry of the county clerk's record of the result of the election shall be prima facie evidence that the "selling, furnishing or giving away of intoxicating liquors as a beverage" was unlawful.

If the majority vote "dry" at the election, it shall be unlawful to grant licenses within the limits of such political division. "From and after thirty days from the date of holding said election it shall be unlawful for any person, personally or by agent, within the limits of such county or political division to sell, expose for sale, furnish or give away any intoxicating liquors to be used as a beverage, or to keep a place where such liquors are kept for sale, given away, or furnished for beverage purposes.

Violators of the law shall be "guilty of a misdemeanor and shall, on conviction thereof, be fined not more than two hundred dollars nor less than fifty dollars for the first offense and shall for any subsequent offense be fined not more than five hundred dollars, nor less than one hundred dollars and be imprisoned not more than one year nor less than six months."

A vote may be taken every two years and if the majority vote "wet" exisiting conditions are not changed.

Yours truly,
CLARENCE B. LA RUE,
Secretary of Local Option League of New Jersey.

TO AID TAX COMMISSIONERS.

The New Jersey State Tax Commission, Major Carl Lentz, Charles C. Black, E. Ambler Armstrong, Theodore Simonson and Henry J. Irick, hearing appeals of railroads on shore front valuations in Jersey City, has adjourned to meet again in the City Hall, that city, on Tuesday, August 6.

The railroads are appealing from the valuation of $47,000,000 fixed on their short front property in 1906 by the local board of assessors. This valuation was raised from $23,000,000.

Before the State board holds its meeting in the City Hall next Tuesday an inspection tour of the shore front property will be made by water along the docks. On Wednesday a land side tour will be made in automobiles. The railroad companies will arrange for the shore front tour, while Corporation Counsel Record, of Jersey City, will attend to the land tour. The railroads have promised to provide refreshments and cigars for the commissioners.

KIDNAPPING CRY AROUSES CROWD AT BAYONNE.

'Twas False One and Impatient Husband Caused All Excitement.

The lower end of Bayonne, N. J., was greatly excited early Thursday morning when the cry went up that a baby had been kidnapped. A score of excited women and 150 men, including the members of Company A, Fourth Regiment, National Guard of Jersey City, searched for an hour for the supposed kidnapper.

Mr. and Mrs. John Newell, of No. 16 Cottage street, attended a theatre on First street. They took along their baby and go-cart. After the show Mrs. Newell felt hungry and went into a restaurant to get something to eat. Her husband said he would wait outside with the baby and he wheeled the youngster up and down the sidewalk.

He became impatient after half an hour and concluded to go home without his wife and go-cart; so he took the baby from the vehicle and started for home. He hadn't been gone long when his wife came from the restaurant.

When she saw the empty go-cart she shouted, "My baby has been kidnapped. Oh, help me find it."

It took only a few minutes for a crowd to assemble. The guardsmen had been to a reunion dinner at one of the shore houses and joined in the chase. A small boy said he had seen a man carrying a baby run into a clump of woods back of the theatre and the men and women searched the woods for an hour while Mrs. Newell wrung her hands and cried.

When the search was given up she hurried home to tell her husband that their child was gone. The baby was sleeping peacefully and Newell was wondering what was keeping away his wife. He assured her the baby was safe.

ELOPED WITH HER SISTER'S HUSBAND.

Fleeing Pair Caught in Buffalo—Woman's Husband Says They Stole $1,400.

Maria Ambrosia, thirty-five years old, and her sister's husband, Antonio Miro, nineteen years old, eloped last Tuesday from No. 376 Sheffield avenue, Brooklyn, where both lived. They were arrested yesterday in Buffalo, and Maria's husband, Giuseppe, a contractor, in the afternoon swore to a complaint charging the couple with stealing from him $1,400 and clothing and silverware worth $100.

The contractor had decided to buy a house and lot at Glenmore and Sheffield avenues. He drew $1,400 from a bank, last Monday and placed it in a bureau drawer, intending to make a payment Tuesday on his purchase. He had full confidence in his wife, whose sister, Luisa, two weeks ago was married to Miro.

Ambroisa went early Tuesday to attend to some business. When he returned his little sons told him that their mother and Miro took the money, packed two trunks, which an expressman carried away, and went off together.

The police learned that the trunks had been shipped to Buffalo and were at an express office there. The Buffalo police watched the trunks, and when Mrs. Ambroisa and Antonio called for them they were arrested.

The prisoners will be brought to Brooklyn.

FINDS INNS ALL RIGHT.

Will So Report on the 54 Complained of by Union Grand Jury.

The fifty-four inns and taverns in Elizabeth which, in a recent communication from Mayor Fisk, of this city, to Mayor Ryan, of that place, were declared by the Grand Jury to be holding licenses contrary to law, have been found, after a careful examination, to be complying with all legal requirements, with two or three exceptions. This was the statement made by the president of the Elizabeth Excise Board, John Keron, on Wednesday, and he will so report to the Board today.

Some action will probably follow against the few places where the law is being violated in the required accommodations for guests not being provided.

"First National at Whitehouse."

Whitehouse, August 3.—An effort is being made to organize a national bank in this place and the First National Bank of Whitehouse now seems an assured institution. A meeting was held Wednesday night in Hoffman's hall for the purpose of discussing the matter and many leading citizens and business men have become interested. George H. Dalley was chosen chairman and Jacob H. Dalits secretary of the meeting. W. A. Schumacher, of New York, who is interested in a number of large banks, was present and gave valuable information on the subject. The capital stock will perhaps exceed the required sum of $25,000. Another meeting will be held tonight at the same place, when further progress will be made. The banks nearest to Whitehouse are those at Flemington, Clinton, Somerville and High Bridge, and the people of this section have for a long time had the advisability of organizing a bank here under consideration.

STORIES OF THE SECRET SERVICE

BY CAPTAIN PATRICK D. TYRRELL.

THE LINCOLN TOMB ROBBERS

Being an Account of the Attempted Desecration of the Grave of the Martyr President at Springfield in 1876, and the Capture and Conviction of a Gang of Counterfeiters That Preceded It.

By CAPTAIN PATRICK D. TYRRELL

[Copyright, 1906, by Marion G. Scheitlin.]

PART I.

Previously Charles Stadtfeldt, in the role of a St. Louis drummer, had moved to Centralia and rented a house. These facts, of course, established Centralia as the next base of operations of Driggs and the Stadtfeldts, and for the time there was no move to be made on the part of the government but to keep the prey constantly under its eye. For that purpose I sent my assistants to Centralia.

Before leaving Clinton, Driggs had packed and left for shipment by freight three large boxes and three trunks in the freighthouse at Clinton. After his departure, and late at night, entrance to the freighthouse was gained, the Driggs packages searched, and a complete outfit of presses for printing counterfeit money, inks, papers and minor materials was found. The things were all carefully repacked and the boxes closed, as they had been originally. No attempt was made to stop the shipment of the incriminating money and materials, for any delay in its arrival at Centralia would have been certain to cause inquiry and perhaps alarm on the part of Driggs.

While these events were transpiring Boyd had been preparing to vacate his old stone residence on the bank of the Mississippi and to take his flight to some point unknown to me, where he undoubtedly intended to settle down to a task of plate-cutting in seclusion and far from his partners. In short, there was every indication that the next few months were to be a period of great activity on the part of the gang, if not molested by Uncle Sam.

It was on September 20 that Boyd shipped his household effects to Fulton, Ill., and, with his wife, went there to live till the work he had on hand was done. Both Driggs in Centralia and Boyd in Fulton soon had neighbors of whom they knew nothing but who watched their every move with more interest than even prying neighbors are wont to manifest.

During the eight months that the hide-and-seek game had been going on between the secret service men and this precious lot of criminals daily reports had been forwarded to Washington, as is customary in the department. In these reports the various actors in the play were given fictitious names and, had the reports fallen into the hands of confederates of the counterfeiters, they would have learned little from them. With Driggs settled with the Stadtfeldts in Centralia and Boyd hard at his nefarious work in Fulton I believed the time at hand to close this scene of the play.

My report of the situation brought on from Washington Chief Washburn, Assistant Chief Brooks, E. G. Rathbone, John McDonald and an operative named Hurr, all of the secret service division of the United States treasury department. I had arranged for a conference at Lyons, Ia., where, with Chief Washburn, I went over the details of the situation and outlined my plans for the capture. This meeting at Lyons was secret and we were extremely careful not to be seen talking together or even acknowledging any acquaintance. In a secluded spot on the river bank we talked the matter over and decided to make the arrests on the morning of October 21 at nine o'clock.

Chief Washburn had lived in Centralia and knew the city well, so it was decided that he should lead the raid on the Driggs nest. I had carefully reconnoitered the Boyd residence, which he had rented under the name of B. F. Wilson. It was a large, two-story frame structure in Prairie street, standing under the brow of a bluff and easy of surveillance from the high ground above it. The hour of nine was chosen because, from my knowledge of Boyd's habits, I knew he would have had his breakfast and been at work by that time, provided the day was bright. Had it been cloudy the raid would have been postponed, because on a dark day Boyd would not have been engaged in cutting plates on account of poor light. Even with the best machinery this class of work requires a peculiar, bright light, which is obtained by reflection from white screens, and it was reasonably certain that Boyd, with his crude apparatus, could not work to advantage on a dark day.

It was also arranged that Chief Washburn should not make the raid on the Driggs house until he heard by telegraph from me that I had secured Boyd. In order to prevent any possibility of a slip by which Driggs might be allowed to escape it was necessary for me to get a secret message to my chief. Even the complicated cipher ordinarily used in the service would not serve the purpose, as it might arouse the curiosity of the operator at Fulton or Centralia and lead to disclosure of our plans. It was therefore arranged that as soon as I had secured Boyd I should send the following message to Washburn:

"The captain has arrived with the barges."

With the details clearly settled Chief Washburn left for Centralia, leaving Brooks, who was afterward chief of the secret service, and McDonald to aid me. With these two I went over the plan of capture, always exercising the greatest caution that no one should learn of the connection between us. To the world we were strangers up to the time we met Boyd's house. Fate favored us in the matter of weather. The day was bright—an ideal one for an engraver of plates—and I felt that nothing could prevent us from catching Ben Boyd "dead to rights." I was to lead, entering the yard by the front gate and going around to the rear of the house. Brooks was to follow 20 feet behind; while McDonald, 100 feet behind Brooks, was to make his way direct to the front door. By this plan I designed to have each man at the right place at exactly the right time.

I found the back door open and entered. No sooner had I stepped over the threshold than Mrs. Boyd, her dark eyes blazing, sprang fiercely at me and grasped me by the coat collar.

"Leave this room instantly," she screamed, at the same time tugging me toward the door with the unnatural strength born of frenzied fear. I grappled with her and had her fairly subdued by physical power when Brooks stepped in and took her in custody. We had known that Boyd did his work in a room on the second floor, and I started up the stairs. When half way up I met Boyd, in his shirt sleeves, descending.

"Who are you?" he demanded.

"Tyrrell, of the secret service," I answered, "and you are my prisoner."

"I have heard of you," he said.

Great beads of perspiration started from his face, and he became limp as I placed the handcuffs on him. Strong man as he was, he displayed none of the ferocity of his frail wife, who, in the meantime, had stood, sullen and apparently looking for a chance of escape, in the kitchen. A six-hour search of the house followed the arrest. With Brooks and McDonald in charge of the prisoners I undertook the search, after telegraphing Chief Washburn.

In a loose board in a box in the front room upstairs I found a cleverly mortised cavity containing the plate of the reverse side of the counterfeit $20 note of the State Bank of Ohio, a note that had been extensively shoved by the "coney men," as well as the plate of a $20 counterfeit bill of the First national bank, of Dayton, O. Mortised into the woodwork of an upholstered ottoman in the parlor were the plates for the $100 "Lincoln head" treasury note, the concealment in each case being so cleverly accomplished that it required the smashing of the wood almost into splinters to find the plates. In the cleat on another box was found $7,853 in good currency; while wrapped in some old clothes under a bed were found seven sets of blank plates, one set being of the size used in the counterfeiting of United States bonds. The counterfeiter's workroom showed him to have been engaged in plate cutting at the time we entered the house. It was learned later that Boyd had set a price of $6,000 on the "Lincoln head" plate.

burn and his men moved on the Driggs house in First North street, Centralia, and arrested Nicholas and Barbara Stadtfeldt, Mrs. Nelson Driggs, their daughter, and Charles Stadtfeldt, their son. Driggs, the big prize, was not in the house, but was arrested the same day by Chief Washburn two miles south of Odin, Ill., in company with Nicholas Korn, a nephew of Mrs. Driggs, on whose person was found a large sum of counterfeit money. The day following counterfeit money representing $117,437 was found hidden in the heavy woods seven miles north of Centralia, where Driggs had concealed it just before being taken into custody.

Ben Boyd was tried before Judge Blodgett in the United States district court, in Chicago, and was defended by Judge Tuley. He was sentenced to ten years in the Joliet penitentiary. Driggs was tried in Springfield before Judge Treat and was sentenced to 15 years in the penitentiary. The counterfeiters' wives were released; Charles Stadtfeldt received an eight-year sentence, Nicholas Lange, a helper on the printing press, was sentenced to four years, and old man Stadtfeldt was released. The "backbone of counterfeiting" in the country was broken.

PART II.

In order to give the actors in the Lincoln tomb robbing plot their proper places before my readers it will be necessary again to wander briefly from the straight path of my story. In the early '70's it was as easy for a secret service operative to find traces of counterfeiters as it is for a fisherman to get a bite in a Wisconsin fish lake. It was sometimes as difficult to land the "koniacker" as it is for the fisherman to land his bass; but the central west teemed with "coney men," more or less known to the secret service. The custom of intermarriage among counterfeiting families had bound a large number of the most proficient criminals in this line into a league cemented not only by a common purpose and common danger, but by ties of consanguinity. I have told how Pete McCartney married Martha Ann Ackerman, the daughter of an accomplished pair of counterfeiters, and herself an expert. Ben Boyd had married Mrs. McCartney's sister, Almiranda, also proficient in the printing of bogus currency. The mother of the Ackerman girls, after the death of her first husband, married another counterfeiter, John B. Trout, a desperate "coney man," who at one time was the terror of the secret service men operating in the Mississippi valley. It will be remembered that Nelson Driggs married Gertrude Stadtfeldt, whose father, mother, brother, sister and nephew were all counterfeiters, and who herself was a valuable assistant to her husband.

These marriages are mentioned to set forth the closeness of the ties binding the different bands which, in effect, were one band. There were many other such marriages, but reference to these will suffice.

Besides this bond of intermarriage there was a strong property tie connecting the counterfeiting principals. Nelson Driggs, whose brother kept a hotel in Jersey City which was a rendezvous for "coney men," had $40,000 in cash, 28,000 acres of land in Texas and other property. Ben Boyd had means in plenty, as did McCartney and several others. They were men of good habits in point of abstemiousness, and many of them lived Jekyll and Hyde lives with such success that in their respective communities they were respected members of society while making and shoving the "queer." Many of them were men of education. Boyd had a magnificent library and was a student. Few of them, during the reputable periods of their careers, engaged in business that was not honorable, among them being farmers, contractors, professional men and an editor.

To this rule, however, there were two or three exceptions. One of these was James Kinealy, who, at the time of this narrative, kept the "Hub" saloon at 294 West Madison street, Chicago, with Terrence Mullen as a partner. Both Kinealy and Mullen had for years held close communion with the counterfeiters of the central west, and their saloon, while orderly enough, was the general Chicago rendezvous of dozens of the most desperate and accomplished counterfeiters in the country. In St. Louis a saloon of similar character was run by Fred Biebusch, one of the most extensive dealers in bogus currency in the world, of whose career and final capture I shall tell in a subsequent narrative.

The same men that frequented the "Hub" in Chicago were at home in Biebusch's in St. Louis. The halfway station was the saloon in Lincoln, Ill., kept by Robert Splane, a headquarters for the large band of "koniackers" that lived in and near Lincoln at that time. The principal members of the Lincoln band were Benjamin T. Sheridan, farm owner; James L. Fox, Sr. and Jr., contractors; Joseph de Haven, farmer; Thomas J. Sharp, editor of the Statesman, published in Lincoln; Nathan L. Curtis, Sharp's outside man; Robert Splane, saloon keeper, and Vine G. Williams, a bartender. All of these men were intimately associated with Kinealy and Mullen in Chicago and Biebusch in St. Louis, as well as with Nelson Driggs, Ben Boyd, Pete McCartney and many other somewhat less prominent. Another member of the band was John Hughes, an all-around criminal and boodle carrier for Charles Stadtfeldt while the latter was shoving the "queer" made from Boyd's plates.

The incarceration of Ben Boyd in the penitentiary had seriously crippled the counterfeiting industry of the country, and especially among the devotees of the calling who were operating in Illinois. Nearly all the bogus currency shoved in the middle west had been printed from Boyd's plates and handled by Driggs. During the winter of 1875-76, when it became apparent that the evidence against these two arch-conspirators was sufficient to bring about their incarceration, there began a series of conferences of the "koniackers" in Chicago, St. Louis and Lincoln, at which was discussed the prospective serious effect on the counterfeiting business of the locking up of its best plate cutter. The different bands which had been fed from the Boyd plates became more desperate as the cutting off of their source of supply became more certain, and when, finally, Boyd passed behind the gray stone walls of the Joliet penitentiary there was much wailing and gnashing of teeth among the precious lot of criminals that infested the Mississippi valley.

To add to their woes, eight months after the capture of Boyd in Fulton, Irvine White, another expert engraver of counterfeit plates, had been arrested in New Jersey, stopping this secondary source of supply. The dealers of Chicago, St. Louis and Lincoln could, therefore, secure no "coney" money worth the handling, and the smaller dealers, from the Canadian line to the gulf of Mexico, were sending in orders for bad money that could not be filled. The only plate available for use at the time was the one of a $10 note of the Bank of Richmond, Ind. This was what was known as a skeleton plate—that is, so made that the part bearing the name of the bank was mortised in, allowing the insertion of the name of another bank, the rest of the note being the same. Counterfeits of the Lafayette and Muncie, Ind., banks had been printed from this plate, but this counterfeit had become worthless on account of the worn condition of the plate. The Richmond "10s" were so well known as to be practically unpassable.

Peter McCartney was at large, but was not inclined to divide the fruits of his labors with the Lincoln crowd. Charles F. Ulrich, another cutter, had been released from the Ohio penitentiary, but his release was not generally known and he was not disposed immediately to resume operations. With a knowledge of these facts it can readily be understood why the straits to which the counterfeiters were reduced were desperate. The release of Boyd was an absolute necessity, to be accomplished at any cost.

For months the members of this most cunning and desperate band had been whipping their brains for feasible plans to effect the release of their pal. None that passed muster in the criminal council had been suggested. The secret service, knowing that every energy of the criminals would be strained to free Boyd, but having no knowledge of the plans suggested, worked diligently to enmesh the known members at large on counterfeiting charges and in so doing made a special effort to trap John Hughes, who for a dozen years had successfully passed and dealt in counterfeit money, besides taking side excursions into other paths of crime. Sufficient evidence against Hughes had been gathered to secure an indictment by the federal grand jury in 1874, but for a year and a half he had eluded the shrewdest men in the secret service.

At that time I often secured information from a man named Lewis C Swegles. He was what we then termed a "roper" or stool pigeon. Swegles was the son of the first auditor of the state of Michigan—the black sheep in a fine family—but a man who had been of considerable value to the secret service on account of his intimacy with criminals.

I had been working to locate Hughes, but had been unsuccessful until August, 1876, when Swegles informed me of his whereabouts. Starting with the information given by Swegles, I soon found and arrested Hughes in the "Hub" saloon at 294 West Madison street, previously mentioned as having been kept by Jim Kinealy and Terry Mullen. Hughes was arraigned and deposited $2,000 to secure his appearance for trial the following January.

In the meantime Swegles, whose identity and connection with the secret service was a most carefully guarded secret, was working to ingratiate himself into the confidence of the counterfeiting band that made its headquarters at the "Hub" while in Chicago. He confided to Hughes that he had served time in a western prison for horse stealing, but that he was anxious to forsake the crudities of horse stealing and other common lines of crime for the refinements of dealing in counterfeit money. Swegles, by clever dissembling, was successful in convincing Hughes that he was promising material for an addition to the ranks of the "coney men."

I was fully aware that Swegles was working to win the confidence of the counterfeiters that met at the "Hub," but it was about two months before I had any other communication from my "roper" that was of importance. He then confided to me that the band had under way a sensational plot—not along counterfeiting lines—but to steal the body of Abraham Lincoln and hold it for a large ransom. Accustomed as I was to the daring operations of these men, the audacity of this plot startled me. Swegles mentioned $200,000 as the amount the conspirators had fixed as the price of the return of the body. For a time I found it difficult to convince myself that these men, cunning and daredevil as they had proved themselves to be in other crimes, would actually attempt to carry out a plot so bold and which struck so deeply at the roots of one of the country's deepest sentiments—its love for Lincoln and its reverence for all of him that was earthly.

READY FOR THE OPENING

New Plainfield Theatre Will Begin Third Season in Improved Form.

"THE HOUSE BEAUTIFUL"

Many Important Interior Changes—Fine Line of Attractions Booked for 1907-8.

Though it will require the next few days to apply the finishing touches, the work of re-decorating and refurnishing the interior of the New Plainfield theatre, which has been in progress all summer, is practically completed and ready for the opening on Saturday. When the audience assembles for the first performance of the third season of the handsome playhouse, the patrons who knew it before will find an entire change. No expense has been spared in providing every possible comfort and adding surroundings that are sure to be a delight to the eye. Without stealing any thunder from the New Amsterdam, it can truthfully be called "The House Beautiful."

As soon as the doors closed last June, Manager Counihan placed the theatre in the hands of contractors and they have had it ever since. The most important task of the lot was the decorating of the auditorium and this has been accomplished with splendid results. The color scheme is now light green and red, an exceptionally strong and resting effect having been produced. The side walls have all been treated in this way, set off by white enamel and terra cotta work, while directly above the orchestra proper a soft buff has been used.

Terra cotta and gold work abounds about the boxes and over each set of three is a panel in water colors. They attract the attention of the observer at first entrance and lead the eye to another panel extending the full width of the house and adjoining the proscenium arch. This will prove one of he features of the interior, and represents a large outlay in itself. The panel is the work of Gates & Moran, of New York, scenic painters of wide prominence, and reveals an allegorical subject. The boxes have also been made resplendent in new plush draperies and fancy railings of a special design.

The orchestra pit has been provided with new railings and velvet hangings and brass railings extend up either stairway in the rear of the house. New carpet of green velvet has replaced the former floor covering in orchestra and balcony and an additional exit cut into the east wall of the orchestra will provide increased safety and ventilation.

The changes on the stage proper have also been extensive. The former drop and asbestos curtains have been removed and new ones are now in position. Both were provided by the Imperial Curtain Company, of Philadelphia, and the drop curtain will compare favorably with any in New York. The center is graced by a colonial hunting scene in water colors and harmonizing gold work surrounds it. New sets of scenery, borders and side wings have been hung and every convenience is waiting for the occupants of the dressing rooms.

To insure proper heating in cold weather, Manager Counihan has had an entirely new steam plant installed. A high pressure boiler was put in the basement and coils of pipes run from it to every part of the house. The stage itself is entirely surrounded by them and they will prevent the annoynace of cold air rushing out when the curtain is raised. It required two weeks to get the boiler in position and a section of the west wall of the theatre had to be cut away in order to shove it through.

The lobby of the house has been re-decorated and an ornate chandelier hangs from the centre. Outside on Second street, two large arc lights, similar to those in front of the Casino, New York, have been erected and with the electric sign already in position, will make the entrance as bright as day at the night performances. It would be hard to find anything undone that would improve the house and Manager Counihan is sure of a favorable verdict when the people see it.

"The Vanderbilt Cup," with a splendid company, is to be the initial 1907-8 attraction and it will be followed by many big productions. Among them can be mentioned "Just Out of College," "Little Johnny Jones," "The College Widow," York and Adams in their new musical comedy, "Playing the Ponies," Hattie Williams in "The Little Cherub," "The Lion and the Mouse," "The Man of the Hour," "The Chorus Lady" and many others equally well known.

COMPANY K RETURNS AFTER WEEK IN CAMP

LAST DAY AT SEA GIRT WAS LIVELIEST OF ALL.

The members of Co. K arrived home from State Camp at Sea Girt, Saturday afternoon, about 5:30 o'clock, a tired, but happy looking lot of soldier boys. They all declare that the past week in camp was the best ever, and that they would like to stay longer.

The local company carried off the honors this year for in addition to winning the Williams trophy, it secured 100 per cent. for attendance at the annual inspection and muster on Friday. Every member, fifty-six, was in line and made a good showing. This is not only gratifying to the new officers, but the privates as well, and the regimental officers are much pleased over the showing made by Co. K in camp.

The last day in camp was a merry one for all the boys. It was like circus day. Every member had his individual part to play in the fun-making and no one escaped.

Fred C. Sutro, of Bernardsville, introduced the resolution, which was immediately seconded by a number of members, among them Walter C. Linbarger, of North Plainfield. It was carried unanimously. Mr. Linbarger was the only North Plainfielder present at the meeting.

Several rules governing the county convention were passed. A date for the convention was not set.

MISS PETERSON'S FUNERAL.

Victim of Drowning Accident Will Be Buried Tomorrow.

The funeral of Miss Laura Peterson, one of the three victims in the drowning accident at Boynton Beach, Friday, will be held in the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church tomorrow afternoon, at 2.30. The burial will be in the Methodist cemetery on Plainfield avenue.

The condition of Miss Iva Henry, who was in the party of four thrown into the water by the upsetting of a row boat and was saved by Plainfielders, was reported today as being improved. When first brought to her home on West Third street, it was thought she would not live more than a few hours but she took a change for the better Saturday night and is now on the road to recovery. Hudson Peterson, brother of Laura Peterson, injured in a fall from a trolley car while returning home with the news of his sister's death, is also resting easily.

Mrs. Moore's Funeral.

The funeral service of Mrs. Sarah Moore was held Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the late home on East Second street. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends. Rev. Arthur Searing Peck, rector of St. Stephen's church, officiated. The burial was in Hillside cemetery.

MRS. PETTIFORD WON'T PUT UP WITH SAM NO MORE

BEING AS SHE HAS TO BE MAN AND WOMAN BOTH AROUND THE HOUSE.

Sam Pettiford's wife gave him his walking papers in the city court this morning. She said she was tired of his goings-on, and when it was time to go to the trouble of having him arrested and all that, it was time she put a stop to it. She said further that if she had to be father and mother both to the children, she would be father and mother without having no man around the house. Especially a man like Sam was, which she didn't deserve, as she could prove amongst white and colored both.

Sam came home, which is 316 Fillmore avenue, last night, with the drink in him, and started raring and picking on Mrs. Pettiford right away. He didn't actually hit her, which she wouldn't say he had, but he made threats and there was no telling what he would have done if the police hadn't got him. Anyway, it was time to end up all this sort of thing, and she told Sam, right free and in good will, that he warn't wanted around the house no more. If she was to be man and woman around the house, Mrs. Pettiford said, right emphatic, why, man and woman she would be, but without no useless man hanging around. She could take care of the children, being as how that was what she always did do. Father and mother she's been to them, and sorry she was to have to say it.

Sam looked pleading-like at Mrs. Pettiford, but she didn't have no answering look for Sam, unless you can call a shake of the head and one of them quick, peppery sniffs a look. Sam said he paid the rent sometimes, and they could write to Mr. Guttridge about it. Mrs. Pettiford said she paid the rent all the time, and she wouldn't write to Mr. Guttridge. This here matter was between her and Sam and Mr. Guttridge wasn't in it nohow.

Judge Runyon guessed Sam hadn't been a very good husband. Sam said yes he had, but sort of doubtful-like, as if he didn't just feel ready to argue about it. The Judge told Sam he'd better get his clothes and try living away from home for a month. The Judge said Sam would probably appreciate home better, and Mrs. Pettiford might take another view of things, (no, never, said Mrs. Pettiford, very positive) and the thing might be straightened out. Sam agreed to try single life for a while, and went up to the house to get his clothes.

AT FRESH AIR CAMP.

Christian Endeavorers and Epworth Leaguers in Charge of Meeting.

The service at the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp yesterday afternoon was in charge of the Christian Endeavor and Epworth League Union, of Elizabeth. Rev. William B. Hamilton, pastor of Hope chapel, Elizabeth, was the leader. Everyone who took part in the service was a member either of the Christian Endeavor Society or of the Epworth League.

Mr. Hamilton gave an interesting talk on "What the Ribbons Mean," illustrating it with ribbons of various colors. The helpful lessons he drew held the close attention of the children.

Solos were sung by Mrs. G. M. Seaton. Miss Augusta Hooker was at the organ, and a chorus choir swelled the music.

Summer Hotel Ball Player.

Taylor Mehaffey, third baseman of the Scotch Plains team, will play the rest of the season with the Ampersand team at Saranac Lake, N. Y. The Ampersand is one of the summer hotel teams that keeps the vacationists amused. It is a fast aggregation, and hustling to the front of the particular little league wherein it shines. Mehaffey will leave for Saranac today. He is a player of the strenuous and earnest kind that pleases the fans, and he will probably make a great hit.

Netherwood Camp Leaders.

The leaders at the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp meetings this week will be Christopher Knapp, of Albany, N. Y., tonight and tomorrow night; and Philip Suffern, of this city, on Thursday night. The meeting next Sunday afternoon will be conducted by Rev. F. H. Jacobs, the evangelist and singer. He will speak and sing. A chorus choir will assist in the singing.

Marchant Brothers Move.

Marchant Brothers have moved their milk and cream business from 327 Watchung avenue to the new building at 112 Watchung avenue, where they have every convenience for selling dairy products.

—Among the assortment of fruits at Neuman Brothers store today are peaches, pineapples, oranges, new apples, huckleberries, blackberries and red raspberries. All received this morning.

MARTINE BOOM STILL ON

No Reason to Think That the Movement Has Come to an End.

INFLUENCE IS AT WORK

Its Effect Will Be Shown at the Proper Time, Say Those Who Have Kept In Touch With Affairs.

James E. Martine's boom for governor is not dead, as some people have been thinking, hoping, or reporting, according to their natures and the section in which they move and have their being. When questioned as to the Martine boom those who have kept in touch with developments assert that there is no reason to believe the movement has been abandoned.

"Simply because there are no surface indications of activity," said a prominent Democrat this morning, "it must not be taken for granted that the Martine boom has collapsed, and when the time arrives for a demonstration by those who have pinned their faith to 'the Peerless One,' there will be no scarcity of influence."

Inside of two weeks the air will be full of booms, and with opinions as to Gubernatorial possibilities so widely scattered the political field should present many features of a massed start by the aerio club. Any county advantage in the start will no doubt be brought to light at the county committee meeting tomorrow night, and the boom launching may then be discussed more definitely.

Blanks to be filled in with the names of election officers for the different districts have been distributed, and they will be turned in at tomorrow night's meeting. To conform with the law all names of election officers must be turned in at this meeting, and members who are unable to attend the session may forward their blanks by mail to Secretary Fred Zior, 57 Murray street, Elizabeth.

This year the first day of registry will be Tuesday, September 10, and the law provides that all certificates of nomination be filed at least ten days before the primary election day. According to the regulation all certificates must be filed on or before August 31. At the meeting tomorrow evening blank certificates will be supplied for the members in order that there need be no delay in preparing them.

It is announced that an expression of opinion as to the Gubernatorial nomination will also be secured at this meeting, and on the whole there seems to be ample justification for keeping an ear to the political trail from now on.

Neighbors Arrested.

Isaac Bender and Joe Ferdio, who live in the same house on Somerset street, near the police station, were arrested yesterday morning by Chief Marshal George Weiss, for disturbing the peace by quarreling. They have been at loggerheads, the police say, for a month, and the chief, hearing them exchanging unpleasantries, decided it was time to bring the affair to a halt. Bender was fined $3 by Recorder Dolliver this morning. Ferdio will be arraigned tonight.

AwaitingExtradition.

June Alston, the colored young man arrested Saturday by the local police on a charge of murder sworn out against him in Warren county, North Carolina, is being held to await extradition. It was said at police headquarters this morning that the North Carolina authorities had hardly had time yet for action. Alston has made no addition to the statement volunteered at the time of his arrest.

Coney Island Jag.

Edward Burnett, of Watchung, arrested last night on Somerset street, for drunkenness was fined $2 by Recorder Dolliver in the North Plainfield borough court this morning. He said he spent the day at Coney Island, and the presumption is that his drunkenness was gathered by the sea and not through a breach of the Bishops law.

Chimney Fire Calls Out Department

A chimney fire at the home of Edward M. Van Buren, 810 Central avenue, called out No. 2 hose wagon, early this morning, in response to a telephone call. The damage was very slight, and the fire was practically extinguished by the time the apparatus arrived.

—There will be an entertainment under the auspices of the Diamond Star Brass Band, of this city, and the Eureka Cornet Band, of Elizabeth, Thursday night, August 8, for the benefit of the band, at the Plainfield Dancing Academy on West Front street. There will be music by Prof. Forter's full orchestra, of Elizabeth.

SCOTCH PLAINS BAPTIST CHURCH 160 YEARS OLD

HISTORICAL SKETCH BY PASTOR MARKS ANNIVERSARY OBSERVANCE.

The one hundred and sixtieth anniversary of the Scotch Plains Baptist church was observed simply yesterday morning. In place of the sermon, Rev. T. Moore Smith, the pastor, gave a historical sketch. The service was attended by many from out of town, chiefly those whose families had been identified with the church and its work in the past.

In his remarks, Rev. T. Moore Smith said many changes had taken place since William Darby, Recompense Stanbery, John Lambert, John Dennis, John Stanbery, Henry Crosby, John Sutton, Jr., Isaac Manning, Mary Brodwell, Mary Green, Mary Demis, Tabitha Sutton, Catherine Manning, Sarah DeCamp, and Sarah Perce received their letters from the mother church at Piscataway, and under the guiding hand of Rev. Benjamin Miller organized the Scotch Plains Baptist church. At that time, during the early struggle, when it took real, earnest Christians to bear the burdens of the church, none knew that the work and its influence was to be so richly blessed and far-reaching.

The small band was scattered, the members being obliged to come from miles around to attend the service on the Lord's Day. In order that all could enjoy the full benefit of the day, two services were held, with an intermission between, during which time the members would adjourn to the home of Brother Recompense Stanbery or the midday meal. The entire region at that time was sparsely settled and still under the dominion of Great Britain, and was known as the Province of East Jersey. Sunday was the one day in the week when the residents could get together for greeting and social chat. However, the work prospered, and in the years following the church which had been a struggling hard at first, became the mother church of the First Baptist Church of New York city, later the Mt. Bethel church was started, then Lyons Farms, followed by the Baptist church at Mays Lick, Ky. During the 160 years, fourteen pastors have ministered to the members, and of these four are still engaged in the work. They are Rev. Joseph C. Buchanan, Rev. James S. Braker, Rev. G. M. Shott and the present pastor, Rev. T. Moore-Smith. Those who have been called to their reward are Rev. Benjamin Miller, William Van Horn, Thomas Brown, John Rogers, John Wivell, Joshua Rue, James F. Brown, William Luke Uriah B. Guiscard, and James H. Parks.

There was a large attendance of relatives and friends, including about seventy-five members of the Plumbers' Union, Court Plainfield, No. 44, I. O. O. F., Division No. 4, Ancient Order Hibernians, and Central Lodge, No. 48, A. O. U. W., at the funeral of James Fosbre held at 9 o'clock this morning in St. Mary's church. There was also beautiful floral tributes from the relatives and different societies, of which Mr. Fosbre was a member.

Father Delehanty was the celebrant of the solemn requiem mass. The following were pall-bearers: Louis Feiring, James Deady, J. J. Gallagher, W. B. Smith, J. J. Leahy and Patrick Harrington. The burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Hawkins is the man who was arrested a week ago Saturday and who got a thumping from his cell mate because he insisted on singing.

TAX ASSESSORS SUBMIT THEIR BOOKS TOMORROW

PROBABLE RATE IN PLAINFIELD A MATTER OF SPECULATION.

All of the tax assessors from Union county will appear at Elizabeth tomorrow before the Union County Board of Taxation, for the purpose of presenting their books. The Plainfield Board of Assessors is ready to make its report, but the members refuse to state beforehand the total real and personal valuation determined upon. They say that it was agreed upon at a meeting of the board not to give out any figures until after a report is made to the county board.

Plainfield's total valuation last year was $20,963,975, and when one of the assessors was asked if this would be increased by one-third, he laughed, and said that he wished he could see it that way. There will be a substantial increase in the valuations, no doubt, but many persons who have made a study of the subject seem to think that the city tax rate for the coming year will be close to $1.50, while others believe it will not be as much as that.

"MARTY" O'LOUGHLIN PLAYING GREAT GOLF

BREAKS DUNWOODIE COURSE RECORD IN A TEAM MATCH.

"Marty" O'Loughlin, the Plainfield "pro" and John Duff, the veteran player from the VanCortlandt Park Golf Club, were victorious yesterday in their match game of golf with Gillman P. Tiffany, who won the amateur championship at VanCortlandt Park, last week, defeating among others, Jerome D. Travers; and Perry Watson, the amateur champion at Dunwoodie. The match was played at Dunwoodie and the winning pair allowed their opponents four strokes. The match ended with Duff and O'Loughlin 5 up.

Besides winning his match, "Marty" broke the record for the Dunwoodie course held by John Mackie, a brother of Isaac Mackie. The record for the course was 78, made twice by Mackie. "Marty" made a 76 each trip over the eighteen hole course. He was stronger on his drives than ever and showed great improvement in putting. Tiffany and Watson had the opposing pair 5 down on the first six holes, but "Marty" and his partner played a steady consistent game throughout. The Plainfield lad trimed bogey coming home on one round by making a 38 against 42 for the "colonel."

On Thursday, Tracy Smith, the best amateur from the New Brunswick Golf Club, will meet "Marty" on the Plainfield Country Club, and a return match will be played at New Brunswick on Sunday. A week from Sunday the Plainfield lad and Duff will again meet Tiffany and Watson at Dunwoodie.

Preparing for Football.

The Plainfield Association Football Club will begin training for the coming season tonight on their grounds on Clinton avenue. The prospects are bright for a first class team here next fall. On Saturday, August 17, the club goes to Sulzer's Park, Westchester, to compete in an athletic tournament, and it is predicted that several prizes will come to Plainfield.

Somersets Again Victorious.

The baseball team from Somerset Council, No. 104, Jr. O. U. A. M., defeated the team from Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., on the Clinton Avenue grounds, Saturday afternoon by a score of 22 to 16. A week ago Somerset defeated Franklin by a score of 11 to 5. The contest furnished lots of fun for the players and spectators, there being an abundance of errors.

Independent A. C. Wins.

The Independent Athletic Club defeated the Crescent Athletic Club, Saturday afternoon, by a score of 16 to 15. There was plenty of hitting on both sides and some sensational fielding. Slocum, Clarke and Rogers formed the battery for the winning team, while Mullen and Clark were in the points for the Crescent A. C.

Hope Chapel Team Wins.

The Hope Chapel Boys' Club defeated Lincoln A. C., on Hope Common, Saturday afternoon by a score of 7 to 2. The home team was stronger in the field and at the bat than its opponents and at once time it looked like a shut out for the visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hand and family, of Fairview avenue, left today for Monticello, N. Y., where they will remain for the balance of the summer.

THE PAVING BIDS TONIGHT

Probability that They Will Be High Because of Advance in the Price of Material.

BRICK IS $19 PER 1,000

Merchants Begin Agitation for Uniform Sidewalks in Connection With Street Work.

Owing to the steady advance in the price of pipe and material in general, it is expected that the bids to be received at the August meeting of the Common Council, tonight, for brick paving, will be high. In April quotations of $16.75 per thousand for first quality vitrified brick were received by City Engineer Garrett, and today the same company is asking $19 per thousand. This increase is also partly due to the jump in freight rates.

The Common Council in asking for bids informed the various interested parties that a surety company bond would be required from the successful bidder of $7 per square yard that brick would be shipped within twenty days of the time ordered, it being understood that the entire amount of brick would be ordered at once. Two companies have already filed bonds amounting to $16,000 according to the specifications.

It is reasonably certain that the bids will come to the amount appropriated for this work, but in case they are too high it is said that there are one or two features of the work that can be omitted, thus bringing it within the appropriation.

The proposition to lay a brick pavement in the business section and the reported movement of property owners on Somerset street, the borough, to lay a solid concrete or cement walk on that thoroughfare has caused an agitation of the subject here among the merchants. It is generally recognized that the sidewalks in the business section of the city, barring those more recently laid of concrete, are a disgrace. It is almost impossible to find a uniform walk on the business streets. In some cases the flagging is above the curbing and nearly all of it is uneven. There is some talk among the merchants of uniting in a movement to lay new concrete walks at the same time the brick pavement is being put down, thus making the street and walk uniform. There are several stretches of concrete walk in the business center and they are such a decided improvement over the old style that many property-owners are anxious to adopt the new kind of walk.

CRAGIN THE WINNER.

Is Now Tennis Champion of the City and Borough.

The tennis championship of Plainfield and North Plainfield was decided at the Plainfield Country Club, Saturday, when the semi-final and final rounds were played. There was some very fast play and the different sets were exciting. William Barlow who was eventually beaten by W. B. Cragin in the finals put up a strong fight and the match held the close attention of the gallery from start to finish.

In the semi-finals W. Lester Glenney beat William Mayhew, 6-4, 6-1; W. B. Cragin beat W. Lester Glenney, 6-0, 6-1, and William Barlow beat W. L. Righter, 6-2, 6-3. This brought Cragin and Barlow into the finals, when Cragin won, 6-0, 6-0, 6-2.

One of our clients owed $48 between four people. His salary is $14 weekly; rent $12 monthly. To have paid $2 weekly to each creditor, combined with rent, would have left only $3 per week to meet expenses, buy clothing, etc.—an impossibility you will agree. He borrowed $50, paid all his creditors, made his future credit good, if ever needed; pays his rent, the loan payments, and has $9 each week to use as his judgment dictates.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Just looking Saturday's game over. The outfield had nine chances and accepted every one without an error—a regular stone wall. Eller's catch in short center was a sensational one and robbed Bound Brook of two runs. Mahaffey back at third strengthened the team; the shift about made by Manager Frentz worked well. Allen was missed by the fans; George was called to Passaic on business. It is Clinton Avenue on the home grounds Saturday and there will be a change in the standing of the clubs when the game is over.

If Bound Brook continues to play the game it did Saturday against the local team some of the other nines in the league will strike a snag before the season ends. The team is strengthened and is strong enough at the present time to make them dangerous in a close game.

ELIZABETH TEACHERS APPLY FOR PENSION

TAKE ADVANTAGE OF ACT REWARDING FOR 35 YEARS' SERVICE.

It was Saturday announced, on good authority, that, in accordance with that act providing for the pensioning of teachers, two teachers of the Elizabeth public schools have applied for pensions and that their applications will be presented to the Elizabeth Board of Education at its meeting this month.

The board has no choice in the premises, but must grant the requests for retirement and pensioning, as the applicants are eligible for such compensation and the law is mandatory. The city government must provide for the payment of the pensions.

The act referred to was approved April 12, 1906, and provides that any teacher who shall have been employed in public schools of the State of New Jersey not less than thirty-five years shall upon application to the Board of Education be retired from duty on one-half her average annual salary during the last five years of school service, providing the teacher has been employed at least twenty years in the district in which she shall be retired.

In consideration of the stringent requirements for pensioning it certainly speaks well for those two applicants, whose names it was deemed by authorities discreet not to divulge, as well as the jurisdiction under which they were employed.

The fact that ten resignations have been tendered by public school teachers was today gleaned from authoritive source. Six of these vacancies have already been provided for by graduates of the Normal Training School.

Plainfield in the Olden Days...

Re-printed from The Constitutionalist

From the issue of July 8, 1869:

"We understand that a nephew of Washington E. Langley, Esq., was severely injured in the hand with a pistol on the 5th."

"The Mayor has appointed as special officers in our city, Samuel. D. Gordon, Amos Moffett, Isaac Brokaw, D. T. Williams and George Ryno."

"RIBS BROKEN. Isaac Pennington, son of Mr. Pennington, the express driver, had three ribs broken by Patrick Conneally while trying to prevent a quarrel between Conneally and another boy. Pat's instrument of torture was a picket. Conneally is a vicious youth, having a short time since threatened to stab Mr. Merwin, principal of the public school."

"On Friday last, about 5 o'clock, a dark and threatening cloud was observed to rapidly rise from the west and in a short time there burst over the city one of the most terrific wind and rain storms that has visited us in some time. Although of short duration, the amount of damage done to the corps, etc., is vast. In North Plainfield, the frame of a house in course of erection, was blown down and completely demolished; while trees in the track of the tornado were broken off as though they were mere twigs. We are pained to record a serious accident and death from the effects of the storm. A young man named Chauncey Boughton, in the employ of a gentleman named Bleecker on the Terrill road, near the Jackson schoolhouse, while endeavoring to shut the barn door, was struck in the head by the door and instantly killed. The steeple of the new Presbyterian church at Liberty Corner, J. T. English, pastor, lately completed and dedicated, was partly blown down by the wind. The balustrade on the top of Gaston and Sutphen's building on Front street was blown down. Fortunately, no one was injured, although both Mr. Sutphen and Mr. Shaw had passed into the drug store but a few seconds before."

"Chief Engineer James F. G. Frazer, of the Plainfield Fire Department, was on Wednesday evening of last week presented with a beautiful silver trumpet, the donors being a few of his friends from each company.

"The trumpet was formally presented to the chief at Laing's Hotel, by Foreman D. S. Pope, one of the 'Zephyrs,' who in a few very appropriate remarks tendered this slight testimonial of the high esteem and respect which his brother firemen hold toward him and was responded to by Chief Frazer as follows:

"'Brother Firemen and Friends—You are well aware that I am not a speechmaker; if I were, your token of friendship and honor, that you have just conferred upon me, would make me speechless, because of the unexpected gift of this beautiful engraved trumpet. Rest assured, Brother Firemen, as long as I occupy the position you have lately placed me in (that as chief engineer of the Plainfield Fire Department) I shall, with my utmost endeavors, when duty calls, perform my part true and honest, with all the energy that lies in me; and as I look upon this beautiful trumpet and notice its silvery coating and deep stamp engraving, it convinces me that your interest and my interest are one, when called in active service. Please accept my thanks for this rich token of your friendship. I shall use it when duty calls and well know you will all obey. I thank you, one and all.'

"Three cheers were given for the chief with a will; after which a few appropriate remarks were made by Messrs. Alex. Titsworth, Wallace Vail and others, and a pleasant evening spent in social intercourse.

"The trumpet is of a beautiful pattern, handsomely engraved, with emblems of truck, hand engine and steamer emblazoned upon it. In the centre is the following inscription: 'Presented to Chief Engineer J. F. G. Frazer by his Friends, Plainfield City, July 20, 1869.'"

WOMAN BADLY BURNED.

Two Others, Too, Suffer Slightly from Explosion of Gasoline at Washington, N. J.

Washington, N. J., Aug. 5.—Mrs. Elizabeth Emery had a narrow escape from burning to death at her home in Cornish street, Thursday night. She extinguished a gasoline stove on the porch, when she noticed a cup was leaking. While mopping up gasoline there was an explosion and she was badly burned about the face and arms, her clothing being set on fire.

Philip Lennon, a boarder, came to her rescue and extinguished the blaze with carpet, kicking the blazing rags from the porch. His little daughter stood near and the blazing gasoline-soaked rags went close to her head, singeing her hair. Mrs. Rhoda Fagan, a sister of Mrs. Emery, was also slightly burned.

DANCES HERSELF TO JAIL.

Philadelphia Woman Creates Stir in Atlantic City Before a Notable Audience.

Atlantic City, August 5.—Because she pinned her skirts over her head and danced in the centre of the street at Kentucky avenue and the beach at 2 o'clock Thursday morning, Edna Framhill, who said her home is in Philadelphia, was sent to the county jail for ninety days last night.

As an audience, the police declare, the young woman had a Minneapolis judge, two Cornell students and a local sporting man. The latter were allowed to go after the police learned their names. The girl nearly fainted when sentence was imposed.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

Clark Griffith, of the Highlanders, has signed a fellow named Louding from Dallas, Texas. Of course, he has a promising future.

Clinton Avenue will try conclusions with Scotch Plains at the latter place, on Saturday, while Raritan will play the Laurels at Bound Brook. The Inter-City Amateur League season is rapidly drawing to a close, and the fans will see an exciting finish among the leaders.

There are several postponed games in the amateur league to be played off and August 31 has been fixed as the date when some of the contests will be played.

With Mathewson in the box, the Giants received a coat of whitewash from Chicago on Friday, score being 5 to 0. The once famous Giants are slowly but surely losing their hold, and the Philadelphia Nationals are getting uncomfortably close.

Jimmie Montross was the star artist for the West Ends, of Somerville, against High Bridge, on Saturday, losing a very hard fought contest. Kraft pitched for High Bridge.

Bender, the Indian pitcher with the Philadelphia Athletics, is doing great work this season, displaying unusual form. In nearly every game he has pitched he has been almost invincible, the hits being few and far between.

"Phil." Smith continues to pitch with success for the New York Real Estate Company team.

Gilman, the fast outfielder playing with Clinton Avenue, has made a good record this year. Since recovering from an operation for eye trouble he has been hitting the ball very hard and his fielding has been almost perfect. He will leave Plainfield on an extended trip soon after the close of the season.

It is conceded by the fans that the Clinton Avenue team is the strongest fielding and hitting team in the amateur league and barring one or two games when the players were out of practice they have played championship ball. Randolph, the main pitcher, has performed like a star, and he has pitched a steady and consistent game throughout the season. The victory on Saturday gives them the undisputed claim of being the best team thus far.

GOLF.

Frank O. Reinhart, who is playing quite regularly at the Plainfield Country Club, this season, is displaying some of his old-time form for one who fails to get as much practice as a few years ago. His score of 80 from scratch brought him first honors, Saturday.

The Park Golf Club team suffered a severe defeat at Bound Brook on Saturday, when the Middlebrook Country Club team won out by a score of 15 to 0. This was the first match played this season by the Parks and being strange to the course the result was expected.

The Calkins system of handicapping in use at the Plainfield Country Club not only works well for the Class A players, but the Class B ones, too. As soon as a player in the latter class shows decided improvement in his game he is advanced to Class A and thus far the judgment of the committee has been excellent in this respect. The system also acts as an incentive to the poorer players to do better.

Rev. J. O. McKelvey, one of the active members at the Park Golf Club, left town today for his vacation, and in consequence will not play on the borough course during the next month.

Dr. H. K. Carroll is another member of the Park Golf Club who will be absent from the course this month, while he enjoys his vacation at Ellenville, N. Y. In fact all of the ministerial members of the course are now away on vacations.

There will be a dinner-dance at the Plainfield Country Club Saturday night, but the one on Saturday night, August 17, will be omitted. After that they will be resumed and continued every Saturday night during the remainder of August and September. The house committee in arranging these affairs has made them very popular and they are largely attended, especially by the young people who are at home during this part of the season.

Abused Wife Betrays Him.

Benjamin F. Decker, of Fairview, is in jail at Mt. Holly on a charge of robbery because he beat his wife in a fit of temper. In January last the store of Levi Abramowitz, of Moorestown, was robbed and considerable booty carried away. No clue to be found to the thief, but after her husband assaulted her she told her sister and others that Decker had robbed the store, and later was arrested on the complaint of the Moorestown Pursuing and Detective Association.

Plainfield, N. J., August 5, 1907.

Unlike Assemblyman Perkins, Senator Ackerman has not incurred the enmity of any particular faction during his service in the Legislature for he has always been glad to listen to the wishes of his constituents and govern himself accordingly. Whatever he has done has been recognized as what he considered best for the people of Union county and there have never been any protests against his course. Were the able and conscientious Plainfielder to come before the voters this fall for an endorsement, he would get it with a hurrah.

As a Democrat is at the head of the board of managers of the State Asylum, it is hard to figure out what campaign capital the minority party will be able to make of the abuses at that institution.

SMITHS RISE AS ONE MAN.

Clan Objects to Having Name of Street Changed.

Because some of the residents of Smith street, Middletown, N. Y., do not like the name of the street and are trying to have it changed to Thrall place, there is likely to be serious trouble, as there are 125 Smiths in that city who consider that the street is well named as it is.

The street got its name when Middletown was a small hamlet, more than a half century ago, through a shoemaker named Peter Smith, being the first person to erect a house on the street. A few years ago Mrs. Maretta Thrall, a philanthropic woman, gave a public park, hospital and library to the city. All were named in her honor. Smith street is near Thrall place, and that is the reason why some people want the name changed to Thrall place.

DENIES HE IS DEAD.

Despite the Fact His Former Wife Identified Corpse As His.

Coroner Edmund R. Nutt, of Trenton, yesterday learned from the lips of Russell Hulick, of Heightstown, that the latter is not the man who was found dead in a well in that city a few days ago.

"Do I look like a dead one?" Hulick inquired, indignantly, when the coroner questioned him.

The corpse of the man found here was positively identified as Hulick yesterday afternoon by a woman, who said she was his former wife. Hulick, however, denies that he is dead, and insists that he ought to know.

The Bayonne Amusement Company was incorporated on March 7, 1906, with a capital of $25,000 by Emanuel A. Schiller, of Bayonne; Ida M. Whitake, Bernard A. Myers and Albert Gallagher, of New York city.

SOME MYSTERY ABOUT THIS GIRL'S MARRIAGE.

Perth Amboy Girl of Fifteen Doesn't Know By Whom She Was Wedded.

Perth Amboy, Aug. 5.—Miss Anna M. Nelson, fifteen years old, has asked the aid of the police in her effort to solve the mystery of her marriage to John M. Jorgenson in May last at Elizabeth. The girl says that she had no idea of marrying Jorgenson when she went with him on the night of May 5 to the home of a friend in this city.

They drank wine and then, she says, went to Elizabeth and were married. She claims to have no knowledge of the place where the ceremony took place and declares that she does not know who the officiating clergyman or magistrate was.

Returning to Perth Amboy the couple lived together six weeks and then, the girl bride asserts, Jorgenson deserted her. Now he is anxious for her to return to him, but she refuses to do so and wants the marriage tie annulled.

Jorgenson is nineteen years old. He claims that the marriage to the girl was regular in every way, but refuses to give details. He protests his love for his wife and says that his only desire is to hace her again reconciled to him.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Thirty-Eight Years Old.

Ocean Grove is just thirty-eight years old. It looks it, and more than looks it. There is very little about Ocean Grove to indicate youthfulness as a city, unless it be the unpaved thoroughfares or the unfinished sidewalks. But stand at either end of the streets and look through them. The cottages are packed close together; there's hardly an alley way of liberal width between them. As a rule they are of the gingerbread order and the architectural ornaments are in a state of more or less advanced dilapidation. Comparatively few of the cottages are spruced up with paint; they have an ancient, rather forlorn appearance, as if those who occupied them didn't own them, and those who owned them were more intent upon getting rents from the buildings. The town has the same appearance as the mass of those who listlessly and almost lifelessly linger and loiter and loll there during the long summer days, living in limited little quarters, sleeping all night and most of the day and showing signs of life and cleanliness only during Auditorium services, boardwalk hours or band concerts. Ocean Grove was started thirty-eight years ago as the nucleus of a great camp-meeting resort. Few, if any, of those who were at the first prayer service held in Joseph H. Thormley's tent in 1869 dreamed that it would become what it is today. The sand barrens and mud marshes have been turned into streets and artificial lakes, and the small lots, as at first laid out for tents, are now all occupied by the houses described. The campmeeting feature is retained, much magnified beyond what it was originally, and yet this has become only an incident to Ocean Grove. It is a great campmeeting place for a few weeks, but is a much greater seaside resort for the whole summer season. Ocean Grove would not be Ocean Grove, perhaps, if it were filled with really pretty, comfortable cottages on lots of liberal size with air spaces sufficiently wide to allow ventilation and to permit confidential conversation. But tens of thousands of people like it just as it is and are willing to pay enormous prices for lots and excessive rentals for cottages, so why should it be changed in any way? It is thirty-eight years old, it has its great religious features and its much greater commercial characteristics. It has been a marked success in its way and has its own place in the esteem of its patrons. Long may it exist as a resort where good men, good women and good children may go and find condtions exactly to their liking.—Newark News.

CHEW TOBACCO CAUSES STRIKE

Mason on Somerset Court House Fined for Begging One; Others Quit.

The first strike on Somerset County's new $400,000 white marble court house at Somerville occurred at Somerville Saturday when the masons employed in laying the foundation walls of the structure laid down their tools because Foreman McLloyd discharged one of their number for wasting too much time in begging a chew tobacco from a fellow workman.

The contractors in charge of the job recently issued an order prohibiting smoking among the men during working hours, but the men refused to stand for the mandate regulating the length of thim that should be consumed in borrowing a chew of tobacco.

TRAIN AND TRACK.

About twice as much power is required to stop an express train as to start one.

The first third rail installation was on a little road running out of Port Rush, on the northern coast of Antrim, Ireland.

In South Australia it costs the railway companies $80,000 a year to remove the vegetation which grows on the permanent ways.

In spite of the fact of the many eruptions of Mt. Vesuvius the electric railway has seldom suspended operations. The total cost, including the cars, track construction and power house, was about $250,000, or more than $50,000 a mile.

EASILY PUT RIGHT

EQUALIZING DISTANCE NO PROBLEM FOR TIM MOYNAHAN.

His Orders Were to Have Tool House Half Way Between Mile Posts, and Consequently Half Way It Was.

About ten years before the Eastern railroad was leased to the Boston & Maine, that portion of the old road between Swampscott and Salem was in charge of Section Foreman Timothy Moynahan, according to a Boston correspondent.

His strongest point was in doing just as he was told, and doing that with energy and accuracy. So when he was notified from Beverly by Roadmaster Stevens that the section lengths were to be changed, and that he was to move his tool house from the western end of the Salem yard to half way between mile posts 15 and 16, he started out with the determination to move the house half way, no more, no less.

To get this half-way point he stationed one of his men at mile post

Tim Explains.

15 and another at mile Post 16, and at a signal they started to walk toward each other until they met, and to a point opposite their meeting place the shanty was moved. This method of getting the correct distance did not quite suit Moynahan, especially when he remembered that one of the walkers was taller than the other, and the other tripped several times on the way down.

He carried this in his mind for nearly a year, when he met the engineers measuring through for signals, and asked them to tell him, as they measured, if his house was just half way or not.

When the measurement was taken the house was found to be 60 feet nearer mile post 16 than 15, and Moynahan, on being told, remarked that he thought he could fix things just right.

Later in the year the engineers met Moynahan in Salem, and asked him if his tool house was now half way between the mile posts?

"It is," he replied, "it's just half way."

"Did you have much trouble moving it?"

"No trouble at all; I just let it stay as it was and moved the mile post."

New Species of Zebra.

In Portuguese East Africa an explorer has discovered a new species of zebra, resembling the ordinary zebra in shape, but the head, neck, forelegs and fore half of the body are dark brown in color, the hind part of the body, including the legs, being striped. He also discovered a peculiar style of antelope similar in size and shape to the Boer roebuck or impala, the distinctive difference being a black line down the center of the back and on either hind leg down to the foot. When the animal is startled it immediately takes to flight, the initial leap being fully ten feet through the air.

Gold Nugget in Fish's Stomach.

A gold nugget, weighing several ounces and thought to contain about two dollars' worth of gold, was found in the stomach of a yellowtail caught by Capt. Billy Graves of Long Beach, Cal., about ten miles out at sea.

The nugget is really a piece of rich ore, but how it came to be lodged in the stomach of the fish is a mystery.

The fish weighed 22 pounds and it is expected that every large fish caught here for some time to come will be examined with the greatest care by the fishermen.

Buried Under Fine Coal.

James Irving, an employe at a New York coal yard, fell into one of the big bins the other afternoon. The bin contained more than 100 tons of buckwheat coal, which is very fine. Irving sank into it so far that he couldn't get out. A few minutes later Adam Brown drove up to get a load of coal.

A trap about 14 by 17 inches in the bottom of the bin was opened and the coal began to pour out. About two tons had run into the wagon when Brown was startled to see a shovel and a man's legs dangling from the spout. Some of the workmen got busy with axes right away and Irving dropped out with a few tons of coal. He was unconscious, but at the hospital to which he was removed it was said that he had a good chance to recover.

MONKEYS AS REASONERS.

Professor Watson Studying Simians Tells Story of Their Intelligence.

Two monkeys are the companions of Professor John B. Watson of the University of Chicago in his hermit life on an island in the gulf of Mexico, says a Chicago special to the New York Times.

The professor is following in the footsteps of Professor Garner by earnest study of the habits of his two pets and has reached the final decision that the Simians have reasoning power. Professor Watson submits a story of Simian intelligence to prove his belief.

The professor is on one of the Dry Tortugas, off Florida. One of his monkeys is a large one. He threw a banana into the animal's cage. The big monkey rushed, but was struck with a stone which fell fro mthe top of the cage. After that the larger monkey would make the smaller get the fruit and then would take it. This monkey, the professor believes, connected the falling of the stone with the banana and forced its smaller companion to brave the danger.

Professor Watson says in a letter to a fellow professor that he is seeking to learn the Simian language.

LAW POINTS.

The right of an infant to recover damages for loss of service during minority, arising from personal injury, is denied in Comer vs. W. M. Ritter Lumber company (W. Va.), 6 L. R. A. (N. S.), 552.

The right to an injunction to restrain the continuous casting of debris upon complainant's property by blasting is sustained in Central Iron and Coal company versus Vanderheurk (Ala.) 6 L. R. N. (N. S.), 570, although negligence alleged in the bill is not sustained by the proof.

That safety gates where a railway crosses a highway are open is held in Korch versus Southern California Railroad company (Cal.), 4 L. R. A. (N. S.) 521, not to be such an absolute assurance of safety that a traveler on the highway can proceed to cross the tracks without any precaution as to the possible approach of trains.

The Sleepless Ones.

Guadalajara has probably one of the most unique social organizations in the new world. It is called "The Insomnia Club," housed in a quiet, thick walled ancient building in the heart of the Tapatian capital. There are at present forty-six members, as they can but seldom sleep they pass the nights, perfumed as the nocturnal atmosphere ther always is with jazmin and azahar, in agreeing diversions—chess, billards, cards and bowling.

Beating Carpets.

When beating carpets remember first of all to beat very thoroughly onthe wrong side and then very lightly on the right. Too vigorous beating on the right side is liable to ruin the texture of a carpet, but thorough brushing with a hard carpet brush can do no harm.

China's Trade.

Great Britain controls 19.42 per cent of China's exports and 47.34 per cent of her imports, or about one-third of the Celestial empire's total foreign trade. Next in importance, according to Chinese official reports, are the United States and Japan.

Redeemed Money.

The amount of money which the government is called upon to redeem in the course of the year is over $900,000,000. This redemption is either for the purpose of securing clean, fresh notes or to get change of some other denomination.

SMOKERS

Do you know we have a fine line of goods, well selected, and properly kept?

Have you noticed the Hygrometers in the case? Tells us just the proper moisture all the time for the even keeping of our cigars. The old way—wet sponge in the case—cigars too wet one day, all dried out the next. Result, wrappers brittle, flavor spoiled. We have the finest case made for cigars.

All the old favorites—Glorias, Chesterfields, Thoroughbreds, Dru Murio, Black and White, Cuba-Roma, Lord Carver, Manuel Garcia's, and many others. Come in, and see our outfit.

Cigars always run even from

HORRORS OF DARK AGES.

Visions Conjured Up in Torture Room of Ancient Tyrant.

The horror of horrors in all Italy is found at Padua, known as the torture tooms of that demonical monster of cruelty, Ecelino, a thirteenth century ruler of Verona, Padua, Vicenza and Brescia. His cruelties finally became so intolerable that the church proclaimed a crusade against him. The peasantry rose and a farmer killed the brute with a scythe. I was shown an upright box in which was the skeleton of a victim. Two apertures enabled the condemned to see a table, just out of reach, crowded with food and drink. To-day, it is stage food and the wine is colored water, but the realism is intense. The climax of shudders was reached when I came to a block in the center of a small square room. Nailed to the chopping block, severed midway between the wrist and elbow, lay the dainty hand of a woman, just as it had been chopped from the living arm! The instant my eyes saw this sight the cell seemed to resound with the shrieks of the terrified woman, and, although the hand I gazed upon was of wax, the mental shock produced was dreadful beyond conception. —Brooklyn Eagle.

ARE LOFTIEST OF MINES.

Worked by Incas and Now to Be Opened by New Company.

It is thought that the old Cayllorna silver mines in Peru are probably situated at a greater elevation than any other considerable mines in the world. Their altitude varies between 14,000 and 17,000 feet. They were worked by the Spaniards in the sixteenth century, and before that, it is believed, by the Incas. An English company is now preparing a hydro-electric plant for them. This plant will be situated at an altitude of between 15,000 and 16,000 feet. It will derive its power from a waterfall on the Santiago river, and in a dry season from Lake Huaillacho, one of the sources of the Amazon. The power will be transmitted by cable about three miles. At the highest mines the pressure of the atmosphere is only eight and one-half pounds a square inch, and water boils 24 degrees below the ordinary boiling point. —Youth's Companion.

One Step at a Time.

It is wonderful how much practical wisdom about the smallest perplexities of daily life comes to men who keep both their feet and their wishes still until Providence—the world prefers to call it "circumstances"—clears a path for them. No doubt in all our lives there come times when we seem to have been brought into a blind alley, and cannot see where we are to get out; but it is very rare indeed that we do not see one step in advance the duty which lies next us. And be sure of this, that if we are content to see but one step at a time, and take it, we shall find our way made plain.—Rev. Alexander Maclaren.

To Satisfy a Grudge.

Sir Thomas Lipton, apropos of bachelorhood and marriage, said in an after dinner speech in Chicago: "Bachelors, I admit, are villains, but it is a shame to play such tricks on them as it is customary everywhere to do. A nasty trick was played on a bachelor friend of mine at a dance. A woman was reproaching him for never having married, when her husband, a little bored, perhaps, said gruffly: 'He says he could have cut me out and married you if he had wanted to.' The woman started. 'Indeed!' she cried. 'Why didn't he do it, then?' 'He says he owed me a grudge,' the husband explained, with a chuckle."

How She Prepared.

A French gentleman anxious to find a wife for a nephew went to a matrimonial agent, who handed him his list of lady clients. Running through this he came to his wife's name, entered as desirous of obtaining a husband between the ages of 28 and 35—a blonde preferred. Forgetting his nephew, he hurried home to announce the discovery to his wife. The lady was not at all disturbed. "Oh yes," she said, "that is my name. I put it down when you were so ill in the winter and the doctors said we must prepare for the worst."

Light-Toed Gentry.

"The best pickpockets," said the detective, "are the Hindoos. You have to call them light-toed as well as light-fingered, for they can lift a watch or purse as easily with their feet as with their hands. Trained from childhood, these bare-footed rascals are wonderfully skillful with their toes. This gives them a great advantage. A Hindoo in a crowd will stand with his arms ostentatiously folded and sneak with his foot the wallet from your trousers pocket."

Tragic Nine of Diamonds.

Carefully preserved at Stairs castle, the Aberdeenshire seat of the earl of Erroll, is a single playing card which recalls a never to be forgotten tragedy. It is the nine of diamonds (hence called to this day "the curse of Scotland"), on which the duke of Cumberland wrote his order for the butchery of the brave Highlanders who were taken prisoners at the fateful battle of Culloden.

On the Job.

Merchant (to applicant for clerkship)—and have you had much experience in this line of business?" Applicant—"Lots of it. Why, I've been in 13 different situations of the kind within the last three years."

that are superior in quality is what we make. We do our own curing. All the Hams and Bacon are taken from genuine Jersey Pork. It's very easy to keep a stock of meats which will be partly good and partly inferior, and to sell a little of both to each customer; this we never do.

AFFECTION OF THE NERVES.

Stammering Not Always Due to Defects in Vocal Organs.

"Stammering is often more the result of habit than from any defect of the vocal organs," says Prof B. L. Pavyer. "It is generally, if not always, caused by a spasm of the larnyx, resulting from nervous contraction of the organs, thus refusing to prmit a proper flow of the air current producing tone. People rarely or never stammer when singing, for then the attention is divided between the words and music, the nervousness is momentarily forgotten and the passage of the air current through the larnyx is continuous and unobstructed. Stammering very often is the result of imitation, sometimes intentional, sometimes unconscious, and the affliction is much more general than might be supposed. In one comparatively small section of the city there are 35 stammerers, and every one of them is able to demonstrate to his own satisfaction not only that he does not stammer very badly, but that some other person he knows stammers a great deal worse than himself. Every stammerer is intensely sensitive about his infirmity, rarely forgives and never does forget any allusion to it which in his mind savors of ridicule.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

HAD TO GO ON IN AUTO.

Machine Wouldn't Stop and Owner Tried to Wear It Out.

John P. Julius, a prominent piano dealer, of York, Pa., and an enthusiastic automobilist, engaged with his electric auto in an endurance run, which he will not soon forget. While driving along through the city streets something went wrong with the mechanism of his car and he found that he was unable to stop it. Though moving at a lively clip the car's pace was within the speed limit, and Mr. Julius, with great presence of mind, steered it on, meanwhile giving his spare attention to a search for the trouble. This search he finally abandoned, and then began the endurance run, which continued up hill and down through the streets and over country roads for several hours. The machine continued to bowl merrily on, and Mr. Julius was in despair, when he passed a garage and managed to attract the attention of a mechanic, who jumped aboard and by removing a few plugs brought up the runaway.

Not Equal to Luxuries.

A dapper young man took a seat on a bench in Madison Square Park, says the New York Press. Sunning himself at the other end of the bench was as fine a specimen of the genus hobo as ever disfigured a landscape. After seating himself the dapper young man drew a handsome silver case from his pocket and extracted therefrom a cigarette. With the cigarette between his teeth, he drew out a silver match box, to find it empty. Snapping down the lid, he turned to the tramp, hesitated, then said: "I beg pawdon, my friend, but do you happen to have a match?" Hands plunged into his trousers' pockets and legs sprawled out before him, the tramp surveyed his neighbor with an air of deep melancholy. "Say," he muttered hoarsely, "who do you think I am—J. Pierpont Morgan?"

False Signal.

"You don't believe in romance, eh?" said the old boarder. "You bet your tintype I don't," sighed the young man with the bandage around his head. "I had my share." "How was that?" "Well, you see I was forbidden to call on my best girl and every night she would sit out on the balcony and at a certain hour strike a match. That would be the signal for me to stick my head through the vines and kiss her." "Ah, very poetic." "Yes, but the other night I saw the match flare up, stuck my head through the vines and got the worst thrashing I ever received. You see, the old man happened to be out there lighting his pipe."

Apples Preserved in Ice.

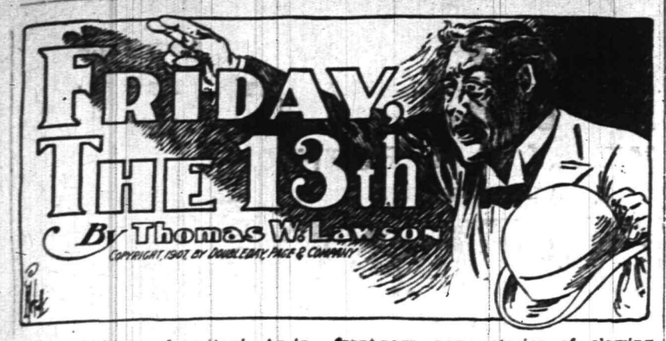
J. C. Braunbeck, of Wallis Run, Lycoming county, Pennsylvania, adopted a unique method of preserving his apples last fall. He built a bin in the orchard seven feet wide, 14 feet long and three feet high. In the bottom of this he put straw, then filled it with apples, putting straw on the sides and ends. Then he placed straw and cornstalks on top. He dug a ditch around it to keep the water from standing there. Some water, however, found its way through the top and formed ice about each of the apples, but they were not disturbed until the ice had all melted. The apples were sound, crisp and without a wrinkle.

A Substitute.

Being very close-fisted Mason had never allowed himself the costly habit of smoking. He always felt himself a loser when anyone treated to cigars. But on one occasion, when the party he was with entered a stationery and cigar store, he made up his mind to have his share of the treat. "Won't you smoke this time?" asked the leader. "No, thank you," replied Mason; "but if you don't mind, I believe I'll take a pencil."—Harper's Weekly.

It's the Brogue.

"Why do we call a handcuff a bracelet?" asked the commissioner of an Irish recruit at a recent police examination. "Faith, bekase it is intended for arrist," replied the applicant. And he got the position at once.



Poor Bob, he was forgotten! An instant after he made his last effort he was the dead cock in the pit. Frenzied gamblers of the stock exchange have no more use for the dead cocks than have Mexicans for the real birds when they get the fatal gaff. The day after the contest, or even that same night at Delmonico's and the clubs, these men would moan for poor Bob; Barry Conant's moan would be the loudest of them all, and, what is more, it would be sincere. But on battle day away to the dump with the fallen bird, the bird that could not win! I saw a look of deep, terrible agony spread over Bob's face; and then in a flash he was the Bob Brownley who I always boasted had the courage and the brain to do the right thing in all circumstances. To the astonishment of every man in the crowd he let loose one wild yell, a cross between the war-whoop of an Indian and the bay of a deep-lunged hound regaining a lost scent. Then he began to throw over Sugar stock, right and left, in big and little amounts. He slaughtered the price, under-cutting Barry Conant's every offer and filling every bid. For 20 minutes he was a madman, then he stopped. Sugar was falling rapidly to the price it finally reached, 90, and the panic was in full swing, but panics seemed now to have no interest for Bob. He pushed his way through the crowd and, joining me, said: "Jim, forgive me. I have dragged you into an enormous loss, have ruined Beulah Sands, her father and myself. I think at the last moment I did the only thing possible. I threw over the 150,000 shares and so cut off some of our loss. Let us go to the office and see where we stand." He was strangely, unnaturally calm after that heart-crushing, nerve-tearing day. I tried to tell him how I admired his cool nerve and pluck in about facing and doing the only thing there was left to do; to tell him that required more real courage and level-headedness than all the rest of the day's doings; but he stopped me:

"Jim, don't talk to me. My conceit is gone. I have learned my lesson today. My plans were all right, and sound, but poor fool that I was, I did not take into consideration the loaded dice of the master thieves. I knew what they could do, have seen them scores of times, as you have, at their slaughter; seen them crush out the hearts of other men just as good as you or I; seen them take them out and skin and quarter-slice them, unmindful of the agony of those who were dear to and dependent on their owners, but it never seemed to strike me home. It was not my heart, and somehow, I looked at it as a part of the game and let it go at that. To-day I know what it means to be put on the chopping block of the 'System' butchers. I know what it is to see my heart and the heart of one I love—and yours, too, Jim—systematically skewered to those of the hundreds and thousands of victims who have gone before. Jim, we must be three millions losers, and the men who have our money have so many, many millions that they can't live long enough even to thumb them over. Men who will use our money on the gambling table, at the race tracks, squander it on stage harlots, or in turning their wives and daughters or their neighbors' wives and daughters into worse than stage harlots. Men, Jim, who are not fit, measured by any standard of decency, to walk the same earth as you and Judge Sands. Men whose painted pets pollute the very air that such as Beulah Sands must breathe. I've learned my lesson to-day. I thought I knew the game of finance, but I'm suddenly awakened to a realization of the dense ignorance I wallowed in. Jim, but for the loading of the dice, I should now have been taking Beulah Sands to her father with the money that the hellish 'System' stole from him. Later I should have taken her to the altar, and after, who knows but that I should have had the happiest home and family in all the world, and lived as her people and mine have lived for generations, honest, God-fearing, law-abiding, neighbor-loving men and women, and then died as men should die? But now, Jim, I see a black, awful picture. No, I'm not morbid. I'm going to make a heroic effort to put the picture out of sight; but I'm afraid, Jim, I'm afraid."

He stopped as we pulled up on the sidewalk in front of Randolph & Randolph's office. "Here it is on the bulletin. See what did the trick, Jim. They held the Sugar meeting last night instead of waiting till to-morrow, and cut the dividend instead of increasing it. The world won't know it until to-morrow. Then they will know it, then they will know it. They will read it in the headlines of the papers—a few suicides, a few defaulters, a few new convicts, an unclaimed corpse or two at the morgue; a few innocent girls, whose fathers' fortunes have gone to swell Carnegeyer's and Standard Oil's already uncountable gold, turned into street-walkers; a few new palaces on Fifth avenue, and a few new libraries given to communities that formerly took pride in building them from their honestly earned savings. A report or two of record-breaking diamond sales by Tiffany to the kings and czars of dollar royalty, then front-page news stories of clawing, mauling, and hair-pulling wrangles among the stage harlots for the possession of these diamonds. They were not quite sure that the dividend cut alone would do the trick, and they were taking no chances, these mighty warriors of the 'System,' so their hireling senate committee held a session last night and unanimously reported to put sugar on the free list. The people will read that in the morning, and probably the day after they'll be told that the committee held another session to-night and unanimously reported to take it off the free list. By that time these honorable statesmen will have loaded up with the stock that you and I and Beulah Sands sold, and that other poor devils will slaughter to-morrow after reading their morning papers."

Bob's bitterness was terrible. My heart was torn as I listened. He stalked through the office and into that of Beulah Sands. I followed. She was at her desk, and when she looked up, her great eyes opened in wonderment as they took in Bob, his grim, set face, the defiant, sullen desperation of the big brown eyes, the disheveled hair and clothes. For an instant she stood as one who had seen an apparition.

"Look me over, Beulah Sands," he said, "look me over to your heart's content, for you may never again see the fool of fools in all the world, the fool who thought himself competent to cope with men of brains, with men who really know how to play the game of dollars as it is played in this Christian age. Don't ask me not to call you Beulah; that what I tried to do was for you is the one streak of light in all this black hell. Beulah, Beulah, we are ruined, you, your father, and I, ruined, and I'm the fool who did it."

She rose from her desk with all the quiet, calm dignity that we had been admiring for three months, and stood facing Bob. She did not seem to see me; she saw nothing but the man who had gone out that morning the personification of hope, who now stood before her the picture of black despair, and she must have thought, "It was all for me." Suddenly she took the lapel of his torn coat in either hand. She had to reach up to do it, this winsome little Virginia lady. With her big, calm blue eyes looking straight into his, she said:

"Mr. Brownley, Please Look on the Bright Side of This Calamity."

"Bob."

That was all, but the word seemed to change the very atmosphere in the room. The look of desperation faded from Bob's face, and as though the words had sprung the hidden catch to the doors of the storehouse of pent-up misery, his eyes filled with hot, blinding tears. His great chest was convulsed with sobs. Again—clear, calm, fearless, and tender, came the one syllable, "Bob." And at that Bob's self-control slipped the leash. With a hoarse cry, he threw his arms around her and crushed her to his breast. The sacredness of the scene made me feel like an intruder, and I started to leave the room. But in a moment Beulah Sands was her usual self and, turning to me, she said: "Mr. Randolph, please forget what you have seen. For an instant, as I saw Mr. Brownley's awful misery, I thought of nothing but what he had done for me, what he had tried to do for my father, what a penalty he has paid. From what you said when you left and the fact that I got no word from either of you, I feared the worst and did not dare look at the tape; I simply waited and hoped and—prayed. Yes, I prayed as my mother taught me I should pray whenever I was helpless and could do nothing myself. And I felt that God would not let the noble work of two such men be overthrown by those you were battling with. In the midst of a calmness that I took for a good omen, you came. Can you blame me for forgetting myself? Mr. Brownley," the voice was now calm and self-controled, "tell me what you have done. Where do we stand?" "There is little to tell," Bob answered. "Camemeyer and Standard Oil have taken me into camp as they would take a stuck pig. They have made a monkey-fied ass out of me, and we are ruined, and I have caused Mr. Randolph a heavy loss. Roughly, I figure that of your four hundred thousand capital and the million four hundred thousand profit you had this morning, only your capital remains."

Wishing to spare Bob, I interrupted and myself gave the girl briefly the details of what had happened. She listened intently and seemed to take in all the trickery of the "System" masters; seemed to see just what it meant to us and to her. But she made no comment, showed by no outward sign that she suffered. As soon as I was through she turned to Bob, who had stood with his eyes fastened upon her face, as though somewhere out of its soft beauty must come an assurance that this was all a bad dream.

"Mr. Brownley," she said, "let us figure up just where we stand, so that we may know what to do to recoup. You have said so many times, since I have been here, that Wall street is magic land; that no man may tell 24 hours ahead what will happen to him. You have said it so many times that I believe it. We know that this morning we were at the goal, that we were millions ahead, and all from 24 hours' effort. We have yet almost three months left, and I do not see why we have not just as much chance as we had day before yesterday. Yes, and more, because we know more now. Next time we will include the dividend cuts and the senate duplicity in our figuring."

We both dumbly stared in wondering admiration at this marvellous woman. Was it possible that a girl could have such nerve, such courage? Or had woman's hope, so persistent where her loved ones are concerned, made Beulah Sands blind to the awfulness of the situation? As I looked at her I could not doubt that she fully realized our position, that she was [illegible] suffering more than either of us, that [illegible] only acting to ease Bob's [illegible] brought out his memo- [illegible] hour we had the [illegible] was nearly [illegible] Sands' 20,000 shares had cost less than ours and Bob figured to leave her capital of $400,000 intact, we felt some comfort. Beulah Sands had watched the figuring with the keenness of an expert, and when Bob announced the final figures, which showed that she still had what she started with, she drew the sheet containing the totals to her. "I was willing to accept your assistance," she said, "when the deal promised a profit to all of us, because I appreciated your goodness and knew how much it would hurt your feelings if I were churlish about the division; but now that we all lose I must stand my fair share; I must." She said this in a way that we both knew precluded the possibility of argument. "We owned together 150,000 shares. I was to have had the profits on 20,000 shares. Our total loss is $2,775,000, of which I must bear my just proportion. Mr. Brownley, you will see that $370,000 is charged to my account. I shall have $30,000 left. If our cause is as just as we think, God in His goodness will make this ample for our purposes."

Though Bob and I were in despair at her determination to strip herself of what Bob had worked so hard to accumulate, we could not help feeling a reverence for her faith and her sturdy independence. She now showed us in her delicate way that she wished to be alone; as we went she held out her hand to Bob. "Mr. Brownley, please, for the sake of the work we have to do, look on the bright side of this calamity, for it has a bright side. You wanted me to send word to my father that we were about to grasp victory. Think it we had sent it—then you will know that God is good, even when we think He is chastening us beyond endurance."

Bob took me into his office. "Jim, you see what a woman can do, and we are taught women are the weaker sex. Now listen to what you must do. Accept my notes for the whole loss, less one hundred thousand which I have to my credit, and which I will pay on account. I won't listen to any objection. The deal was mine; you came in only to help us out, and I ought never to have tempted you. If I remain in my present busted condition, the notes will be blank paper. Therefore you do me no harm in taking them. If I should strike it rich, I should never feel like a man until I made up the loss."

It was no use arguing with him in his inflexible mood, so I took his demand notes for $2,405,000. I begged him to go home with me to dinner, but he insisted that he could not face my wife with his last night's break still fresh in her mind. Next day he did not turn up. Along in the afternoon I received a telegram from him, saying that he was on his way to Virginia, that he needed a rest and would be back in a week. I was worried, nervous. It takes until the next day and the day after, and the week after that, to get down to the deepest misery of an upset such as we had been through. I did not feel easy with Bob out of sight while he was sounding for a new footing. I went to Beulah Sands in hope we might talk over the affair, but when I told her that Bob was to be gone for a week and that I was uneasy, she said in her calm, confident manner: "I don't think there is anything to worry about, Mr. Randolph. Mr. Brownley is too much of a man to allow an affair of dollars to do anything more than annoy him. He will be back all the better for his rest." She dropped her long lashes in a this-conversation-is-closed way that we had come to know meant going time.

CHAPTER IV.

The following week Bob returned to the office. He had not changed, and yet he had changed greatly. Rest had apparently done much for him. His color was good, his step elastic as of old, and his head was thrown back as if he were buckled up for the fray and wanted all to know it. Yet there was something in the eye, in the setness of the jaw, in the hair-trigger calm, yet fiercely savage grip in which he closed his strong hands on the arms of his chair, that told me more plainly than words that this was not the optimistic, soft-hearted Bob Brownley I had known and loved. I could not help feeling that if I had been a leader of the Russian terrorists, and this man who now sat before me had come to my ken when I was selecting bomb-throwers, I should have seized upon him of all men as the one to stalk the czar or his marked minions. Surely the iron that had entered Bob's soul a week before had affected his whole being. I think Beulah Sands had some such thoughts. For I saw a shadow of perplexity cross her broad, low forehead after her first meeting with him, a shadow that had not been there before.

For days after Bob's return I saw little of him. I think Beulah Sands saw less. During stock exchange hours he spent most of his time on the floor, but he executed few of our orders. He merely looked them over and handed them out to his assistants. As far as I could learn, he spent much of his time there yesterdaying through hope's graveyards, a not uncommon pastime for active exchange members whose first through specials have been open-switched by the "System" towerman. So strong had become this habit of going about from pole to pole with bent head and a far-off gaze that his fellow members began to humor and respect it. They all knew that Bob had gone up against the Sugar panic hard. No one knew how hard, but all guessed from his changed appearance and habits that it must have been a bone-smashing blow. Nothing so quickly and so deeply stirs a stock exchange man's feelings for his brother member as to know that "They" have ditched his El Dorado flyer—that is, if he has been a good fellow. They will humor his every whim and patiently await the day when he shall be again in normal condition; for all stock gamblers whom Fate, or the old hag's hunchback twin, the "System," has dumped, either remain below the surface or eventually round to. Every day as soon as the stock exchange closed, Bob disappeared, whither I could not learn. I had tried once or twice to draw him out, under pretense of insisting upon his accepting my wife's invitation to dine with us. He always had a ready excuse for me to take to Kate, but that was all. Apparently he had no idea that I took any interest in his movements after business hours.

As for Beulah Sands, there was but one change noticeable in her. Whenever a footstep stopped in front of her office she looked up from her work with an expectant, almost appealing gaze, as though she were always waiting for some one. I had not seen Bob in her office since that disastrous Sugar day, and as he went directly to the exchange every morning and left there every afternoon without returning to the office, doing all his business by messenger or over the wire, there was but little chance of his meeting her.

November 1st had come and gone, and the books showed no change in Beulah Sands' account. There was the poor little $30,000 balance; no other entries. One afternoon Beulah Sands had asked for a meeting between Bob and myself in her office. She could hardly have asked Bob to come without me, but I knew it was Bob she wanted to see, and I felt that the best thing I could do for them was to leave them alone. So I made some excuse for a moment's delay at my desk telling Bob to go into her office, and promising to follow shortly. He went in, leaving the door partly open. I think that from the moment he entered the room both of them utterly forgot my existence. From her desk Beulah could not see me, and Bob sat so that his back was half toward me. "I dislike to trouble you about my account," I heard her begin in a voice a trifle uneven, "but as I must go back to father Christmas week, I wanted to get your advice as to the advisability of writing him that, though there is still a chance for doing wonders, I do not think we shall be able to save him. Of course I won't put it in just that blunt way, but it seems to me I should begin to prepare him for the blow. I have not talked over any more plunging with you, Mr. Brownley, since the unlucky one in Sugar, and—"

"Miss Sands, I understand what you mean," Bob broke in, "and I should apologize for not having consulted with you about your business affairs. The fact is, I have not been quite clear as to the best thing to do. I hope you don't think I have forgotten. Never for a moment since I took charge of your affairs have I forgotten my promise to see that they were kept active. Truly I have been trying to think out some successful plunge, but—but"—there was a hoarseness in his voice—"I have not had my old confidence in myself since that day in Sugar when I killed your hopes and destroyed the chance of saving your father—no, I have not had that confidence a man must have in himself to win at this game."

Y. M. C. A. DEFEATED BY CLINTON AVENUE

SCORE WAS CLOSE BUT PLAY WAS NOT INSPIRING.

Clinton Avenue tightened its grip on first place in the Inter-City League Saturday afternoon, by defeating Y. M. C. A. The score was 5 to 4, and it does not indicate the lack of closeness that characterized the contest. Clinton Avenue hit Dupee heavily, and Y. M. C. A. had a hard job hitting Randolph at all. This is becoming the usual result of meetings between the association hitters and the West End flinger. Some day Captain Craig's men may land on Randolph, but it isn't likely to happen soon enough to bring any joy to Y. M. C. A. rooters.

It was a game startling in its snappiness. There was plenty of eagerness on both sides, and the eighteen young men were keyed up to a great pitch, but the playing was not inspiring. There was a total of fourteen stolen bases.

'PLAINS TEAM RETAINS LEAD IN THE LEAGUE

DEFEATS BOUND BROOK LAURELS BY SCORE OF 4 TO 0.

The Scotch Plains team retained its position in the Inter-City Amateur League, Saturday, by defeating the Laurels, of Bound Brook, in a close and exciting contest at the 'Plains. The score was 4 to 0, and it will now be up to the 'Plains and Clinton Avenue teams to fight it out for championship honors.

Saturday's contest was one of the best of the season. Harney and Hewitt were the opposing pitchers, the latter having it on Harney by a shade. Each twirler fanned eight men, but the home team touched Harney for eight hits at the right time, while Hewitt allowed but five singles, three of them being in the first inning after two men were out and the third batter had missed his third strike. The ball was a low one and passed Albert. Then a hit filled the bases. The next batter went out on an outfield fly and Bound Brook's last chance of scoring was gone. The home team by bunching its hits scored in the third, sixth and seventh innings.

The lineup and score by innings:

CRANFORD'S NARROW WIN.

Takes Game From Dunellen By One Run On Errors.

Slow fielding by Giles and errors lost the game for Dunellen, Saturday, Cranford earning no runs. The score was 3 to 2. Murphy pitched a great game, allowing the heavy hitters of the Cranford A. C. only four safe cracks, and striking out thirteen men.

He gave a star exhibition in the fourth and fifth innings. In the fourth, with a man on third and no outs he struck out the next three batsmen. In the fifth with a man on second and third and one gone, the next two batters went out on strikes.

Dunellen scored their only runs in the sixth. Loizeaux was safe on Abuy's error of Lehman's heave, stole second and went to third on Murphy's out and crossed the rubber on Conover's out at first. Brokaw, who won a base on balls, went to second when Loizeaux scored and came in on Dodwell's long two bagger to deep left.

Poole, a professional who has twirled for the Elizabeth Stars, pitched a great game for Cranford. Smith played in his usual brilliant style at second. The base running and catching of Loizeaux was also a feature of the game. The score:

LOCAL GOLFERS LOYAL TO THEIR FAVORITE GAME

LARGE FIELDS OUT SATURDAY DESPITE VACATION TIME.

Notwithstanding that a large majority of the members are away on their summer vacation, there was a good sized field out at the Plainfield Country Club, Saturday, to contest for the Golf committee, Green committee and Scratch cups. The course was never in better condition and the day was ideal for the popular game. While there were a great many on the course, a number did not post their scores.

In the competition for the Golf committee cup three contestants were tied for first honors. Frank O. Reinhart, W. Lester Glenney and Henry D. Hibbard each returned a net score of 81, the first named being scratch, and Lester Glenney was given a handicap of one. Mr. Hibbard's handicap was four. These scores were posted for the cup:

Frank O. Reinhart, 81,0—81; W. Lester Glenney, 80, plus 1—81; Henry D. Hibbard, 85, 4—81; Edward T. Wilson, 93, 10—83; L. A. Chase, 95, 9—81.

C. P. Hamilton won first honors for the Green committee cup with a net score of 80, but he was largely assisted in doing so with a handicap of 22. These scores were returned:

C. P. Hamilton, 102, 22—80; C. C. Burke, Sr., 96, 12—84; J. R. Evans, 105, 17—88. The leg on the Scratch cup was won by Leighton Calkins, who returned a score of 88.

Owing to a team match between the Park Golf Club and the Middlebrook Country Club at Bound Brook, on Saturday, there was a small field out on the borough club's course. Seven of the most regular members of the home organization went to Bound Brook and this left quite a gap in the return cards.

The Parks were overwhelmed by the Middlebrook Country Club, the score being 15 to 0 in favor of the latter. This was largely due to the fact that the visitors were wholly unacquainted with the home course and besides it was in poor condition. The home team was made up of the pick of the club and they were evidently prepared to make a big score. The summary:

Middlebrook Country Club—E. E. Gano, 3; Willett Gano, 3; Charles Byers, Jr., 1; George Smalley, 2; Edward Pettit, 3; Frank Greene, 1; William Sperling, 2; total, 15.

Park Golf Club—Rev. J. O. McKelvey, 0; L. R. Thurlow, 0; Charles B. Morse, 0; Reuben Knox, 0; W. V. Byard, 0; A. W. Kenworthy, 0; Nelson A. Miller, 0; total, 0.

The result of the weekly competition at the Park Golf Club for the President's and Golf Club cups, gave A. W. Kenworthy first honors for both trophies with a net score of 82 and and gross score of 97. These scores were returned:

A. W. Kenworthy, 97, 15—82; E. A. Lyon, 112, 26—86; J. B. Betts, 118, 30—88; Nelson A. Miller, 112, 21—91; F. A. Hubbard, 111, 11—100.

STANDARD OIL FINE LARGEST EVER ASSESSED.

Rockefeller Concern Must Pay a Total of $29,240,000 for Rebate Practices.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—Judge Kenesaw M. Landis Saturday, in the United States District Court, fined the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, $29,240,000 for violations of the law against accepting rebates from railroads. The fine is the largest ever assessed against against any individual or corporation in the history of American criminal jurisprudence, and is slightly more than 131 times as great as the amount received by the company through its rebating operations. The case will be carried to the higher courts by the defendant company.

Under the seven indictments still pending against the Standard Oil Company an additional fine amounting to $88,440,000 may be levied against the company if it is found guilty on trial. There are in these seven indictments a total of 4,422 counts and the maximum fine in each count would be $20,000.

The penalty imposed upon the company is the maximus permitted under the law, and it was announced at the end of a long opinion in which the methods ond practices of the Standard Oil Company were mercilessly scored. The judge, in fact, declared in his opinion, that the officials of the Standard Oil Company, who were responsible for the practice of which the corporation was found guilty, were no better than counterfeiters and thieves.

FINED; TURNS SAMARITAN.

New Yorker Spends Day in Warning Fellow Autoists.

Freehold, Aug. 5.—The authorities of Freehold last week learned that automobile drivers generally have Freehold marked on their maps "easy." Thirty miles an hour has been an ordinary speed for cars to pass through the town and many narrow escapes are recorded. Yesterday the residents were amused at the speed at which the autos crawled through town. Nine officers had been placed on the three roads leading into town and the tip had gone out. Five drivers who failed to heed the warnings were arrested and with one exception paid fines of $13 each.

The one exception was William A. Carr, a Philadelphian, and a hearing in his case was set for August 21. Those who paid fines were John T. Colgan and Charles Vandern, Trenton; James R. Williston, of Newark, Seabright summer resident, and John D. Daley, of New York. Mr. Daley was so wroth over his arrest that he further amused the populace by devoting the remainder of the day to warning other motorists. Stationing himself on a prominent corner, he walked to the centre of a street to the cheers of a crowd of young men and warned all drivers of the danger of speeding in Freehold.

—A fox terrier belonging to Mrs. Eugene O'Reilly, who formerly lived here, had a narrow escape from an unusual death last week. Mrs. O'Reilley was driving to her home at Union, with the dog chained to the seat of her carriage, when the animal made a leap at another dog in the road. It dangled by its neck between the wheels and the horse for a block before Mrs. O'Reilley could stop the horse and rescue it. Its neck was severely wrenched, and it must have come close to breaking it.

GOV. COMMENDS COLLINS

Stokes Expresses Appreciation of Guards' Work in Letter to General.

SENDS A VALEDICTORY

Last Encampment Was In Every Way a Success, Declares the State's Chief Executive.

As the climax to a week of social and military triumphs at Camp Stokes, Brigadier-General Dennis F. Collins has received a letter from Governor Stokes, congratulating him and his command of the National Guard on the showing made at Sea Girt, and referring to the splendid management of the camp, which has been a centre of activity for the past week. The letter came as a crowning glory for Colonel Collins and his lads in khaki, and it is safe to assume that the appreciation voiced in the Governor's letter was echoed by every other official who visited the camp.

The members of the Guard labored indefatigably to bring the camp to a state of military perfection, and that they succeeded admirably is evidenced by the praise that has been liberally bestowed on the warriors of Uncle Sam who figured in the manoeuvres at the camp.

There was not a hitch to mar the work of the regiments, and the opinion was greatly advanced that no more successful camp was on record for the state.

The Governor's letter was as follows:

"Governor's Cottage, Camp Stokes,
"Sea Girt, N. J.

"My dear General Collins:

"At the closing of the encampment of 1907, the last encampment with which it will be my pleasure to be officially associated, the first with which you have been associated as Brigade Commander, I present my valedictory to one whose service has just commenced.

"Accept for yourself and extend to your command my sincere appreciation of your unfailing courtesy to me personally and the splendid manner in which you have conducted the Camp.

"I trust you will have long years of military service to the pleasure of yourself and benefit of our State.

"With best wishes, I am,
"Very sincerely yours,
(Signed) "E. C. STOKES

TWO BIDDERS FOR FIRE HOUSE REPAIR WORK.

And Only One Wants the Job to Supply Winter's Coal.

Only two bids were received for the work of repairing the West Second street fire house, at the August meeting of the Common Council, last night. Walter Apgar offered to make the necessary repairs for $1,365, and Wyman & Haberle's figures for the work were $1,316.

Bids were advertised for to furnish the fire department with coal for next winter, but only one was presented. That was from the Consumer's Coal Company, represented by F. J. Harris. He offered to furnish 100 tons of stove and chestnut size coal for $5.73 per ton, and he also offered to furnish 300 bushels of oats, '06 crop, at 52 cents a bushel, while Percy S. Dayton's bid was 51½ cents a bushel for the same quality of oats. All these bids were referred to the fire and building committee with power.

Raceway Unsanitary.

The Board of Health having made a complaint to the Mayor regarding the deplorable and unsanitary condition of the raceway leading from Tier's pond to Somerset street, Mr. Fisk communicated that fact to the Common Council, last night, urging that immediate steps be taken to have the raceway thoroughly cleaned. In the opinion of Mr. Fisk, as well as the Board of Health, the present condition of the brook is a menace to health. The matter was referred to the committee on public affairs, and will probably be attended to at once.

BATEMAN NOW HEAD OF ELECTION BOARD

SOMERSET'S BOARD APPORTIONS DELEGATES TO CONVENTION.

The Somerset County Board of Elections met at the Court House in Somerville yesterday for reorganization. The members, Charles H. Bateman and H. W. Reusswig, Republicans, and John H. Mattison and Jacob Shurts, Democrats, were all in attendance. Messrs. Bateman and Mattison were recently reappointed by Governor Stokes.

Several changes in the election laws were discussed, after which the number of delegates to the different conventions were apportioned, according to the vote of the last Gubernatorial election by voting districts throughout the county. There is one new district this year, the new borough of South Bound Brook, which has been set off from Franklin township.

Charles H. Bateman was re-elected president and John H. Mattison secretary.

REGARDLESS OF RED TAPE, MAYOR ORDERS CLEAN UP

RACEWAY TO BE PUT IN SANITARY CONDITION AT ONCE.

The unsanitary condition of Green brook from Norwood to Giraud avenues, was the important topic of discussion at the meeting of the Borough Board of Health, yesterday, and as a result a resolution, offered by Dr. A. H. Dundon, which was adopted, authorized the secretary to communicate with the Somerset County Board of Freeholders with a view to having the brook thoroughly cleaned.

The resolution asked the freeholders to remove all foul and decayed matter from the brook and to take such action as is necessary to prevent the formation of stagnant pools in the bed of the brook.

The Board of Health also discussed the question of acquainting the Plainfield Board of Health with facts relating to the unsanitary condition of the raceway, extending from Tier's pond to Somerset street. The raceway is situated in Union county and does not come within the jurisdiction of the borough.

The matter had been previously taken up by the city board and at its request Mayor Fisk brought it to the attention of the Common Council, last night. That body taking no action, simply referring the Mayor's communication to the public affairs committee. His Honor today instructed City Engineer Gavett to have the raceway cleaned up and made sanitary.

THEIR WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Surprise for Mr. and Mrs. Galloway; Guests Surprised Also.

In honor of the thirty-fifth anniversary of their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. A. I. Galloway, of Netherwood, avenue, were tendered a surprise party at their home last night. The affair was a most delightful one. Music and refreshments were the features. Guests were present from Bound Brook, Dunellen, and other places nearby.

The guests were treated to a surprise themselves by the unexpected presence of Chester Galloway, son of Mr. and Mrs. Galloway, who returned unexpected on Sunday from a year's trip in the west. He came here from California, and appeared at the house unannounced. His mother was amazed to find him sitting in the dining room when she returned from a visit to a neighbor. He will remain here for some time.

Decorators of the Theatre.

The most important part of the work of making the New Plainfield theatre beautiful, which is being brought to a close, has been in the hands of Woolston & Buckle. They did all the principal decorating, and have been signally successful in securing strikingly attractive results. They and their force are to be congratulated on the quality of the work turned out.

William T. Glenney Played.

It was William T. Glenney who played in the semi-finals of the tennis tournament at the Plainfield Country Club, on Saturday, and not W. Lester Glenney, as stated yesterday. He won his first match with William Mayhew and then lost the second match to W. B. Cragin, after a hard fight.

CITY FATHERS' ROUTINE

Petitions, Invitations and Reports Command Common Council's Attention.

ACCEPT SEWER REPORT

Review of the Month—Consolidation Expenses—Want More Light—P. S. C.'s Bill.

Aside from the more important business considered at the August meeting of the Common Council, last night, there was a great deal of minor routine business that took up much time. W. B. Mills asked for permission to substitute cement block for brick in the building which he is erecting. J. D. Loizeaux and the Lake Pigment Company, petitioned for a four-way hydrant near Rock avenue and residents in the vicinity of West Eighth street and Monroe avenue asked for a hydrant there. All of these petitions were deferred to the fire and building committee.

Thomas Caviear resigned as a call-man in the fire department, the resignation being accepted. Mayor Fisk appointed J. J. Neylon to take his place. The appointment was confirmed.

Electrical Engineer.

The annual invitation to the Common Council from the League of American Municipalities to attend the convention to be held at Norfolk, Va., was received and referred to the public affairs committee, as was also the recommendation of the coroner's jury appointed to inquire into the facts concerning the death of Clarence H. Weekes. The recommendations urged the appointment of a competent electrical man to inspect the overhead electric light wires.

Consolidation Expenses.

Alexander Gilbert, who was chairman of the consolidation commission, reported that at a meeting of the commission, it was decided that the city should bear two-thirds of the expense incurred for the services of George B. Wean, copyist and stenographer, and the borough one-third, and he recommended that Mr. Wean's bill be paid accordingly. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

Mayor Fisk communicated with the Common Council urging the granting of a fire-box for the residents of the West End, the same to be located at Grant and Sherman avenues. He cited the fact that the petition had been before the Council before and he said that there is now an urgent demand for the extra fire protection. The petition was opposed by Mr. Hubbard, chairman of the fire and building committee because the appropriation is low and it would mean an expense of at least $175. Councilman C. C. Randolph and Herbert Buxton favored the improvement and a resolution that the fire-box be located there was adopted, Mr. Hibbard alone voting no.

At the request of residents in the vicinity of West Eighth street and Plainfield avenue, Mayor Fisk appointed James A. Moore a special policeman and the appointment was confirmed.

Reports Filed.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported that twenty-seven permits were granted last month. H. G. Adams, clerk of the district court, reported receipts for the past month of $123.37 and a balance of $88.74. The sum of $2,500 was transferred from the general fund to the fire fund in accordance with a resolution offered by Mr. Hibbard.

Another resolution by Mr. Hibbard gave W. R. Codington and Walter Manning permission to use brick as a facing for their new concrete building on Watchung avenue near the railroad.

The petition by L. J. Geary and other residents in the vicinity of Denmark road and Dixie Lane for an electric light at that corner, was granted on motion of Mr. Montgomery, and two electric lights were ordered placed in Pruden's alley, between Front and Second streets. There was some doubt in Mr. Tolles' mind as to whether the city has the right to erect lights there and he voted against the resolution as did also Mr. Hibbard. It is understood that other improvements are also to be made in the alley.

Want More Light.

There was a report on the petition for lights on Carlton avenue, between East Seventh street and Putnam avenue, by Mr. Montgomery, and on his recommendation the lights were refused. He explained that the residents there prefer the shade trees and unless these trees are trimmed it would be impossible to light the thoroughfare. He also gave out a bit of news, which he said had not been reported to the po-

SEWER WORK ESTIMATES

City Fathers Will Give Contract to One of Ten Bidders on Monday Night.

STORM SEWER BIDS

Six Contractors Compete for Job Which Will Also Be Awarded On Monday Night.

There were ten bids received at the August meeting of the Common Council, last night, for completing the proposed sanitary sewer extensions throughout the city, showing that a number of contractors are anxious to secure the work. As in the case of the bids for the brick pavement, the street committee could not figure out the lowest bidder last night, and it was planned to hold a special meeting of the committee before Monday night, when this will be announced.

C. M. Meeker, Plainfield; Eugene Chamberlain, Westfield; Cavallo & Ziggo, Nek York; J. J. Fusco, Montclair; McManus & Hillpott, Bound Brook; Warren B. Travell, Plainfield; T. Foster Callahan, Elizabeth; T. J. McGovern, Trenton; Eveline Brothers, New Britain, Conn.

In connection with these bids there were also received bids for building a storm sewer through a portion of Plainfield avenue, as decided by a recently adopted ordinance. Six bids were presented as follows:

Eveline Brothers, New Britain, Conn., 33 inch sewer, $6.66 per lineal foot; manholes, $44; branches, $1; T. J. McGovern, Trenton, 33 inch sewer, $6 per lineal foot; manholes, $50; branches, fifty cents; McManus & Hillpott, Bound Brook, 33 inch sewer, $3.98; manholes, $46; Arthur E. Smith, Plainfield, 33 inch sewer, $3; manholes, $35; branches, $1.50; W. B. Travell, Plainfield, 33 inch sewer, $2.98 and $3.44, according to kind of pipe used; manholes, $35; branches, $1.50; C. M. Meeker, Plainfield, 33 inch sewer, $2.80; manholes, $45; branches, $3. These were referred to the street committee to be reported on next Monday night at the adjourned meeting.

RECTOR'S BIG "FAMILY" RETURNS FROM OUTING

HOLY CROSS CHOIR BOYS BENEFITTED AT CAMP COMFORT.

The members of the choir of the Church of the Holy Cross, accompanied by the rector, Rev. George A. Warner, arrived home this morning from "Camp Comfort," Hedges Lake, N. Y., where for the past two weeks they have been enjoying all the delights of outdoor life. The boys all had a jolly good time and every one has gained weight as a result of the outing. Even the rector "took on" seven pounds.

During their time in camp the boys were never idle a moment, the program for each day filled with amusement. All the summer visitors in that part of the country, as well as the natives, were good to the campers. On one occasion the entire choir and the rector made a trip to the Episcopal church at Cambridge, N. Y., in a hay wagon and sang the complete service to a large congregation of worshippers. One of the most impressive sights at the camp was the open-air service held there on Sunday. Rector Warner was in charge and the singing by the choir attracted hundreds of summer residents from that section.

A baseball game was arranged, the regular team from the choir playing the nine from Shushan, and winning by an overwehlming score. Rector Warner was the umpire and there was a notable absence of "kicks."

Another feature of camp life was a concert given by the choir. The managers canvassed the country-side selling tickets and advertising the fact that among their number was a phenomenal jig dancer, who at the age of three years was found on the Pacific Coast and had since become a wonder.

The boys all agree that they had the best time of their lives and not a single one was ready to come home, when Rector Warner gave the word to break camp. There was not an accident or a case of illness during the outing and the party returned home well and happy.

On the Late Rev. A. F. Todd.

An eloquent appreciation of the late Rev. Augustus F. Todd, of Dunellen, appears in the issue of the Christian Inteligencer for July 31. It is from the pen of Rev. Dr. H. Vanderwart. "I count it a joy to have known and loved Bro. Todd," says Dr. Vanderwart in the course of his article.

PERKINS' AERIAL STUNTS

SUCH A NICE MAN

Jersey City Men Hear of Union County Statesman's Wonderful Doings at Jamestown.

Three Jersey City business men have just got back from a brief visit to the Jamestown Exposition, and while they are not very enthusiastic about the exhibition in general, they are much pleased with the showing made by the State of New Jersey. The three were Messrs. James Gopsill, Edward Fox and J. Henry Castens, the first an expert on insurance, the second on cattle and the last on that which the Good Book says is the root of all evil, and occasionally puts his signature on V's.

They left one day last week on a steamer bound for Norfolk, and then scooted across to the exposition. The New Jersey Building excited in them not a little pride, and when it is remembered that the titular deity at the shrine was a charming young woman, the Jersey City men made a very thorough inspection of the exhibits. They were informed parenthetically by the young women aforesaid that she just adored Jerseymen.

"There's that dear Mr. Perkins," she said to Mr. Fox, who courteously assisted her in explaining things. "Why, do you know he——"

"Do you mean Mr. Randolph Perkins of the Legislature—Mayor of Westfield?" interrupted Mr. Gopsill.

"I don't know about his titles, but he's a little, jolly, good-natured gentleman," said the goddess before mentioned. "He was here with some people from your State, and while I was showing them around I missed him and on looking up there was Mr. Perkins hanging on that chain from which the big chandelier is suspended, as he was doing all sorts of aerial stunts up there. Laugh! Yes, but I was scared. But he's a nice man—well, I mean you're all nice."

"Of course, my dear—ahem—miss," added J. Henry C., with becoming modesty.

Land sakes! What a long time it took to see everything in New Jersey's building. The trio thought it wouldn't be a fair thing to just hastily rush through, don't you know. That wasn't to be thought of, so, as they looked over everything and resolved themselves into ? ?

"That's a great display," said J. Henry.

"Tip-top," said James G.

"Yes; she's very nice—I mean it is very nice," added Edward F., as they raised their hats and bowed and made tracks for the boat.

CLEANING UP ALLEY.

Property Owners Subscribe $600 for the Purpose.

Inspired by civic pride the owners of property situated along Pruden's alley, have subscribed $600 for the purpose of having the alley macadamized and otherwise improved. The Common Council, at its regular meeting, last night, granted two electric lights to be located in the alley.

In connection with these improvements, S. Scheuer & Co., who own considerable property there, have decided to put a concrete court yard between its building and the New Plainfield Theatre. This alley has for years been an eyesore to citizens and the movement to improve the thoroughfare is a welcome one on the part of all persons interested.

Gets Receivership.

Vice Chancellor Bergen has appointed Counsellor Francis J. Blatz, of this city, receiver for the New York Milk and Food Supply Company, a New Jersey corporation doing business in this State and New York. The receiver was applied for by stockholders. Judge William Newcorn is counsel for the creditors. The receiver did not know this morning just what shape the company was in.

Take Alston to Elizabeth.

June Alston, the colored youth accused of murder in Warren County, North Carolina, was taken to Elizabeth this morning by Detective-Sergeant John Flynn, for incarceration in the county jail. He will be held there pending extradition proceedings. Chief Kiely expects a North Carolina deputy here tomorrow with the papers.

Fezeo and Bender Fined $3.

Jocko Fezeo and Isaac Bender, of Somerset street, who engaged in a neighborly quarrel last week and called each other all the pet names they could think of, were each fined $3 by Recorder Dolliver in the borough court, yesterday.

DOGS RAN CALF TO DEATH; WANTS THE CITY TO PAY

ODD CLAIM FOR $15 PRESENTED TO THE COMMON COUNCIL.

An unusual claim for damages against the city was presented to the Common Council last night by Mary McCarthy, who lives on West Front street, near Mariner's place. She asked for $15, to compensate her for the loss of an eight weeks old calf, which she alleges was run to death by stray dogs.

The calf was put to pasture in a lot near the McCarthy home. Two dogs started worrying it, and got it to running as fast as its shaky legs could go. The calf ran until it could run no more, and then died of heart failure. The value of the calf was established by unbiased appraisers, James Bolmer and John Lyons, who were called in by the indignant owner to judge the damage.

The claim was sworn to before J. H. Van Winkle. The Council referred it to the Public Affairs Committee.

URGES PROMPT ACTION BUT COUNCIL DELAYS

MAYOR WANTS OVERHEAD WIRE INSPECTION AT ONCE.

Calling attention to the recommendations of the coroner's jury, appointed to inquire into the facts concerning the death of Clarence H. Weekes, on Berkeley avenue, caused by a broken electric light wire, Mr. Fisk in a message to Council last night declared that there are many places throughout the city where wires need attention and he suggested that an inspection of them be made under the direction of the shade tree commission; that every precaution should be taken to prevent a reptition of the Berkeley avenue fatality. The Mayor, in urging that an electrical expert be appointed to inspect the wires of the city, declared that the expense should be borne by the Public Service Corporation. He said that conditions require immediate action and that an appropriation should be made for this work out of unappropriated funds. The communication from Mr. Fisk was referred to the lights and tree committee.

Later in the evening Mr. Montgomery, referring to the death of Mr. Weekes, offered a resolution providing for the inspection of overhead electric light wires, as suggested by Mayor Fisk. The resolution was considered too sweeping in its provisions as it did not specify a definite amount to be expended for the work. For this reason it was referred back to the committee and later it will come up in more definite form.

SOMERSET'S FREEHOLDERS TRANSACT MINOR BUSINESS

Decide to Improve Rocky Hill Road —Bridge Examination.

The Somerset County Board of Chosen Freeholders met yesterday to view the road at Rocky Hill, recently improved under the State Aid Road act. It was the opinion of the members that more stone should be put on the road in certain places and that the ditches should be opened. The committee on the road was authorized to view the work when completed and report.

It was ordered that Union avenue be closed during the construction of the bridge near DuMont's. The matter of examining certain sites for bridges at Raritan was referred. Garret Durling presented a claim for $15 for damages incurred to his rig during the repairing of a bridge in Montgomery township.

County Assessors Return Books.

Tax assessors from all parts of Union county went to Elizabeth today and presented a duplicate copy of their books to the Union County Board of Taxation. Up to 2 o'clock this afternoon all of the books were returned with the exception of two or three and it is believed that they will be presented before night. The County Board of Taxation will not attempt to go over the books until all are returned. The figures as submitted by the assessors are subject to revision and any figures published in advance cannot be depended upon as being correct.

Arrest Follows Neighborly Quarrel.

On the complaint of Julius Stiger, of Prideville, Patrick Reagan, a neighbor, was arrested yesterday on a disorderly charge. The warrant sets forth that the trouble occurred on Saturday, when the men had an altercation. Mr. Reagan has engaged S. S. Swackhamer to represent him at a hearing to be held tomorrow night.

NINE BRICK PAVE BIDS

Alleged Irregularity on McGovern's Part Will Lose Him the Contract.

HASSAM BID IS SECOND

And C. M. Meeker Third—Result to Be Announced on Next Monday Night.

Contrary to expectation there were nine bids received at the August meeting of the Common Council, last night, for brick pavement, as proposed by the ordinance recently adopted. While the street committee believed there would be several bids, they did not think that there would be so many. It was impossible for the street committee to determine the lowest bidder last night and for that reason an adjournment was taken until Monday night, when this will be announced as will also the lowest bidders for the sanitary sewer and Plainfield avenue storm sewer.

Roughly estimating it was the opinion that T. J. McGovern, of Trenton, was about the lowest, with the Hassam Company a close second. Some of the bidders specified a certain kind of vitrified brick, while others named several kinds, giving prices on each. The Hassam Paving Company, of Worcester, Mass., submitted four bids, each naming a certain kind of brick.

The bidders were as follows:

Eveline Brothers, New Britain, Conn.; Russell Contracting Company, New York; M. Noonan, Germantown, Philadelphia; Reeves Smith, New Britain, Pa.; J. F. Kirwin & Co., New Brunswick; Hassam Paving Company, Worcester, Mass., four bids; McManus & Hillpott, Bound Brook; C. M. Meeker, Plainfield; T. J. McGovern, Trenton.

The bids were all referred to the street committee, and with City Engineer A. J. Gavett will work out the details to ascertain the lowest bidder and whether it conforms strictly to the specifications and the surety is all right.

The principal estimates per yard were T. J. McGovern, Trenton, with Leighton brick, $2.20; Hassam Paving Company, Worcester, Mass., Leighton brick, $2.22; C. M. Meeker, Plainfield, Pennsylvania Clay Company brick, $2.39. The result will largely depend on the quality of brick used. Samples of the various brick specified in the bids have been sent to Newark, where they will be given a thorough test.

City Engineer Gavett said this morning that owing to the fact that the check for $300 accompanying the bid of T. J. McGovern, of Trenton, being improperly drawn, the bid had been thrown out. C. M. Meeker's bid was third lowest. It will be impossible to determine the successful bidder until the street committee makes a selection of the brick to be used. It is expected that a report will be received on the test at the meeting of the street committee, Wednesday night, so that the contract may be awarded at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council Monday night.

The stage was attractively decorated with American flags and a large streamer bearing the firm's name and the purpose of the trip.

BAMBERGER'S
"THE ALWAYS BUSY STORE"
MARKET, HALSEY & BANK STS.

Monster Deal in Women's Garments.

The Crowning Achievement of a Great Department.

A gigantic merchandising coup—a masterstroke in the direction of real economy. We sustained such losses as good store keeping demands early in the season and disposed of all surplus lines of summer garments. This left us in a receptive condition—unburdened—free to act, and now when other stores are vainly striving to rid themselves of odd lots, left overs and uncertain styles, the great Bamberger organization comes to the fore with a sale of fresh, new desirable summer suits, coats and skirts at practically half their former worth. The entire surplus and made up stocks of four of New York's leading designers now in our store and we shall inaugurate a sale Wednesday that will positively mark an epoch in value giving, and establish a new record for August selling at the State's greatest outerwear store. Eight big lots conveniently arranged on racks and tables—eight great bargain offerings that all Newark and vicinity will be talking about by this time tomorrow.

One of our clients owed $48 between four people. His salary is $14 weekly; rent $12 monthly. To have paid $2 weekly to each creditor, combined with rent, would have left only $3 per week to meet expenses, buy clothing, etc.—an impossibility you will agree. He borrowed $50, paid all his creditors, made his future credit good, if ever needed; pays his rent, the loan payments, and has $9 each week to use as his judgment dictates.

A Snowslide of Towels
In Jersey's Biggest Towel Sale

Forty big, bulging cases of mill ends and surplus stock go into this annual event.

If you could see the great piles of towels in our receiving room now being sorted for the big sale that begins tomorrow, you would better appreciate the magnitude of the purchase we have made.

Forty Great Cases—think how many towels that means. Why, we could have a big sale with ten cases!

To outdo all the towel selling records of the past is a task we might well have hesitated to undertake, but determined to march along the path of progress and to overshadow all sales previously held, we bought this great lot of goods, and tomorrow will spread a feast that will bring thousands. We will have a sale that will go down in the annals of trade as unequaled.

The Towels are good—not all strictly perfect, for many have slight mill imperfections which you will scarcely notice.

The Towels are cheap—the prices are cut away below usual selling prices.

All kinds of Towels in the big lot—Turkish Towels, large and small—everything from the little Wash Cloth to the great Bath Sheets and Bath Mats.

GOLF.

Rival attractions are presented to the golfers this week. In addition to the annual invitation fixture at the Shinnecock Hills Golf Club on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, there will be a tournament the same days at Maplewood, N. H. The program for the latter affair provides for both amateurs and professionals.

Liberal purses have been offered for the "pros," and a high class entry has already been assured. Among those who have signified their intention of taking part are Alec Ross, of Brae Burn, the national open championship; Gilbert Nicholls, winner of the professional tournament at Van Cortlandt Park last week; Alec Smith, former national open title holder, and a number of others almost equally prominent.

Jerome D. Travers, of Montclair, the national amateur champion, has entered, and so has Bryce Evans, one of the strongest of the Boston set. Besides the seventy-two holes of medal play there is to be a special four-ball match, in which Travers and Smith will be opposed to Nicholls and Ross.

Although Travers, who won the Shinnecock tournament a year ago, will be absent, it is expected that a fairly strong field will be on hand. Walter J. Travis, of Garden City, generally plays at Shinnecock, and it is quite likely that Charles B. Macdonald, H. J. Whigham, A. H. Larkin, Robert Abbott and J. Whitney Baker will be among the starters.

According to the conditions the golfers will qualify in sets of eights. Last year Travers defeated Travis in one of the early rounds, and followed this up by disposing of Howard W. Perrin, of Philadelphia, in the final. The Shinnecock course is now in excellent condition.

A large number of the leading amateur golfers of the country would like to see a different date selected for the national amateur championship tournament. Of late years the United States Golf Association has been in the habit of selecting a week in July, which is a trifle too early, especially for the Western players. For instance, H. Chandler Egan, twice holder of the title, had only about three weeks' practice for the recent championship at Cleveland.

This also tells the story in many other cases, not only in the West, but over Boston way, where a large percentage of the amateurs rarely get fairly started in the competitive game until the later part of June. Here in the metropolitan district the situation is not quite so bad, although not a few of the best players claim they rarely succeed in getting at the top of their game much before the latter part of the summer. An early date is also detrimental to the chances of the college players, who are occupied with their studies during June. It is safe to say that if the question were put to a vote among the leading amateurs they would favor a fall date. The matter is likely to be brought up again at the next annual meeting of the United States Golf Association.

DIAMOND DUST.

The Y. M. C. A. aggregation has been making a strong bid for the amateur championship, but it could not quite measure up to the steady, consistent ball played by Clinton Avenue. They were picked by many early in the season as winners of the pennant and the prediction now looks like a certainty.

Nevertheless it was a disappointment to many fans that the association boys failed to make a better showing on Saturday. Dupee was rather easy for the Clinton Avenues, for they secured thirteen hits off his delivery, while Randolph allowed but four, and some of the more expert fans would give them but two singles.

It will now be up to Scotch Plains to make the remaining games of the league schedule interesting for Clinton Avenue and there is no doubt but that they will try and do so.

Raritan is reported to have dropped out of the amateur league. It is not surprising. The team was not in the class with the other teams and starting so late in the season could not hope to make any kind of a showing. The aggregation failed to win a game during its stay in the league.

Dave Fultz, the former center fielder of the New York Americans and now a practicing lawyer in New York, was playing second base on the Yonkers Y. M. C. A. team a few days ago, when a batted ball struck him on the nose. The nose was broken, the injury being a compound fracture. He has had several accidents playing baseball, although he went through several seasons of football without a scratch.

Jim McGuire has signed a contract to manage the Boston Americans again next year.

With Willie Keeler and Hal. Chase both laid up with injuries, the Highlanders are deprived of two of their fastest men on the bases.

lice, because the interested parties did not want to get "into the limelight." A woman had been held up on Carlton avenue by a man, but by the vigorous use of an umbrella she chased her assailant away before he inflicted any injury.

The ordinance to vacate Prescott place was adopted on third reading without opposition, as were also the ordinances prohibiting the unnecessary blocking of sidewalks, and streets and giving a person permission to move a building from one point on their property to another point on the same land without a permit.

Sewer Report Filed.

The report of the sewer commissioners, R. A. Meeker, S. P. T. Wilbur and Harry B. MacDonald, which was read at a previous meeting, was confirmed and ordered field, after a public hearing was granted, and no one appearing to speak for or against the assessments.

After paying all the bills, except the one of the Public Service Corporation, for street lighting, which is in dispute, the meeting adjourned to Monday night, August 12.

SAY PRISON LABOR IS USED.

Striking Shirtmakers Charge Employers With Illegal Methods.

Officials of the Shirtmakers' Union, which has 1,200 members involved in a lockout, announced yesterday that they are going to make a complaint to the authorities concerning alleged violations of the prison labor laws. The charge of alleged violation was contained in a letter from a shirtmaker in Trenton. In part, his letter reads:

"Inasmuch as the shirtmakers strike is now in progress, I deem it my duty as a workman at the same trade to inform you that while the strike is in progress a portion of the work is being done in the State Prison of New Jersey. It is a fact that the contractors of the shirt shop in the prison are violating the law."

Members of the union say that if the charge be true it is no wonder that the manufacturers are not in a hurry to settle with the union.

At 74 Years Slays Husband.

Stroudsburg, Pa., Aug. 6.—The killink of John Neuman, aged seventy-five years, by his wife, aged seventy-four, has created a decided sensation in Pike county. Neuman and his aged spouse engaged in a quarrel at their home, in Blooming Grove township. Neuman, it is alleged, seized a butcher knife and attacked his wife. To defend herself she caught a hammer and struck her husband on the head, which stunned and felled him to the floor. Then she procured a pitchfork and pierced his body with the prongs. She hid the body in a field.

WIFE, BABY, AND PETS DID IT.

Domestic Combination in Court Saves Young Husband From Jail.

The tears and pleadings of the young wife of Julio Kehnke softened the heart of Recorder George W. Cadman, of Bloomfield, yesterday, and saved Wehnke from serving a term in prison.

The husband had been arrested on the charge of stealing a watch from a customer of the firm by whom he had been employed. Wehnke had entered a house in Bellevue avenue to deliver some goods, and when a servant's back was turned it was alleged he stole the watch. Chief of Police Colline found the timepiece in his possession.

Just as Recorder Cadmus was about to send Wehnke to jail his young wife entered the police station and pleaded for his release.

"I ran away from home to marry him," she said. "Please let him go."

Mrs. Wehnke brought to court with her a baby, a black kitten, and a dog. "I couldn't leave them behind," she explained to the judge.

The combination was too much for the kind-hearted court.

"Go and sin no more," he said to the prisoner, "and you can thank your wife for saving you from a term in prison. Her presence here did it."

Troops May Enforce R. R. Law.

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 6.—Sensational developments are expected very soon in the situation growing out of the official revocation of the Southern Railway Company's license to do business in this State. Governor Comer has been in close consultation here today with the State's attorneys on the railroad question. Wholesale arrests for violating the railroad laws may begin at any moment, and the Governor may send out notices through the Attorney General to have every person connected with the railroad violating the laws arrested and tried under the criminal provisions of the various railroad regulation bills. The Southern Railway is still doing inter-state business, and no move has been made to comply with the revoking of its license.

Strangles Her Two Babes.

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 6.—During a recurrence of insanity which has caused her to be thrice confined in an insane asylum, Mrs. Christine Nenadal, twenty-six years old, the wife of Joseph Nenadal, strangled yesterday morning her two small children, Mary, two years old, and Yarosalov, a year and three months old. Mrs. Nenadal informed neighbors that she was going to dress the children and take them out. Not long afterward suspicion was aroused by sounds coming from the Nenadal home. Neighbors tried to enter, but found all the doors locked. A policeman broke open the door, but was too late to save the children. Mrs. Nenadal is under arrest.

Dying for Revenge.

New York, Aug. 6.—To die so that men who wounded him might go to the death chair is the Oriental method of revenge which the police ascribe to Edouard Correnio, of Cromwell avenue and 170th street, the Bronx, who is dying in Fordham Hospital. Three men attacked him last Wednesday night near his home, and now he has blood poisoning. Physicians in the hospital have told Correnio that his life can be saved if he will permit an operation for the removal of one leg. "If I'm going to die," he replied, "I might as well die. If I live to go out I shall kill my assailants and then I'll die in the electric chair anyway. I might as well die now."

Peanuts Better Than Beef.

Berkeley, Cal., Aug. 6.—Professor M. E. Joffa, the nutrition expert of the State University, has issued a bulletin on nuts. He says that ten cents' worth of peanuts contain more protein than roast beef and six times the amount of energy in porterhouse steak. Professor Joffa is an authority on nuts and other rticles of food. He has been a scientist connected with the University for thirty years. He is to resign soon to take the more lucrative post of chief chemist for the State Board of Health. He is to act as expert for the Board in its campaign against food adulteration throughout the State.

Lynching Spirit Grows.

New York, Aug. 6—Two more attempts at lynching came to light yesterday, following charges made by girls against Italians. One of the cases was in Williamsburg, the other in Staten Island. Stirred to action, Acting Police Commissioner O'Keeffe demanded that five hundred additional policemen be appointed at once to work exclusively on the particular crimes now stirring the city.

Woman's Eye Scratched Out.

Mrs. Thomas B. Gerard, of Wood Glen, near Changewater, has lost the sight of her right eye by a cat's scratch. She saw a strange cat enter her house a day or two ago, and endeavored to drive it out. The cat ran in a bedroom and sprang upon the bed. When Mrs. Gerard attempted to catch the animal it jumped at her face. In addition to the loss of her eye, Mrs. Gerard is suffering from severe lacerations of the face.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The announcement in last night's Press that Taylor Mahaffey, the popular third baseman of the local league team, had accepted an offer from the Ampersand team of Saranac Lake, N. Y., came as a surprise to the local fans. While it was known that Taylor had considered several offers to join faster company still it was hoped that the locals would be able to hold him for the balance of the season. Mahaffey was one of the most popular men on the team. His stick work will be missed by the local, but while Scotch Plains loses him he has the best wishes of all and there is no doubt but what he will make good.

Much depends on Saturday's game with Clinton Avenue, which will be played on the local diamond. If Clinton Avenue wins the race for the pennant will practically be over as they will have a clear lead of two games. The game the home team is putting up should give them a fair chance to do the trick and give them a set-back in the race.

Miss Laura Boornmann entertained her class in the Baptist Sunday-school at a lawn party at her home on Westfield road yesterday afternoon. The afternoon was pleasantly spent in games, after which refreshments were served.

Rev. Mr. Arthur and family, of Jersey City, are spending several weeks at Mrs. F. N. Flanders. Mr. Arthur is pastor of the North Baptist, one of Jersey City's largest churches.

Mrs. Charles Backer, of Netherwood avenue, has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Robert Jahn, of Park avenue.

Andrew Reilly, who has been visiting relatives in Washington Valley, has returned to his home in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. George Harper, of Front street, have been entertaining relatives from Bound Brook.

Mrs. Robert Walpole was the guest of relatives in Newark yesterday.

LAKE HOPATCONG.

Elmer Ackor, Arthur Humble, Edgar George, Charles Steiner, John Steiner and George Force were guests Sunday at Camp Um-ta-ra-ra, which is under the supervision of Stryker Hoagland and Carl Steiner, of North Plainfield.

Carl Steiner is entered in the swimming race of seventy-five yards, on Saturday. Carl is almost certain of winning one of the prizes, as he is considered one of the best swimmers in the Plainfield Y. M. C. A.

Stryker Hoagland, of North Plainfield, and Robert Benninger, of Brooklyn, are making strenuous efforts toward winning a prize next Saturday in the canoe races.

Camp Ram's Horn, under the management of Jack Hall and Tom DeMeza, is flourishing and the "broad smile" of each guest indicates that they are well fed.

E. Arthur Janke, of Ninth street, and Arlington avenue, won second prize for the best decorated launch in Saturday's regatta.

H. A. Bird is doing the lake with a view camera. He succeeded in landing a "chromo," of Camp Ram's Horn.

F. T. Woodhull has entered his new launch in the boat regatta on Saturday.

Truman Bilyeu was among the Plainfielders who spent Sunday at the lake.

Politics are beginning to warm up and hosts of presidential candidates are already in the field, but it doesn't seem to us as if the presidential nominee is of half as much interest to the majority of Plainfield people just at this moment as the fact that seasonable footwear for men, women and children can be bought at VanArsdale's "Watermelon Cutting" at a big discount from regular prices. RESENTENCE SCHUYLER TO HANG AUGUST 30

ASK FOR SPECIAL SESSION OF PARDON BOARD FOR MURDERER'S CASE.

John E. Schuyler was sentenced by Supreme Judge John Reed yesterday afternoon, at Flemington, to hang August 30, for the murder of Manning Riley. Schuyler was to have expiated his crime June 28, but was granted a stay when the case was presented before the court of errors and appeals, which body refused to grant him a new trial.

Schuyler was brought in the court room closely guarded by a squad of constables and Deputy Sheriff Dilts. He was not handcuffed, and walked with a firm, quick step, taking a seat beside his counsel. His hair was carefully combed, and he wore the same natty suit he had on during the trial. He was unmoved throughout the ordeal, and sprang to his feet quickly when Judge Reed said: "Stand up, John."

His features indicated abject illiteracy, and the stolid indifference with which he received his sentence was commented upon by those who have crowded into the court room.

After sentence he talked with his counsel a few minutes, and walked back to his cell with a firm step. He made no comments upon the sentence, other than proclaiming he was innocent of the crime for which he must hang.

The regular meeting of the court of pardons will not be held until November, but Schuyler's counsel will ask the Governor to summon the body to listen to an application to have his sentence commuted to life imprisonment.

Bomb Thrown at Revivalist.

Greenwich, Conn., Aug. 6.—Incited by a story that Henry Spilkins, an itinerant Portuguese evangelist, who has been holding Pentecostal revival meetings composed largely of white people in the vicinity of Pemberwick, was practising mesmerism on a white woman, a mob burst into the house of Alvah Wood, a white man, where Spilkins was discoursing Sunday night, and threw a bomb containing a dangerous liquid, dispersing the meeting and wounding Spilkins. Though no one was seriously injured, many were shaken up, burned and lacerated.

Do you know we have a fine line of goods, well selected, and properly kept?

Have you noticed the Hygrometers in the case? Tells us just the proper moisture all the time for the even keeping of our cigars. The old way—wet sponge in the case—cigars too wet one day, all dried out the next. Result, wrappers brittle, flavor spoiled. We have the finest case made for cigars.

All the old favorites—Glorias, Chesterfields, Thoroughbreds, Dru Murio, Black and White, Cuba-Roma, Lord Carver, Manuel Garcia's, and many others. Come in, and see our outfit.

Plainfield in the Olden Days...

From the issue of August 28, 1869:

"Two narrow escapes from kerosene explosions were experienced in our city. In both cases, the lamps were discovered to be blazing from the top of the chimney, and the wicks charred to the fluid, and liable to explode the next instant. In one case the lamp stood within three feet of a bed, where reposed sleeping children. Providentially the danger was discovered in time, by the parents entering the room, and the lamps extinguished. Had it not been discovered in time, we might have to record a serious tragedy. Too much care cannot be exercised in the use of kerosene oil nowadays."

"The 2nd nine of 'Centrals' played a match game of baseball with the 'Niagaras,' of Scotch Plains, and were defeated by a score of 31 to 16. The return game will be played on the grounds of the Centrals on Friday next."

"The special train conveying the Presidential party over the Central R. R. last Thursday, made the unprecedented time of 1 hour and 43 minutes from Easton to Jersey City, stopping 6 minutes at Somerville and 1 minute at Elizabeth. They didn't stop here."

"Ulysses the Great passed through our city on Thursday last. The cannon boomed, the depot was draped, and a goodly crowd of loyal citizens were in attendance to give him a welcome. After waiting patiently for 3 hours, the great man was whisked past the depot like a meteor, never stopping to shake hands with his friends, or even accept a small basket of fine peaches and cigars which was to be presented to him. A telegram, however, was thrown from the passing train, stating that the train was one hour and a half behind time and could not stop at Plainfield."

"The sound of the 2d Presbyterian church bell strikes upon the ear like the fall of a watermelon from a third story window."

"Our worthy friend, S. H. Smith, met with a disagreeable accident on Friday afternoon last. It seems that Smith, as real estate agent, was showing a New Yorker some land in the vicinity of the city, and had hired a horse and carriage of Mr. P. H. Stryker to convey them to the property in question. On returning to the depot they found they were some minutes in advance of the arrival of the 2:48 train to New York, and the New Yorker expressed a desire to look at another piece of property nearby. A freight train was shifting cars across Peace street and the carriage occupied by Smith and his companion was so near to them that there was not room to go forward and turn, and Smith told the New Yorker, who was driving, to back around and they would get out. Instead of doing so, he attempted to drive and turn, and the consequence was that he turned so short that the carriage was upset, spilling the occupants into the street; the horse, taking fright, started off on a run, breaking the shafts and harness, and slightly tearing the curtains. The horse was secured in a short time, uninjured. The New Yorker was badly scared, but beyond a few slight scratches and a liberal coating of the dust (with which our city abounds at present) was not injured. Mr. Smith was slightly bruised about the shoulders."

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

A run of eight months at the Broadway theatre, New York, and of three months at the Colonial, in Chicago, is the record of the new musical comedy, "The Vanderbilt Cup," which opens the season at the New Plainfield theatre next Saturday afternoon and night, with the same lavishness of detail that distinguished its metropolitan run. The big cast of sixty is said to contain nearly all of the original principals, augmented by a crowd of famous Broadway beauties arrayed in the very latest styles of motor apparel. The musical numbers promise to be unusually catchy and include "My Little Chauffeur," "My Houseboat Beau," "The Light That Lies In Girlish Eyes," and "Somewhere in the World." The story is an up-to-the-minute portrayal of life among the smart automobile set, and hinges upon the great Vanderbilt cup race, which is run at Mineola, Long Island, every year by motorists from all over the world. The dialogue is said to be delightfully clever, and much satire is indulged in at the expense of those auto enthusiasts who rush about the continent in their costly touring cars. Barney Oldfield's great idea, the real motor race on the stage, is a "big" feature of the piece. Two 90-horse power racing machines, running at high speed, crash on the stage, amid all the roar, dust and excitement of a real race, and it is said, audience fairly get out of the chairs to see the finish.

After the racing days are ofer, horses of the turf often get jobs as actors. The horse actor is selected partly for his looks, and partly for his intelligence. When such plays as "Playing the Ponies," "Ben Hur," "Prince of India" and "County Fair" are on the boards, there is a lively demand for these clever equines. In dramas like "Ben Hur" and "The County Fair" the illusion of galloping is produced by means of a treadmill on a level with the boards, but with "Playing the Ponies" the horses actually gallop across the stage with the full speed. It takes weeks and months of rehearsals to accustom even intelligent race horses to the requirements of the stage, consequently the experienced actors are always preferred. The "Playing the Pony" squadron consists entirely of old timers who know the stage from A to Izzad. The other evening the manager of the Yorke and Adams company thoughtfully arranged an interview with "Lady Love," the handsome bay. "Lady Love" had just been handed her salary on the scoop consisting of a generous bag of oats. "Diablo," the favorite of the company, immediately commenced to neigh because he had been fined a quart of oats for buying him, and he spoke up. "I have been on the stage seven years," he neighed, "and I am seriously thinking of buying a country place and retiring. I have appeared in eight big productions and the glare of the footlights is beginning to tell on my eyes. When I was in 'Ben Hur' I worked harder on that confounded treadmill than when I was winning handicaps. By the way, pardon me just a minute, I have some inside information on the fourth race today and I want to place a small bet. 'Stage life' has but little fascination for me," he resumed in a few minutes. "If I can get a chance it would be different, but Mazeppa is about the only play that affords stellar opportunities. Now if Aaron Hoffman would only write me a play I might decide to stay on the boards. I should get a star's dressing room anyway then, and, you know the smaller dressing rooms are terrible. I may go into vaudeville. Keith & Proctor made me a big offer the other day, but you know art is not everything in vaudeville, and—still, the salary is very tempting. How does the house look tonight? Did you notice what a fine reception I got on my entrance? Do you know Yorke and Adams actually think it's them. Let them ride on there on a hobby horse and they'd soon find out who the applause was for. 'Lady Love' gives me so much trouble, you know she's an amateur and when any of the chorus girls come near her, she's liable to tear their clothes. Well I am sorry that I have to leave you, but I got to take my make up off and go home." "Playing the Ponies," Yorke and Adams' new production, will hold the boards at the New Plainfield theatre on August 12.

There was a silence, and then I heard an indescribable fluttering rush that told as plainly as sight could have done that a woman had answered her heart's call. Looking up involuntarily, I saw a sight that for a long moment held my eyes as if I had been fascinated. It was Bob bowed forward with his face hidden in his hands and beside him, on her knees, Beulah Sands, her arms about his neck, his head drawn down to her bosom. "Bob, Bob," she said chokingly, "I cannot stand it any longer. My heart is breaking for you. You were so happy when I came into your life, and the happiness is changed to misery and despair, and all for me, a stranger. At first I thought of nothing but father and how to save him, but since that day when those men struck at your heart, I have

"Bob, Forgive Me, But I Love You, Love You, Bob."

"What? Beulah, what? For the love of God, don't stop; tell me, Beulah, tell me." He had not lifted his head. It was buried on her breast, his arms closed around her. She bent her head and laid her beautiful, soft cheek, down which the tears were now streaming, against his brown hair. "Bob, forgive me, but I love you, love you, Bob, as only a woman can love who has never known love before, never known anything but stern duty. Bob, night after night when all have left I have crept into your office and sat in your chair. I have laid my head on your desk and cried and cried until it seemed as though I could not live till morning without hearing you say that you loved me, and that you did not mind the ruin I had brought into your life. I have patted the back of your chair where your dear head had rested. I have covered the arms of your chair, that your strong, brave hands had gripped, with kisses. Night after night I have knelt at your desk and prayed to God to shield you, to protect you from all harm, to brush away the black cloud I brought into your life. I have asked Him to do with me, yes, with my father and mother, anything, anything if only He would bring back to you the happiness I had stolen. Bob, I have suffered, suffered, as only a woman can suffer."

She was sobbing as though her heart would break, sobbing wildly, convulsively, like the little child who in the night comes to its mother's bed to tell of the black goblins that have been pursuing it. Long before she had finished speaking—and it took only a few heart-beats for that rush of words—I had broken the power of the fascination that held me, had turned away my eyes, and tried not to listen.

For fear of breaking the spell, I did not dare cross the room to close Beulah's door or to reach the outer door of my office, which was nearer hers than it was to my desk. I waited—through a silence, broken only by Beulah's weeping, that seemed hour-long. Then in Bob's voice came one low sob of joy:

"Beulah, Beulah, my Beulah!"

I realized that he had risen. I rose, too, thinking that now I could close the door. But again I saw a picture that transfixed me. Bob had taken Beulah by both shoulders and he held her off and looked into her eyes long and beseechingly. Never before nor since have I seen upon human face that glorious joy which the old masters sought to get into the faces of their worshippers who, kneeling before Christ, tried to send to Him, through their eyes, their soul's gratitude and love. I stood as one enthralled. Slowly and as reverently as the living lover touches the brow of his dead wife, Bob bent his head and kissed her forehead. Again and again he drew her to him and implanted upon her brow and eyes and lips his kisses. I could not stand the scene any longer. I started to the corridor door, and then, as though for the first time either had known I was within hearing, they turned and stared at me. At last Bob gave a long, deep sigh, then one of those reluctant laughs of happiness yet wet with sobs.

"Well, Jim, dear old Jim, where did you come from? Like all eavesdroppers, you have heard no good of yourself. Own up, Jim, you did not hear a word good or bad about yourself, for it is just coming back to me that we have been selfish, that we have left you entirely out of our business conference."

We all laughed, and Beulah Sands, with her face a bloom of burning blushes, said: "Mr. Randolph, we have not settled what it is best to do about father's affairs."

After a little we did begin to talk business, and finally agreed that Beulah should write her father, wording her letter as carefully as possible, to avoid all direct statements, but showing him that she had made but little headway on the work she had come north to accomplish. Bob was a changed being now; so, too, was Beulah Sands. Both discussed their hopes and fears with a frankness in strange contrast to their former manner. But there was one point on which Bob showed he was holding back. I finally put it to him bluntly: "Bob, are you working out anything that looks like real relief for Miss Sands and her father?"

"I don't know how to answer you, Jim. I can only say I have some ideas, radical ones perhaps, but—well, I am thinking along certain lines."

I saw he was not yet willing to take us into his confidence. We parted, Bob going along in the cab with Miss Sands.

Two days afterward she sent for us both as soon as we got to the office.

"I have this telegram from father—it makes me uneasy: 'Mailed to-day important letter. Answer as soon as you receive.'"

The following afternoon the letter came. It showed Judge Sands in a very nervous, uneasy state. He said he had been living a life of daily terror, as some of his friends, for whose estates he was trustee, had been receiving anonymous letters, advising them to look into the judge's trust affairs; that the Reinhart crowd had been using renewed pressure to make him let go all his Seaboard stock, which they wanted to secure at the low prices to which they had depressed it, in order that they might reorganize and carry out the scheme they had been so long planning. Judge Sands went on to say that the day he was compelled to sell his Seaboard stock he would have to make public an announcement of his condition, as there could be no sale without the court's consent. His closing was:

My dear daughter, no one knows better than I the almost hopelessness of expecting any relief from your operations. But so hopeless have I become of late, so much am I reliant upon you, my dear child, and eternal hope so springs in all of us when confronted with great necessities, that I have hoped and still hope that you are to be the savior of your family; that you, only a frail child, are through God's marvellous workings to be the one to save the honor of that name we both love more than life; the one to keep the wolf of poverty from that door through which so far has come nothing but the sunshine of prosperity and happiness; the one, my dear Beulah, who is to save your old father from a dishonored grave. Dear child, forgive me for placing upon your weak shoulders the additional burden of knowing I am now helpless and compelled to rely absolutely upon you. After you have read my letter, if there is no hope, I command you to tell me so at once, for although I am now financially and almost mentally helpless, I am still a Sands, and there has never yet been one of the name who shirked his duty, however stern and painful it might be.

When I handed the letter back to Miss Sands, she said:

"Mr. Randolph, let me tell you and Mr. Brownley a little about my father and our home, that you may see our situation as it is. My father is one of the noblest men that ever lived. I am not the only one who says that—if you were to ask the people of our state to name the one man who had done most for the state as a state, most for her progressive betterment, most for her people high and low, white and black, they would answer, 'Judge Lee Sands.' He has been, and is, the idol of our people. After he was graduated from Harvard, he entered the law office of my grandfather, Senator Robert Lee Sands. Before he was 30 he was in congress and was even then reputed the greatest orator of our state, where orators are so plentiful. He married my mother, his second cousin, Julia Lee, of Richmond, at 25, and from then until the attack of that ruthless money shark, led a life such as a true man would map out for himself if his Maker granted him the privilege. You would have to visit at our home to appreciate my father's character and to understand how terrible this sorrow is to him. Every morning of his life he spends an hour after breakfast with my dear mother, who is a cripple from hip disease. He takes her in his arms and brings her down from her room to the library as if she were a child. He then reads to her—and he knows good books as well as he knows his friends. After he takes mother back to her room, he gives an hour to our people, the blacks of the plantation and his white tenants throughout the county. He is a father to them all. He settles all their troubles, big and little. Then for hours he and I go over his business affairs. Every afternoon from four to five he devotes to his estates and the men and women for whom he acts as trustees. He has often said to me: 'We have a clear million of money and property, and that is all any man should have in America. It is all he is entitled to under our form of government. Any more than that an honest man should in one way or another return to the people from whom he has taken it. I never want my family to have more than a million dollars.' When he went into the Seaboard affair, he explained to me that it was to assist the Wilsons—they were old friends, and he acted as their solicitor for years—in building up the south. He discussed with me the right and advisability of putting in the trust funds. He said he considered it his duty to employ them as he did his own in enterprises that would aid the whole people of the south, instead of sending them to the north to be used in Wall street as belting for the 'System' grinder. These fortunes were made in the south by men who loved their section of the country more than they did wealth, and why should they not be employed to benefit that part of the country which their makers and owners loved? I remember vividly how perplexed he was when, at the beginning, the Wilsons would show him that the investments were returning unusually large profits.

"'It is not right, Beulah,' he said to me one morning after receiving a letter from Baltimore to the effect that Seaboard stock and bonds had advanced until his investment showed over 50 per cent. profit, 'it is not right for us to make this money. No man in America should make over legal rates of interest and a fair profit on an investment, that is, an investment of capital pure and simple, particularly in a transportation company, where every dollar of profit comes from the people who patronize the lines. I have worked it out on every side, and it is not right; it would not be legal if the people, who make the laws for their own betterment, understood their affairs as they should.'

"He was always writing to the Wilsons to conduct the affairs of the Seaboard so that there would be remaining each day only profits enough to keep the road up and the wharves in good condition and to pay the annual interest and a fair dividend. And when the Wilsons came to our house to lay before him the offer of Reinhardt and his fellow plunderers to pay enormous profits for the control of the seaboard, he was indignant and argued with them that the offer was an insult to honest men. It was he who advised the trusteeship control of the Seaboard stock to prevent Reinhart from securing control. I sat in the library when he talked to the elder Wilson and the directors.

"He appealed directly to John Wilson to make an effort to stop the growing tendency to use the people as pawns to enslave themselves and their children. He said some man of undoubted probity, standing, and wealth, some one whom the people trusted, must start the fight against these New York fiends, whose only thought is to roll up wealth. And he told John Wilson he was the man, since he had great wealth, honestly got by his father and grandfather; no one would accuse him of being a hypocrite, seeking notoriety, and his standing in the financial world was so old and solid that it would have to listen to him. I remember how emphatically father said: 'I tell you, John, even the discussion of such a proposition as that scoundrel Reinhart makes is degrading to an American's honor.' He said it didn't make the least difference if Reinhart counted his millions by the score, and was director in 30 or 40 great institutions, and gave a fortune every year for charity to the church—that he was a blackleg just the same. And so is any man, he said, who dares to say he will take the stock of a transportation company, which represents a certain amount of money invested and double or multiply it by five and ten, simply because he can compel people to pay exorbitant fares and freight rates and so get profits on this fraudulently increased capital.

"Mr. Randolph, I Could Not Tell My Father a Lie Even to Save His Life."

"It was the decision arrived at by father and the Wilsons at this meeting, a decision to refuse in any circumstances to allow our southern people to be bled by the Wall street 'system,' that started Reinhart and his dollar-fiends on the war-path. You can see from what I tell you of my father the terrible condition he is in now. At night, when I get to thinking of him, hoping against hope, with no one to help him, no one with whom he can talk over his affairs, when I think of his nobleness in devoting his time to mother and by sheer will-power concealing from her his awful suffering, it nearly drives me mad."

"Miss Sands, why will you not let me lend you the money necessary to tide your father over for awhile?" I asked.

"You are so good," Mr. Randolph, "but you don't quite understand my father in spite of what I have said. He would not relieve his suffering at the expense of another, not if it were a hundred times more acute. You cannot understand the old-fashioned, deep-rooted pride of the Sands."

"But can you not, at least temporarily disguise from him just how you have arranged the relief?"

Her big blue eyes stared at me in bewilderment.

"Mr. Randolph, I could not deceive my father. I could not tell him a lie even to save his life. It would be impossible. My father abhors a lie. He believes a man or woman who would lie the lowest of the low things on earth. When I go back to my father he will say: 'Tell me what you have done.' I can just see him now, standing between the big white pillars at the end of the driveway. I can hear him saying calmly: 'Beulah, my daughter, welcome. Your mother is waiting for you in her room. Do not lose a moment getting to her.' Afterward he'll take me over the plantation to show me all the familiar things, and not one word will he allow me to say about our affairs until dinner is over, until the neighbors have left, for no Sands returns from long absence without a fitting home welcome. When I have said good night to mother and sister and he has drawn up my rocker in front of his big chair in the library alcove and I've lighted his cigar for him, he will look me in the eye and say: 'Daughter, tell me what you have done.' I would no more think of holding anything back than I would of stabbing him to the heart. No, Mr. Randolph, there is no possibility of relief except in fairly using that $30,000 and fairly winning back what Wall street has stolen from father. Even that will cause both of us many twinges of conscience, and anything more is impossible. If this cannot be done, father must, all of us must, pay the penalty of Reinhart's ruthless act."

Bob had listened, but made no comment until she was through; then he said: "It looks to me as though the market is shaping up so that we may be able to do something soon." It was evident to both of us that he had some plan in mind.

Later we learned that that night Beulah wrote her father a long letter, telling him what she had done; that she had made almost two millions profit from her operations; that they had been lost, and that the outlook was not reassuring. She begged him to prepare himself for the final calamity; promising that if there were no change for the better by December 1, she would come home to be with him when the blow fell. She begged him to prepare to meet it like a Sands, and assure him that if worse came to worst she would earn enough to keep poverty away. Judge Sands would receive this letter the second day following, Friday, the 13th day of November. My God! how well I know the date. It is seared into my brain as though with a white-hot iron.

After our talk with Beulah Sands I begged Bob to dine with me and go over matters at length to see if we could not find a way out to relief.

TO BE CONTINUED.

Joe Doyle, the slow delivery pitcher of the New York Americans, is no easy mark in stick work, as many pitchers have learned. He hits the ball hard and makes his share of pinch hits.

The Detroits are by far the most popular visiting team that plays at American League Park, New York. Among other things, Jennings' coaching is enjoyed because it is bright and there is nothing offensive or personal in it.

The Y. M. C. A. nine will practice hard this week. The players have not given up the pennant chase and will work to win all remaining games trusting to a Clinton Avenue slump.

Arrangements are being made for a game between the Newark News and local newspaper men's nine, in this city.

CHURCH HELPS EVADE LAW.

Sells Saloon-keeper Land Beyond the 200-foot Limit.

Members of the Hebrew Congregation of the People of Truth, in Trenton, are involved in a quarrel over the sale of a tract of land to David Aroniss, a saloon-keeper, for the purpose of defeating the provisions of the State liquor law, which prohibits the establishment of a bar within two hundred feet from a house of worship.

Aroniss desired to open a new saloon on Union street, but measurements showed that his property was only 195 feet from the congregation's synagogue.

To overcome this obstacle he purchased fifteen feet front from the lawn of the place of worship, making the synagogue line 210 feet from the proposed saloon. There was considerable opposition in the congregation to the making of the sale, but it finally went through.

Now Harris Fiestal, one of the members, declares that Aroniss has agreed to give the property back to the synagogue as soon as he secures his license, and that the sale has been made solely for the purpose of defeating the provisions of the law.

A CRUISING SALOON.

Two Elizabeth Men Coining Money in Arthur's Kill.

If the profits netted on Sunday are a fair average for future earnings, two men have hit upon a novel scheme to become speedily prosperous, and to the strict enforcement of the Bishops law they will owe their good fortune. The newly discovered mine is a floating bar.

Since the advent of the tight Sunday in Elizabeth its inhabitants have taken a marked liking to crabbing in Staten Island Sound. Nothing their is nothing like crabbing under the hot sun to beget a thirst. This two Elizabeth men knew and decided to go to the relief of the thirsty. They got out Sunday a trusty yacht and in it stored two dozen kegs of larger and installed an improvised bar.

PEARY READY FOR TRIP.

Explorer Expects to Leave for North Within a Week.

Commander Robert E. Peary, who left Portland, Me., yesterday for New York, where he will complete preparations for his polar expedition, stopped at Boston a shore while yesterday afternoon and told briefly his latest plans.

He said that he had already been delayed thre weeks and it might take another week before he could start from New York. He expects that the new boilers just installed will permit the ship to make considerable faster time to the North than before. The trip from New York to Sydney, C. B., will be made without a stop.

Widow Says Hug Broke Rib.

Cape Girardeau, Mo., Aug. 6.—Mrs. Mary Gode, a widow, living at the Haynes Hotel, says she was hugged so violently by another patron Charles Probst, that one of her ribs was broken, she was internally injured and suffered hemorrhages of the lungs. A physician also says she was undoubtedly injured. Probst is a San Francisco railroad brakeman and is married. He is known about the hotel as a jovial big fellow, fond of jokes. He wife was present at the time of the alleged hugging, and to tease her he says he placed his arms around the widow, but thought that he was only squeezing her gently.

FIX SOMERSET'S BUDGET

The Freeholders Appropriate $150,000 for Current Expenses for the Year.

BOROUGH FARES WELL

Set Aside $3,250 For Bridge Improvement In North Plainfield —After Advertising Sign Men.

A special meeting of the Somerset County Board of Chosen Freeholders was held in the court room in Somerville yesterday. The following estimates were made as to the probable cost of bridges in the respective townships and boroughs during the current year:

Bedminster township, $3,000; Branchburg township, $2,500; Bernards township, $4,000; Bridgewater township, $4,500; Bound Brook Borough, $800; Franklin township, $2,000; Hillsborough township, $2,300; Montgomery township, $1,600; North Plainfield township, $2,300; North Plainfield Borough, $3,250; Warren township, $2,400; total, $28,650.

A resolution that the sum of $150,000 be appropriated for current expenses, debt and interest, public works and all other county expenses for the current year, and be certified to the Somerset County Board of Taxation to be assessed and collected according to law was unanimously adopted.

Member Joseph Fitzga moved that notice be served on Thomas & Co., a Somerville clothing firm, to remove at once their advertising signs from the bridges of the county and that notices bze inserted in the county newspapers to the effect that advertising signs or bills of any character upon the county bridges and county property is forbidden, and that the violation of the notice will be prosecuted to the extent of the law. Carried.

The committee to whom was referred the application of the Board of Managers of the State Epileptic Village for permission to cross the county road at Skillman with a sidetrack from the railroad to the village reported favorably and the application was granted.

The board adjourned until tomorrow at North Branch, when two small concrete bridges that have recently been erected there will be view and if satisfactory accepted.

The Board will meet next Tuesday in regular session.

A MUSICAL TREAT.

New York Artists to Take Part In Affair.

A musicale will be given at Truell Hall, Netherwood, on Friday night at 8:30 o'clock. Among those who will take part are Miss Stella Thomas, contralto, late of Sousa's Band, and now of Pryor's Band; Freeman Wright, tenor, late of London; Arthur Depew, pianist and organist of The Wanamaker Auditorium, New York, and Hallet D. Chapman, accompanist and Angelus expert, also of New York.

A very elaborate program has been arranged and will no doubt be well enjoyed by a.. those who will attend.

The musicale will be under the direction of James W. Casey, representative of the Wanamaker piano store, New York.

William L. Henry a Benedict.

William L. Henry and Miss Elizabeth P. Logan, both of this city, were quietly married Sunday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Armister Jackson, on West Third street, the rector of the Colored Mission at Grace church, officiating. The ceremony was witnessed by a few relatives and intimate friends, and after an informal reception the couple departed on a short wedding journey. The groom is employed by Fred Endress, the West Front street butcher. The couple will reside here.

Auto Frightened Horse.

Charles Graham, of Mt. Bethel, was slightly injured in a runaway accident on East Front street late yesterday afternoon. The horse attached to a runabout he was driving took fright at an automobile near Leland avenue, and its first plunge threw Graham from the seat. He was cut about the face and hands, but did not require medical attention. The horse was caught by Edgar Lewis, of Madison avenue, who seized one of the trailing reins and jerked its head around. The horse fell, but was unhurt.

Shivanski Fined.

The part taken by Schaulson Shivanski in the Polish christening row at South Plainfield cost him $17.50. Justice W. E. Smith fined him that amount at the hearing. Shivanski is said to be the man who started the fuss. Joseph Visoski was fined $7.-90. Joseph Leiss and his wife, the other prisoners, were discharged.

VICE PREST. FAIRBANKS TO ATTEND CELEBRATION

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT MAY ALSO BE AT ELIZABETH AFFAIR.

"No tickles, no confetti" is the edict of the Old Home Week committee, of Elizabeth, announced yesterday, and Elizabeth looks forward to the novelty and a week's carnival without these time honored accompaniments. The committee has determined that this celebration is going to be a dignified one, though promising at the same time that it will be lively enough to attract the attention of the entire State. After seeing the undignified manner in which ticklers and confetti were used by ordinarily staid Bostonians during the recent celebration at the Hub, it was decided that it would be best to put a ban on them here.

Vice President Fairbanks is to be invited to attend the celebration, and the committee is sanguine of his accepting the invitation, as Mr. Fairbanks is known to be very anxious to get in touch with voters all over the country. He was the drawing card at the Boston celebration and the local committee thinks he will help things considerably here if President Roosevelt should decline the invitation to attend. Senator John Kean has promised to arrange for an interview between the President and the committee. Governor Stokes will very likely be one of the guests of honor at the celebration.

MISS DUNHAM NOW MRS. JOHN P. WILCOX

REV. DR. GEORGE H. WHITNEY OFFICIATES AT CEREMONY.

Miss Ida E. Dunham, daughter of Mrs. Marvin M. Dunham, of 116 Madison avenue, and John P. Wilcox, formerly of this city, but now of Princeton, were quietly married at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's mother. Rev. Dr. G. H. Whitney of this city, performed the ceremony in the presence of a gathering of guests from Plainfield, New York and Middletown, N. Y. The couple was unattended.

The home was attractively decorated with the season's flowers, the arrangement in the dining-room being especially so. After the ceremony congratulations were offered and supper was served. Later the couple left for a wedding trip.

The bride is well known here in a large circle of friends and is a popular member of the vested choir of the First M. E. church. The groom is engaged in business in Princeton as a pharmacist, and he and his wife will reside there upon their return from a trip. The bride received a large collection of gifts, including furniture, cut-glass etc.

"BLONDIE" CAUGHT.

Mountain Negress Must Answer Disorderly Charge.

On the complaint of Frank Rice, who resides on the mountains within the territory of Watchung, a colored woman known as "Blondie," was arrested last night by Marshal Keller. The arrest was made on a charge of disorderly conduct, preferred by Mr. Rice. The woman will be given a hearing tonight before Justice Snape.

It is said that the woman has a roving disposition and spends most of her time on the mountains. The one particular cause of complaint on the part of Mr. Rice is said to be that the woman has continued to entertain her male friends in an unconventional manner on his property. He had reported the matter to the police but it was not until last night that they were able to arrest her.

Agriculturists to Meet.

A regular meeting of the Somerset County Board of Agriculture will be held in the court room in Somerville on Saturday, August 17, at 2 o'clock p. m. G. A. Billings, dairy husbandman of New Jersey State Experiment Station at New Brunswick, will lead a discussion on "Best Methods for the Production and Care of Commercial Milk." A. A. Cortelyou is president of the association and A. F. Sutphen secretary.

Finishing New Bridges.

The contractors who are building the new bridges at Park and Watchung avenues and Washington street expect to complete the work within the next three weeks. Another contracting firm will build five of the new structures.

Mrs. I. L. McVoy, Mrs. Runk and the latter's daughter, Miss Edith Runk, of East Front street, are spending the day at Rockaway Beach.

HIS GIFT FROM A SULTAN

Dr. Bostwick Has a Richly Decorated Saddle of Peculiar Value.

A MARK OF ESTEEM

Moroccan Ruler Honored His Dentist As No Other Foreigner Had Been at Fez—May Use Royal Colors.

Dr. Frank B. Bostwick, dentist to the Sultan of Morocco, who is visiting his father-in-law, Charles Eoff, of Crescent avenue, will leave today for the Thousand Islands. He will take with him the richly decorated saddle presented to him by the Moroccan monarch in May, after the doctor's interview with His Majesty. The doctor has decided to lend the saddle to the Museum of the University of Pennsylvania, his alma mater, but he wants to show it to his people first, and will carry it with him on a western trip before placing it behind glass.

It is designed for State occasions and as State affairs in Morocco are apt to be florid, the saddle is a trifle too fancy for everyday use in a temperate clime. There is a gold-braided neck ornament for the horse in the outfit, a big saddle cloth and spurs. The saddle cloth is the real honor of the gift, for it is probably the first one with the Sultan's colors that has been presented to a foreigner with the privilege of wearing it. Dr. Bostwick's appearance on a State occasion with the saddle cloth in evidence would lead to great deference from the Moroccans. The spurs are cruel spikes, about four inches long. Dr. Bostwick says Moroccan horseflesh is pretty poor, and it must be if the Moors are willing to use their spurs in the neighborhood of their mounts.

The saddle was brought to Dr. Bostwick's hotel at Fez an hour after his last interview with the Sultan. The dentist saw the saddle in the palace courtyard as he went in, but he did not dream it was to be his. A saddle is the gift the Sultan usually presents to Ambassadors, and the presentation to Dr. Bostwick was a peculiar honor.

Dr. Bostwick does not live in Morocco. His office is in Gibraltar, and he journeys to the Sultan's capital on call.

NEW H. AND L. TRUCK FOR SCOTCH PLAINS

EXCELSIOR BOYS DECIDE PRESENT APPARATUS IS TOO OLD.

The old hook and ladder truck which has been in service at Scotch Plains for many years is soon to be replaced by a new and up-to-date truck. The members of Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company have decided that the old apparatus has outlived its usefulness and it is time to secure a new one.

At a meeting of the company last night the question was taken up and discussed and all the members were in favor of the change. A committee was appointed to devise ways and means for purchasing a new truck, and in the meantime efforts will be made to sell the old one to a smaller community, where it can be used to good advantage. A report from the committee will be received at the next meeting of the company.

ORDERED PAYMENT.

Judge Atwater Disposes of Bond Litigation.

In the foreclosure suit of William H. Codington, complainant, against Frederick A. Pope, trustee, and others defendants, Judge Atwater has heard the parties on an order of reference to him by the Chancelor. Mr. Codington is a resident of Warren township and Mr. Pope a Somerville lawyer. After hearing the witnesses for the complainant the court ordered that the defendants pay the principal and interest due on the bond, with the costs of the complainant. This would make it unnecessary to report to the Chancellor and also save such costs. This was accordingly done.

His Suit Is Missing.

Albert Grieb, of East Front street, is shy a suit of clothes as a result of a visit to a cleaning establishment. He left the suit with a locan renovator, to have it sponged, last week. When he called for it the cleaner said he couldn't remember seeing any such suit. That was all there was to it, from his standpoint, said the cleaner, and Mr. Grieb might whistle or do anything else he chose. Mr. Grieb has placed the case in the hands of V. W. Nash, Jr.

ENDORSE J. E. MARTINE

Union County's Democratic Committee Launches Candidacy of "Our Jim."

UNANIMOUS CHOICE

Farmer-Orator Receives Support of His Own County In His Effort to Secure Party's Nomination for Governor.

Recognizing the sterling worth and loyalty of James E. Martine as a member of the Democratic party, the members of the Union County Democratic Committee, at its meeting in Elizabeth, last night, gave him their united endorsement as a candidate of the party for the Gubernatorial nomination, and pledged themselves to do all in their power to secure the nomination for him.

There was not a dissenting voice heard. The resolutions were drafted by J. V. E. F. Dilts, John Lane and Charles Moore. They were passed with a "hurrah."

The only other business of the evening was that of attempting to fill the vacancies on the county election board, but owing to the fact that many of the committees in the various places throughout the county, had failed to send in the names, the county committee was unable to complete the work. This will be done before the next meeting.

Now that Union county has spoken, it is believed that at least half a dozen other county committees will come out in favor of the "farmer-orator" for the governorship. "Jim" says he will take the nomination if it comes his way.

TWO MEN ARE FIGHTING OVER A FARM LEASE

BOTH ARE IN POSSESSION AND THE JURY DISAGREES.

James Smith and C. H. Folwell, of Berkeley Heights, were the principals in an interesting dispossess case which was tried yesterday afternoon before Justice Woodruff and a jury at New Providence. Mr. Smith, the plaintiff, was represented by J. P. Owens, while J. Henry Crane was counsel for Mr. Folwell, the defendant. After a long drawn-out argument of the case, the jury failed to agree, the vote standing five to one in favor of the defendant. The case will be tried again on Wednesday.

The question to be decided was whether Smith or Folwell were entitled to possession of a farm owned by C. P. Browning, of New York, it being claimed by each party that he had leased it for a year for the consideration of $100.

According to the testimony Mr. Smith disposed of his farm and household furniture, intending to eventually go to the Klondyke. Mr. Folwell learning of his neighbor's action, said that he intended to lease the Browning farm and that Mr. Smith could live in half of the house. This was agreed to and in correspondence between Folwell and Browning, the latter offering the farm for $150 for the year. It was then thought that if either one should personally see the owner it could be secured for a less amount. Mr. Smith said he was going to New York and would call on Mr. Browning. This was done, each agreeing to pay half the yearly rental. Smith secured a lease and paid the first quarter's rental, $25. Another lease was secured by Folwell, but so far as could be learned, the owner's signature did not appear on it. This, it is said, was discovered when Smith sought to eject Folwell from the premises. It is also said that the money paid for the first quarter's rent came from Smith and paid by Folwell. When the latter sent his money to the owner, the latter refused to accept it, saying that Smith had leased the premises.

Folwell refuses to get out, claiming that he has a right to live on the farm, claiming that he paid the first quarter's rent. In the meantime a large quantity of hay is standing on the farm and Smith refuses to allow Folwell to sell it, and the latter will not let Smith dispose of it. Both Smith and Folwell are living on the farm and neither will not move.

Barry In Trouble Again.

John Barry, of the borough, was arrested last night by Marshal Keller, on a charge of being drunk and disorderly. He will be given a hearing tonight by Borough Recorder Dolliver.

V. W. Nash, Sr., to Move.

V. W. Nash, Sr., the coal dealer, will remove his office on August 15, from 207 Park avenue to Watchung avenue and East Second street.

WANT A PUBLIC CAUCUS

Suggestion From Independent on the Republican City Committee.

MAJORITY GOES SLOW

Frank H. Smith Says He Can't See Any Particular Good In Such a Meeting, But Wouldn't Oppose It.

Calls for the primary election and the city convention were issued by the Republican city committee last night. The primary will be held September 10. The date for the convention was not known by any of the members, and the call was worded to read "within the time required by law." Secretary Townsend will learn the date and advertise the call.

The meeting was not largely attended, and in the absence of Chairman Iremonger and Vice Chairman McCardell, the chair was occupied by G. W. V. Moy. A proposed public meeting for the popular suggestion of nominations, such as were obtained last year, was the only thing of more than passing interest to come up.

Duncan W. Taylor, of the Third ward, one of the Colbyites, brought the subject before the committee. He wanted to know what was to be done toward holding such a meeting. The suggestion was not received with noticeable cordiality.

County Chairman Frank H. Smith said he couldn't see what good could come from such a meeting. However, if it was deemed desirable he would be in favor of it. The motion for a meeting was not put and the suggestion took on a tenuous appearance.

Mr. Moy said this morning, in speaking of the incident, that the failure of the independents to press the suggestion was to be explained by their position as the minority. It seemed to him that it was not the independents' part to attempt to usurp or cut in on the rights and intentions of the majority with regard to the committee's course. The independents, in any event, would go steadily on their own way, cleaving to the path of duty as they saw, regardless of what the city committee did.

MISS ADAMS RESIGNS AS LOCAL LIBRARIAN

EFFICIENT SUPERINTENDENT WILL QUIT THE POSITION ON SEPT. 1.

Miss Emma Adams, of West Sixth street, who has been librarian at the Plainfield Public Library and Reading Room, with the exception of a short time, since it was founded, tendered her resignation to the Board of Directors at the August meeting, last night, the same to take effect October 1. It was with sincere regret on the part of the board that Miss Adams took this action and after careful consideration, the resignation was accepted.

Miss Adams is especially well qualified for the position she has held so long and has been particularly faithful and efficient as librarian. She is now out of the city, and inquiry today failed to disclose reasons for giving up her position.

The special committee appointed to prepare and have printed the library report stated that the same would be ready for distribution within a few days. The committee will act with the librarian regarding the distribution.

Miss Peterson was one of a party of excursionists that visited Boynton Beach last Friday, and in the accidental upset of a boat she was drowned.

The services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Diggs, pastor of the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church. There was an elaborate display of floral tributes. The burial was in the M. E. cemetery.

NEW SWITCH TOWER TO BE OPENED SUNDAY

NAYLOR AND GRIFFIN WILL TAKE DAY AND NIGHT SHIFTS.

The officials of the New Jersey Central have decided to open the new switch tower at the East End of the city Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, and Frank Naylor, who has been the telegraph operator at the freight house for several years will be placed there as day operator. Mchael Griffin, formerly night operator at the North avenue station, will be the night operator in the tower. In accordance with other changes, Fred Harding will take Mr. Naylor's place at the freight house, and Peter McDonough, who has been Manager Schermerhorn's assistant at the Western Union office, will be the night operator there. Miss Johnson, of Elizabeth, is Mr. Schermerhorn's day assistant.

The bridge construction gang has completed the Park, Watchung avenue and Washington street bridges, affecting the two westbound tracks and they will both be opened today for traffic. At the same time the work of removing the remaining part of the old bridges over which the eastbound tracks run, will be commenced today, throwing all traffic over the westbound tracks, one of which will be used for eastbound trains, until the other half of the bridges are completed.

TIARA WORTH $5,200 AN ANNIVERSARY GIFT

MR. AND MRS. L. ROTH MARRIED 45 YEARS AGO.

Surrounded by their children, and other relatives and friends from Newark, South Orange, Trenton, Princeton, Philadelphia and New York, Mr. and Mrs. L. Roth, of South Orange, celebrated their forty-fifth wedding anniversary at their summer home, No. 307 Third avenue, Asbury Park, last night. A banquet was a feature of the celebration during the course of which Moses Roth, one of the sons, presented his mother on behalf of the family a diamond tiara worth $5,-200. For the family also he presented a gold headed cane to the father of the house. An orchestra of twelve pieces furnished the music.

A flash light group picture of the family was taken at the conclusion of the festivities. During the day, Mr. and Mrs. Roth received numerous telegrams and letters of congratulations and the dining table was covered with a mass of floral remembrances. Among the guests were their two daughters and sons in law, Mr. and Mrs. J. Cohen, and their two children, and Mr. and Mrs. George Kridel, both of South Orange, their daughter, Miss Carrie Roth, of South Orange, and their two sons and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. J. Roth, of Newark, and Mr. and Mrs. M. Roth and children, of South Orange, and an unmarried son, Mr. I. Roth, of South Orange.

Waiting to Hear From Prosecutor.

Justice Snape, of Watchung, has not yet given his decision regarding the application of W. G. DeMeza, counsel for Edward Bimble, to reopen the case wherein the latter was fined $28 for allowing a hound dog to run at large. He informed Mr. DeMeza today that he would not make a decision until after hearing from Prosecutor John F. Reger, before whom he had laid the facts.

—On account of the absence of nearly all of the members of the Board of Education, who are enjoying their vacation out of town, the August meeting of the board was not held Monday night.

FATALLY INJURIES CHILD

Assemblyman Perkins Runs Over Colored Boy in Bergen County.

VICTIM DIES IN AN HOUR

Lawmaker Was Prominent In the Movement to Bring the Vanderbilt Cup Race to This County.

Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, of Westfield, who worked hard in the forefront of the movement to bring the Vanderbilt Cup race to Union county, ran over and fatally injured a negro child with his automobile last night. The victim died an hour after the accident.

The Assemblyman and his chauffeur were going to his country home in Woodcliff from Oradell, in Bergen county, when the machine approached a group of children at play in the road. Three or four of them suddenly ran across the street in front of the machine. Fred Thompson, nine years old, was knocked down and the machine passed over him.

Assemblyman Perkins picked the lad up and rushed him to the home of Dr. Vanderwater, which was near by. The boy died from internal injuries about an hour after.

Assemblyman Perkins was the leader of the Republican forces in Trenton when the latest New Jersey speed law was passed. About a month ago he was arrested for speeding near Hackensack, but was discharged when the patrolman was unable to explain the mechanism of his speedometer. Mr. Perkins' stand in favor of the cup race was not approved by the people of the county, but their ideas were apparently disregarded by the Westfield solon.

NEARLY $50,000 INCREASE IN NORTH PLAINFIELD REALTY

Total Assessed Valuations in Borough Approximate Three Million Dollars.

Tax Assessor J. H. Cooley, of North Plainfield, completed his work yesterday, and, together with the other assessors throughout the county, presented his books to the Somerset County Board of Taxation at Somerville for revision and confirmation. It is estimated that the increase in real and personal valuations in North Plainfield this year will be between $40,000 and $50,000, there being a considerable number of new buildings erected there since the assessor made his last rounds a year ago.

One encouraging feature to the taxpayer is that the increase each year has about kept pace with the extra expense needed as certain improvements are demanded and thus it has been possible to keep the tax rate down. The borough total valuation this year will be about $3,000,-000, which shows a steady and substantial growth.

TO LAY CONCRETE PAVE ON SOMERSET STREET BRIDGE.

Somerset Freeholders Appropriate $150 Towards the Improvement.

The Somerset County Board of Freeholders at its meeting yesterday concurred in the action of the Union County Board in the proposed improvement of laying a concrete pavement over the county line bridge on Somerset street, the cost not to exceed $150 for Somerset county. Freeholders Emmons, of North Plainfield; William Demler, of North Plainfield township; Smith, of Bound Brook; Codington, of Warren, were named by Director Baird as a committee to look after the improvement.

It is now assured that the concrete pavement will be laid, as the Union County Board last week authorized the work and appointed a committee, of which Freeholder J. Hervey Doane is chairman, to attend to the county's interest in the matter.

CITY STOPS BUILDING.

New Structure On Watchung Avenue Is Over the Line.

Work on the one-story building being erected by W. R. Codington and Walter Manning on Watchung avenue, near the railroad, was stopped abruptly this morning by Building Inspector T. O. Doane and Street Commissioner Andrew J. Gavett. The building goes four feet over the building line established four or five years ago.

The structure is about half up, and the change will not cost a great deal. A hurried effort to have other property owners consent to a new building line failed. They would not consent to narrowing the street.

One of our clients owed $48 between four people. His salary is $14 weekly; rent $12 monthly. To have paid $2 weekly to each creditor, combined with rent, would have left only $3 per week to meet expenses, buy clothing, etc.—an impossibility you will agree. He borrowed $50, paid all his creditors, made his future credit good, if ever needed; pays his rent, the loan payments, and has $9 each week to use as his judgment dictates.

The labor market in New Brunswick is stirred, so far as sewer and trench diggers are concerned, by the scarcity of men. A conference of employers is to be held with a view to fixing a higher scale for sewer diggers. The city is letting a large number of sewer contracts and the scarcity of labor has caused a noticeable increase in the figures at which later contracts have been let.

MASTODON BONES IN A CREEK.

Odd Discovery of Men Working in Gravel Pit On Indiana Farm.

Workmen operating a gravel suction pump the other evening in the bed of Back creek, on the farm of Arcil Winslow, two miles north of Fairmount, Ind., were startled to see the tooth of some large animal shoot from the end of the discharge pipe, says the Fairmount correspondent of the Indianapolis Star. The tooth weighed fourteen pounds. Within a short time a bone four feet long and twenty inches in diameter came to the top of the water, followed by broken pieces of other mammoth bones.

Further investigation disclosed the fact that the supposedly pertified tree trunk which had been blocking the progress of the pump during the greater part of the day was nothing else than the skeleton of a mastodon, and it will be necessary to remove the big pile of bones or abandon the gravel pit.

It is believed that the greater part of the skeleton remains intact sixteen feet below the surface of the ground. As the bones brought to the surface seem to indicate a good state of preservation, care will be used to extracting the remainder of the bone pile.

Two years ago a similar skeleton was found six miles east of Fairmount by the Smith brothers, who were the tenants of the Gift farm, which resulted in the filing of a lawsuit for possession of the bones, directed against the tenants, who claimed the skeleton by right of discovery, by the landowner, who contended that it was his property, under the calssification of minerals. The case was in the Grant county courts for more than a year, and the skeleton was finally sold to a New York museum for $1,000.

Believer in Cheerful Funerals.

The Rev. Frederick Spurr, one of the best known Baptist pastors in London, started the mourners at the funeral of one of the deacons of his church the other day by officiating in a gray suit of clothes, says a London special cable dispatch to the New York Sun. When questioned on the subject the pastor declared himself a believer in cheerful funerals. He said: "I am heartily sick of the paganism connected with Christian funerals. The deacon was eighty-two years of ago. He had been a good Christian all his life and died of old age, and so at his funeral I wore a gray suit, and we sang the Easter hymn."

Rats.

The fecundity of the rats is so great that in a few years they would overwhelm a whole city if they were not kept down by artificial means. One pair will rear four or five families of ten to fifteen to each litter in one year, and in six months these young ones are ready to reproduce. Thus one couple in the course of three years could raise a population of several hundred thousand if not restrained by any destructive measures.

The Grasshopper.

The grasshopper mentioned in the book of Ecclesiastes is believed by some commentators to be a species of cicada exceedingly troublesome to nervous persons on account of its shrill cry, or song. "The grasshopper shall be a burden," therefore to elderly people on account of the annayonce made by its singing and not, as commonly supposed, because of its weight.

Paper Yarn.

Paper yarn has been spun and woven at Verviers, in Belgium, for ten years past. The paper cord is largely used for tying small packages. The sacking manufactured there has rendered amdirable service and seems to replace the jute article perfectly. Sacks of this material have been very successfully employed as mail bags.

Servian Marriages.

Servian men do not marry for love, but to secure an additional worker for the household. So very young men marry women several years older than themselves, as girls are less experienced in housework. In the lower and middle classes women are always helped last and may not sit down unbidden in the presence of the men.

Potted Oatmeal.

Put two cups of oatmeal in a medium sized bean pot and add one quart of slightly salted water, cover closely and bake all day in a moderate oven, looking at it occasionally to see if more water is necessary. Heat it next morning and serve with cream or milk and sugar.

Birth Superstition.

It is an old saying that those who were born in the last six months of the year will have a great change of experience every seventh year, and their dreams will have significance during the full of the moon.

Marbles and Agates.

Most of the stone marbles used by boys are made in Germany. The refuse only of the marble and agate quarries is employed, and this is treated in such a way that there is practically no waste.

Watches and Locomotives.

The accuracy of some parts of the locomotive is ten times finer than in the watch, but for absolute measurement the accuracy in the watch is almost three times as fine as in the locomotive.

IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS.

Dont's Mistake the Cause of Your Troubles — A Plainfield Citizen Shows How to Cure Them.

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back they think that it is only a muscular weakness and that it will soon correct itself. And so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disorders. That is just where the danger lies. You must cure these troubles or they lead to diabetes or Bright's disease. The best remedy to use is Doan's Kidney Pills. It cures all ills which are caused by weak or diseased kidneys. Plainfield people testify to permanent cures.

John H. Stewart, carpenter, of 413 New street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Last winter I suffered from severe pains across my kidneys and what is more commonly called backache. When my back hurt the worst cold sweat stood out on me, and if I caught cold it always settled on my kidneys. I got so bad with these troubles that I had to quit work, but though I doctored faithfully, no medicine struck the right spot until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Randolph's pharmacy. I took in all three boxes and they stopped my many aches and pains and regulated the action of the kidneys. Since taking them I have worked steadily, without any ill effect on the action of the kidneys."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Coptic Superstition.

The Coptic Christians believe that on Christmas eve the nature of every savage beast is tamed, that children may play with a lion and that all venomous reptiles lose their power to harm.

Cattle and Sheep.

The first cattle and sheep in the United States were introduced into Virginia in 1610. The first Shorthorns and Herefords were introduced into Kentucky in 1816.

Wax Figures.

Each figure in a first class waxwork exhibition has to be remade every four or five years. The wax loses its color and becomes soft and spongy after that time.

Poisoned Arrows.

The poisoned arrows in use among some native tribes of the upper Amazon derive their venom from having been dipped in the poison sacks of venomous serpents.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

There will be but one game of especial interest on Saturday, when Clinton Avenue will meet Scotch Plains, at the latter place. Because Clinton Avenue defeated Y. M. C. A. last Saturday, thereby increasing its lead for the pennant, the race has now narrowed down to the Plainfield aggregation and the 'Plains team. There is a great difference of opinion as to the outcome of Saturday's contest, but a majority of the Plainfield fans are banking on Clinton Avenue. With Clifford Randolph in the box they can see nothing but victory for the leaders. Frentz or Hewitt will be called upon to pitch for the 'Plains team, and Manager Dorflinger's colts believe that they can hit either one sufficiently to win. Scotch Plains has the reputation of winning its home games, however, and this may work out again.

If Raritan has dropped out of the Inter-City Amateur League it will leave but one game to be played on Saturday and the Laurels, of Bound Brook, will have an off day. The league managers have had sufficient experience this season to guide them in the future if another local organization is formed, and it is to be hoped that they will profit by the season's mistakes.

Somerville was anxious to join the amateur league this season, and in the opinion of many fans it would have been the part of wisdom to have admitted them. They would have made a fight worth while.

"Willie" Keeler has returned to the game and his many friends look for a change of luck in the playing of the Highlanders.

Pitching for Somerville against High Bridge on Saturday, Jimmie Montross allowed the opposing team but two hits up to the ninth inning and then had the misfortune to lose the contest by a score of 2 to 0.

Hal Chase, with his right arm in a sling, met Jack Warner, with his right thumb done up in a sling, yesterday. The disabled heroes exchanged greetings and condolences as they grasped hands with their sound members. Chase says he will be back in the game in three weeks.

Monday's victory was the first in Chicago this season for the New York Nationals, something unheard of in recent years.

It required thirteen members of the Boston Americans in twelve innings to defeat St. Louis at Boston on Monday, and then the Bostons only nosed out a victory by a score of 3 to 2.

GOLF.

With a score of 80, plus 1—81, W. Lester Glenney showed by far the greater strength in contesting for Golf Committee cup honors at the Plainfield Country Club on Saturday. He is one of the few players of the club who has been given a plus handicap of one and he has demonstrated his ability to return a low score under such conditions.

E. M. Wild is the winner of the championship of the Cranford Golf Club for the second time, and has taken final possession of the handsome club trophy. G. K. Fullarton took the runner-up prize. Wild defeated Fullarton, 5 up and 4 to play. On Saturday Miss E. Hillier won the July putting contest with a total score of 115.

It is to be hoped that the severe defeat experienced by the Park Golf Club on Saturday will not prove so discouraging as to prevent other matches this season. It is very likely that a return match will be played with the Middlebrook Country Club on the borough course in the near future.

Another large entry seems already assured for the annual invitation tournament of the Deal Golf and Country Club, August 22, 23 and 24. There will be an eighteen hole medal play qualifying round, contestants to qualify in four sixteens for the president's, vice president's, treasurer's and captain's cups. Besides these, trophies have been provided for the beaten eights in the first and second sixteens. There will be an eighteen hole medal play handicap on the last day.

This tournament last year was won by Gilman J. Tiffany, of Powelton, champion of the Hudson River Golf Association. Tiffany defeated Robert Abbott, of Plainfield, in the final. The Deal course is one of the longest in the country, covering a playing distance of more than 6,400 yards.

Considerable surprise will doubtless follow the announcement that the 1908 annual championship tournament of the American Golf Association of Advertising Interests is to be held at Toronto, presumably over the links of the Lambton Golf and Country Club. It had generally been expected among the organization's Eastern members that a course in this vicinity would be selected. Previous tournaments under the auspices of this association were held at Cleveland, Atlantic City and Midlothian.

Plainfield, N. J., August 7, 1907.

Gilbert S. Collins? Perish the thought; he's too good a man!

Who is going to nominate the next governor—the Pennsylvania railroad or the Public Service Corporation?

Joseph S. Frelinghuysen is reported to be mum on politics, which goes to show that the Senator is busy "sawing wood."

Miss Emma Adams' resignation as librarian of the Plainfield Public Library is a severe loss to that worthy institution.

After his unfortunate accident yesterday, we suppose Assemblyman Perkins has materially changed his views on the desirability of a auto cup race in New Jersey.

Newspaper report has it that the friends of Senator "Pat" McCarren are booming him for the governorship of New York. Has the Empire State fallen so low as all that?

When the Republican city committee set the date for the primaries last night, it fired the opening gun of the local campaign, which promises to be one of the warmest in many years.

It appears that Vivian Lewis, Passaic county's "favorite son," for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, has one claim to fame. He closely resembles John W. Griggs—but only physically.

The latest gubernatorial possibility sprung on the politicians is former Senator S. S. Childs, of Bernards township, Somerset, that county's Democratic committee having agreed on him as their candidate at a meeting held at Somerville on Saturday afternoon. Thus another "favorite son" is added to the already long list, but the chances are that the famous restauranteur will dine on "crow," after Jim Smith has spoken.

The Republican party could find no better candidate for the governorship if it searched through every county, city, town, hamlet and crossroad of the State than Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, and it behooves the Somerset county committee to come out in his favor. The Raritan man is "no man's man," which is to say that he favors a "square deal" for every man and that's the kind of a man we want for governor.

And while we're thinking of the governorship, what's the matter with James E. Martine? Didn't the Union county Democratic committee only last night endorse the candidacy of the silver-tongued gray-haired veteran of campaigns innumerable, and won't some of the rural counties' Democratic committees follow suit? Well, we just guess so. But then, his candidacy won't amount to fiddlesticks if the report be true that the man wh holds the whip, one James Smith, Jr., has decided to order the nomination of Judge Childs, of Essex county. At any rate, however, let's whoop it up for "Our Jim," whose only fault is that he is too much on the level to suit the bosses, or, in other words, the corporations.

JOHN G. EWING LIKELY TO BE CHOSEN HEAD OF THE ORDER.

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 7.—With Knights of Columbus, their wives and daughters arriving on every train and steamer that enters Tidewater Virginia, the indications are that the attendance at the celebration of Knights of Columbus Day at the Jamestown Exposition tomorrow will exceed that of any special day since the opening of the tercentennial. Members of the order are coming in from all parts of the United States, every province of Canada, Mexico and even the faraway Philippines. It is estimated that beteween 25,000 and 30,000 knights and their families will pass through the turnstiles during the day.

Among those here are Supreme Knight E. L. Hearn, of New Haven, Conn.; District Deputy George E. Clarke, of South Bend, Ind.; Dr. E. W. Buckley, of St. Paul, Minn.; John G. Ewing, of Notre Dame University, Ind., and W. P. Breen, of South Bend, Ind.

The first meeting in connection with the convention was that of the board of directors, which was held Monday at the Virginia Club, in Norfolk. This was well attended and much enthusiasm was shown by the directors. The convention was formally opened yesterday.

While there are many matters of importance to be discussed at the convention, the greatest interest centres in the election of a supreme knight, and a warm fight is expected for the position.

John G. Ewing will oppose Mr. Hearn, the incumbent, and the friends of both are working hard for the success of their respective candidates. Both are popular, both have a strong and influential following and nobody will venture a prediction as to who the successful candidate will be. Although the administration of Mr. Hearn has been a splendid one, the members of the order say Mr. Ewing is strong and may be the next supreme knight. Besides being well-known to the knights throughout the country, he is a nephe wof the late James G. Blaine and an author of some note. Mr. Hearn is standing on his past record and is looking to that for his re-election.

Swett, a member of the governing committee of the school, at the head of which are Bishop Burgess, Alexander E. Orr and Georg Foster Peabody. The full story behind the arrest was not disclosed last night, but a statement was made by a number of the governing committee of St. Paul's school to the effect that the accused had made false entries in the accounts of the school.

GOT A FREE DINNER.

Then Young Man Decamped With Red Bank Woman's Jewelry.

A slender, well-dressed man, about 30 years old, called yesterday morning at the home of Mrs. M. A. J. Irwin, in Red Bank, and engaged board. He was shown to a room upstairs. After dinner he told the landlady that he was pleased with the board and would go out for a short walk. The daughter, Mabel, went to the man's room, and found that the bureau drawer had been ransacked, a jewel case belonging to her emptied and a bracelet and three diamond rings, valued at $150, taken. The police were notified, but no trace of the man could be found. The supposition is that he entered and left town in an auto.

Previous to calling at Mrs. Irwin's, he called at County Prosecutor Henry M. Nevius's home for board. He said his father was a wealthy contractor and builder, and gave his name as Martin. He left a collar at Mrs. Irwin's house, wrapped in an Elizabeth newspaper.

More Work For Mobs.

New York, Aug. 7.—Crimes against women and little girls were committeed in several parts of Manhattan, Brooklyn and Queens yesterday, and in a number of instances summary punishment was visited upon offenders by mobs of men and women. In two cases mothers of little girls led the vengeance-seeking mobs and the accused men narrowly escaped with their lives. Only police inference of the most energetic kind saved them. One man was taken to Bellevue Hospital seriously injured. In one case at least a mob's frenzy for vengeance resulted in an innocent man being so badly beaten that only immediate hospital treatment saved his life.

Boy Bites Mother and Brother.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—While nursing her dying boy George, who was suffering from rabies, the result of a dog bite, Mrs. Charles T. Davis, of Danville, Ill., was bitten in the chin by the child a week ago, and Vance Davis, a brother, was bitten and scratched about the face and hands. The child died in great agony a few hours after Mrs. Davis was bitten. The attending physicians became frightened over the result and yesterday brought both mother and son to Chicago for treatment at the Pasteur Institute. The dead boy was bitten by a mad dog on June 16. Six weeks later symptoms of rabies developed and he died July 30.

John D. Will Live Long.

Cleveland, Aug. 7.—That John D. Rockefeller will live to more than ninety-four, is the prediction of Dr. H. F. Biggar, his family physician. Dr. Biggar watched Mr. Rockefeller play golf over the Forest Hill links yesterday and at the finish declared that the Standard Oil magnate was likely to live more than a quarter of a century longer. Mr. Rockefeller, who looked particularly well, said he had never felt better in his life and that he could eat anything. Long life in the Rockefeller family has long been a matter of comment.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Sandwiched in between earlier forms of speech, comes the newest and latest form of human expression, the gasoline language, and in these days and times to acknowledge an unfamiliarity with it, is to argue oneself woefully behind and non-progressive. "The Vanderbilt Cup," the great automobile musical comedy, which comes to the new Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night, is said to be a liberal education in "motorism." It is a play built entirely upon motor cars and the "swell mob" who at present almost live in their magnificent touring cars. The plot hinges upon the great race on Long Island for the cup presented by W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., and brings in many delightful resorts in and about New York.

In selecting the company which will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre, August 1, in George Ade's comedy, "The College Widow," Henry W. Savage received and examined hundreds of applicants. The play is one of American types and each player was selected with a view to his physical fitness to realize to the letter the role entrusted to him to portray. tor, the railroad magnate, the rural Freshman, the athletic girl, the football player, the trainer, the co-ed, the town marshall—these are a few of the people so truly sketched by Mr. Ade and so completely realized by Mr. Savage's company. "The College Widow" affords an evening of fullest and rarest enjoyment.

"Little Johnny Jones," when it is seen in this city on August 17, will be presented by a specially selected cast of singers, dancers and comedians accompanied by one of the largest and best drilled choruses in America in all numbering seventy-five people. The same massive and complete scenic production as seen for twenty-six weeks in New York and all summer in Chicago will be seen here. It is the biggest and most expensive attraction that will be seen here this season, and as its fame and reputation has preceded it, a crowded house is already assured.

John Powers' New Place.

SMOKERS

Do you know we have a fine line of goods, well selected, and properly kept?

Have you noticed the Hygrometers in the case? Tells us just the proper moisture all the time for the even keeping of our cigars. The old way—wet sponge in the case—cigars too wet one day, all dried out the next. Result, wrappers brittle, flavor spoiled. We have the finest case made for cigars.

All the old favorites—Glorias, Chesterfields, Thoroughbreds, Dru Murio, Black and White, Cuba-Roma, Lord Carver, Manuel Garcia's, and many others. Come in, and see our outfit.

Cigars always run even from

SIRES AND SONS.

President Fallieres of France is exceedingly thrifty. He spends as little as possible of his liberal allowance of $600,000 per annum.

John W. Gates, the plunger, wears gold bowed spectacles and looks as mild mannered as a country storekeeper, which he is not.

Mr. Justice Brewer of the United States supreme court is the best speechmaker among the nine members of that distinguished body.

Judge Gaynor is in danger of being expelled from the New York bar for heresy. He says he "can think of no more despicable person on earth than a gabby little lawyer."

Colonel William C. Gorgas, the United States commissioner in the canal zone, told the Cornell medical graduates that within the next two or three centuries "the centers of wealth, civilization and population will be in the tropics, as they were in the dawn of man's history."

John R. Dos Passos, a New York lawyer, regarded as an authority on corporation law and finance, is one of the counselors of the president in dealing with the railroads. He has a country estate down the Potomac, and his yacht is often seen on the river during the summer season. He is sixty-three years old and is of Portugese-American descent.

William H. Baldwin, who has been for thirty-nine years president of the Boston Young Men's Christian union, has resigned because of the burden of years. Mr. Baldwin observed his eightieth birthday last fall. His successor is to be Colonel Frank Lovering Locke, who has been for some years superintendent of the Boston Rubber Company, at Malden.

Thomas Pryor Gorem, the political leader of Oklahoma, is blind and has been since he was eleven years old, when he accidentally shot his right eye out with an arrow gun. Three years before a playmate, in a boys passion, blinded his left eye with a stone. He is one of the most sought for lawyers in his State and has been active in all campaigns in Oklahoma since he went there from Mississippi.

GOWN GOSSIP.

Moire parasols, with or without borders, are very popular.

Straw belts are among the new things, belt and buckle being made of finely woven flexible straw.

A new linen or pique skirt which will appeal to the laundress is a plain circular model, buttoning all the way down the left front, so that it may be unbuttoned and laid flat for ironing.

Omber taffeta or liberty is artistically used for the foundation of sheer frocks. A skirt of gauze or chiffon, for example, is made over a colored silk barely tinted at the waist, but shading to a much deeper hue at the skirt bottom.

Little taffeta boleros in emerald green, havana brown, suede gray, etc., are much worn by Parisiennes over batistes, voiles, etc. The little coats are very short and fitted, trimmed in tiny ruches of the silk and buttoning with one large button at the bust line.—New York Sun.

THINGS THEATRICAL.

Clara Lipman is adapting a French play for the use of her husband, Louis Mann.

"The Chorus Lady," with Rose Stahl in the leading role, is to be presented in London next season.

Clara Kummer, the composer of "Noah's Ark," is a relative of William Gillette and a grandniece of Harriet Beecher Stowe.

Theodore Burt Sayre, author of "Eileen Asthore," has completed a new play which is to be brought out by Chauncey Olcott next season.

Charles Hawtrey is to be cast as the hero in Louis N. Parker's new play, "Mr. George," when it is presented at the Vaudeville theatre, London.

Guy Coombs, who was a member of the Odette Tyler stock company yast year and who during the past season was with Lena Ashwell, is now a member of the Columbia theatre stock company of Washington.

ETHICS OF THE BIG D.

An Episcopalian Bishop's Defense of the Word "Damn."

At the meeting of the American Bookseller's Association the address of the occasion was delivered by Bishop Talbot, of the diocese of Central Pennsylvania. Having perpetrated a novel, Bishop Talbot justly asserted his claim to be considered an author, and he entertained his hearers by his views on the privileges of authorship. He admitted that in the conversational parts of his book he had frequently employed the word "damn" as a qualifying adjective, and he defended such action, giving as evidence the testimony of his publishers, who said that "if I had used the customary dashes I should have emasculated my story." Rather than invite so deplorable a catastrophe he bolstered up his first artistic instincts.

Here, then, is high clerical authority for literary freedom of speech. When the reader encounters in a story written by a right reverend gentleman the not infrequent use of a word deprecated in fastidious society, and certainly not heard at church entertainments, he must bear in mind that so-called profanation is preferable to emasculation. He must remember, also, that the word is used in its illustrative literary sense, and, like many other things which appear in works of fiction, is not privately sanctioned by the author. Doubtless the bishop might give at great length and in the most convincing manner other reasons for not sacrificing plain English to dashes, but enough has been set forth to make his position clear.

An objection at once arises that if this impolite word has been employed simply because it was characteristic of the conversation in which the people of the book indulged, exactly where is the line to be drawn by the faithful novelist? And if so distinguished a church official as a bishop sanctions the use of an expression, even illustratingly, would a humble clergyman be justified in reporting conversations even more literally- And so, proceeding to the last common denominator, what might not be permitted of the ordinary writer of fiction who is not restrained by the cloth or by his position as an ordained instructor of the masses? Such questions as these must present themselves to writers who would fain have thir names enrolled in the distinguished list of the six best sellers if not the hundred best books.

What effect the bishop's cheerful confession will have on the great American writers of fiction remains to be seen. So eminent an authority cannot fail to carry much weight and inspire a good degree of enthusiasm, and perhaps in our forthcoming crop of novels we shall be "damned" even with more frequency and more fervor than in the eighteenth century output. The author will fell that he has discharged his duty to faithful portraiture and the reading public will become familiar with the spelling by a word so long mincingly expressed by a straight line.—Chicago Tribune.

ENGLISH BASEBALL FUNNY.

Yale Athletic Adviser Tells About Game He Saw in London.

Walter Camp, athletic adviser at Yale University, who has been in England for five weeks, arrived at New York recently with his wife on the Cunard liner Caronia, say sthe New York Tribune. He said baseball as played in England was laughable. Shortly before he left London Mr. Camp said he attended a game played between the Rhodes students at Oxford and a picked nine from the best of the association football players.

"The game started at 2 p. m.," he said, "and there was little or no enthusiasm until some errors were made, which caused the runs to accumulate rapidly. The more runs the more the crowd applauded. They overlooked the fine points of the game and looked for high scores, as in cricket. I sat from 2 p. m. until 7 p. m., and when I left they were just finishing the last half of the third inning. The score at that time was something like 58 to 32 in favor of the Rhodes students."

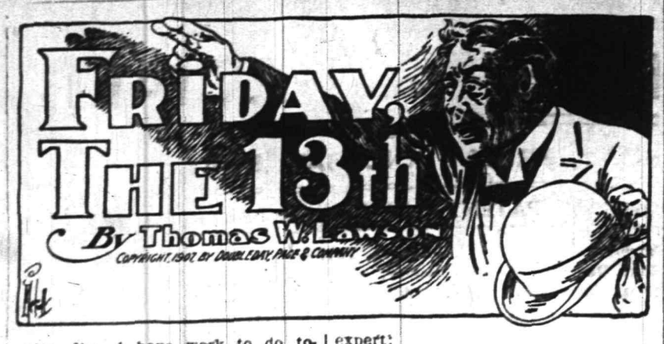
Regarding football, Mr. Camp said he thought there would be no further alterations in football regulations. He said the game as it is played now is about as kood as it can be.

To Bury His Feet In China.

Several months ago Sank Loo, a Chinaman of Springfield, Ill., was knocked off an interurban car west of Springfield by a collision. Both his legs were run over and the feet taken off. The Chinaman instead of having them buried had them taken with him to St. John's Hospital and later had Undertaken Charles T. Bisch embalm the members, says the Cincinnati Enquirer. He invested in cork feet. The other night he left for his home in China, he having obtained $5,000 damages from the interurban railroad for the loss of his feet. He had the feet expressed. It is the Chinese custom in the event of a Chinaman losing any part of his anatomy that it be buried in China.

Fire Hos.e

As late as 1682 squirts or syringes were used for extinguishing fire in England, and their length did not exceed two or three feet, with pipes of leather. Water tight seamless hose was first made in Bethnal Green in 1720.



"No, Jim, I have work to do to-night, work that won't wait. That tariff bill was buttoned up to-day, and it has just been announced that the Sugar directors have declared a big extra dividend. Things have come out just about as I told you they would, and the stock is climbing to-day. They say it will touch 200 to-morrow, and 'the street' is predicting 250 for it in ten days. Barry Conant has been a steady buyer all day and the news bureaus announced that Camemeyer and the 'Standard Oil' are twenty millions winners. They say the Washington gamblers, the congressmen, senators and cabinet members with their heelers and lobbyists have made a killing. About every one seems to have fattened up, Jim, but you and me and Beulah Sands and the public. The public gets the ax both ways, as usual. They have been shaken out of their stock, and they will be compelled to pay millions more each year for their sugar than they would if this law had not been made for their benefit. Jim, there is no disguising the fact that the American people are as helpless in the hands of these things of the 'system' as though they lived in the realm of the sultan, where a few cutthroat brigands are licensed to rob and oppress to their heart's content. Jim Randolph, you know this game of finance. You know how it is worked, and the men who work it. Tell me if there is any consideration due Wall street and its heart-and-soul butchers at the hands of honest men."

"I do not know what you mean, Bob. What are you driving at?"

"Never mind what I am driving at. I ask you whether, if an honest man knew how to beat Wall street at its own game, he should hesitate to beat it—hesitate because of anything connected with conscience or morals? You saw what Barry Conant was able to do to us that day simply by standing on the floor of the stock exchange and outstaying me in opening and closing his mouth. You saw he was able to sell Sugar to a point so low that I was obliged to let go of our 150,000 shares at $8,000,000 to $10,000,000 less than we could have got for them if we could have held them until to-day. Because of this trick his clients, the 'system,' instead of us, make five to seven millions."

"I don't follow you, Bob. I know that Barry Conant was able to do this because he had more money behind him than you."

"You think so, do you, Jim? That is the way it looks to you, but I tell you money had nothing to do with it. Nothing had to do with it but the fiendish system of fraud and trickery upon which the whole stock-gambling structure is reared. Nothing entered into the whole business but the trickery of stock-gambling as conducted to-day. It was only a question, Jim, of a man's opening and closing his mouth and spitting out words. From the minute Barry Conant came into that crowd until he left and we were ruined, he showed no money, no anything that I did not show. From the very nature of the business he could not. He simply said: 'Sold' oftener and longer than I said 'Buy.' He may have had money back of him, or he may only have had nerve. God Almighty is the only one who can tell, for when Conant was through he was able to buy back at 90 the 50,000 shares he sold me at 175, the 50,000 that broke my back. Jim, if I had known as much that day, as I do now I would have stood in that crowd and bought all the stock he sold at 180, and I would have stood there buying until hell froze over or he quit; then I would have made him rebuy it at 280 or 2,080, and I would have broken him and all his Camemeyer and 'Standard Oil' backers; broken them to their last crime-covered dollar."

"Bob, what are you talking about? It is all Chinese to me. I cannot get head or tail of what you are driving at."

"I know you can't, Jim, neither could Wall street if it were listening to me. But you will, and Wall street will, too, before many days go by. Now I must be off. I have work to do."

He put on his hat and left me trying to puzzle out just what he meant.

Next day the Sugar bulls had the center of the stock exchange stage. All day long they tossed Sugar from one to another, as though each thousand shares had been a wisp of hay instead of $200,000—for soon after the opening it soared to 200. The "system's" cohorts were in absolute control, with Barry Conant never a minute away from the Sugar-pole, always on the alert to steer the course of price when they threatened to run away on the up or the down side. It was evident to the expert readers of the tape that the "system" was carrying its steed for an exceptionally brilliant run. Ike Bloomenstein, the Avenger Fiend, who for 40 years had kept close track of every movement on the floor, and who would bet anything, from his Fifth avenue mansion to his overripe boardroom straw hat, that all stocks and movements were as strictly subject to the law of averages as are the tides to the moon and sun, remarked to Joe Barnes, the loan expert:

"'Cam' unt de Keroseners are pudding up egstra dop rails to dot woolpen deh haf ben pilding since deh took Pop Prownlee and deh Rantolphs into gamp. Unless my topesheet goes pack on me, for deh first dime in 40 years, dere vill pe a record clip pefore a veek from to-tay."

"I am with you there, Ike," answered Joe. "If Barry Conant's knife-edged teeth ever spelt a killin', they do to-day. I just got orders from somewhere to drop call money from four to two and a half per cent., and they have given me ten millions to drop it with and the order is to favor Sugar as 'collat.' Some one is anxious to make it easy for the bleaters to get the coin to buy all the Sugar they want. Ike, you and I might make turkey money for Thanksgiving, if we only knew whether Barry and his bunch were going to shoot her up 30 or 40 points before they turned the bag upside down, or whether they will bury them from 200 to 150. What do you think?"

"I gant make out, aldo I haf vatched dem sharp all day. Dey certainly haf deh lambs lined up right now for any vey dey vont to twist id. I nefer see a petter market for a deluge. For Barry's movements all day I should say dey vould keep hoistin' her until apout noon to-morrow, unt dat deh might get her up to two-tirty or even to deh two-fifty. Put dere are von or two topes on deh sheet vhat run deh uder vay. First der is dey fact you gant run out, dat dere is alreaty on deh Sugar vagon deh piggest load of chuicy suckers dat efer game in from deh suppurbs. Sharley pates says if any von hat tapped his Vashington vire er any utter capital vire dis veek he vould haf tought dere vas a senate, house, unt kabinet roll-gall on. Deh topes say 'Cam' vill nefer led dat punch off grafters slite out mit real mooney if he gan help id unt deh game iss endirely in his hands."

"I agree with [illegible] steering of this [illegible]

"To-Morrow's Friday der T'irteenth."

I would take any chance of tempting them to dump and grab the profits by carrying it much over 200. But you can't tell what 'Cam' and those four-eyed dentists at 26 Broadway will do."

"Yes, put der iss anudder t'ing, Cho, dat makes me sit up unt plink about her goin' ofer two hundred. Tomorrow's Friday der t'irteenth."

"Of course, Ike, that is something to be reckoned with, and every man on the floor and in the street as well has his eye on it. Friday, the 13th, would break the best bull market ever under way. You and I know that, Ike, and the dope shows it, too, but you have got to stack this up against it on this trip: No man on the floor knows what Friday, the 13th, means better than Barry Conant. He has worked it to the queen's taste many a time. Why, Barry would not eat today for fear the food would get stuck in his windpipe. He's never left the pole for a minute; but suppose, Ike, Barry had tipped off 'Cam' that all the boys will let go their fliers, and most of them will take one on the short side over to-night for a superstitious drop at the opening; and suppose 'Cam' has told him to take them all into camp and give her a rafter-scraper at the opening, where would old Friday, 13th, land on to-morrow's dope-sheets? Bring up the average, wouldn't it, for five years to some? I tell you, Ike, she's too deep for me this run, and I'm goin' to let her alone and pay for the turkey out of loan commissions or stick to plain work-day food."

"Zame here, Cho. Say, Cho, haf you noticed Pop Prownlee to-tay? He has frozen to deh fringe off dat Sugar crowd ess t'ough some von hat nipped 'is scarf-pin unt he vos layin' for him as he game out. He hasn't made a trade to-tay unt yet he sticks like a stamp-tax. I ben keeping my eyes on him for I t'ought he hat someding up his sleeve dat might raise tust ven he tropt id. I dink Parry has hat deh same itear. He never loses sight of him, yet Pop hasn't made a trade to-tay, unt here id iss 20 minutes of der glose unt dere is Parry in deh center again whooping her up ofer two hundred unt four."

CHAPTER V.

Thursday, November 12, was a memorable day in Wall street. As the gong peeled its the-game's-closed-till-another-day, the myriad of tortured souls that are supposed to haunt the treacherous bogs and quicksands of the great exchange, where lie their earthly hopes, must have prayed with renewed earnestness for its destruction before the morrow. Never had the stock exchange folded its tents with surer confidence of continuing its victorious march. Sugar advanced with record-breaking total sales to 207½ and the final half-hour carried the whole list of stocks up with it. In that time some of the railroads jumped ten points. Sugar closed at the very top amid great excitement, with Barry Conant taking all offered. During the last 30 minutes it had become evident to all that the board-room traders and plungers, together with many of the semi-professional gamblers, who operated through commission houses, were selling out their stock and going short over the opening of the Wall street hoodoo-day, Friday, the 13th of the month. But it was also evident, with the heavy selling at the close and stiffness of the price, which had never wavered as block after block was thrown on the market, that some powerful interest as well had taken cognizance of the fact that the morrow was hoodoo-day. At the close, most of the sellers, had they been granted another five minutes, would have repurchased, even at a loss, what they had sold, for it looked as though they had sold themselves into a trap. Their anxiety was intensified by the publication, a few minutes later, of this item:

"Barry Conant in coming from the Sugar crowd after the close remarked to a fellow broker, 'By three o'clock to-morrow, the 13th, will have a new meaning to Wall street.' This was interpreted as pointing to a terrific jump in Sugar to-morrow."

"The street" knew that the news bureau that sent out this item was friendly to Barry Conant and the "system," and that it would print nothing displeasing to them. Therefore, this must be a foreword of the coming harvest of the bulls and the slaughter of the bears.

Others than Ike Bloomenstein remarked upon the fact that Bob Brownley had hung close to the Sugar-pole all day, but when the close had come and gone without his having anything to do with the Sugar skyrockets, he dropped out of his fellow-brokers' minds. Wall street has no use for any but the "doer." The poet and the mooner would be no more secure from interruption in the center of the Sahara than in Wall street between ten and three o'clock. Some sage has said that the human mind, like the well-bucket, can carry only its fill. The Wall street mind always has its fill of budding dollars. In consequence, there is never room for those other interests that enter the normal mind.

Friday, the 13th of November, drifted over Manhattan island in a drear drizzle of marrow-chilling haze, which just missed being rain—one of those New York days that give a hesitating suicide renewed courage to cut the mortal cord. By ten o'clock it had settled down on the stock exchange and its surrounding infernos with a clamminess that damped the spirits of the most rampant bulls. No class in the world is so susceptible to atmospheric conditions as stock-gamblers. Many a stout-hearted one has been known to postpone the inauguration of a long-planned coup merely because the air filled his blood with the dank chill of superstition. Because of the expected Sugar pyrotechnics, stock exchange members had gathered early; the brokers 'offices were overcrowded before ten; the morning papers, not only in New York but in Boston, Philadelphia and other centers, were filled with stories of the big rise that was to take place in Sugar. The knowing ones saw the ear-marks of the "system's" press-agent in these stories; and they knew that this industrious institution had not sat up the night before because of insomnia. All the signs pointed to a killing, and and a terrific one—pointed so plainly that the bears and Sugar shorts found no hope in the atmosphere or the date.

Bob had not been near the office the afternoon before, and as he had not come in by five minutes to ten, I decided to go over to the exchange and see if he were going to mix up in the baiting of the Sugar bears. I had no specific reasons for thinking he was interested except his recent queer actions, particularly his hanging to the Sugar-pole, yet doing nothing, the day before. But it is one of the best established traditions of stock-gambledom that when an operator has been bitten by a rabid stock he is invariably attracted to it every time afterward that it shows signs of frothing. More than all, I had one of those strong nowhere-born-nowhere-cradled intuitions common to those living in the stock-gambling world, which made me feel the creepy shadow of coming events.

As on that day a few weeks before, the crowd was at the Sugar pole, but its alignment was different. There in the center were Barry Conant and his trusted lieutenants, but no opposing rival. None of those hundreds of brokers showed that desperate resolve to do or die that is born of a necessity. They were there to by or sell, but not to put up a life or death, one-me-depends-the-result fight. Those who were long of stock could easily be distinguished by their expressions of joy from the shorts, who had seen the handwriting on the wall and were filled with uncertainty, fear, terror. The demeanor of Barry Conant and his lieutenants expressed confidence; they were going to do what they were there to do. They showed by their tight-buttoned coats, and squared shoulders that they expected lots of rush, push and haul work, but apparently they anticipated no last-ditch fighting. The gong pealed and the crowd of brokers sprang at one another, but only for blood, not flesh, bone, heart and soul; just blood. The first price on Sugar was 211 for 3,000 shares. Some one sold it in a block. Barry Conant bought it. It did not require three eyes to see that the seller was one of his lieutenants. This meant what is known as a "wash" sale, a fictitious one arranged in advance between two brokers to establish the basis for the trades that are to follow—one of those minor frauds of stock-gambling by which the public is deceived and the traders and plungers are handicapped with loaded dice. In principle, it is a device older than stock exchanges themselves, and is put to use elsewhere than on the floor. For instance, four genuine buyers want a particular animal worth $200 at a horse auction. Its owner's pal starts the bidding at $400, and the four, not being up in horse values, are thereby induced to reach for it at between $400 and $500. But human nature, whether at horse sales or at stock-gambling, loves to be "hinkey-dinked" as much as the moth to play tag with the candle flame. In five minutes Sugar was selling at 221, and the frantic shorts were grabbing for it as though there never was to be another share put on sale, while Barry Conant and his lieutenants were most industriously pushing it just beyond their reaching finger-tips, either by buying it as fast as it was offered by genuine sellers, or by taking what their own pals threw in the air.

I was not surprised to see Bob's tall form wedged in the crowd about two-thirds of the way from the center. Every other active floor member was there, too. Even Ike Bloomenstein and Joe Barnes, who seldom went into the big crowds, were on hand, perhaps to catch a flier for their Thanksgiving turkey money, perhaps to get as near the killing as possible. Bob was not trading, although on the day before, he never took his eye off Barry Conant. I said to myself: "He is trying to fathom Barry Conant's movements," but for what purpose puzzled me. The hands of the big clock on the wall showed that trading had been 30 minutes under way, and still Barry Conant was pushing up the price. His voice had just rung out "25 for any part of 5,000" when, like an echo, it sounded through the hall: "Sold." It was Bob. He had worked his way to the center of the crowd and stood in front of Barry Conant. He was not the Bob who had taken Barry Conant's gaff that afternoon a few weeks before. I never saw him cooler, calmer, more self-possessed. He was the incarnation of confident power. A cold, cynical smile played around the corners of his mouth as he looked down upon his opponent.

The effect upon Barry Conant was different from that of Bob's last bid on the day when Beulah Sands' hopes went skyward in dust. It did not rouse in him the wild, furious desire for the onslaught that he showed then, but seemed to quicken his alert, prolific mind to exercise all its cunning. I think that in that one moment Barry Conant recalled his suspicions of the day before, when he had wondered what Bob's presence in the crowd meant, and that he saw again the picture of Bob on the day when he himself had ditched Bob's treasure-train. He hesitated for just the fraction of a second, while he waved with lightling-like rapidity a set of finger signals to his lieutenants. Then he squared himself for the encounter. "25 for 5,000." Cold, cold as the voice of a condemning judge rang Bob's "Sold." "25 for 5,000." "Sold." "25 for 5,000." "Sold." Their eyes were fixed upon each other, in Barry's a defiant glare, in Bob's mingled pity and contempt. The rest of the brokers hushed their own bids and offers until it could have truthfully been said that the floor of the stock exchange was quiet, an almost unheard-of thing in like circumstances. Again Barry Conant's voice, "25 for 5,000." "Sold." "25 for 5,000." "Sold." Barry Conant had met his master. Whether it was that for the first time in all his wonderful career he realized that the "system" was to meet its Nemesis, or what the cause, none could tell, perhaps not even Barry Conant himself, but some emotion caused his olive face for an instant to turn pale, and give his voice a tell-tale quiver. Once more pealed forth "25 for 5,000." That Bob saw the pallor, that he caught the quiver, was evident to all, for the instant his "sold" rang out, he followed it with 5,000 at 24, 23, 22, 20." Neither Barry Conant nor any of his lieutenants got in a "take it;" although whether they wanted to or not was an open question until Bob allowed his voice to dwell just like a pendulum swing of time on the 20. It was as if he were tantalizing them into sticking by their guns. By the time he paused, Barry Conant's nerve was back, for his piercing "Take it" had linked to it "20 for any part of $10,000." The bid was yet on his lips when Bob's deep voice rang out "Sold." Any part of 25,000 at 19, 18, 15, 10." Hell was now loose. Back and forth, up against the rail, around the room and back and around again, the crowd surged for 15 of the wildest, craziest minutes in the history of the New York stock exchange, a history replete with records of wild and crazy scenes.

At last from sheer exhaustion there came a ten minutes' lull, which was used in comparing trades. At the beginning of the respite Sugar was selling at 155, for in that quarter hour of madness it had broken from 210 to 155, but when the ten minutes had elapsed, the stock had worked back to 167. Barry Conant had again taken the center of the crowd, after hastily scanning the brief notes handed him by messenger-boys and giving orders to his lieutenants. He had evidently received reenforcements in the form of renewed orders from his principals. Many of the faces that fringed the inner circle of that crowd were frightful to look upon, some white as though just lifted from hospital pillows, others red to the verge of apoplexy—all strained as though awaiting the coming of the jury with a life or death verdict. They all knew that Bob had sold more than a hundred thousand shares of Sugar upon which the profits must be more than $4,000,000. Would he resume selling, or was he through? Was it short stock, which must be bought back, or long stock; and if long, whose stock? Were the insiders selling out on one another, or were they all selling together, and under cover of Barry Conant's movements were Camemeyer and "Standard Oil" emptying their bag preparatory to the slaughter of the Washington contingent? All these questions were rushing through the heads of that crowd of brokers like steam through a boiler, now hot, now cold, but always at high pressure, for upon the correctness of the answer depended the fortune of many who breathlessly awaited the renewal or the suspension of the contest. Even Barry Conant's usually impassive face wore a tinge of anxiety.

IT WAS, only about a year ago, just a pretty farm.

IT IS to day the finest building site in Plainfield, with broad avenues macadamized their entire width, concrete curb, sidewalks, trees, gas, electric light, in fact all improvements. Nearly $100,000 expended in new and handsome dwellings, now ready for the market.

WHAT IT WILL BE we hardly dare predict, with contracts out for even more extensive improvements and twelve more handsome residences.

NEWARK CLUB AFTER PLAINFIELD TWIRLER

BURNHAM ANXIOUS TO SIGN WILTSE, WHO HAS BEEN REINSTATED.

With the idea of strengthening the batting, as well as the pitching, department of the Newark Eastern League nine, Manager Burnham announced yesterday that he had his lines out for Lew Wiltse, of this city, the heavy hitting twirler, formerly with Baltimore. Wiltse was reinstated Monday by the National Commission, and is now eligible to sign with any national agreement club.

Wiltse was placed on the ineligible list two years ago for jumping from Baltimore to the Tri-State League, along with Jack Hayden, who was since reinstated, and is now playing with Rochester. Wiltse had made several efforts to get back in the fold of organized baseball, but his appeals were unsuccessful until the finalone. Wiltse said recently that he would like nothing better than to play in Newark, on account of it being near to his home.

This season Wiltse played with the Johnstown team of the Tri-State League, but succeeded in securing an unconditional release, which placed him in a position for reinstatement, and he is now with the Reading Atlantic League Club. Burnham has a high opinion of Wiltse, both as a pitcher and a batter, and if his arm is in condition he will probably land a job with the Sailors.

GOLF.

A professional four-ball match which is likely to be productive of good golf has been arranged to take place at Bernardsville on September 15. George Low, of Baltusrol, the Metropolitan open championship, and Dave Hunter are to team it up against Alec Smith, of Nassau, and Joe Hagen, the Bernardsville "pro." In an invitation tournament there last summer Smith in addition to winning first money broke the course record.

The Scottish American Golf Club, a recently formed organization which makes its headquarters at Van Cortlandt Park, considers that it was shabbily treated by the New York Golf Club last week. It will be remembered that the play on the first two days in the Van Cortlandt Park tournament was under the management of the New York Golf Club.

According to the conditions published on the program, the tournament was open to golfers belonging to clubs in the Metropolitan Golf Association and such others as might be invited. The New York Golf Club officials say that none of the Scottish-American crowd was invited because the organization was not affiliated with the M. G. A. The Scottish-American members, on the other hand, declare that the other people were envious because the former was able to boast of stronger players.

Pope Tells Priests to Arm.

Rome, Aug. 7—Monday the Pope called a special meeting of Cardinals in order to obtain their advice as to the present situation in Italy and the best means to avert any harm from ecclesiastical persons and property. The meeting discussed the recent anti-clerical manifestations in Italy and the numerous insults offered even to foreign ecclestiastics visiting Rome or belonging to foreign colleges, whose cases in several instances have already been referred to the diplomatic representatives of their countries within the past few weeks. It was decided that there was no use for the Pope to make any formal protest in the matter, and that the best way to protest the clergy of Rome and Italy, would be to allow them to carry revolvers and stilettoes to defend themselves. After the meeting, Cardinal Respighi, as the special representative of the Pope, issued orders to all the Roman clergy to purchase firearms or other weapons. Accordingly all the parish priests and their assistants in this city, who have to be on the street often at night, now go armed.

P. S. C. GETS OPTION.

It Wants the Guion Property Now.

Realizing that at some future time it may be necessary to enlarge its gas plant in this city, the Public Service Corporation has secured an option on the Guion property, adjoining its own on East Front street where it proposes to erect additional gas holders. The company's property holdings on East Front street are limited and as land in that part of the city is growing scarce, it was decided to secure the available property before it was too late.

The Guion property was formerly used by DeWitt C. Ivins as a lumber yard but has remained closed since Mr. Ivins retired from that business. Although the deal with the P. S. C. has not yet been closed, it is expected that it will be within a few days.

UPHOLDS PERKINS ACT

Railroads are Routed in their Fight Against Mr. Perkins' Equal Taxation Statute.

HIGHEST COURT DECIDES

Supreme Court Holds State May Assess Main Stem Property at Average Rate.

In an exhaustive opinion filed in the Supreme Court at Trenton yesterday by Justices Fort, Hendrickson and Pitney, the validity of the so-called "Perkins" railroad tax act of 1906, which was attacked by all the railroads of the State, was upheld in every particular. As a result the railroads will be obliged to pay into the State treasury on account of the tax levied for 1906 a total of $3,503,529.70, an increase of $2,652,538.49 over the tax paid the State in 1905 on the same class of property.

The tax in question is that levied on the "main stem" franchise and tangible personal property assessed at the average tax rate of the State, amounting to $18.01 on each $1,000 valuation under the Perkins law, as compared with the fixed rate of $5 on each $1,000 valuation under the railroad tax act of 1884 as amended in 1888.

Under the Perkins law the State retains an amount equal to $5 on each $1,000 for the use of the State, which sum amounted last year to $969,662.35, an increase over the preceding year, when the total railroad State tax was $950,999.21, of $18,663.14.

The remainder, amounting to $2,533,869.35, will, under the Perkins law, be distributed among the various municipalities to reduce the State school tax and may be available for use during the current year. Newark, according to an estimate made by Governor Stokes, may receive for this purpose $532,582.41, as against $177,521.47 received for the preceding year, being an increase of $355,060.94.

The prosecutors of record were the United New Jersey Railway and Canal Company and the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

Results Reached by the Court.

First—That by the transit act of 1869 the irrepealable contracts contained in the original charters of the several railroad and canal companies composing the United New Jersey Railroad and Canal Company, fixing transit duties in lieu of other taxes, were abolished.

Second—That, if the act of 1869 created any contract, upon its acceptance by the United Companies it was a contract to pay the specific tax mentioned in that act, or such other tax as should be imposed upon the property of all railroad and canal corporations.

Third—That the taxation imposed under the act of 1884, as revised and amended in the act of 1888 and 1906, as to the separate classes of railroad and canal property segregated by the Legislature for taxation, is a uniform State tax.

Fourth—Chapter 82 of the laws of 1906, which imposes upon the main stem or waterway and the tangible personal property and franchise of every railroad and canal company the "average rate of taxation," to be ascertained by computation from the taxing districts of the State, is not unconstitutional.

Fifth—The so-called Perkins act, which requires that what is known as "second class" railroad and canal property shall be assessed and taxed in each taxing district, in the same manner and at the same rate as other property located in such district, and that the tax thereon shall be paid to the proper officers of the several taxing districts, is not unconstitutional.

According to this decision, Union county's share for 1906 will be $171,269.15. Of this amount Plainfield will receive approximately $34,253.82. Elizabeth's share will be about $85,634.53.

"Blondie" Must Leave the Borough.

"Blondie," the colored woman, who was arrested Wednesday night by Borough Marshal Keller, on a disorderly charge preferred by Frank Rice, was arraigned before Recorder Dolliver in the borough court, last night. After hearing the testimony, Recorder Dolliver imposed a fine of ninety days or $25, but afterward suspended sentence, upon the promise of the woman to leave the community forever.

STATION FOR DUNELLEN

END OF GRADE CROSSING

Overhead Bridge Likely to Be Built —Other Improvements Contemplated There.

In connection with the extensive improvements being made by the New Jersey Central along this section of the road, it is said none will be more appreciated than the one which will provide for the erection of a handsome new station at Dunellen to take the place of the old wooden structure which has been used for a great many years. The present building is now in a dilapitated condition and since the company has planned to erect a new station, no expense has been expended in the way of repairs.

The new station will be built of brick and stone and will correspond with the other new structures erected along the line of the road within recent years. It will be equipped with every modern convenience. It is also proposed to adopt plans whereby people will not be obliged to use the grade crossings in Dunellen. The arrangement will probably be similar to the one in use at Fanwood, where an overhead bridge has been built.

It is hardly likely that the grade crossings will be abolished, as the cost of the work of elevating the tracks at that point would be enormous. However, every precaution will be taken tending toward the safety of citizens.

ELIZABETH CONTRACTOR THE LOWEST BIDDER

CALLAHAN LIKELY TO BUILD THE SANITARY SEWERS.

In considering the bids for the sanitary sewers, the Councilmanic street committee last night decided that T. Foster Callahan, of Elizabeth, was the lowest bidder. His bid approximated $24,089.20, and it is expected that the Common Council will award the contract to him at the meeting on Monday night. Mr. Callahan has done sanitary sewer work in the East End of the city and it was performed in a very satisfactory manner.

No action was taken at the meeting regarding the bids for the storm sewer to be laid in a portion of Plainfield avenue. They were all pretty high and the committee decided to let the whole Common Council pass or the matter.

The lowest bid, that of T. Foster Callahan, of Elizabeth, was $24,089.20. C. M. Meeker, of this city, was second, his bid being $25,083.43. J. Callery, of Weehawken, was third, his figures being $26,057.69, while Warren B. Travell, of this city, was fourth, his bid being $27,608.63.

POND PRETTY ARID.

Hardly Any Water in It—Suggestion As to Brook Cleaning.

The hot weather has all but dried up Tier's pond. Practically, the only moisture in it is a pool at the raceway gate. No water is entering the pond from its source. The dry-up is the most complete in a number of years. The mill has had pressure enough for operation for six weeks. The grain has been sent out for grinding.

Fishing in the pool at the raceway entrance was easy, and a number of boys and thrifty Italians were busy with poles, pitchforks and hands this morning. A lot of eels and some big carp were taken. One boy, named Coon, got a 22-pounder.

It was suggested this morning by a citizen interested in the development of the property in this city, that the condition of the lake presented a good opportunity for a general scraping of the brook and the pond. The dirt and mud, he suggested, could be thrown into a pile in the centre of the pond, creating a pretty island, around which the waters could divide and keep their channel clear.

Plainfielders at Camp Wanamassa.

Plainfield young men who are now sojourning at Camp Wanamassa, on Deal Lake, include Edward Hardingham, Walter Wigman and Roy Miller. F. A. Martin, William Bogardus, Fred Slauson and Richard F. Randolph have returned home. John McCullough, Enoch Hardingham, R. F. Randolph and F. A. Martin will go back to camp on Saturday, some of them to remain for the rest of the month.

MAY TAKE LAYTON BRICK

If that Type of Pave is Found Satisfactory, Hassam Co's Bid will be Accepted.

C. M. MEEKER SECOND

Plainfield Contractor Offers Clay Brick at Reasonable Figure—Mack Co. Has Some Claims.

The councilmanic street committee met last night to consider the bids received for the propose brick paving of certain business streets and also the bids for the sanitary and storm sewers, all of which were received at the meeting of the Common Council, Monday night. If the committee decides to use the Layton brick, which was included in the bids of the Hassam Paving Company, that concern will receive the contract. That type of brick, together with other makes, is now being tested and the committee is awaiting the result. The Hassam Paving Company's bid was $2.29 per yard, and the total estimated cost of the work in accordance with this bid is $37,734.84. It will be remembered that the Common Council provided for an issue of $40,000 worth of bonds for the work.

The committee has made its obligatory that concerns submitting bids for brick must furnish a guaranty bond, agreeing to supply the required number of brick within twenty days from the time it was ordered. Only one concern furnished the required bond of $16,000 and that was the Mack Manufacturing Company of Maryland. Now the question is raised that inasmuch as that company was the only one strictly complying with the terms under which bids were asked for, whether it is entitled to tract, all things being equal, or else that the committee advertise for new bids. It was through the efforts of Chairman Glinn and Mr Montgomery, of the councilmanic street committee that the bonding feature for furnishing brick was incorporated in the proposals, to prevent any delay of the work.

It is understood that an option was received from the acting corporation counsel, Nelson Runyon, that the Committee or Common Council can make arrangements to secure the proper bond from any concern securing the contract, and that the fact that such bond was not furnished at the time the bids were received, need not necessarily prevent the committee from awarding the contract to the company making the lowest bid.

There is a tendency on that part of the committee to favor the vitrified brick made by the Pennsylvania Clay Company, believing it to be the best. However, if the Layton brick comes up to the required test, it is the opinion that it will be used. In this case the Hassam Paving Company will get the contract. C. M. Meeker, of this city, is the next lowest bidder, $2.39 per yard for Pennsylvania Clay Company brick.

The exact bid of the Hassam Paving Company was $37,734.48, which includes new curbing and the resetting of old curbing, it being understood that Layton brick be used. C. M. Meeker's bid, the Pennsylvania Clay Company brick to be used, was $39,441.32.

DEPLETED THE VENIRE.

Not Enough Juryman for Police Court Trial After Challenges.

Challnges and excuses cut down the jury panel to such an extent that a trial of the case of William Close against Andrew McConnell and Thomas Muldowney, could not be carried on this morning. After the veniremen had been reduced in number to about five or six, Judge Runyon, after learning counsel's wishes, adjourned the case to August 22. The other case will be tried on the same day, but a second jury will be used.

Detective Sergeant Flynn, who drew the jury, had twenty men in the panel. Two of them brought doctor's certificates, one was not a resident on this side of the brook and the opposing lawyers, G. W. V. Moy and William G. DeMeza, rejected eleven talesmen between them. The adjournment of th trial disappointed a crowd that filled the Council chamber "gallery."

Summer Life In Massachusetts.

The current issue of "The Independent" contains an interesting story from the pen of Mile Roberts, of this city, on the subject of "Our Co-Operative Homes," referring to the beautiful summer home of several Plainfielders at Tolland, Mass. The story is accompanied by several attractive pictures.

The Misses Kathryn M. Rutledge and Elsie E. Burner, of the borough, have returned from Asbury Park, where they spent their vacation.

PATRICK REGAN DIDN'T STEAL STIGER'S DUCKS

PRIDEVILLE RESIDENT EXONERATED IN BOROUGH COURT.

Patrick Reagan, of "Prideville," was vindicated in the borough court, by Recorder Dolliver, last night, of the charge of acting in a disorderly manner or of purloining five ducks belonging to Julius Stiger, his neighbor. The defendant was represented by S. S. Swackhamer. Stiger missed five ducks some time ago, and he had indirectly accused Reagan of taking them.

When Reagan passed Stiger's house Saturday afternoon, the latter as well as his brother taunted him. An altercation followed, during which Reagan was struck by Stiger and he was also hit by a stone.

Recorder Dolliver promptly dismissed the case against Reagan and took occasion to admonish Stiger for the way he had acted. The court room was packed with interested citizens, many being unable to gain admission. When Reagan was acquitted and exonerated his friends gave lusty cheers and congratulated him.

BENEFIT INCIDENTAL TO BRICK PAVEMENT

OTHER STREETS TO BE IMPROVED IN CONSEQUENCE OF THE WORK.

Through the laying of brick pavement a good deal of material for street improvement in all sections of the city will be made available. The brick paving specifications provide that the crosswalks and all road building material displaced by the improvement shall belong to the city, and all of it will be put to use.

The cross walks will be laid in places where they are needed in different parts of the city. Applications for them have come from pretty much all over the city. There will be quite a lot of macadamizing material "released," and this will be used on a number of streets along the line of the improvement. West Second street, Church street and such thoroughfares will share in the improvement. The material will be confined for the most part, to such nearby by streets in order to save cost involved in moving it to districts further removed.

The work is in the nature of an unexpected benefit from the brick paving. The street department and the Council knew it would be part of the change, but the general public probably had no idea of any such profitable "by-product" of permanent pavement. The material rendered available is worth a good many hundreds of dollars.

DUNELLEN REPORTER BECOMES POLICE CHIEF

WILL COMBINE TWO VACATIONS, HUNTING CRIME AND NEWS TOGETHER.

H. L. Hathaway, of Dunellen, is probably the only newspaper reporter in the State who has the distinction of combining his daily hunt for news with regular police duty, which is equivalent to the position of chief of police in bigger towns or cities. Hathaway received his appointment from Mayor Wyckoff, and it was confirmed by an unanimous vote of the Common Council Tuesday night. After the meeting Hathaway was duly sworn in and presented with a badge.

On the recommendation of Fowler Vail, chairman of the street committee, it was decided to order a carload of bluestone, to used for crosswalks on Washington, Lincoln and North avenues.

Miss Violet Beerbower, of Chatham, who has been visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Staats, at the Hotel Kensington, returned home today.

FOUR KILLED BY TRAIN

Two of the Victims of Accident Near Allenhurst Were Plainfielders.

THEIR SURREY STRUCK

Miss Loretta Grace and Miss Jennie McDonald Formerly Employed at the Hotel Kensington.

An empty excursion train on the Pensylvania Railroad, speeding from Allenhurst to Asbury Park, crashed into a surrey containing three women and the driver at 6.20 last night, and the four were instantly killed.

Two of the victims, Miss Loretta Grace and Miss Jennie McDonald were formerly employed as waitresses at the Hotel Kensington in this city. Miss Grace left here a year ago to seek employment at a seashore resort and Miss McDonald quit on July 1 to join Miss Grace. The three young women were natives of Ireland and had made plans to return home on September 1. They were held in high esteem by the proprietor and guests of the local hotel.

The dead are: Loretta Grace, Jennie McDonald, and Hannah Murphy, all of New York, waitresses employed at the Norwood House, and Thomas Edwards of Allenhurst the driver.

The accident occurred just south of the Allenhurst station of the New York & Long Branch Railroad Company. The three women had rooms in a lodging house west of the railroad, and were on their way to the hotel to serve dinner. They were seated in a surrey owned by Beecroft Brothers, and driven by Thomas Edwards. They were late in starting for the hotel and were in a hurry.

When Edwards drove up to the crossing the flagman was on the east side of the tracks and excursion train bound up toward Red Bank was passing. Edwards drove in as close to this train as he could get so as to cross as soon as the train passed. It prevented him from seeing the train bound in the other direction. When the last coach passed the crossing Edwards started forward across the tracks. He was fairly upon the south bound rails when the flying engine hit the surrey. The horse, man, and woman were hurled in various directions and the surrey was crushed out of all shape. The bodies of the three women were scattered along the side of the track at intervals of a few feet on one side. All were killed instantly.

Edward's body was thrown to the other side of the tracks and hit a flag shanty with such force as to burst through it and practically demolish it. Seemingly every bone in the man's body was broken. The horse was killed instantly.

The train stopped within a short distance and the train hands came back to give any aid possible. The train soon resumed its journey.

The accident was witnessed by hundreds of commuters and Summer residents, both men and women at the station. Several women in the throng fainted.

The bodies of the four victim's were taken to Bodine's morgue, in Asbury Park. Coroner McDonald impaneled a jury, which will investigate the accident tomorrow.

FORTY DAYS FOR PETER.

Quinn (Right Name Molloy) Reaches End of His Tether.

Peter Quinn, whose right name is Molloy, but not for use in police courts and newspapers, was up before Judge Runyon in the city court this morning for the third or fourth time in a few months. Peter called on Chief Kiely at headquarters yesterday morning to bid him the time of day, and he promised faithfully to be "dacent and not sup a bit too much, at all, at all." Nevertheless, Peter was found, very drunk, on a Central avenue porch last evening by Patrolman Cornelius Sweeney.

Peter signed and told a quavering tale to Judge Runyon, in which he mentioned something about sore feet. Peter has always suffered with sore feet in his appearances before the municipal court. Judge Runyon told Peter he was getting to a nuisance, and made the sentence forty days straight.

GAME WARDEN ARRESTED

Mayor, Justice and Police Chief Hustle Him Out of Bed on Charge of Bribery.

IS STRAIGHT STRAIGHT?

Alleged Prisoner Attempted to Bribe Witnesses to Testify That Mr. Buttfield's Dog Was Running at Large.

Freeman Straight, a game warden, residing at Watchung, who has already gained considerable notoriety because of the part he took in arresting Edward Bimble, of the borough, for allowing his hound dog to run at large, is a prisoner himself in the borough lockup, held to await a hearing this afternoon on a charge of bribery preferred by John Matthews, of Rockview avenue. Straight was arrested last night by Chief Marshal Weiss, who, accompaied by Mayor N. B. Smalley, former Judge W. A. Coddington and Justice Clark Munyd, found him in bed. He spent the night in the lockup. The news of the arrest spread quickly throughout the whole Watchung section and when Demler's corner was reached, the entire population was out to give Straight a good send-off.

During the season Straight has been especially active in waging war on dogs found running at large. He had heard that W. J. Buttfield's dog had been running about and, according to the complaint made against the warden by John Matthews, he tried to secure Mrs. Matthews and son to testify against Mr. Buttfield, asking them if they would be his witnesses if they were well paid for it. Mrs. Matthews informed her husband of Straight's overtures and he communicated the fact to Mayor Smalley. On Mr. Matthews' complaint a warrant was issued by Justice Mundy.

Chief Marshal Weiss had the warrant for two or three days, but Straight succeeded in eluding him. The hearing will be held before Justice Mundy.

LIBRARIAN TO BECOME A SETTLEMENT WORKER

MISS ADAMS WILL PREPARE HERSELF IN SCHOOL OF PHILANTHROPY.

Miss Emma Adams, who, for twenty-one years has been connected with the Plainfield Public Library and Reading Room, and the greater part of that time as librarian, has resigned her position, the same to take effect October 1, for the purpose of engaging in social work. Although she was very reluctant to give up her position as librarian, having become very much attached to the work, she believes that she will find a greater field for usefulness in social settlement enterprise.

Having secured a scholarship in the New York School of Philanthrophy, of which Dr. Samuel M. Lindsey is the president, Miss Adams will take a course in that school next winter and spring in preparation for her life work. Hugh F. Fox, of this city, who is president of the State Charities Aid Association, is also interested in the New York school.

Miss Adams will relinquish her duties here October 1. Although the Board of Directors of the Public Library has not chosen a successor to Miss Adams, it is expected that the present assistant librarian, Miss Florence Bullman, of Dunellen avenue, will be appointed, as she is next in line for the place. Miss Adams was appointed librarian in 1888 and by her conscientious and faithful efforts endeared herself to all friends of the library.

Property is On East Fourth Street.

P. S. C. OFFICIALS HERE

TOUR ALONG THE LINE

Attention Directed to Overhead Wires — Examine Gas and Electric Light Plants.

For the purpose of learning something definite about the holdings of the company through this section of New Jersey, Thomas N. McCarter, president, and Dudley Farrand, general manager, accompanied by three other officials of the Public Service Corporation, made a tour of inspection here yesterday.

The officials left Newark during the morning in an automobile and visited the important points along the line of the trolley to Plainfield, Metuchen and New Brunswick. It was about 2 o'clock when they reached Plainfield. Their objective point was the electric light plant on West Second street, where they visited every department. They also went to the gas plant on East Fourth street for the same purpose, not forgetting to take a look at the Guion property close by, upon which an option has been secured for the erection of extra gas holders.

Superficial attention was directed toward the system of overhead wiring, especially in the business section of the city. After the inMetuchen and New Brunswick, where a similar tour was made about the company's plants, returning to Newark early in the evening.

President McCarter talked freely when asked over the 'phone by a representative of The Daily Press concerning the purpose and result of his tour of inspection. He appeared to be highly pleased with conditions but he expressed an intention on the part of the company to work constantly for the improvement of equipment and service in all its branches.

"We visited the entire central division of our company," said Mr. McCarter, "devoting the day to the task. We examined the electric light and the gas plants in Plainfield, but I only had time to give a superficial look into the matter of overhead wires in the business section. As for that subject, I might say that I am not an electrical expert but we have an expert who gives his attention to such matters. I cannot say what will be done, but you can depend upon it that our electrical expert will do what is right.

"Yes, we have bought the Guion property at Watchung avenue and Church street, adjoining our gas plant on East Fourth street. It is our intention to construct another gas holder there, which will be fully as large as the present one. The electric light plant is in good condition in your town. We devoted some time to looking over that property."

President McCarter was unlike the majority of heads of public utility concerns and in this respect he resembles President Besler, of the Jersey Central, who is always willing to talk to newspapermen on matters of timely importance and of interest to its patrons. He was very frank and showed no disinclination in answering questions put to him by a representative of The Daily Press.

Miss Tennant Here.

Miss Dorothy Tennant, who took a leading part in the New York production of "The College Widow," two years ago, and who was obliged to take a long rest for the benefit of he rhealth, is now the guest of Mrs. E. A. Gross, of West Eighth street, having fully recovered her strength. She has signed a contract to appear the coming season with John Drew in his productions.

Raceway Cleaning Tangle.

As the raceway, which Mayor Fisk ordered to be cleaned by the city yesterday, is the private property of the French estate, the question has arisen as to the right of the authorities to do the work at the city's expense. It is understood, however, that the cost will be charged up to the owner, but as to compulsion to pay that is still another question.

Land Development.

W. J. Buttfield and C. W. McCutchen, of the borough, who are developing and improving West End avenue, the borough, have decided to complete one side of the thoroughfare as soon as possible. Workmen are now engaged in filling in and bringing the avenue up to the proper grade so that the rest of the concrete walk can be extended to the bridge.

One of our clients owed $48 between four people. His salary is $14 weekly; rent $12 monthly. To have paid $2 weekly to each creditor, combined with rent, would have left only $3 per week to meet expenses, buy clothing, etc.—an impossibility you will agree. He borrowed $50, paid all his creditors, made his future credit good, if ever needed; pays his rent, the loan payments, and has $9 each week to use as his judgment dictates.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The County Board of Taxation met with the assessors of the various taxing districts Tuesday at the Court House. The assessors, including John H. L. Peters, brought their books along and submitted them to the county board, which will revise them and send them back, so the assessors can make similar corrections in their duplicate books. On August 19 the books will come back to the county board, and the revised total valuation will be computed. Madison township was the only one which failed to turn in its book yesterday. All over the county, it was found, the assessors have shoved up valuations, with the exception of Woodbridge township. Assessor Edgar's book for that place showed few changes, and the county board protested vehemently. "Increases have been made all over the county," declared Chairman William H. Schlesinger, "but Woodbridge is making the same assessments that she did years and years ago. The result is that she is not bearing her fair share of the State and county tax. The Board is determined to change this." "I think we might at least look for a ten per cent. increase from Woodbridge, Mr. Edgar," observed Dr. Crowther, of the county board. The result of these increases of valuations will be a general drop of tax rate all over the county. The decrease will probably average fifteen points.

Freeholder George S. Buntings' claim that the asylum authorities overcharge Middlesex county for supplies furnished to indigent county patients was borne out by the testimony of Warden William P. Hayes before the Hahn Investigating Committee this week. The warden admitted that the counties were charged more than cost prices for supplies, and that the profit from this source was about $1,000 a year. He said that the overcharge was made to meet the cost of repairing the clothing of patients, which cost, he said, is $2,000 a year or more. This explanation is rather puzzling, for the bills that come to the county always contain extra items for the repair of clothes.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Fire destroyed the barns and outbuildings of John Lambert at Willow Grove, yesterday morning. The local department was notified and responded, the alarm being sounded about noon. By the time they arrived the buildings were beyond saving and all efforts were turned towards saving the house. Westfield also responded and did good work. The origin of the fire is unknown, although it is thought to have been the work of an incendiary, as children saw a strange man leaving the barn shortly before the fire was discovered. The loss, it is said, is only partly covered by insurance.

IN THE WORLD OF INDUSTRY.

The action of the Civil Service Commission in barring all but college graduates from the examination for superintendent of the new Chicago federal building is being denounced by labor unions in general as "class action of the rankest sort" and as weakening the public confidence in civil service examinations.

If by chance the Scotch Plains team should defeat Clinton Avenue, on Saturday, it would make the race for the pennant an exceedingly close one. The Plainfield nine has thus far won eight and lost but two games, while the 'Plains aggregation has won seven and lost three contests, showing how evenly matched these two teams are. Y. M. C. A. is a close third with seven victories and four defeats. If Clinton Avenue wins Saturday it will practically give them the championship, while if they lose it will make the possibilities of Scotch Plains and Y. M. C. A. greater than at present. However, considering the consistent form shown by the Plainfield team, it is hardly probable that they will lose to Scotch Plains in the coming contest.

A peculiar accident happened at Westfield, Mass., a few days ago. A boy was watching the game from the side lines when the catcher started for a foul. The boy lay down on the grass to allow the catcher to step over him. The spike in the catcher's shoe struck the youth's head and tore a gash in the scalp six inches long.

This is the season of the year when the scouts are busy picking up young blood. There is always a good deal of wailing over the fact that only a small proportion of newcomers make good in the big leagues, but it is that fact that makes the standard of big league playing high. The harder it is to hold a job in one the better the quality of the play.

The Cubs have not been free from misfortune by any means, yet they have the lead and a long one. Schulte was out of the game for a long time, Tinke was laid up for awhile, while Johnny Klin has done a sentence for kicking and Chance has been out of commission several times.

It is predicted that next season will find the largest percentage of Eastern League players in the big leagues since organized ball. There are not less than twenty-five or thirty promising players now in the minor league who have been sold to the major leagues for next year's delivery. It is undisputed that the Eastern League is furnishing a majority of the players for the big leagues nowadays.

Hanlon tells of a case of base running by McGraw and Keeler in the old Oriole days which must have been a wonder. With McGraw on first, Keeler hit a liner to left which went to the fielder on the bound. McGraw never stopped at second, keeping right on to third at full tilt. Nor did he stop at third. Bill Joyce was playing that bag, and by the time he had dug the ball out of the dirt and swung around for McGraw the latter was on his way home. He reached the plate when the ball did, knocked the ball out of McGuire's mitt and before McGuire could recover it Keeler, too, was over the plate.

The New York Nationals think George Browne is the fastest man on the bases in the game. The New York Americans think the same of Hoffman, the Brooklyns of Maloney, the Browns of Niles and the Clevelands of Bay. Browne moves more like a trained sprinter than any of them, he having had the advantage of pointers given by Barney Wefers; but as to natural speed it is a hard question to decide. Jimmy Barrett can, or could, get down to first with lightning speed, and once past first and burning the highway of a long hit there are few who can give their dust to Hal Chase or Pat Dougherty. Willie Keeler, Jimmy Sheckard and Topsy Hartsel are not in the snail class.

GOLF.

An event of interest at the Plainfield Country Club, today, will be a match between "Marty" O'Loughlin, the home "pro," and Tracy Smith, the amateur champion from the New Brunswick Golf Club. A return match will be played by these golfers at New Brunswick on Sunday.

There will be no dinner-dance at the Plainfield Country Club Saturday night, but the weekly social events will be resumed a week from Saturday and continued every Saturday for the rest of the month and during September.

The Altoona, Pa., Cricket Club will hold the annual open golf tournament on August 27 to 30. The qualifying round will be at thirty-six holes, two sixteens to keep on for the governors' and the president's cup. There will also be two beaten eight cups and runner-up prizes in each final. An eighteen hole handicap will close the tournament. All entries close with the club's secretary, J. W. Nelson, on August 24. A lawn tennis tournament will be held the same week. There will be a reception by the women of the club on August 26, dancing each succeeding evening, and on August 30 a tournament ball at the Logan House.

James Standish, Jr., of Detroit, won the amateur championship of Austria at Carlsbad on July 20. It was an eighteen hole stroke competition. Standish did 84 and Holt Secor, of New York, took second place with 86. The interclub competition for the Carlsbad cup, for teams of three, also fell to America. The winners were Morgan J. O'Brien, John B. Macdonald and P. F. Murphy, of the Oakland Golf Club, with 132 for nine holes. The Carlsbad team was second, with 139.

Massachusetts' new champion, J. G. Anderson, recently played the Troon course in Scotland in 76 and beat Willie Fernie in a match. On the revised Massachusetts handicap list Anderson has been placed at scratch for the fall season with A. G. Lockwood and W. C. Chick. P. W. Whittemore and H. H. Wilder have been reduced from 2 strokes to 1.

The annual championship of the Maine Golf Association will begin today at the Portland Golf Club.

Efforts are being made by the Lenox Golf Club to get together the winners at the various tournaments of the $500 Lenox cup for a special competition on August 30. They are F. D. Haughton, of Boston, last year's racquet champion; N. Mallouf, John Moller, Jr., Malcolmn McBurney, T. M. Sherman, of Utica, and Samuel Frothingham. The latter pair have each two wins on the trophy and should either again win he will take the cup for keeps. Otherwise the club will again have the possession for another year.

Arnaud Massy, both British and French open champion, met with an unexpected defeat by Dominique Coussis by 1 hole at the opening of the course at Cabourg, near Trouville. The winner seems an old friend, for he learned his game as caddie under Joe Lloyd, our open champion of 1897, who has for many years divided his season between Pau and the Essex County Country Club, nea Boston. Dominique, as he is called, is one of the oldest of the French professionals.

The Britishers are scoring some these days. At Walton Heath the seventeenth hole, 464 yards, was holed the other day in 2 and at St. Andrews a player has holed the eleventh, a good 4, in 2, the second being a full cleek shot.

JAIL FOR TRUST BARONS.

Attorney General Bonaparte strikes the right note when he declares that some jail sentences would have a salutatory effect in the effort to solve the trust problem. There is altogether too much leniency shown by the courts today in dealing with matters of such importance and a little drastic work, it seems, would be most beneficent just at this time. While the imposition of a $29,0000,000 sentence on the Standard Oil by Judge Landis for instance was a deserved penalty and will no doubt eventually open the eyes of the trusts to the fact that the Government has taken a firm stand against sucr criminality, probably it would have been better had the court sent some of the arch-conspirators to jail. At it is, no one doubts but that the consumers will have to make up the loss suffered by the octopus and in the end the trust barons will not suffer so much.

Referring to his future course of action in the effort to smash these monopolies which are working against public interest in a criminal manner, the Attorney General said yesterday: "I have noticed a good many complaints that criminal prosecutions against trust magnates and sentences of imprisonment for them have been very infrequent, and, in fact, for practical purposes, unknown. It is perfectly true that, in my opinion at least, a better moral effect would be produced by sending a few prominent men to jail than by a great deal of litigation, however successful, against the corporations they controlled."

The whole country will agree with Mr. Bonaparte that if some of the worst offenders are forever disgraced by being compelled to wear prison stripes for a time, the trusts can be effectually held in check.

EQUALITY IN TAXATION.

Equal justice for all is the doctrine embodied in the Perkins act, which was declared constitutional yesterday by the Supreme Court, and now the property of the great railroads are on the same footing as that of private individuals so far as taxation is concerned. The highest tribunal in New Jersey has decreed that the main stem and tangible personalty of the railroads shall be compelled to pay at the average tax rate for the whole State and the judgment is happily retroactive inasmuch as the corporations in question will be compelled to pay at such rate for 1906. For last year, alone, $3,503,527.70 is due the State treasurer, which is exactly $2,652,538.49 more than that of the preceding year when the unfair and unequitable law was still in effect.

Under the old system of railroad taxation, the roads were compelled to pay the nominal rate of $5 per $1,000. This was a fixed rate, although the property of private individuals in various communities was placed at a vastly greater figure. Now the same roads will have to pay $18.01 per $1,000 throughout the entire State on both tangible personalty and the main stem. For every $1,000 collected in this way, the State will reserve $5, and the balance, $13.01 on the $1,000, will be distributed among the communities. The money thus apportioned by the State will be for the purpose of reducing the State tax and it will be distributed in time to meet current expenses. The sum total due the various municipalities amounts to $2,533,869.35.

That's what has been accomplished by the cry for equal taxation, a slogan justly feared by the corporations which have been receiving unfair benefits for years. Every taxpayer in the State will rejoice over the decision of the Supreme Court, decreeing, as it does, equal burdens for all.

ENDORSEMENT PLEASES FARMER-ORATOR MARTINE

ACTION OF UNION COUNTY COMMITTEE MAKES HIM MORE OPTIMISTIC.

Reports from Cedar Brook farm show that the ever-optimistic "Farmer-orator" James E. Martine is jubilant over the action of the Union County Democratic Committee's endorsement of his candidacy for the party's gubernatorial nomination. "Jim" is always jubilant but since Col. D. F. Collins and the other county leaders have given a "hip, hip, hurrah!" for him, he is beside himself with joy.

"I verily believe," said the jolly farmer and veteran stump-speaker today, "that I am going to be next governor of New Jersey. I feel quite sure that Burlington will endorse me and that Warren and many others will do likewise. Of course, I realize that there are others after the nomination and they are all very worthy men. Judge Childs, of Essex, for instance is a splendid man and so is Frank Katzenbach, of Mercer. Then there's Senator Silzer, of Middlesex, who would also make a fine governor. Be as it may, however, I believe that the gods are with me and that I will win. But, mark me, whoever does win the nomination will have the hearty support of Jim Martine. Don't you forget it."

A. E. SMITH GETS CONTRACT FOR NEW BRIDGE AT RAHWAY

His Bid of $9,295 Was the Lowest of Four Received By Freeholders.

Bids were received and the contract was awarded yesterday by the Union County Board of Freeholders for the construction of a new Church street bridge over Robinson's branch of the Rahway river at Rahway. Arthur E. Smith, of North Plainfield, received the contract; his bid of $9,295 being the lowest. The Board appropriated $9,500 for the work.

The bridge is to be of reinforced concrete, a single sixty foot span, and will be a part of a new road that is to be opened at that point. A number of bids were received for doing the work, the bidders and prices being as follows:

Arthur E. Smith, Plainfield, $9,295; Industrial Engineering Company, Troy, N. Y., $11,481; Pneumatic Casson Company, N. Y., $13,300; Abbott Gambel Company, New York, $17,750.

The following Plainfield Democrats have been selected to serve as member of the city election board this year: First ward, first district, Edward Lynch, Michael DeCourcey. Second ward, first district, Joseph Harrington; second district, J. V. F. Dilts, Anthony Fiel; Third ward, first district, J. F. Sheppard, Frank McInerney; second district, William Hardin, Michael O'Keefe; fourth ward, second district, Edward McCue, Clinton Shannon; third district, John McCarthy, Aaron Newman. There are a few districts yet to be filled and this will be done within a few days.

Dysentery Mildly Epidemic.

There is a mild epidemic of dysentery in Plainfield. Doctors say the cases are numerous enough to keep them pretty busy. They occur in all districts and among all classes. The physicians can ascribe no cause for it. Dirty ice may have something to do with it, they say, but they are not sure. It is well, on general principles, to keep ice out of beverages to be drunk.

Freehold Woman Under Arrest.

An Irish woman, who claims Freehold as her home, was found on Somerset street, the borough, last night, in a drunk and disorderly condition. She was distributing the quiet peace of the borough. DICK FOOTE'S LAST CALL Eccentric Genius Dies in the West and Rests There.

HE HAD A CLOUDED LIFE

Separation From His Wife, Who Was One of A. T. Stewart's Daughters, His One Great Woe.

According to reports from Sioux City, Iowa, Richard Foote, tragedian and Shakespearean reader, who lived here for a time in 1902 and made himself as well known locally as an old resident, died last week in Minneapolis. His burial, the reports State, took place from the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Minneapolis. There was a report about three years ago that he died at that time in the west, and one of the New York papers published a long appreciation of his work and qualities.

Foote is remembered here for the series of entertainments and readings he conducted for the Reform Club and mission workers at Reform Hall. He brought out Adele VonOhl as an actress, and she probably owes it to his coaching and the confidence it gave her that she is today so well known in the show business.

Foote's career was checkered and unusual. Once a noted tragedian, son-in-law of A. T. Stewart, and finely educated, he lost his grip on prosperity and sunny times through his own temperament and one fault of character.

Deposed from his high position in New York and the metropolitan theatres, Foote wandered about the Northwest, playing Richard III. and Othello with a company of six people, pursued everywhere by creditors and compelled finally to forsake the footlights and become in turn a lawyer, newspaper man, politician, orator and Shakespearean reader.

Foote was born, it is said, of titled parents in County Tipperary, Ireland, and was educated in the Irish University at Dublin, graduating with high honors when twenty years of age. He early evidenced talent for the stage. He was one of the handsomest men ever behind the footlights, and had a remarkable voice, was graceful, magnetic and much sought after by the best society. His first professional engagement was in London, and he came to New York with the stamp of approval of English critics. Here he soon became well known, and married, after a brief courtship, a daughter of A. T. Stewart, the rich merchant.

What caused a separation was never known. Foote, in his cups, was wont to refer to it occasionally, but he gave no details, except to upbraid himself for what he termed was an unpardonable affront.

He became known in the early 80's in northwestern Iowa, South Dakota and Nebraska, where he appeared at small towns playing Shakespearean tragedies.

At Blunt, a small town in South Dakota, Foote's barnstorming career came to an end, at least so far as is known in the Northwest. Here he was seized for debt and his baggage and wardrobe seized. Foote acted as his own attorney in the hearing which followed, in the office of a Justice of the Peace.

The actor had the court with him from the start when he began his plea, and at its conclusion the Justice, officers and spectators were in tears. The Justice released Foote's baggage, and the crowd took up a collection. Foote was so touched by their manifestation of good will that he paid the back salaries of his company, purchased tickets for them to New York, and disposed of his wardrobe.

He then settled down in the village, began the study of law, was soon admitted to the bar and practised with much success two years, when he suddenly disappeared. For a year his friends and political associates knew nothing of him. Then he sent copies of a newspaper he was editing in a mining camp in California.

Again he disappeared, turning up some time later in a Southern Californian monastery, where he studied to be a priest, but abandoned that to resume his work as a reader of Shakespeare. From that time on until his death, Foote divided his time between lecturing on Shakespeare, reading and taking part as a spellbinder in political campaigns.

Drink was his trouble, and on account of it he sank lower. It is related that when he was an actor his manager frequently locked him up in a room at the hotel to prevent him becoming intoxicated. Foote resorted to every means to procure liquor at such times, and usually was successful, enjoying to the fullest extent the chagrin of the manager who discovered his drunk when time for the performance drew near. But Foote never disappointed his audience, and showed no traces of drinking while portraying Richard or Othello or Hugo, the Hunchback of Florence, three characters of his creation who are remembered vividly by the early settlers of the Northwest.

TRICK NOT ALWAYS AMUSING.

Sometimes Hubby Is Entirely Unable to See the Joke.

This is a simple trick, and every married woman can perform it; but it requires the assistance of a confederate with a big bag of shining tinware on his back. First get a husband with an extra pair of slightly worn trousers in his wardrobe; then have the confederate—the man with the bag of tinware—come to the back door and knock gently. The wife must then peep out in a frightened way, and immediately the man with the tinware tells a tale that resembles a mining stock advertisement. The wife stops to think a few minutes. Suddenly she must rush to the wardrobe, but only after the man rattles the brilliant tinware to arouse her. The wife must walk back to the man again with the trousers. The man must take them and hand the wife a few tin pans. All the while the man with the tinware must smile happily. At last the transaction is completed, and, presto change! the husband's trousers have disappeared and in their place appears some tinware on the kitchen table. This trick is very novel, and will amuse the husband greatly. The trick should not be performed while the husband is in bed, unless he has an extra pair of trousers.—F. P. Pitzer, in Judge.

"I GUESS" AND "CALCULATE."

Expressions Are Good English and Not at All American.

The accepted manner of defining Americans, either male or female, in the London comic papers or in second-rate English novels is to lard their speech plentifully with "calculate" and "guess," and with "well" at the opening of each sentence. This mode of marking, or any other, is in itself totally unimportant, but linguistically it is not without interest, for while it is purely conventional as now used and has no relation to any American habits of the present day, whether good or bad, it is pleasant to note that the hard-worked insular humorist need not have gone so far afield to find the words necessary for the identification of Americans. They really had but to turn to the "New Letters" of Thomas Carlyle (volume 1, page 178) and there read the following sentence: "He has brought you a Fox's book of Martyrs, which I calculate will go in the parcel to-day; you will get right good reading out of it, I guess."—Scribner.

Worshipers Carry Fire.

While seeing many people leaving the cathedral I entered to look around the interior of the fine chancel. Inside I saw numbers of men carrying huge wicker baskets filled with triangular earthenware dishes in each of which still smoldered some glowing embers in a bed of white ash. These they carried into the cloisters and emptied solemnly into great metal bins. On reentering the building the secret stood revealed. Owing to the extreme cold each member of the congregation hires for a doppeltjer, or the sum of 2d., an earthen dish with a block of glowing peat under the little wooden perforated footstools with which each chair is provided.—Tit-Bits

Penalty of Vanity.

Two tadpoles lived in a meadow pool. One tadpole was exceedingly vain and kicked around until he developed a pair of pale green legs and arose to the dignity of a frog. The other tadpole was sluggish. "Hurry up!" said the new frog. "Why, you are the slowest thing in all the meadows. Without legs you will never be noticed." "And that is just why I am not raising them," replied the slow tadpole. "It doesn't always pay to be noticed." And now the slow tadpole still swims among the rushes while his vain brother has long since been served up on crisp toast.

He Was an Exception.

The late Bishop James Newbury Fitzgerald, in an address in St. Louis, once declared that sympathy, far more than eloquence or learning, made for success in the ministry. "Too many of us," he said, "say the worst, the most inappropriate things. Thus a young Baptist friend of mine, condoling with a housebreaker in a jail, droned: 'Ah, my friend, let us remember that we are here to-day and gone to-morrow.' 'You may be; I ain't,' the housebreaker answered shortly."

Fresh Food in the Country.

"The late Senator Pugh," said a Mobile man, "thought the charms of the country overrated. He preferred the city to the country. He used to tell how, one June day, he met a friend who had taken a house for the summer months outside New York somewhere. 'I suppose you revel in fresh eggs and vegetables out there, eh?' said Senator Pugh. 'Yes,' said the New York man. 'Why, we can get all those things at Scraggs Four Corners almost as cheap as we did in town.'"

Care of a Canary.

When moving a canary from a small to a larger cage, you should take the trouble to satisfy yourself that the bird is not frightened in its new habitation, for it sometimes happens that it is absolutely afraid to fly down from its comparatively lofty perch, and thus gets starved to death because it cannot reach its food. If you see your bird in this dilemma, try and coax it down; and if it will not came, take hold of it gently and deposit it on the floor of the cage.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 11.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—The teaching of the trees.—Ps. civ, 16-18; i, 1-6.

The first sentence of the eighteenth verse of the One Hundred and Fourth Psalm may teach us an important lesson concerning the trees. The psalmist opens the verse by saying, "The trees of the Lord are full of sap." "The trees of the Lord!" They are the Lord's because He made them and preserved them. We have a lesson here of God's ownership of the world. "The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof." "The cattle upon a thousand hills" belong to Him. "The silver is mine and the gold is mine, saith the Lord." The trees and all things else on the earth are the Lord's, and we are included. "It is He that hath made us and not we ourselves." "Know ye not that you are not your own? Ye have been bought with a price; therefore glorify God with your bodies and spirits, which are not yours, but His."

A second lesson from this passage is the constant life of Christ. Trees are often used as figures of God's people. And when the psalmist says that the trees of the Jordan are full of sap this may suggest the continual life of Christians. The sap of a tree is its life, and in this sense they resemble God's people. If they are truly His, they are never dwarfed or stunted or lifeless, but rather to be likened to the cedar and the palm, which possessed abundant life and are abundantly fruitful.

A third lesson from this passage is God's providential care over all He has made. The trees give shelter and protection and homes to the birds of the air. The psalmist speaks of the trees of Lebanon as the trees "which He had planted, where the birds make their nests." Everything in the world is made to help something else, and God cares for all and much more for us, who are His children, created in His image.

The First Psalm also teaches lessons from the trees. It likens the righteous man to "a tree planted by a river of water, whose leaf also shall not wither, and whatsoever he doeth shall prosper." The trees spoken of here were probably planted by King Solomon in his magnificent gardens near canals and lakes and were always supplied with water and had no fading leaves and no unfruitfulness. The Christian is planted, not self sown or dropped in his place by chance, but divinely planted. Sustaining such a close relation to God, he is always fruitful. "He also bringeth forth his fruit in his season, and whatsoever he doeth shall prosper." Fruitfulness is God's desire for us all—a fruitfulness that shall be a blessing to ourselves and to others. Christ taught this lesson in the parable of the vine and branches, in which He declared that fruitfulness resulted from abiding in Him. "If any man abide in Me and I in him, He shall bring forth much fruit."

BIBLE READINGS.

I Chron. xvi, 29-33; Num. xxiv, 5-9; Ps. xcii, 12-15; Isa. lxv, 20, 21; Matt. iii, 5-10; Mark xi, 12-14; John xv, 1-16; Rom. xi, 16-24.

His First Act.

The first official act of William Shaw as general secretary of the United Society of Christian Endeavor was the issuing of the following comprehensive message:

"I believe in Christian Endeavor—not in one particular method, not in one unchanging form of words, but in the idea that for twenty-five years has been seeking expression through methods and words.

"Christian Endeavor was born, not made. It has in it possibilities of growth and expansion. Its words and methods are the garments with which it clothes itself. They become too small with the passing of the years. They wear out and must be renewed. It costs time, pains and money, but it is worth while. A French doll might be as beautiful, less trouble and not so expensive as a live baby. But what father or mother would make the change?

"Christian Endeavor twenty-five years ago was the live baby. Today as a movement it is the sturdy youth, having not yet attained, but pressing toward the mark. Its faults have been those incident to childhood. Its successes have been in proportion to its opportunities and the material supplied.

"Knowing its past and familiar with its present, I have a vision of a future for Christian Endeavor worthy of both and big with blessing for the church and the young people of the world. It has been my great privilege to work in the closest bonds of common service and personal fellowship with our former general secretaries, George M. Ward, who helped establish the principles; John Willis Baer, who helped to extend them to worldwide limits, and Von Ogden Vogt, who has conserved them and applied them to the special needs of today.

"Following in the line of succession these gifted young laymen, I take up the work not because I feel equal to the task, but because I believe it is God's call as clear as several others that made radical changes in my plan of life. My purpose is expressed in the first clause of our covenant pledge, which has had so commanding an influence in the molding of my life. 'Trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ for strength, I promise Him that I will strive to do whatever He would like to have me do.'"

A Bit of John MacNeill Wit.

An English paper, in describing a recent monster convention, had this paragraph about the singing:

"At No. 2 platform the chairman in rather a weak voice announced the hymn, 'Count Your Blessings.' But the response was feeble till Rev. John MacNeill sprang to the rescue, shouting: 'Now, then, "Count your blessings." I've got a wife and seven. How many have you got?' The singing went with a swing after that."

Aug. 11: "Enduring Persecutions."—Matt. v, 10.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

Passages for reference—Rom. v, 3; viii, 17, 18; II Cor. xii, 10; Phil. i, 29; Rev. vii, 13-17.

"I reckon that the sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory which shall be revealed to us."

The contrast between our situation and that of Christians in the earlier ages, when they held their faith at the risk and often at the cost of life, is very great. It sometimes seems as if there are no persecutions and but few hardships for the followers of Jesus to endure at the present time.

To be sure, we hear the stories of missionaries who tell of the persecutions which many converts in heathen countries still have to meet, but even that seems far off and makes small impression on most of those who hear of it.

But it is a fact, and a very solemn fact, that the true and consistent follower of Jesus still finds himself called upon to endure hardships and even persecutions not only in heathen lands, but in this our own most favored home land.

You may not have experienced any inconvenience from your profession of allegiance to Jesus yet, but if you will open your eyes a trifle to the condition of those around you in your own immediate vicinity you will not be long in finding some who are now suffering as cruelly as any of the martyrs ever did.

The rack and stake and scaffold are not the only means of torture nor by any manner of means the worst modes of inflicting torture. There are a thousand petty ways of making one's life miserable which never can come under the survey of court and judge and jury which are used in a multitude of homes toward those who are striving earnestly to live a pure and consistent Christian life.

Are you engaged in business pursuits? Have you anything to do with social functions? Have you never felt the sting of the lash of conventional forms when your whole soul revolted against the untruth which they scarcely attempted to conceal? Some have averred that it is impossible to be a true Christian and yet succeed in business. This is not accurate. It is undoubtedly difficult in any line of business and in some lines not possible to live up to high ideals and satisfy the demands of public and employers. And it is not always possible for the worker to change employers and pursuits.

What, then, shall we do? There is but one clear course. We must keep the soul clean at all cost.

Persecutions passed, did you say? They are far from being done away. True Christian living is far from being the popular fancy of the day. It is not yet fashionable to be religious. Little objection will be made to any one following certain conventional forms and practices of religion. That makes one rather interesting than otherwise. But to be in hearty earnest and to get wrought up in spirit about it is a far different thing, which does not receive such favorable consideration.

But what have we to do about it all? Just this: See that you never by look or word or act make it harder for any one to live the life true to Jesus. See that you are living the highest type of life possible and so make it easier for others to live in the same manner. See that no one takes any encouragement from your manner to make the living of the true life by another more difficult.

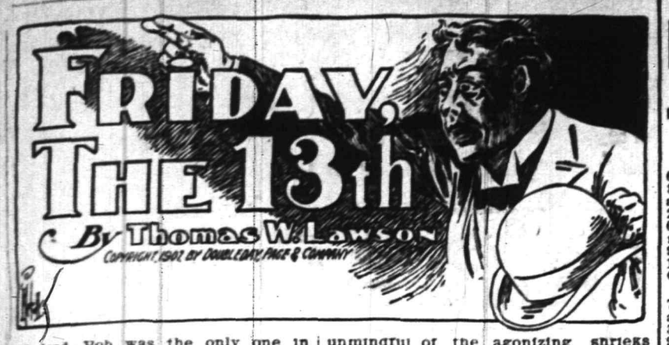
Do not persecute. Endure persecutions patiently.

Overcome Evil With Good.

"Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good." Aim at that which is good, cleave to that which is good, occupy your time with that which is good, fill your thoughts with that which is good and the assaults of evil will have lost half their power. An earnest employment, a steady purpose in life, a diligent use of time—these are an irresistible panoply against vice, these strike out of the devil's hands his worst implements of temptation. You will remember that terrible truth in one of the Lord's sternest parables, about the evil spirit returning to the house whence he came out and finding it "empty, swept and garnished." Then goeth he and taketh to himself seven other spirits more wicked than himself, and they enter in and dwell there, and the last state of that man is worse than the first. What does that "empty, swept and garnished" mean? It means that if your heart is not preoccupied with good it will be invaded by evil. Oh, beware of idleness in its every form—idle procrastinations, idle talk, idle habits, idle thoughts—these are the certain ruin of the soul. The laborer who stands idle in the market place is ever ready to be hired in the devil's service. The worm of sin gnaws deepest into the idle heart. Preoccupy your heart with good. Preoccupy your time with honest industry and you are safe. Whatever things are true, honest, just, pure, lovely, of good report, if there be any virtue, any praise, think on these things. Evil can as little encroach on the domain of good as darkness can force its way into the circle of radiance which a lamp flings into the night. Remember that since all sin begins in thought, if your thoughts are safe then you are safe.—F. W. Farrar, D. D.

The Prevailing Type.

The prevailing type of piety needs the infusion of heavenly mindedness in it. There is too much of the clatter of the world in the religious activity of the period and not enough of the sweet music which is wafted from the sacred spheres where saints and angels strike their harps in the open presence of the Son of God.—Advance.



Indeed, Bob was the only one in the center of that throng that showed no sign of what was going on behind it. The same cynical smile that had been there since the opening still played around the corners of his mouth as he squared himself in front of his opponent. All knew now that he was not through. Barry Conant had evidently decided to force the fighting, although more cautiously than before. "67 for a thousand." One of his lieutenants bid 67 for 500, another 67 for 300, and as Bob had not yet shown his intention of meeting their bids, 67 for different amounts was heard all over the house. Bob might have been tossing a metal coin to decide the advisability of buying back what he had sold; he might have been adding up the bids as they were made. He said nothing for a fraction of a minute, which to those tortured men must have seemed like an age. Then with a wave of his hand, as though delivering a benediction, he swept the circle with a cold-blooded: "Sold the lots. 5,600 in all."

"Sixty-seven for a thousand"—again Barry Conant's bid. "Sold." "67 for 5,000." "Sold." "66 for a thousand." "Sold." The drop from 5,000 to 1,000 and a dollar a share in Barry Conant's bids was the mortally wounded, but still game general's "Sound the Retreat." Bob heard it. "Any part of 10,000 at 65, 64, 62, 60." The din was now as fierce as before. The entire crowd, all but Barry Conant and his lieutenants, seemed to have concluded that Bob's renewal of attack meant that he was the winning side, and those who had been hanging on to their stock hoping against hope, and those who were short and had been undecided whether to cover or to hold on and sell more for greater profits, vied with one another in a frantic effort to sell. All could now feel the coming panic. All could see that it was a bad one, as the least informed on the floor knew that there was a tremendous amount of Sugar stock in the hands of Washington novices at speculation and of others who had bought it at high prices. Sugar was now dropping two, three, five dollars a share between trades, and the panic was spreading to the other poles, as is always the case, for when there are sudden large losses in one stock, the losers must throw over the other stocks they hold to meet their loss, and thus the whole structure tumbles like a house of cards. Sugar had just crossed 110 when the loud bang of the president's gavel resounded through the room. Instantly there was a silence as of death. All knew the meaning of the sound, the most ominous ever heard in a stock exchange, calling for the temporary suspension of business while the president announces the failure of some member or house.

PERKINS, BLANCHARD & CO. Announce that They Cannot Meet Their Obligations.

This statement that one of the oldest houses had been swamped in the crash Bob had started caused further frantic selling, and, as though every member had employed the lull to refill his lungs, a howl arose that pealed and wailed to the dome.

I watched Bob closely; in fact, it was impossible for me to take my eyes off him; he seemed absolutely unmindful of the agonizing shrieks about him, for the frenzied brokers were no longer crying their bids or offers, but screaming them. He still continued relentlessly to hammer Sugar, offering it in thousands and tens of thousand lots.

Again and again the gavel fell, and again and again an announcement of failure was followed by blood-curdling nowls. When Sugar struck 80—not 180, but plain 80—it seemed that the last day of stock speculation was at hand. Announcements were being made every few minutes of the failure of this bank, the closing of the doors of that trust company. Where would it end? What power could stop this Niagara of molten dollars? Suddenly above the tumult rose Bob Brownley's voice. He must have been standing on his tiptoes. His hands were raised aloft. He seemed to tower a head above the mob. His voice was still clear and unimpaired by the terrible strain of the past two hours. To that mob it must have sounded like the trumpet of the delivering angel. "80 for any part of 25,000 Sugar." Instantly Sugar was hurled at him from all sides of the crowd. He was the only buyer of the moment who had appeared since Sugar broke 125. Barry Conant and his lieutenants had disappeared like snowflakes at the opening of the door of the firebox of a locomotive speeding through the storm. In a few seconds Bob had been sold all the 25,000 he had bid for. Again his voice rang out: "80 for 25,000." The sellers momentarily halted. He got only a few thousand of his 25. "85 for 25,000." A few thousand more. "90 for $25,000." Still fewer thousands. His bidding was beginning to tell on the mob. A cry ran through the room into the crowds around the poles: "Brownley has turned!"—and taking renewed courage at the report, the bulls rallied their forces and began to bid for the different stocks, which a moment before it had seemed that no one wanted at any price.

In a chip of a minute the whole scene changed; there was almost as wild a panic on the up side as there had been on the down. Bob Brownley continued buying Sugar until he had pushed it above 150. He then went about tallying up his trades. At the end of ten minutes' calculation he returned to the center and bought 11,000 shares more; coming out, his eye caught mine.

"Jim, have you been here long?"

"An eternity. I was here at the opening and I pray God never to put me through another two hours like the past two. It seems a hideous dream, a nightmare. Bob, in the name of God, what have you been doing?"

He gave me a wild, awful look of exultation. Sublime triumph shone in those blazing brown orbs, triumph such as I had never seen in the eyes of man.

"Jim Randolph, I have been giving Wall street and its hell 'system' a dose of its own poison, a good full-measure dose. They planned by harvesting a fresh crop of human hearts and souls on the bull side to give Friday the 13th a new meaning. Tradition says Friday the 13th is Bear Saints' day. I believe in maintaining old traditions, so I have harvested their hearts instead. I will tell you about it some time, Jim, but now I must see Beulah Sands. Jim Randolph, I've saved her and her father. I've made them a round three millions and a strong seven millions for myself."

He almost yelled it as he rushed away and left me dazed, stupefied. A moment, and I came to. Something urged me to follow him.

CHAPTER VI.

As I passed through my office a few minutes later I heard Bob's voice in Beulah Sands' office. It was raised in passionate eloquence.

"Yes, Beulah, I have done it single-handed. I have crucified Camemeyer, 'Standard Oil,' and the 'system' that spiked me to the cross a few weeks ago. You have three millions, and I have seven. Now there is nothing more but for you to go home to your father, and then come back to me. Back to me, Beulah, back to me to be my wife!"

He stopped. There was no sound. I waited; then, frightened, I stepped to the door of Beulah Sands' office. Bob was standing just inside the threshold, where he had halted to give her the glad tidings. She had risen from her desk and was looking at him with an agonized stare. He seemed to be transfixed by her look, the wild ecstasy of the outburst of love yet mirrored in his eyes. She was just saying as I reached the door:

"Bob, in mercy's name tell me you got this money fairly, honorably."

Bob must have realized for the first time what he had done. He did not speak. He only stared into her eyes. She was now at his side.

"Bob, you are unnerved," she said; "you have been through a terrible ordeal. For an hour I have been reading in the bulletins of the banks and trust companies that have failed, of the banking houses that have been ruined. I have been reading that you did it; that you have made millions—and I knew it was for me, for father, but in the midst of my joy, my gratitude, my love—for, oh, Bob, I love you," she interrupted herself passionately; "it seems as though I love you beyond the capacity of a human heart to love. I think that for the right to be yours for one single moment of this life I would smilingly endure all the pains and miseries of eternal torture. Yes, Bob, for the right to have you call me yours for only while I heard the words, I would do anything, Bob, anything that was honorable."

She had drawn his head down close to her face, and her great blue eyes searched his as though they would go to his very soul. She was a child in her simple appeal for him to allow her to see his heart, to see that there was nothing black there.

As she gazed her beautiful hands played through his hair as do a mother's through that of the child she is soothing in sickness.

"Bob, speak to me, speak to me," she begged, "tell me there was no dishonor in the getting of those millions. Tell me no one was made to suffer as my father and I have suffered. Tell me that the suicides and the convicts, the daughters dragged to shame and the mothers driven to the madhouse as a result of this panic, cannot be charged to anything unfair or dishonorable that you have done. Bob, oh, Bob, answer! Answer no, or my heart will break; or if, Bob, you have made a mistake, if you have done that which in your great desire to aid me and my father seemed justifiable, but which you now see was wrong, tell it to me, Bob, dear, and together we will try to undo it. We will try to find a way to atone. We will give the millions to the last, last penny to those upon whom you have brought misery. Father's loss will not matter. Together we will go to him and tell him what we have done, what we have lived through, tell him of our mistake, and in our agony he will forget his own. For such a horror has my father of anything dishonorable that he will embrace his misery as happiness when he knows that his teachings have enabled his daughter to undo this great wrong. And then, Bob, we will be married, and you and I and father and mother will be together, and be, oh, so happy, and we will begin all over again."

"Beulah, stop; in the name of God, in the name of your love for me, don't say another word. There is a limit to the capacity of a man to suffer, even if he be a great, strong brute like myself, and, Beulah, I have rerached that limit. The day has been a hard one."

His voice softened and became as a tired child's.

"I must go into the hustle of the street, into the din and sound, and get down my nerves and get back my head. Then I shall be able to think clear and true, and I will come back to you, and together we will see if I have done anything that makes me unfit to touch the cheek and the hands and the lips of the best and most beautiful woman God ever put upon earth. Beulah, you know I would not deceive you to save my body from the fires of this world, and my soul from the torture of the damned, and I promise you that if I find that I have done wrong, what you call wrong, what your father would call wrong, I will do what you say to atone."

He took her hand between his hands, gently, reverently, and touching his lips to her glorious golden hair, he went away.

Beulah Sands turned to me. "Please, Mr. Randolph, go with him. He is souldazed. One can never tell what a heart sorely perplexed will prompt its owner to do. Often in the night when I have got myself into a fever from thinking of my father's situation, I have had awful temptations. The agents of the devil seek the wretched when none of those they love are by. I have often thought some of the blackest tragedies of the earth might have been averted if there had been a true friend to stand at the wrung one's elbow at the fatal minute of decision and point to the sun behind, just when the black ahead grew unendurable. Please follow Mr. Brownley than you may be ready, should his awakening to what he has done become unbearable. Tell him the dreaded morrows are never as terrible actually as they seem in anticipation."

I overtook Bob just outside the office. I did not speak to him, for I realized that he was in no mood for company. I dropped in behind, determined that I would not lose sight of him. It was almost one o'clock. Wall street was at its meridian of frenzy, every one on a wild rush. The day's doings had packed the always crowded money lane. The newsboys were shouting afternoon editions. "Terrible panic in Wall street. One man against millions. Robert Brownley broke 'the street.' Made twenty millions in an hour. Bank failed. Wreck and ruin everywhere. President Snow of Asterfield National a suicide." Bob gave no sign of hearing. He strode with a slow, measured gait, his head erect, his eyes staring ahead, a man thinking, thinking, thinking for his salvation. Many hurrying men looked at him, some with an expression of unutterable hatred, as though they wanted to attack him. Then again there were those who called him by name with a laugh of joy; and some turned to watch him in curiosity. It was easy to pick the wounded from those who shared in his victory, and from those who knew the frenzied finance buzz-saw only by its buzz. Boz saw none. Where could he be going? He came to the head of the street of coin and crime and crossed Broadway. His path was blocked by the fence surrounding old Trinity's churchyard. Grasping the pickets in either hand he stared at the crumbling headstones of those guardsmen of Mammon who once walked the earth and fought their heart battles, as he was walking and fighting, but who now knew no ten o'clock, no three, who looked upon the stock-gamblers and dollar-trailers as they looked upon the worms that honeycombed their headstones' bases. What thoughts went through Bob Brownley's mind only his Maker knew. For minutes he stood motionless, then he walked down Broadway. He went into the Battery. The benches were crowded with that jetsam and flotsam of humanity that New York's mighty sewers throw in armies upon her inland beaches at every sunrise. Here a sodden brute sleeping off a prolonged debauch, there a lad whose frankness of face and homespun clothes and bewildered eyes spelt "from the farm and mother's watchful love." On another bench an Italian woman who had a half-dozen future dollar kings and social queens about her, and whose clothes told of the immigrant ship just into port. Bob Brownley apparently saw none. But suddenly he stopped. Upon a bench sat a sweet-faced mother holding a sleeping babe in her arms, while a curly-pated boy nestled his head in her lap and slept through the magic lanes and fairy woods of dreamland. The woman's face was one of those that blend the confidence of girlhood with the uncertainty of womanhood. 'Twas a pretty face, which had been plainly tagged by its Maker for a light-hearted trip through the world, but it had been seared by the iron of the city.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

In his big New York success, "The Vanderbilt Cup," which made the broadway theatre a mecca for New York's "Four Hundred" last winter, and which ran for three months at the Colonial in Chicago, Joseph M. Gaites has met the public's demand for something novel. The exactions of the public are not easy to meet. it always demands more, but not the same. "The Vanderbilt Cup" is said to be thoroughly original in story, mechanism and settings. Built upon the famous Vanderbilt cup race, it offers unlimited opportunities for novel situations and humorous incidents. The automobile set is cleverly satirized, and the weird motoring garments of the various characters are said to be amusing. It is to be presented at the New Plainfield theatre next Saturday afternoon and night with a cast of sixty, practically all of whom appeared in the metropolitan runs.

Two of the principals in the "College Widow" which will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre on August 14, are conspicuous because of physical fitness as well as artistic ability. Robert Keiffy who plays the football hero (Billy Bolton) was left guard on the St. Mary's team, Emmetsburg, Maryland, for three years and later joined the squad of the strong Duquesne Athletic Club in Pittsburg. Miss Clara Weldon, who plays the athletic girl, sails a "knock-about" single handed all summer at Long Branch and carries a bag of golf clubs around the country while on tour.

In P. H. Sullivan's latest thriller, "The Cowboy and The Squaw," by Joseph Byron Totten, a sensation entirely new to the melo-dramatic stage is promised as the climax of the third act. It is a race between a wild steer to which the hero, Bronco Bob, has been roped by the villian, and a while bronco ridden by an Indian maid. This scene is claimed to be even more beautiful than the world famous chariot race in Ben Hur. This attraction will come to the New Plainfield theatre, on August 15.

George M. Cohan, the author of both play and music of "Little Johnnie Jones" which will be seen in this city August 17 is but twenty-seven years of age. The great success scored by "Johnny Jones" last season has made great fame and a big fortune for this young author. "Little Johnny Jones" will be presented here by a company of seventy-five people and with the entire original production.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Rev. W. T. Dorward, of Stelton, will preach at the Park Avenue Baptist church on Sunday.

Rev. J. F. Brodie, of Auburndale, N. Y., will preach at the Congregational church, Sunday. No services will be held in this church on August 18 and 25.

Prof. J. E. Frame, of Union Theological Seminary, who preached at the Crescent Avenue church, last Sunday, will again occupy the pulpit there this week.

The Sunday Lay Movement in England sprang from a great desire to try and influence people not to give luncheon and dinner parties on Sundays so that their servants might enjoy a day of rest and opportunity for worship which is their due. "We dictate to none, we abuse none, we endeavor to influence people in the right way, and then leave it to their convictions." The following from a New York paper shows the need for similar effort in our own country: "Mrs. ——— in addition to giving a luncheon every Sunday has arranged to be at home Sunday afternoons serving tea from 4 to 6."

Frances M. Clawsons Funeral.

The funeral services of Frances Myra Clawson, the twin daughter of Dr. Frank T. Clawson, were held this afternoon from the home of the father on West Seventh street, at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. Charles E. Dunn, formerly of this city, but now of Tioga, Pa., and who is visiting here, conducted the service. There was a large attendance of friends and neighbors and a profusion of floral tributes. The burial was in Hillside cemetery.

Camping at the Lake.

DOOM OF MIGHTY LONDON.

Fire About the Only Agent Which Can Cause Its Destruction.

With hints of German invasion and of an approaching earthquake, the question "What will be the doom of London?" seems a not unreasonable one. What will be the end of the great city? What will bring about the ruin over which Macaulay's New Zealander is to cast his moralizing eye? Several answers may be given. The destruction of London at the hands of a victorious invader is possible, but extremely improbable. London may be besieged, even bombarded; she cannot be destroyed. Flood? This again may be dismissed as most improbable; and one calamity only remains to be considered, namely—fire. Now, London has suffered more than once terribly from this cause, and in 1666 the city was practically wiped out. Every one knows this; but it is not every one who knows that the great conflagration was predicted 15 years before by Lilly, the astrologer, and by another astrologer, Nostradamus, a century before that. Nostradamus cast his prediction in a French quatrain, the gist of which was that in 1666 London would be visited by a conflagration which would destroy St. Paul's and 89 other churches.—Cassell's Saturday Journal

TRUE TO HIS PROMISE.

By Their Own Testimony, Doctor Had Rejuvenated Patients.

A German doctor who claimed to have discovered the secret of restoring youth, advertised in London that he could in two days rejuvenate the most decrepit hag. This brought a crowd of ancient dames to his house. At the first interview he invited each patient to write her surname, Christian name and age on a piece of paper. The ages whereto they pleaded guilty varied, but all ruled high. The doctor undertook to give each patient the promised elixir next day. On the appointed day the doctor regretted that he unfortunately had mislaid the paper containing his youth-seekers' ages, and he, therefore, requested each one to write it down and call again. In writing down her age the second time each woman took many years off the age she previously had admitted. The doctor, pretending to have found the first papers, called them to witness, comparing the lists, that he had kept his word, inasmuch as in 48 hours they had all become many years younger.

How He Got a Drink.

An Indiana traveling man told a story the other day of an incident on the road. He was in the smoking car of an express train reading his paper when a man rushed in from the car behind the smoker, evidently in great agitation and said: "Has anybody in this car any whisky? A woman in the car behind has fainted!" Instantly dozens of flasks were produced. The man who had asked for it picked out the largest one, drew the cork and put the bottle to his lips. With a long, satisfied sigh he handed the flask back, and remarked: "That did me a lot of good, and I needed it, for it always makes me feel queer to see a woman faint away!"

Happiness.

Happiness in this world, when it comes, comes incidentally. Make it the object of pursuit, and it leads us a wild goose chase, and is never attained. Follow some other object, and very possibly we may find that we have caught happiness without dreaming of it, but likely enough it is gone the moment we say to ourselves, "Here it is!" like the chest of gold that treasure-seekers find. . . . There is something more awful in happiness than in sorrow—the latter being earthly and finite, the former composed of the substance and texture of eternity so that spirits still embodied may well tremble at it.—Nathaniel Hawthorne.

Real Hard Cider.

John Fair, a highly respected citizen of Montgomeryville, Armstrong county, has at his home a small keg containing several quarts of cider which was made by himself 51 years ago, says the Philadelphia Record. Altogether there were several kegs of the liquid, but now only a few quarts remain, and Mr. Fair is guarding that jealously. The cider is so old that it has turned black in color, and so strong that less than a teaspoonful will put a drinker in the Happy Land.

An Explanation.

"Fat men are invariably honest," said the deep thinker, "and I believe it's because they are so sensitive about their fat." "I don't see what you mean?" "Well, if they should be dishonest, and get caught at it they might have to wear convict suits with the stripes running in the most uncoming becoming way."

Faulty Statistics.

"The department of agriculture has figured out," he read from the paper, "that rats cost the people of this country $100,000,000 a year." "John Henry," replied his wife, "I don't believe a word of it. Why, mine only cost 35 cents, some women make their own, and some wear their hair flat. Huh, can't tell me."

Foxy Albert.

Grandmother (to little urchin)—"Come here, Albert, and tell this lady how you gained the prize for reading." Albert—"Oh, quite easy. It was George Roussin who got it; but, on coming home, we two had a game of marbles and he lost."

FASHION'S FADS.

Coats molded to the figure without a crease are the latest demand among Paris fashionables for their tailor mades.

Parasol handles are either thick or thin, but they must be long. Many are covered with a plain color bordered with a contrasting shade.

Little loose etons in black peau de sole are seen a good deal and are simply trimmed with black braid, the sleeves full length and three-quarter length. They are not elaborate.

The vogue for check and stripes is noticeable, even in driving cloaks. If the entire coat is not one or the other it shows touches of plaid about the revers and cuffs. If the coat is figured the touches are of a plain color.

White muslins with large colored spots make cool-looking frocks for hot weather. Trimmed with Swiss insertion and tucks they are very pretty. A dress of this sort requires a simple shade hat trimmed with ribbons or field flowers.

Much has been said both pro and con of the long sleeve, but the extension below the elbow shall be close-fitting and detachable. All of the new separate undercuffs are well defined in shape and lavishly trimmed. A group of tucks, then a band of insertion and a tiny ruffle of lace both top and bottom of the insertion is a favorite idea for these undercuffs. When something more elaborate is desired hand embroideries are impressed into service, with and without lace.

In contrast to the yellows, blues and browns that are rivaling each other for second place in fashionable favor is a frock in white chiffon cloth, for white maintains undisputed sway. Both the skirt and bodice are elaborated with bands of white canvas, embroidered with soutache braid and appliqued with lace. It is supplanted with an enormous white straw hat with white roses wreathed across a brim of shirred tulle, being finished at the left side with a rosette of white satin ribbon, spiked with a hatpin of porcelain daintily painted by hand and set with rhinestones.

THIRD ASSEMBLY TICKET

Local Option People Serve Notice on County Chairman that Perkins Must Go.

MR. SMITH WON'T TALK

900 Signers at Roselle On Petition Against Westfielder Who Appears to Be Minus Political Friends.

The fight against the renomination of Randolph Perkins for a fouth term in the Assembly is on in earnest and present indications point to his being made "to walk the plank," despite his "defi" boldly proclamed by himself a few days ago. The local option people and the regulars are both said to be arrayed against him and from information obtained by a representative of The Daily Press it is extremely unlikely that the Westfielder will receive any support from the New Idea.

The latest development in the crusade to retire Mr. Perkins to public life was an unexpected visit County Chairman Frank H. Smith received from the heads of the local option movement in New Jersey last night. Frank Burke and Emmet H. Curtis the local option leaders, visited The Daily Press office to ascertain the whereabouts of "Silent" Smith and were directed to his home in West Fourth street. None of the parties will talk concerning the topics of conversation or the objects of their visit at all, but it is reported that the session was devoted to an argument on the part of the two local option men against the renomination of the Westfielder.

When County Chairman Smith was asked this morning what had transpired at the meeting, he would only admit that both Burke and Curtis had come to his house without any previous knowledge on his part of their intention. As to what transpired, the county chairman declined absolutely to say. He referred the questioned to his visitors for any information. Neither Burke nor Curtis could be found about this morning, and the politicians in general professed ignorance of their mission. It is believed, however, that the local option men served notice on the county chairman that a renomination for Perkins meant a bitter battle in Union county next fall.

It has been learned on good authority that if the organization persists in nominating Perkins again, a third Assembly ticket will be put in the field by the local option people who hope to receive the support of the New Idea in their warfare against the Westfielder. It is said that three strong men will be asked to run on an independent ticket and a campaign will be waged throughout the county. In Roselle, alone, 900 citizens have signed a petition against the renomination of Perkins and it is reported that similar petitions will be circulated in every quarter of Union county.

Barry Locked Up Again.

Jack Barry, of the borough, is again a prisoner in the Borough lockup, for the second time this week. He was arrested yesterday on the complaint of John Bremmer, a neighbor, who charged that Barry entered his yard in an intoxicated and disorderly condition and otherwise made a nuisance of himself. Early in the week Barry was arrested for being drunk and disorderly and was released upon the payment of a $3 fine. He will be given a hearing tonight before Borough Recorder Dolliver.

"Posting" the New Operators.

The employes of the Signal Department of the New Jersey Central, who supervised the construction of the new switch tower in the East End of the city, are now engaged in "posting" Operators Frank Naylor and Michael Griffen, who will be stationed there beginning Sunday. All switches at that point will be operated by compressed air, and it is said that the tower is the most complete and modern known in railroad circles.

For the purpose of trying to break up the habit certain bicycle riders have of using the sidewalk, Chief Marshal Weiss, of the borough, caught Allen Coddington, of the borough, riding his wheel on the sidewalk on Watchung avenue, this morning, and he ordered him to appear before Borough Recorder Dolliver tonight for a hearing.

DEPUTY GAME WARDEN WAIVES EXAMINATION

STRAIGHT NOW AWAITES GRAND JURY'S ACTION ON BRIBERY CHARGE.

Freeman Straight, a deputy game warden who was arrested at his home, Wednesday night, on a complaint by John Matthews, of Rockview avenue, charging him with bribery in trying to secure Mrs. Matthews and her son as paid witnesses to appear against W. J. Buttfield, was arraigned yesterday afternoon before Justice of the Peace Clark Mundy for a hearing. The defendant waived examination for the September Grand Jury and he was released in $250 bonds, the surety being furnished by Howard Toms. The warden appeared in his own behalf. Rev. George Bowers was at the hearing prepared to furnish bonds for the warden in case he had trouble in securing them.

There is considerable feeling against the warden, especially in the borough, because of his action in the Edward Bimble case. It is said that Bimble's hound dog had run away from home and he had been trying to find the animal when Straight picked it up. William G. DeMeza, Bimble's counsel, has given Justice Snape notice of an appeal from his decision, and he will take it up whether the Justice re-opens the case or not.

WAS NEVER ILL BEFORE; SHE DIED IN 96TH YEAR

MRS. DRAPER'S MENTAL FACULTIES WERE CLEAR UNTIL THE END.

Mrs. Samantha S. Draper, mother of Mrs. Eugene A. Edgar, died last night at the home of her daughter, 315 West Sixth street, at the advanced age of ninety-five years. Up to three weeks ago, when Mrs. Draper was taken ill, she had always enjoyed excellent health, and she had never been confined to bed by illness. She retained her faculties with remarkable clearness until the end.

Mrs. Draper was a native of Brooklyn, where she resided for many years. She moved with her daughter, Mrs. Edgar, to Rutherford, N. J., where they lived until eight years ago, when the family came here. For a time they resided on Fairview avenue, in the borough, but later moved to West Sixth street. Mrs. Edgar is the only surviving member of the immediate family. Mrs. Draper's only son died suddenly in Brooklyn last Thanksgiving. She was a member of a Baptist church in Brooklyn and never transferred her letter. Because of the fact that her daughter was a member of the First M. E. church, she became identified with the Ladies' Aid Society of that congregation. Her husband, Jacob S. Draper, died in Brooklyn a number of years ago.

The funeral services, which will be private, will be held from the late residence tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. The burial will be in Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn.

Schmer and Weintrob were partners in the tailoring business on Somerset business, upon a promise to increase it. It is now claimed that instead, he used $200 put in the business by Schmer, for his personal benefit.

UNION CO., $114,500,000

This Valuation is the One Estimated by Union County's Board.

$8,000,000 OVER 1906

Not Much Change in the Tax Rate Anticipated As Result of All Round Increases.

The Union County Board of Tax Assessors are as yet unable to determine definitely what the tax rate will be in Union county for the coming year. The assessors from all parts of the county, with the exception of Kenilworth, Union Township and New Providence Township have made their returns.

From the returns already made, the total valuation of real and personal property in Union county is estimated to be about $114,500,000, which is an increase over last year o fmore than $8,000,000. The estimated increase in Union Township over last year's figures is $200,000. The total valuations in Kenilworth are estimated at $600,000, and the total valuations in New Providence Township as $250,000.

The county valuations last year were $106,259,437.

Chairman Pollard, of the County Board, said this morning that the returns thus far made were quite satisfactory with the exception of the returns from Springfield and Summit. The County Board today continued the examination of the books submitted by the assessors from the various taxing districts.

MAIL CARRIER KILLED BY AN EXPRESS TRAIN

HIS HORSE ALSO DEAD AND HIS WAGON A WRECK.

James E. Sherman, aged 39 years, a rural free delivery carrier attached to the Somerville postoffice, was instantly killed at nine o'clock this morning while driving over the Roycefield crossing of the Lehigh Valley Railroad. His horse was also killed, the wagon completely wrecked and the mail scattered in all directions.

There are no gates at this crossing and Sherman waited there to allow a freight train to pass. He had just reached the main eastbound track, when a fast express-train came along. Sherman's body was picked up by the engine and carried fully a half mile. The train was then stopped and the body was removed to Somerville. The county physician was notified and an inquest will be held.

Mr. Sherman was past chancellor commander of Somerset Lodge, No. 82, K. of P., of Somerville, and last Monday night was elected a member of Central Hook and Ladder Company. He is survived by a wife and one son, aged nine years. Mrs. Sherman is rostrated over the affair.

POLICEMAN FOR 'PLAINS

Township Committee Finally Decides on the Nightly Protection Necessary.

DISORDER IS CHECKED

Special Officer Jacob Shackleton Calls a Halt On Noisy Couple the First Night He Goes On Duty.

Steps to check the disorder that has destroyed the peace of Scotch Plains have been taken by the Fanwood Township Committee. Acting on complaints of residents and property holders the Committee has decided to put a special officer to duty about the village at night. The 'Plains has been without such protection for several months, the Committee having come to the conclusion that it was not necessary to keep a policeman on duty regularly.

It wasn't long, however, before disorderly characters made their presence felt. Brawls and noisy demonstrations from drunken men—and women—became almost nightly occurrences, and the residents became aroused. The end was reached on Wednesday night, when several couples, said to be from this city, raised a disturbance on the street. They were all drunk, the women apparently as much so as the men. They kept the residents awake the greater part of the night. No officer being on duty, there was no one to check them, and they staid the night out in full swing.

Moved by that occurrence to immediate action, the Township Committee ordered Special Officer Jacob Shackleton on duty last night. His presence served as a benefit almost immediately, for a couple from out of town started to make preparation to spend the night in the village in the old way. Shackleton put a spoke in their wheel without delay. When they learned that the lock-up was yearning to receive them they decided that any other place was preferable to Scotch Plains and took the next car to this city.

Shackleton will probably be kept on duty nightly, with no further intermissions from service. He has been instructed to hold the noisy and disorderly element in stern check, and it is hoped that the disturbers will immediately awake to the fact that their snap has come to an end.

DERANGED WOMEN RELEASED.

Borough Authorities Let Her Go on Promise to Leave.

The unknown woman who was arrested in the borough on Wednesday night, in an intoxicated and boisterous condition, was released from the borough jail this morning and given instructions to leave the place. While her detention in the jail gave her an opportunity to sober up, she continued to act in an irrational manner. She refused to give her name, and in response to the question as to where she lived, she named at least half dozen places, including Freehold, Bound Brook and New Brunswick.

The authorities not wishing to have the woman on their hands decided to let her go upon her promise to quite the borough.

HURT IN ODD ACCIDENT

Fractious Horse Causes Boy to Fall From Rail-road Scaffold.

A BROKEN LEG RESULTS

Animal Frightened Under Washington Street Bridge By Rigging and Noise of the Work Overhead.

Norman Sharp, 16 years old, employed as a water boy on the bridge construction work of the New Jersey Central Railroad, fell from a scaffold beneath the Washington street bridge at 10 o'clock this morning and broke his leg. The accident, said to be the first of any sort to occur since the bridge work started in this city, happened in an odd way.

Sharp was standing on the scaffold, after climbing up with his water pail, when a grocer's wagon passed in under the bridge. The horse became frightened at the rigging overhead and the pounding of the riveters, and started to cut up. The wagon struck one of the scaffolding supports, and the jar caused Sharp to lose his balance. He fell a distance of eight feet, and his leg snapped as he struck the ground. Except for the break, the boy was uninjured to any extent.

Dr. Pittis and the patrol wagon were called at once. The physician ordered the boy's removal to the hospital, where the fracture was set. Sharp's home is in Wilmington, Del.

RUN OVER IN TRYING TO STOP A RUNAWAY

NEWMAN ESCAPED WITH BRUISES—DR. HERBERT ALSO IN ACCIDENT.

Dr. F. C. Herbert, the veterinary, and Frank Newman, a young man employed by the Plainfield Cab Company, were slightly injured in a runaway on Somerset street early this morning. Neuman had a narrow escape from serious hurts.

The veterinary, accompanied by Newman, drove in a runabout to answer a call near midnight. Preparing to return, at about 1 o'clock, Newman loosened the hitching strap from about a post, and the horse made a sudden spring to the side. Newman snatched at the strap, but the horse broke away, and the young man was thrown. He fell in front of the carriage, and one of the wheels passed over him, but he escaped with bruises and bumps.

Dr. Herbert tried to catch the horse, and he was bruised in the effort. The animal broke the harness, and ran down Somerset street. "Ten" Overbaugh caught it at Front street.

ALLOWS INJUNCTION TO BE DISSOLVED

MRS. HOOLEY PERMITS JOHN HERMAN TO REBUILD DAM.

An injunction obtained by Mrs. Edwin S. Hooley, of the Washington Park section of the borough, restraining John Herman from rebuilding a dam in "The Notch," has been removed through the efforts of counsel for Mr. Herman. Plans drawn by Civil Engineer F. A. Dunham for the reconstruction of the dam along improved lines, have been accepted by Mrs. Hooley and it is now Mr. Herman's purpose to commence the work of rebuilding at once.

Permission has also been secured by Mr. Herman to gather the ice from the pond above the dam, and it is largely with this object in view that he will restore the structure.

The injunction preventing Mr. Herman from putting the dam up again, was obtained by Mrs. Hooley two years ago. Her action followed after a heavy freshet had innundated lands belonging to her, which did considerable damage.

It was afterwards shown that the rebuilding of the dam in accordance with approved plans by competent engineers would make a re-occurrence practically impossible, hence the removal of the injunction.

"IMAGINATIVE WRITING" SAYS JUDGE RUNYON

STORY THAT HE HAS QUIT COLBYITES IS PURE FICTION.

Some over-zealous reporter is responsible for a widely circulated story to the effect that City Judge William N. Runyon has quit the Colbyites in their Union county fight. As the judge led the New Idea men last fall, the report was brought to his attention today by a reporter for The Daily Press. After carefully perusing a clipping containing such an announcement, he said, "This is a beautiful piece of imaginative writing."

Judge Runyon has stated that owing to the pressure of his business, it will be impossible for him to give the attention to the county campaign that he did last fall. Building on this bare assertion, a reporter has declared that he had quit the Colbyites in the county, which he has never said. As exclusively announced by The Daily Press some days ago, the judge will be renominated for another term, both the regulars and the Colbyites having united on him for the office he now holds.

CHILDREN'S DAY AT RED BANK.

A Thousand Parade in Gay Costumes Through the Streets.

The second day of Red Bank's jubilee was given up to a parade of children, who, to the number of nearly a thousand, marched through the principal streets, yesterday. Waving flags and banners and the plaudits of thousands of spectators welcomed the youthful marchers as they paraded to the music of the bands and drum corps. A young man named George Frankle on horseback and dressed as a girl led the procession. Then came in rapid successions divisions of children dressed in bright colors, an dwearing sashes and ribbons.

Allegorical floats were also in the line, as well as tableaux which were portrayed by small girls. The boys wore all kinds of fantastic garb, and were the funmakers in the parade. The principal prizes for best decorations and largest representation were awarded to St. James' Parochial School of Red Bank.

JUNE ALSTON EXTRADITED

Alleged Murderer Taken Back to North Carolina by Sheriff.

CLAIM KILLING WILFUL

Accused Youth Is Said to Have Shot Jesse Williams Deliberately—Sheriff Sees New York and Coney Island.

Sheriff R. E. Davis, of Warren county, North Carolina, took June Alston, the colored youth wanted for alleged murder, back South this morning. Sheriff Davis reached this city early last evening, with requisition papers in full. He was taken to Elizabeth, where Alston had been sent for safekeeping by Detective-Sergeant John Flynn, and received his prisoner. He brought Alston here and had him locked up overnight.

It was the sheriff's first trip North, and Detective-Sergeant Flynn constituted himself an entertainment committee to show the North Carolinian the sights. He took the sheriff to New York and Coney Island, and the North Carolina officer said a series of surprising sights that charmed him after all the impressions of the evening had sunk in the sheriff said it seemed a shame to go back to his part of the country.

The story of the shooting told by the sheriff is very different to that of Alston. The latter said, at the time of his arrest, that he shot Jesse Williams, the victim, accidentally, while handling a revolver belonging to the dead man. The sheriff said the shooting was deliberate and intentional. Alston was jealous of Williams, the officer said, and on the night of July 19 threatened to kill him if he did not stop paying attention to his, Alston's sweetheart. The next morning, it is alleged, Alston shot Williams at the latter's house, deliberately pointing a revolver at him. The shot took effect in the stomach, and death followed swiftly.

Alston went quietly with the sheriff. His hands were handcuffed together, but he was allowed to walk without being chained to his captor. They left on the 10:13 train.

One of our clients owed $48 between four people. His salary is $14 weekly; rent $12 monthly. To have paid $2 weekly to each creditor, combined with rent, would have left only $3 per week to meet expenses, buy clothing, etc.—an impossibility you will agree. He borrowed $50, paid all his creditors, made his future credit good, if ever needed; pays his rent, the loan payments, and has $9 each week to use as his judgment dictates.

Better Hurry.

Better hurry if you would benefit by the exceedingly attractive prices VanArsdale has put on his oxfords. You must realize that there has never been a sale in this town that created the excitement that this "watermelon cutting" has; the people seem to have gone bargain mad—and well they may—in these days of extraordinary high prices for all necessities. An opportunity to buy footwear at one-third off regular prices in many cases is exceedingly welcome. Hundreds of people have availed themselves of this magnificent chance; hundreds of pairs of shoes have been sold since the sale started. There are still some wonderful bargains for those who will act quickly.

ARRESTED FOR FORGERY.

Edward H. Kieley Accused by Saloon-keeper.

Hoboken, Aug. 9.—After a meteoric career of several months here, Edward H. Kieley, thirty-two years old, who gave his occupation as a broker, was taken into custody yesterday afternoon on a charge of having forged a check for $25. Thomas F. Sharkey, a saloon-keeper, of 90 Hudson street, is the complainant.

Kieley drifted into Hoboken about three months ago, and, dressed in the height of fashion, almost continually having a cab at his disposal, he spent money with a lavish hand. He never would drink unless everybody at the bar had something, and although he occasionally was short of money he always paid any debts contracted. Nothing definite was known about the source of his income except that he received $25 per day from a New York brokerage firm, and the hardest work he had to do for it was to spend it.

A few days ago he asked Sharkey to cash a check for him. Sharkey consented and gave Kieley $25. The check purported to be signed by H. W. Johnston, and was drawn on the Gansevoort branch of the Fourteenth Street Bank, at Ninth avenue and Fourteenth street, New York. The check came back marked "no account," and Sharkey had Detective-Sergeant Fallon arrest Kieley. He will be given a preliminary hearing this morning before Acting Recorder Laverty. He does not appear to worry about the predicament he is in.

It is claimed his parents are poor and that prior to his coming here he was in charge of the cigar stand at the Iroquois Hotel, Buffalo.

NECK BROKEN BY FALL.

Jone Kane Had Been out of Work Long Time Before He Secured Position.

Perth Amboy, Aug. 9.—John Kane, thirty years old, a carpenter, of 166 Washington street, fell from a building here yesterday and was instantly killed. He was working on the new building which is being erected by the Standard Underground Cable Company.

Kane had been out of work for a long time, and only recently secured a position. His friends say that he had been forced to steal in order to procure food. When he was arrested and told his story to the court, he was allowed to go. Besides a widow, Kane leaves four children, the youngest of whom was born last Sunday. His death recalls the fact that three months ago, George Srancy fell from the same building and broke his neck.

The Clinton Avenue and Scotch Plains' teams are putting in all their spare time this week practicing for Saturday's great contest at the Plains. Reports from the down-the-line team indicate that they are going to make the fight of the season to capture the game from the Plainfield boys. The local team is not saying a great deal, but there is no lack of confidence and when the test comes they expect to do the trick. Randolph will be depended upon to hold down the heavy stickers of the opposing team, and judging by his past performances he will be able to do it. He is by all odds the best twirler in the league this season and his record is one of which he can be proud. The team has played fast ball in all departments and will undoubtedly give a good account of themselves in the remaining league games.

Local fans by the hundred will journey to Scotch Plains Saturday to see the contest between Clinton Avenue and the home nine, and they will do all in their power to cheer the leaders on to victory.

Tift, the former crack pitcher of the Brown University team, made a great showing in his first game pitched for the Highlanders against St. Louis on Wednesday. He relieved Doyle in the third inning, after the game was practically lost and held his opponents down to one run for the remaining innings.

It is reported that McGraw has offered a cash price for Kissinger, the Buffalo Eastern League club pitcher.

Pittsburg has signed "Cy" Young No. 3 to pitch. None of the recent "Cy" Youngs have come anywhere near being the equal of the old original "Cy."

"Doc" Hillebrand, the former Princeton pitcher, who refuses to sign with any American League team, has lined up with Jake Stahl's South Chicago team.

George Kockill, of the Albany, New York State League team, and considered the fastest first baseman in the State league, has been sold to the Detroit Americans for $2,500. He will finish the season with Albany.

President Pulliam has suspended McGraw for three days for his abuse of Umpire Klem in the recent Chicago game. McGraw says: "It's too bad. I just had to tell Klem what I thought of him in Chicago, for he was even worse than usual, which is saying a lot. I have nothing to say about my suspension save that I am sorry that it came about at this time."

GOLF.

At the Lambton Golf and Country Club, Toronto, Wednesday, the mixed foursome was won by Miss Dick, a runner-up in the Canadian women's championship, and E. D. Fraser, with 80. In the semi-final for the chief tournament cup, B. W. Corkran, of Baltimore, beat W. T. West, of Philadelphia.

C. B. Morgan, of the Plainfield Country Club, left yesterday for the Deal Beach Golf Club, where he will play a few matches in preparation for the big tournament to be held there later in the month.

As the Plainfield Country Club has lost a majority of the best players for the month at least, no extra good scores are being made at present. It is generally considered that a score of 80 or thereabout is not as good as should be expected, especially when scores of 72, 73 and 74 have been made by the best players. With September will begin an active season of golf for in that month the players begin to return from their vacation.

Julius E. Erickson, who is acting chairman of the Golf committee at the Plainfield Country Club, this season, and who is enjoying the summer on the Jersey Coast, has been spending a few days in town.

A large field of golfers are contesting this week at the Newport Golf Club for a cup offered by Mrs. George Peabody Wetmore. Play began on Wednesday and will be concluded tomorrow.

On Sunday "Marty" O'Loughlin, of the Plainfield Country Club, will play a match on the course of the New Brunswick Golf Club with Tracy Smith, the amateur champion of that club. A week from Sunday he will play a return match at Dunwoodie.

Chicago, Boston and New York have representation on the nominating committee for 1908 elected by the executive committee of the United States Golf Association. The members are James L. Taylor, who is named as from the Ekwanok Country Club, Manchaster, Vt., but who is one of the oldest members of the Dyker Meadow Golf Club and the Garden City Golf Club; Hugo R. Johnstone, of the Myopia Hunt Club, near Boston, and A. R. Gates, of the Calumet Country Club. The latter is president of the Western Golf Association. The annual meeting will be in January and the report of the nominating committee will be made public thirty days in advance. At the same time, according to the resolution passed at the last annual meeting of the United States Golf Association, the names will be given out of the clubs to make application for the national championships of 1908.

It is believed that the various clubs have the right to this information, as it will permit them to instruct their delegates to the annual meeting how to vote when the choice of the championship links is under ballot. In other years the delegates have assembled in ignorance of the wishes of the clubs regarding the championships and they have had to vote without any instruction from the organizations they have represented. However, there is nothing in the new method to prevent the selection of a club or clubs not named on the advance notice, or to leave the entire selection of courses with the executive committee.

SCHOOL MATTER MAKES STIR.

Friction Still Exists at New Providence Over the Disposal of High School Pupils.

New Providence, Aug. 9.—That there is still friction in regard to the school question in this place was evidenced at Wednesday night's meeting of the Board of Education, which was held at the old school building. In addition to the members of the board, the advisory committee, consisting of five citizens appointed by the board to assist them in erecting the new school building, were also present.

A letter was read from Miss Connolly, supervising principal of the Summit schools, to which the Board of Education have decided by resolution to send their High School pupils in the future, in which Miss Connolly claimed that she had examined the papers turned in by the prospective High School pupils, and found them to show a very low degree of knowledge of the subjects covered, and were marked much too high. She said she would be compelled to require an examination before admitting pupils to High School studies. These examinations were held after the letter was written and every one of the pupils failed.

Frederick R. Rubsamen, a member of the board, began a quiet hunt for the examination papers, and so far has not been able to get hold of them. President Coddington doesn't know where they are, and Miss Badgeley, one of the teachers, wrote that she did not know either. Mr. Rubsamen contended Wednesday evening that unless the papers were produced within a short time he would take other measures to secure them. He means to ascertain, he said, if the teachers are incompetent.

The new school question was discussed very thoroughly. An architect showed plans as to the character of the building which could be erected for the sum available, and the board was greatly pleased with them. Another special meeting will be held August 21.

Lightning Restores Hearing.

Custer, S. D., Aug. 9.—W. B. Chase, of Custer, deaf for many years, was yesterday struck by lightning, and can now hear as well as he ever could in his life. Chase lost his hearing as the result of sickness. While out on his ranch a sudden storm came up. Chase rode to shelter, but was struck before he reached the house. His horse was killed, and Chase was pendered unconscious. When he recovered consciousness he found that he could hear perfectly.

PRIMARIES ON SEPT. 10

Election Preliminaries will be Two Weeks Earlier Than Usual.

PETITIONS ON AUG. 30

State Officers' Nomination Certificates Must Be Filed Before Oct. 11, According to Law.

Under one of the several election laws passed last year the primary election will take place this fall two weeks earlier than usual and this will throw all the preliminary steps for the voting ahead to the extent of the same period. The act of 1906 referred to is an amendment to the primary act and provides that in years when a Governor is to be elected the primary election shall take place on the second Tuesday in September, instead of one the fourth Tuesday in September, as in other years. This will bring the primary election this year on Tuesday, September 10.

One of the matters which the change brings earlier than usual is that of the filing with the municipal clerk of the petitions endorsing persons as candidates to the political conventions. This year all such petitions must be filed on or before Friday, August 30, the provision of the law being that they must be filed not less than ten days prior to the primary election.

The most important events in the present campaign will be the State conventions. Election day will be Tuesday, November 5. The election law provides that the certificates of nomination for state offices must be filed with the Secretary of State twenty-five days before election, or this year on or before October 11.

Tuesday, September 3, the Boards of Registry and Election in all election districts outside of cities having 30,000 inhabitants, must have their first meeting, and shall then proceed to make a house-to-house canvass of voters, completing it on or before Friday, September 6. The second registry day in all election districts outside of cities having 30,000 inhabitants will be September 10. The third and last registry day in such districts will be Tuesday, October 29.

In all cities having more than 30,000 population the first registry day will be Tuesday, September 10, the same day of the primary election. In these election districts the second registry day will be Tuesday, October 8, and the third and last registry day will be Tuesday, October 22. All boards of registration must sit from 1 to 9 o'clock p. m.

Some question is being raised as to the proper course of the County Election Boards when they sit October 31 and November 2 for the purpose of adding names to and erasing names from the registers of voters. These meetings are provided for under the election law and on these days the County Boards of Election must sit from 8 o'clock a. m. to 5 o'clock p. m. for this revision of the registration. The law provides that at these meetings the name of any legal voter in any district that has been "improperly or inadvertently left off the registry list," may be added thereto. Under this provision it has been customary throughout the state for County Boards of Election to add to the registration any names of voters, upon affidavit, no matter what the cause of the omission. A voter may have been away on the regisery day, or ill, or he may simply have neglected to register. No matter what the excuse he has been sworn on as a voter.

SLOT MACHINES TO BURN.

But County Prosecutor Is Holding Them As Evidence.

County Prosecutor George Berdine, of New Brunswick, annoyed by frequent insinuations that he had disposed of slot machines which he seized in raids a couple of years ago, yesterday issued a general invitation to all interested to call at his barn and see the machines for themselves. His barn is full of the gambling devices.

The Prosecutor's critics say that he should have burned the machines or totally destroyed them, according to law. Mr. Berdine explains that as the machines were used as evidence against W. J. Flynn, convicted of operating them, and as Flynn's application for a new trial is now pending, it would be absurd to destroy the evidence. He says he had wrecked the mechanism of the machines so that they can never again be used. Once Justice Fort thought that he had destroyed the whole of the machines, he says, and reprimanded him for it, but said that it was all right when he learned that only the mechanism had been destroyed.

Mr. Berdine points to the large percentage of convictions which he has secured. In his first year in office he secured a conviction in every case he tried in court.

He has attained the dislike of court constables and officers by refusing to O. K. their bills, or by cutting down the amounts of the bills when he thinks that the charges are too much. He declares there will be no graft in officers' bills as long as he is Prosecutor.

BADLY HURT BY EXPLOSION.

Captain Leland Tossed From Oil Barge With Leg Broken.

Elizabeth, Aug. 9.—As a result of an explosion Wednesday night on oil barge No. 3, of the Service Coast Line, of Jersey City, which has been lying at the foot of Erie street, Captain Tobias Leland was hurled far out into the water and is now in the Elizabeth General Hospital with a broken leg and his right arm burned almost to a crisp.

The barge was burned to the water's edge and more than $200 worth of tar oil went up in smoke. The origin of the fire is not definitely known, but one supposition is that two watchmen employed on the boat, while approaching each other and swinging their lanterns, met near the hatch, where the lights struck and were broken. The fumes were coming up the hatchway from the single tank that had been filled and they ignited from the lantern. Instantly there was a loud explosion. The watchmen were unharmed.

Captain Leland, who was below, rushed up just as the barge was shattered by an explosion, which caught him with all its force, throwing him bodily out into the water. The two explosions had attracted the attention of Captain Hugh McCafferty, who tends the drawbridge, who saw Leland struggling into the water. He went to his rescue in a rowboat. Leland was brought ashore and placed on the special train that had just brought the Central Railroad fire brigade, which was fighting the flames with extinguishers and buckets of water until the Elizabeth fire department could arrive. The train took Leland to the Elizabeth Avenue Station, where an ambulance took him to the hospital.

DEBTOR PAYS UP WHEN WHEEL IS IN JEOPARDY.

Decides to Settle Liveryman's Claim When Constable Makes a Levy On His Bicycle.

Dover, Aug. 9.—A judment for $4 and costs, amounting to $3.25, entered against John C. Holmes in a suit brought by Elmer Squires, a liveryman, was satisfied on Wednesday after Constable Henry C. Newkirk got possession of Holmes' bicycle and, despite Holmes' efforts to prevent him, lugged it to Justice of the Peace Young's office.

Holmes hired a horse and buggy from Squiers July 4 and went to Green Pond, having the horse fourteen hours. He refused to pay more than $3, claiming that that was the regular price of all liverymen, and Squiers brought suit. Holmes did not think Squires had profited much when he got judgment, as he had no real property.

Wednesday, however, he left his wheel at the curb while talking to a man, when Newkirk happened along. The constable seized the bicycle and started off with it. Holmes grabbed on, too, but Newirk quickly persuaded him that he was not fooling and then Holmes followed to Young's office, where he settled the judgment and recovered his property.

Gold Watch in Cow's Lung.

Lexington, Ky., Aug 9.—Dr. D. B. Bell, one of the best known veterinarians in this city, has been called in to vouch for the finding of a gold watch in the lung of a cow by F. Dryden, a butcher, and also appointed referee in a controversy over the claim to the watch, made by the original owner, Israel Rudge. Dr. Bell says that in the spring of 1901 Mr. Rudge was at work in his barnyard when a calf got hold of his waistcoat and chewed it up. He could not find his gold watch, but when he sold the cow a few months ago to Mr. Dryden he said he believed the animal had swallowed his gold watch six years before and jokingly told the butcher to look out for it. Mr. Dryden found the watch in the left lung of the cow. He says the watch was running and recorded the correct time within ten minutes. Dr. Bell says the only way he can account for the watch running is that the breathing of the animal kept it wound up, owing to the position it occupied in the lung. He holds that the watch belongs to the butcher. The farmer is not satisfied and may go to court.

NO HIGH KICKING.

State Fair Managers Decide to Banish Dancing Girls.

Owing to complaints made by the Ministerial Union of Trenton against the "high kicking" of the dancing girls, the managers of the Inter-State Fair Association have decided to eliminate all such attractions from the midway of the coming exhibition.

No dancing girls will be allowed on the grounds for the first time in the history of the association, and the ministerial sleuths who have been "spying" on such exhibitions in the past will have to devote their attention to other forms of naughtiness in the future.

Standard Oil Acts.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 9.—Counsel for the Standard Oil Company of Indiana took time by the forelock yesterday and gave attorneys for the government a surprise by applying for a writ of error and a writ of supersedeas before Judge Grosscup, in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, as first steps toward contesting the assessment of the fine of $29,240,000 imposed by Judge Landis last Saturday. Assistant District Attorney Harry Parkin was alert, however, and asked that a day be given him to communicate with District Attorney Sims, who, it is expected, will cut short his vacation in Michigan and return to Chicago at once. It is probable that when the plea of the Standard Oil Company's attorneys is renewed tomorrow morning Mr. Sims will demand that the corporation put up the largest bond ever asked for in history. It is expected the amount asked will be $58,600,000, about double the fine. Attorneys for the corporation are prepared to contest the plea for a heavy bond.

Dies In Good Health at 104.

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 9.—Mrs. Lavina F. Ostrom, 104 years old, died yesterday at her home, at Max, Neb. Mrs. Ostrom never spent a day in bed from illness during her entire life and was sitting up as usual Wednesday. She died of old age and a general wearing out. The aged woman never wore spectacles and read without trouble down to the day of her death. Her hearing was good, and she retained full command of her senses. One of her sons, now a man of eighty, is employed at the Union Pacific round house in Council Bluffs. He has worked for that company for forty years.

Miner's Skull Crushed by Ore.

Dover, Aug. 9.—Michael Wass, fifty-two years old, was killed Wednesday afternoon in the No. 5 shaft of the Richard mine, near here. He had gone into the shaft shortly after a blast, and a piece of ore that had been loosened by the explosion, fell and crushed his skull. In point of service he was one of the oldest foreign employes of the Thomas Mine Company. He leaves a widow and several children.

Lives With Heart Sewed.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 9—Local physicians are watching with interest an operation performed in the City Hospital yesterday morning on William Carlisle, who was suffering from stab wounds inflicted during a fight. The knife had entered the heart and caused an opening nearly an inch long. This wound was sewed together by Dr. Lee Kane. The patient rallied and last night was much improved. It is the first operation of its kind in Louisville.

Child's Play.

Former Senator Samuel S. Childs of Basking Ridge, has been enthusiastically indorsed as a candidate for Governor by the Democratic county committee of Somerset, and former Judge Childs, of Newark, has been heartily endorsed by Democrats in Essex and in other parts of the State. Evidently a good many members of that party think the work of electing a Democrat next fall is mere Child's play.—Newark News.

Williams the Nominee.

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 9.—The Democratic State Executive Committee met at noon yesterday, and declared Representative John Sharp Williams the party nominee for the United States Senate. The canvass of the returns showed a majority of 648 votes for Williams, the totals being—Williams, 59,496, and Vardaman, 58,848. There will be no contest over the result.

TAKES ACID IN CEMETERY.

Within a short time after Charles L. Coombs of 52 Thomas street, Bloomfield, N. J., left home yesterday morning his wife found a note which read:

"My Dear Wife: You will find my body in Greenwood cemetery."

As soon as she had read it Mrs. Coombs hastened to Brooklyn. After a long search she found her husband unconscious beside a tombstone. A half-filled bottle of carbolic acid by his side told the story of his attempt to end his life.

Mrs. Combs screamed for assistance, and in short time the ambulance of the Norwegian Hospital arrived and Dr. Baylis mad a hurry run with the man to the hospital. Combs was said to be in a precarious condition last night and the physicians could not tell whether he would live.

Mrs. Coombs said he had had business reverses lately and had been despondent.

TO TACKLE LOBBYING.

Senate Committee Will Begin to Probe Next Week.

Senator Bradley, of Camden, chairman of the Senate investigating committee, and Prosecutor Eugene Emley, of Passaic, its counsel, had a conference yesterday afternoon. It is the present intention of the committee to begin its labors next week by inquiring into the subject of legislative lobbying.

Persistent allegations of lobbying were made during the last session, and some of the Senators claimed that in order to get their bills considered by the House it was necessary for them to secure the consent of lobbyists, who were alleged to be in virtual control of affairs in the House. In some instances it was charged that Senate bills were actually found in the possession of these outsiders instead of in the custody of the House.

Jealously Boy Stabs Chum.

New York, Aug. 9.—Jealous of the popularity of his youthful chum with their other companions, Jacob Brown, of No. 248 Division street, a boy of fifteen years, last night, stabbed his friend, Max Gordon, sixteen years old, of No. 12 Attorney street, in the abdomen, inflicting probably fatal wounds. At the Gouverneur Hospital Gordon identified Brown as the boy who had stabbed him, but was too weak to give any of the particulars of the quarrel which preceded. Brown's parents live in Lynchburg, Va., and Gordon came here from Savannah, Ga.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The automobile costumes worn in the big automobile racing drama, "The Vanderbilt Cup," which comes to the New Plainfield theatre, tomorrow, afternoon and night, are said to be the most astonishing affairs possible, and to disguise most successfully many lovely faces. The very smartest and latest importations are promised, and local motor enthusiasts will be able to see just what is worn on the other side.

The third act of "The College Widow," which comes to the New Plainfield theatre, August 14, shows a portion of the grandstand during the Thanksgiving Day football game between Atwater and Bingham Colleges, two inland institutions of learning which might be any other two in the United States, so pointed and apt is George Ade's satire. There is an old rivalry between the two schools and the stand groans with an eager, jostling, cheering crowd. Flags waving, horns tooting, everyone excitedly following the struggle on the gridiron, the picture is a wonderful exemplification of stage craft that carries the audience off its feet. The dramatic pitch is never lowered in this act. As the various characters describe the progress of the battle, the interest waxes intense until at the finish, when the victorious Atwater eleven appears begrimed and bespattered on the shoulders of the crowd.

"Calico," the big 1600 pound steer who was running wild six months ago on the plains of Montana, and "Buckskin," who was enjoying the same liberty on the S. & H. Ranch at Rosebud at the same time, will make things lively at the New Plainfield theatre, August 15, where they appear in P. H. Sullivan's latest play, "The Cowboy and The Squaw," by Joseph Byron Totten. It is a four act comedy-drama portraying life as it is at the present day on the ranges and in the foothills of Montana.

Here is a bit from "Little Johnny Jones," George Cohan's musical hit, which will be presented at the New Plainfield theatre, August 17:

Waiter to The Unknown, who has just made his first entrance: "Did you call me, sir?"

The Unknown—"No; but I will, if you give me any of your lip."

Waiter—"Do you feel like a cup of tea, sir?"

The Unknown—"No; do I look like a cup of tea?"

Waiter—"Is there anything else I can do, sir?"

The Unknown—"If there was, you wouldn't be a waiter."

PRELIMINARY STEP FOR THE STATE CONVENTION.

Senator Briggs Announces the Republican State Committee Will Meet Tuesday Next.

Trenton, Aug. 9.—United States Senator Frank O. Briggs, chairman of the Republican State Committee, says that the committee would meet next Tuesday for the purpose of taking the preliminary steps for the coming State convention. The meeting will be held at 11 o'clock in the morning in the house of the Republican Club on East Hanover street, this city, where the meetings of the committee have been held for several years past.

It is understood that the convention will be held on either Tuesday, September 24, or the following Thursday, in the Taylor Opera House, this city. It seems to be the only week left in September, as the Democrats will hold theirs in the week before, and the one following will be the week of the Trenton Interstate Fair.

COMMITTEE ACQUITS ITSELF.

Freeholder Investigators at Paterson Declare Jail Food Was Not Unwholesome.

Paterson, Aug. 9—The Jail Committee of the Board of Chosen Freeholders Wednesday submitted a report declaring that the charges that it had permitted unwholesome food to be furnished to the prisoners were groundless. In its self-investigation the committee heard the testimony of the food contractors, but declined to call a number of prisoners, who, it is alleged, were made ill by eating unwholesome food.

The committee also calls attention to the refusal of Sheriff Van Noort to permit it to investigate the escape of two prisoners. Sheriff Van Noort, who, as a result of the investigation he has made, has discharged three keepers, took the ground that the freeholders' committee had no authority to investigate the escape of his charges.

that are superior in quality is what we make. We do our own curing. All the Hams and Bacon are taken from genuine Jersey Pork. It's very easy to keep a stock of meats which will be partly good and partly inferior, and to sell a little of both to each customer; this we never do.
OUR MEATS are of superior quality, and with only ordinary care on the part of the cook, should give entire satisfaction. Cuts from young cattle, sheep, etc., the Beef, Mutton and Lamb is tender, juicy and of delicious flavor.

"Mr. Brownley—" She started to rise.

He gently pushed her back with a "hush," unwilling to rob the sleepers of their heaven.

"What are you doing here, Mrs. ——?" He halted.

"Mrs. Chase. Mr. Brownley, when I went away from Randolph & Randolph's office I married John Chase; you may remember him as a delivery clerk. I had such a happy home and my husband was good; I did not have to typewrite any longer. These are our two children."

"What are you doing here?"

The tears sprang to her eyes; she dropped them, but did not answer.

"Don't mind me, woman. I, too, have hidden hells I don't want the world to see. Don't mind me; tell me your story. It may do you good; it may do me good; yes, it may do me good."

I had dropped into a seat a few feet away. Both were too much occupied with their own thoughts to notice me or any one else. I could not overhear their conversation, but long afterward, when I mentioned our old stenographer, Bessie Brown, to Bob, he told me of the incident at the Battery. Her husband, after their marriage, had become infected with the stock-gambling microbe, the microbe that gnaws into its victim's mind and heart day and night, while ever fiercer grows the "get rich, get rich" fever. He had plunged with their savings and had drawn a blank. He had lost his position in disgrace and had landed in the bucket-shop, the sub-cellar pit of the big stock exchange hell. From there a week before he had been sent to prison for theft, and that morning she had been turned into the street by her landlord. I saw Bob take from his pocket his memorandum-book, write something upon a leaf, tear it out and hand it to the woman, touch his hat, and before she could stop him, stride away. I saw her look at the paper, clap her hands to her forehead, look at the paper again and at the retreating form of Bob Brownley. Then I saw her, yes, there in the old Battery park, in the drizzling rain and under the eyes of all, drop upon her knees in prayer. How long she prayed I do not know. I only know that as I followed Bob I looked back and the woman was still upon her knees. I thought at the time how queer and unnatural the whole thing seemed. Later, I learned to know that nothing is queer and unnatural in the world of human suffering; that great human suffering turns all that is queer and unnatural into commonplace. Next day Bessie Brown came to our office to see Bob. Not being able to get at him she asked for me.

"Mr. Randolph, tell me, please, what shall I do with this paper?" she said. "I met Mr. Brownley in the Battery yesterday. He saw I was in distress, and he gave me this, but I cannot believe he meant it," and she showed me an order on Randolph & Randolph for a thousand dollars. I cashed her check and she went away.

From the Battery Bob sought the wharves, the Bowery, Five Points, the hothouses of the under world of America. He roamed back up over ing out the haunts of misery in the misery-infested metropolis of the new world. For two hours he tramped and I followed. A number of times I thought to speak to him and try to win him from his mood, but I refrained. I could see there was a soul battle waging and I realized that upon its outcome might depend Bob's salvation. Some seek the quiet of the woods, the soothing rustle of the leaves, the peaceful ripple of the brook when battling for their soul, but Bob's woods appeared to be the shadowy places of misery, his rustling leaves the hoarse din of the multitude, and his brook's ripple the tears and tales of the man-damned of the great city, for he stopped and conversed with many human derelicts that he met on his course. The hand of the clock on Trinity's steeple pointed to four as we again approached the office of Randolph & Randolph. Bob was now moving with a long, hurried stride, as though consumed with a fever of desire to get to Beulah Sands. For the last 15 minutes I had with difficulty kept him in sight. Had he arrived at a decision, and if so, what was it? I asked myself over and over again as I plowed through the crowds.

SHORT TALKS BY L. T. COOPER.

BACKACHE.

I can sympathize with a sufferer from this awful symptom of weak kidneys. That soreness and pain in the small of the back tells too plainly of serious trouble behind it. It's not a hot water bottle or a plaster you need. That won't cure diseased kidneys. It may relieve you for a time it's true but why mask the real cause and allow the trouble to grow? Don't do it. Weak kidneys can be cured but Bright's disease, which always follows neglect of them cannot. Go and get a bottle of Cooper's New Discovery and Cooper's Quick Relief and use them faithfully. Your backache will disappear because your kidney trouble is corrected—not for a day but for good. When your kidneys are in "ship-shape" there will be nothing more to cause

MR. P. LEONARD.

Here's a letter from [illegible] who suffered for years in this way [illegible] my advice: "I have been [illegible] health for some years that [illegible] give up work. I suffered [illegible] kidney trouble. My back was so [illegible] and lame that I could scarcely get up and down. My stomach was also out of order and my nervous system broken down. I have been using the Cooper medicines for one week and actually feel like a new man. My food digests perfectly. The soreness and pain has entirely gone from my back and my kidneys are in fine shape. The medicine has strengthened me wonderfully and I cheerfully give you this testimonial for publication." Mr. P. Leonard, 49 School St., Allegheny, Pa.

MARTY O'LOUGHLIN IN HIS BEST FORM

HE DEFEATES A PAIR WHO PLAYED THEIR BEST BALL.

"Marty" O'Loughlin, the Plainfield Country Club professional, defeated Trace Smith, the amateur champion, and Harry Letson, of the New Brunswick Golf Club, on the local course, yesterday afternoon, by 1 up in 36 holes, his opponents playing their best ball. The Plainfield lad put up an exceptionally fast game, his rounds being 71 and 72 for a total of 143. The best ball of his opponents being 70 and 74, it will be realized that "Marty" had to make every stroke count to win.

After playing 27 holes, the visiting pair had the home-bred "pro" 4 down, but he finished the next nine holes in 33, a pace a little too fast for his opponents. Smith's card showed an 82 and 75 for the two rounds, while Letson posted a 78 and 83 for the 36 holes.

Smith and Letson admitted that they played about ten shots better than usual, this largely being due to the fine condition of the course. A return match will be played at New Brunswick on Sunday.

Mrs. N. P. Rogers and "Marty" O'Loughlin went to Englewood, today, where they expect to play Jack Hobens and one of the women players of that club. A week from Sunday "Marty" will play at Dunwoodie.

Robert Abbott's Good Golf.

Robert Abbott, of the Plainfield Country Club, was among the large number of well-known golfers who started in the annual tournament of the Shinnecock Hills Golf Club, yesterday, which attracted an unusually good field of a quality unsurpassed by any meeting of a similar character. Abbott got in the second set with a number of crack players. The Plainfielder returned a score of 81, and in the match play second round, he defeated H. B. Hollins, Jr., 5 up and 4 to play. The tournament will be continued today and tomorrow.

GOT A "BETTER POSITION."

Somerville School Teacher Was Married, But Didn't Tell.

Announcements have been received in Somerville of the marriage of Miss Ida Crouse and Leon Pierre Rouget in New York. Miss Crouse taught in the public school there for a number of years. She left that place for the Easter vacation on March 29, with the apparent expectation of returning.

During the vacation she wrote Dr. W. A. Ackerman, the supervising principal, asking to be released, as she had been offered a position in New York which would be much to her advantage. She was accordingly released by the Board of Education. It now transpires that she was married Saturday, March 9, or several weeks before she left the school at Somerville.

Dam Lowering the Pond?

It was reported today that the unusual lowness of the water in Tier's pond has been caused by a dam built on the brook in the country above Scotch Plains. Mr. Tier says the pond is the lowest it has been in a good many years, and some such cause is more than likely to be back of the condition to which it has fallen. E. M. French, who owns the mill on Somerse tstreet, said today that he would investigate the report.

MOTHER KEEPS CHILDREN

Plainfielder's Wife Wins Habeas Corpus Suit Instituted by Husband.

CANNOT LEAVE STATE

Without Express Permission of Court —Vice Chancellor Files Decision in Case.

Vice Chancellor Howell filed at Trenton yesterday his opinion in the habeas corpus suit instituted by William T. Francisco, of Plainfield and New York, to obtain possession of his thre minor children—Rena, fourteen years old; Cyrus, eleven, and George E., nine years. The court denied the petition and continued the children in the custody of their mother, Mrs. Lillian F. Francisco, of Upper Montclair. The vice chancellor in his opinion says, in part:

"The seventh section of the statute which authorizes this proceeding, L 1902, p. 259, provides that when the Court of Chancery has jurisdiction over the custody of minor children of parents living separate, and such children are natives of this State, or have resided five years within its limits, they shall not be removed out of its jurisdiction against their own consent, if of suitable age to signify the same * * * unless the court, upon cause shown, shall otherwise order. To grant the prayer of the petition and give the custody of the children to the father, who is a resident of the State of New York, unless by consent of the children, if they are of proper age to express their wishes, would be to fly in the face of the statute and nullify its provisions."

Children Preferred Mother.

The court then relates how the children were produced in court, and unqualifiedly expressed their desire to remain with their monther. Continuing, the decision says:

"I think that the court ought in this case to deal with the situation as it was at the time of the filing of the petition. At that time the petitioner described himself therein as a resident of the borough of Manhattan, in the city, county and State of New York, and demanded the absolute care and custody of the children should be committed to him. I do not think that the court can impose upon him residence in New Jersey as a part of a decree awarding him the custody of the children. But if this statute did not exist, I should be loath to take the children from the custody of their mother under the circumstances disclosed by the evidence, and for the reasons stated in the petition."

The vice chancellor then takes up the counter-charges of immorality made in the cross bills, and dismisses them as not proved. He continues:

"I shall decline to grant the prayer of the petition, but the petition will remain on file and the proceedings open, so that aplication may be made to the court from time to time touching the custody and maintenance of these children in case subsequent events should make it advisable to take action thereon.

"The father has undoubtedly a right of access to these three children at all proper and convenient times and places, and an order will be made for that purpose in such form and to such extent as counsel for the parties may be able to agree upon. If they are no able to so agree the court will make such an order as may seem expedient and proper.

"Recurring again to the seventh section of the statute, which prohibits the removal of the children out of the jurisdiction of this State without their own consent, I may say that this prohibition applies to the mother as well as to the father. The children are here, and before they are removed by the mother to any other jurisdiction the court must be satisfied that they go freely and by their consent."

Mischievous Boy Arrested.

George Ernes, 12 years old, whose home is on Madison avenue, Elizabeth, was arrested by Policeman Andrew Saffron, yesterday afternoon, for throwing coal at the Pond Tool Works windows from a train on which he was stealing a homeward ride. Saffron captured him after a chase up the track. He was locked up over night, and this morning Mayor Fisk, who sat in Judge Runyon's place, gave him a talking to. He will be held here until his parents come, or send, for him.

REPUBLICANS ON OUTING

Large Delegation of Plainfield Politicians Attend Annual Picnic.

AT WITZEL'S GROVE, L. I.

Union County G. O. P. Takes a Day Off to Have a Good Time —Twenty-one From Here.

Thirty-one faithful members of the G. O. P. left town this morning to take in the annual outing of Union County Republicans, which is being held at Witzel's Grove, L. I. The Plainfielders joined other Republicans from various parts of the county, at Elizabethport, where all boarded the steamer "Black Bird," which was engaged to take the crowd to and from the Long Island pleasure resort.

The committee in charge, of which Andrew McCardell and Councilman Herbert Buxton are members, spared no pains in providing a good time for all. There was a band of music to enliven the spirits of all, and there was an abundance of good things to eat and drink going and coming, while the customary dinner was served at the Grove upon the arrival of the steamer. Afterward games of all sorts were played.

Of course, there was the usual political gossip, and County Chairman F. H. Smith was the center of attraction for all aspiring Republicans. He, together with other leaders throughout the county ,held a conference on the boat and another one at the Grove. There was a discussion of the "New Idea" party, its proposed plans, and Assemblyman Perkins' wish to be returned to the lower house of the Legislature for another term. Barraing accidents the party will reach home about 9 o'clock tonight.

Those from Plainfield in the party are County Chairman F. H. Smith, Councilmen Herbert Buxton, Frank Randolph, Charles C. Randolph and F. L. Montgomery, John Bowman, Charles Ward, Assessor H. C. Runyon, Fred Hand, Dr. A. K. Brennan, John King, Alex. Ayers, William Townley, Thomas Hanna, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., Captain Christian Frederickson, Sergeant Herbert Overbaugh, Health Commissioner Charles H. Dunham, Charles Hand, Fred Dixon, Charles Hamilton Frost, former Mayor James F. Buckle, R. B. Dally, Frank Linke, James Stewart, Philip Jahn, Robert Craig, William Clifton, David Mack, Sergeant Hezekiah Hand, of the district court, and Charles S. Sminck.

An over-enthusiastic newspaper reporter in Elizabeth announced that "Bob" Fitzsimmons would be a guest of honor at the outing and that he had arranged to take his pet lion with him. As a matter of fact "Bob" does not own a pet lion, having disposed of the animal some time ago.

TWENTY COACHES FILLED WITH SHORE EXCURSIONISTS.

About 1,500 Attended the Hope Chapel Outing to Asbury Park.

Two sections, comprising ten coaches each, were used to convey the members and friends of Hope chapel to Asbury Park this morning, the crowd of excursionists being one of the largest of the season. The first section, which was in charge of Conductor Walter Durling, was filled up at the Grant Avenue station, and it did not make a stop at Plainfield.

The second section, in charge of Conductor Frank O. Webster, made the stop here to pick up the crowd at the North Avenue station. All but two coaches on the second section were well filled. The excursionists got away in good time and the prospects for a pleasant day were excellent. They will leave the Park tonight at 7:15 o'clock for the return journey.

Professor Will Preach.

At the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church tomorrow morning, Prof. J. E. Frame, of Union Theological Seminary, will preach. The evening services will be omitted during August. The offering tomorrow morning will be for Lincoln University.

Rev. J. A. Cubberley, of Worcester, Mass., formerly pastor of the South Plainfield Baptist church, will preach at the New Market Baptist church tomorrow.

SUSPICIOUS COLORED MAN ARRESTED ON TROLLEY CAR

HURRYING TO NEW YORK, COATLESS AND HATLESS; HELD BY MAYOR.

A colored man who describes himself as Edward MacBride, 28 years old, of Bordentown, is being held at police headquarters, pending investigation. He was arrested at 2.20 o'clock this morning by Policeman McDonald as a suspicious person.

A young man dropped off a trolley car as it passed MacDonald on West Front street, and told him a suspicious negro was aboard it. McDonald gave chase and sprang aboard the conveyance. He found McBride, without hat or coat and more or less queer looking, in a seat.

McBride told Mayor Fisk, who sat for Judge Runyon in the city court this morning, that he started for Bordentown, yesterday, to visit a sick friend in New York. In New Brunswick, he said, the trolley car he was on exploded, and his hat and coat disappeared in the excitement. He said he got here too late to buy a hat, and was going on because he didn't want to lose any time. He had money in his clothes.

Chief Kiely called up the New Brunswick police and the P. S. C. office at that place, and neither could find any record of a trolley accident, yesterday. MacBride was remanded to give the Chief a chance to make inquiries.

COMPLAIN OF NOISE FROM RUSHMORE ENGINE

EAST END RESIDENTS FRAME A PETITION TO COMMON COUNCIL.

Their patience having been exhausted by constant noise from the Rushmore Dynamo Works, especially at night, the residents of the East End have framed a petition to which has been secured a large number of signers, and it will be presented to the Common Council at its meeting Monday night. The noise complained of is made by a gas engine. Its exhaust is so loud that it keeps the whole neighborhood awake during sleeping hours.

The disturbance is not confined to the immediate neighborhood of the vicinity of the works, but reaches the homes in all sections. In the petition which has been signed by hundreds of citizens throughout the East End, it is complained that the working of the exhaust during the night is so annoying that sleep is practically impossible and the petitioners urge the Common Council to take steps at once giving the residents relief from the nuisance.

CHARGES ASSEMBLYMEN BETRAYED CONSTITUENTS.

J. Frank Burke, of Anti-Saloon League, Scores Perkins, Tillman and Moxon.

Summit, Aug. 10.—"Assemblyman Perkins, Tillman and Moxon have betrayed the trust of the people of Union county. Either they do not believe that we know what we want or are intelligent enough to vote, or else they are controlled by the liquor interests of this State. Are we a rum-soaked people? Do we want to be represented by rum-controlled politicians, or shall we be represented by a man who stands for the people, a square deal and home rule?"

These were the words with which J. Frank Burke, State superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, brought to a close his address in this city Thursday night.

"If not," he said, further, "it is only necessary for us to enter the voting booth next fall, determined to vote for men who will represent the people of Union county."

Mr. Burke, in the course of his speech, explained what local option was, what the aims of the Anti-Saloon League were, and what had already been accomplished in other States, citing as instances the cases of Ohio, Kentucky and Georgia. He told of the victory of local option and the Anti-Saloon League, in the first named State, after a struggle of nine years' duration.

A crowd of about one hundred persons listened to Mr. Burke's address, at the conclusion of which he was loudly applauded.

Youth Makes Grave Charge.

A youth living in one of the suburbs complained to the police last night that a man had assaulted him as he was on his way home along the railroad track near Clinton avenue. The charge was of a grave nature and the police started an immediate investigation. They learned that the boy and his alleged assailant were together earlier in the evening and that the latter is considerably slighter than the youth. No arrest has been made.

LAWYER HALTS BAILIFF

THREE VANS USELESS

Locked Door Compels Officer and Mortgagee's Counsel to Retire By a Back Way—Other Proceedings Imminent.

Attempts of District Court Officer Hezekiah Hand, acting as bailiff, to execute the foreclosure of a mortgage on the stock of Horace Sherwin, a shoe dealer, whose store is at 110 West Front street, were checked by the mortgagor's lawyer, V. W. Nash, Jr., yesterday. The stock still remains in the possession of Mr. Sherwin, who is doing business as usual.

The mortgagee is Thomas E. Greacan, a wholesale shoe dealer of New York. The mortgage, given in 1905, was originally for about $8,000. It has since been reduced, but over $4,000 is still owing. Mr. Greacan claims nearly $5,000 is still due, but the correctness of his figures is questioned by the mortgagor.

Former Judge William A. Coddington, counsel for Mr. Greacan, made arrangements to foreclose on the stock Thursday, and had the court officer made bailiff. Hand made a demand for possession at the store, and met with prompt refusal. He returned to the store Thursday evening and put a padlock on the door. The padlock disappeared overnight, however, and Hand again made demand for the stock at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. Attorney Nash was on hand at that time, and he gave Hand three minutes to leave the store.

Hand went, but he returned yesterday afternoon with three vans and accompanied by Judge Coddington. Refusal to surrender possession was again met with by the bailiff, and he appealed to Policeman Charles Flynn, to force the other side to desist from interference. Flynn couldn't see how the police force was called upon to take part in the affair, and refused to be drawn into it.

Judge Coddington and Hand were inside the store insisting on the formal demand, when Attorney Nash, summoned by Mr. Sherwin, hurried in. He locked the store door immediately, placed himself before it with outstretched arms, and defied the bailiff to remove any of the stock.

Judge Coddington told his bailiff to stop his activities. He had gone as far as was legal, and to lay a hand on Mr. Nash would have constituted an assault. Judge Coddington said his party would leave the store peaceably, and asked Mr. Nash to open the door. Mr. Nash said he didn't purpose to open the door for anybody at that particular juncture. Judge Coddington and Bailiff Hand, who hadn't any desire to stay in the store, retired from the scene by a rear way. After they had left Mr. Nash placed representatives on watch, and opened the door.

Judge Coddington said this morning that other steps would be taken to gain possession of the stock. Mr. Nash contends that the proceedings attempted Thursday and yesterday were defective from a legal standpoint, and simple refusal to surrender possession invalidated them.

TALL POLICE FORCE.

Dunellen's Marshals Are All Six Feet or Over In Height.

Dunellen has probably the tallest set of policemen of any municipality in the State. Attention was called to the fact by the appointment, this week, of H. L. Hathaway, a newspaper reporter, as chief marshal. Hathaway is three inches over 6 feet, and none of the other three marshals are under 6 feet. They are Owen Mohan, who has been serving nights as a regular patrolman, Councilman Starker and Theodore Apgar.

Borough Counsel and Justice of the Peace Von Minden chuckled today when his attention was called to the distinction in size of the Dunellen force.

"I rather think the force would present a formidable front if it advanced side by side on a group of lawbreakers. They could quell a fuss or raid a tramp camp very expeditiously."

Given a Week in Borough Lockup.

TO REFUSE RENOMINATION

Mr. Ginna Will Not Run For Council Again and Possibly Neither Will Mr. Daniel.

AND G. P. MELLICK, TOO

Montgomery Not Opposed to Another Term—Charles Randolph Consents—Gloak May Also.

It is certain that at least one Councilman, whose term expires this winter will refuse a renomination and there is a possibility that one or two others will take the same position before the primaries are held. Councilman Daniel Ginna, of the Second ward, has announced that it will be impossible for him to serve another term as he intends to spend the winter in Florida with his family. This decision on his part is a severe blow to the city's interests for as cairman of the street committee, Mr. Ginna has rendered valuable service and it is considered that it will be a hard task to find an equally good man for the place.

Whether Councilman Leslie M. Daniel, of the Third ward, will consent to run again is not known. As a chairman of the finance committee he has did great work and there has never been the least opposition to him from any source. In fact, Mr. Daniel is generally considered one of the best city fathers that the municipality has had in years. He has given more than his share of times to the city's interests and it is reported that he does not feel like carrying the burden any longer than his present term.

Councilman Francis Montgomery, of the Second ward, has not made up his mind in the matter exactly, but he declared that the decision rests with the people of the ward. "If my constituents are satisfied with my work, I would not object to serve another term. I was asked to run for the office in the first place; now if they want me again I will obey their wishes. There is opposition to Mr. Montgomery on the part of the New Idea men who have been casting around for another candidate for his place. One or two have declined to become the New Idea candidate, but whether another has consented is not known. The regulars, too, it is said will prefer another in Mr. Montgomery's place, but the leaders say there *are no candidates as yet. The Sec*ond ward man has been a conscientious and hard-working member nevertheless.

Councilman William L. Gloak has been a splendid representative from the First ward, and the regulars' leaders are anxious for him to serve another term. The Colbyites, however, are said to be opposed to him, and there nominating committee is alleged to be hunting up available material.

Councilman Charles Randolph, of the Fourth ward, smilingly admitted to the representative of The Daily Press today that he would "consent to run if the people say so." Mr. Randolph has tried to please his constituents and to do the right thing at all hazards. He has shown his independence whenever necessary for the good of the city and has made a first rate member. It is hinted, however, that the Colbyites have him slated to go, but it is a good guess to say that he will be renominated and re-elected. He lives in the Third ward now and hence a nomination will have to come from that district.

Politicians say that the aim of the Colbyites is to get hold of the city clerkship, but the term of the present incumbent, James T. MacMurray, does not expire until 1909. Mr. MacMurray has held the office for years and is probably as well, if not much better informed on the duties of the city clerk and councilmanic regulations than any other similar office-holder in New Jersey. Hardly a meeting is held but when some question is submitted him for solution and his services are well-nigh invaluable. Be as it may, however, the Colbyites believe that it would crush his recognized political strength to take away the clerkship from him. The chances of their success, however, are very slight.

The Second ward is anxious to have Mr. Ginna returned but if he absolutely declines renomination, there are others suggested. Henry L. Hall is one of these, but he is quoted as saying that he does not want to take a nomination. Should he consent, both the regulars and the New Idea men would be solid for him. Then there is Julius E. Erickson, whose father was one of the best councilmen Plainfield ever had. Again, R. Henry Depew's name has been broached and he, like Frederic Butler, Edward E. Iremonger and T. M. Day, whose names have also been mentioned, would make a first rate councilman.

Both Councilmen George P. Mel-

JURY BLAMES PERKINS

Corner's Inquest Holds Assemblyman and Chauffeur Responsible for Auto Fatality.

IN AN ALTERCATION

Republican Leader Told Coroner He Would Try to Have Him Impeached for Influencing Jurymen.

Randolph Perkins, Republican leader in the State Legislature and one of the men who obtained the passage last year of New Jersey's anti-speed law, was held responsible yesterday by a Coroner's jury, at Oradel, N. J., with his chauffeur, Michael O'Keefe, for the death last Tuesday of Louis Thompson, a nine-year-old negro, who was run over and killed by Mr. Perkins' automobile. In the course of the inquest Mr. Perkins and Coroner Lees got into a dispute, after which the Republican leader said he would try to have the Coroner impeached.

Mr. Perkins lives in Westfield, N. J., and he has a summer place at Woodcliffe, N. J. He has a real estate office in Jersey City. Last Tuesday he was on his way to his summer home, when his auto struck the negro boy at Oradel.

Miss Laura Kelsey, of Belvidere, N. J., a niece of Judge Blair, of Hudson county, who was with Mr. Perkins at the time of the accident, testified that she had ridden in automobiles for five or six years, and that she had often driven them herself. Thus she thought she was a pretty fair judge of speed, and she believed that the machine at the time it killed the boy was going not more than fourteen miles an hour. She said she didn't see how the accident could have been avoided.

O'Keefe declared dramatically that nothing could have prevented the accident. "We were going at about thirteen miles an hour," he testified, "and just before we got to the place where the accident happened we saw two little boys start to cross the road. Just behind them was a baby carriage and several other children. One of the boys decided not to cross, and stood irresolutely in the middle of the road. The other went on across and stood still.

"Now, if I had swerved the machine one way I would have run into the baby carriage and the other children. If I had swerved it in the other direction I would have killed the boy who had crossed the road. I decided that it was best to go straight ahead, though I did all in my power to stop the machine."

Assemblyman Perkins declared that he had been at all times against speeding automobiles, and that he had employed O'Keefe only after finding out that he was a very careful driver. O'Keefe was arrested about a month ago in Hackensack for speeding.

Coroner Lees believed that the machine must have been going at the rate of from thirty-five to forty-five miles an hour, and said so, telling Assemblyman Perkins that he needn't think he could come before him and make him believe that his automobile had been making only thirteen or fourteen miles an hour. Mr. Perkins said hotly that this sort of statement should not have been made in the presence of the jury, and that he would impeach the Coroner.

The jury brought in a verdict that both Mr. Perkins and O'Keefe were responsible for the death of the boy.

Mrs. Cameron, who is conducting a school for boys at Roselle, N. J., asks the court for $15 a week allmony and $500 counsel fee. Justice Dickey reserved his decision.

Pall Mall.

Few people know that Pall Mall derived its name from an old "Pallmaille" court which stood on the site 300 years since. This game was simply a slightly form of croquet and appears to have gone completely out of fashion in the eighteenth century. Who revived it and how it came by its modern name is not known.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

It is reported that Walter Nelson, the popular catcher for the Y. M. C. A. team, has signed to play with a semi-professional team at New Brunswick. Nelson was graduated from Rutgers College last June and promised Captain Craig that he would play with the association team this season. Now that the Y. M. C. A. nine is practically out of the running for the pennant, it is understood that Captain Craig has consented to Nelson's withdrawal, especially as he has received a good offer from New Brunswick. There is probably no better catcher in this vicinity than Nelson and he will strengthen any team with which he plays.

All roads will lead to Scotch Plains this afternoon, where Clinton Avenue will try to defeat the home team in the final days of the struggle for the amateur championship. Both teams will go into the game well fitted for a hard contest. The local betting favors Clinton Avenue and there is a general feeling that the Plainfield boys will win out.

The fast-playing Detroits, of the American League, have at last secured first place with 56 wins and 36 defeats. However, the Philadelphia Athletics are pressing both the Tigers and Chicago very hard for the leading position.

An unusual incident occurred at the West End-High Bridge game at Somerville, last week, when friends of Torpey, the popular catcher of the High Bridge team, was presented with a baby carriage just as he was about to take his turn at the bat. The arrival of an heir in the Torpey home recently was the reason for the presentation.

The West Ends, of Somerville, will play the Chathams, of the Lackawanna League, at Somerville, this afternoon. This will be the first appearance of the Chathams at the county seat of Somerset and a good game is anticipated.

Although Mathewson is not in the best of condition, owing to a recent illness, he continues to pitch an occasional game. He is not, however, the same "Matty" as before, and the New York fans have lost one of their idols.

Johnson, the nineteen-year-old twirler, now with the Washington Americans, is making an enviable reputation. He gives promise of being one of the best pitchers in the American League.

GOLF.

There will be no dinner-dance at the Plainfield Country Club, tonight. These weekly social events will be resumed next Saturday night.

Tomorrow "Marty" O'Loughlin will visit the New Brunswick Golf Club, where he will play the best ball of Tracey Smith and Harry Letson, two of the best players of that club. In a similar match at the Plainfield Country Club, Thursday, O'Loughlin defeated the pair 1 up in 26 holes.

There will be play today for the Golf Committee, Green Committee and Scratch cups at the Plainfield Country Club. At the Park Golf Club the members will play for the President's and Golf Club cups.

Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers has returned to the game of golf again, having recovered from a recent indisposition and she is returning low scores, as a rule.

C. B. Morgan is following the game on the course of the Deal Beach Golf Club.

The absence of Rev. J. O. McKelvey, Rev. C. L. Goodrich, Dr. H. K. Carroll and Rev. L. R. Hqward from the city makes quite a hole in the list of entries for the competitions at the Park Golf Club each week.

Play for the Governor's cup will be the chief attraction at the Westfield Golf Club, today.

In the interclub team match at the Lambton Golf and Country Club Thursday the winners were the Princeton University team—W. F. Wesk, B. W. Corkran, Ralph Peters, Jr., and Charles Presbrey. They scored 680 for thirty-six holes. The Lambton team scored 687 and Toronto 707.

The semi-final in the eighteen hole mixed foursomes golf match at the Newport Golf Club for prizes offered by Mrs. George Peabody Wetmore was played Thursday afternoon and resulted in Mrs. Royal Phelps Carroll and Clarence W. Dolan and Mrs. Eugene Hale, Jr., and the Rev. Roderick Terry winning their games.

In the thirty-six hole final of the amateur tournament Thursday at the Maplewood links Jerome D. Travers, the amateur champion, led Richard Kimball, of Boston, by 5 up in the morning and won out by 3 up and 1 to play. Travers' card was 74, 75—149, and Kimball's 79, 73—152. For the consolation cup W. A. Knight, Maplewood, beat E. O. Frazer, Ottawa, by 4 up and 2 to play. Gil Nicholls won the professional competition handily, as he retained his lead of the opening day. Smith finished second, while Jack Jolly and Terry were tied for third.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The tremendous success of "The Vanderbilt Cup" at the Broadway theatre, New York, makes its appearance here at the New Plainfield theatre this afternoon and tonight of special interest. It is said to be put on with all the elaborateness of detail which marked the New York run. Real automobiles are used in the racing scene, which is marked with all the excitement of a real cup race. The play presents a great ensemble of rattling conversation, good fun, animation, beauty, grace, extravagance, oddity, stirring scenes, and a general atmosphere of beautiful music.

To fully enjoy a melodrama, it is necessary that each situation follow in a naturally connected manner as to convince the auditors that they are witnessing a real occurrence instead of a "make believe." P. H. Sullivan, who presents "The Cowboy and The Squaw" by the young author, Joseph Byron Totten, at the New Plainfield theatre on August 15, claims that in his new play, the different actions and scenes are so consistent and follow each other so rapidly that all four acts could be played through without intermission, and hold the audience spellbound from the rise to the fall of the curtain.

In addition to turning on the book of "The College Widow," in straight dialogue, George Ade had to use his well-tried hand at verse. A great many of the old and best known college songs are incidentals in the action of the play and although they are all sung off stage, the author wrote new verses for them to introduce the names of Atwater and Bingham, the colleges of the story. Thus, the opposing teams are alternately encouraged during the lulls of the football game in the third act by the songs of the students. The orchestra music is designed to tickle the ear of almost every college man, ranging from the "Boola Boola" of Yale to the "Yellow and Blue" of Michigan.

There are no less than twenty songs in "Little Johnny Jones" that might be aptly described as whistleable. Theq are all from the pen of eorge M. Cohan, too. Every regular theatregoer in this city is awaiting the arrival of "Little Johnny" with pleasurable anticipation because "Johnny" always makes a big hit wherever presented. The date of presentation at the New Plainfield theatre is August 17.

Harry and Edward Paulton's newest comedy offering, "The Other House," is to be seen here for the first time on any stage at the New Plainfield theatre next Friday night. The piece is described as a clever fantastic comedy of American life. Underlying the breezy and captivating comedy situations is a strong and virile plot which deals with no uncertain manner with existing conditions in present day commercial activity. Schemes and petty subterfuges which are unblushingly used in the business world today and excused on the ground of cleverness and the needs of competition are laid bare in the story of the play by the authors.

MR. PERKINS SHOULD RETIRE.

No one doubts Randolph Perkins' ability to put up a good fight for a renomination to the Assembly, but he will make a great mistake if he flies in the face of public sentiment which is strongly opposed to sending him back to the Legislature. Mr. Perkins is quoted as saying that if two or three leaders declare that they do not want him, he will abide by the will of his constituents, taking it for granted that the people in general want him to continue in office. As the leader of the House is seldom in his own county, he may be pardoned for his ignorance regarding the situation politically, but he should be told that there are very few people, indeed, who desire to have him go back to Trenton.

Aside from the fact that the Westfielder that place is his voting residence has already served three terms, there is strong opposition to him. This opposition, it should be stated, arises from no particular source but is quite general throughout the county. The New Idea forces, for instance, are against him on principle. His record has not been pleasing to those who follow Senator Colby's political theories and it is quite certain that he will meet with determined opposition from that quarter. Again, the local option faction, and it is not without strength in county politics, believes that his course has been an affront to the people. Hence, they are solidly arrayed against him and will continue the fight until the bitter end. Lastly, the regular party organization, which shows a strong inclination to do what the people will, has found no good reason for championing his cause. The leaders declare that they do not know what claims he has for a perpetual lease on the office, and add that there are many other men in Union county whom the people might desire to send to Trenton in his place.

It is not a matter of record that the ambitious assemblyman has ever consulted with his constituents regarding matters of public moment. As a matter of fact, he has acted without consulting anyone and his acts have not always been such as his people would have them. Mr. Perkins enters a straight denial to the charge that his course has been directed in a manner to lead the people to believe that he is an ambitious man and that his steps have been taken with a single regard to his future political welfare. Be as it may, however, we see no reason why he should be continued in his present office indefinitely. The theory of the American form of government does not look with favor on life tenure in office and the general public believes that inasmuch as it has been a custom to send a man to the Legislature but twice there is no reason why an exception should be made in his case.

Mr. Perkins should have the good sense to retire. By doing so, he will save himself from a sure defeat.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

The Martine Boom.

The endorsement which has been given the candidacy of James E. Martine for the Governorship nomination by the Union County Democratic Committee calls attention once more to the weakness of this boom. Never strong, it has steadily declined since the Martine dinner held in this city in May. The Democracy is very active this year, as is evidenced by the partisan State investigations, by the change in chairman of the State committee, and by other evidence familiar to party workers. This, therefore, is not the year for Martine. If the Democrats believed the Governorship a hopless contest this year, Mr. Martine might do well enough. He has been defeated always and would not mind leading again the party which he so dearly loves, defeat or no defeat.

But this new activity on the part of the Democrats make Martine an impossibility. His candidacy has never been enthusiastically received anywhere, though the votes he has secured in the past have made it perfectly clear that he has friends in Union county and outside of it. It is inconceivable that the new Democratic chairman, who will want to make a hit, if possible, this year, would consider a candidate with such a record as Martine's. It is clear that Katzenbach is the man most likely to be opponent whom the Republican candidate will have to fight this fall. He has the lead and is keeping it well. Since the State investigation started, the candidacy of Judge Vroom has faded rapidly, and the way for Katzenbach has steadily been cleared.—Elizabeth Journal.

"ASSAULT" WAS A JOKE.

Friends Greet Washington, N. J., Chief of Police with "Beating" on Anniversary of His Birthday.

Washington, N. J., Aug. 10.—Although five men waylaid Borough Marshal C. N. Shrope almost in the centre of town Thursday night, and "assaulted" him, no arrests were made, and the chief of police returned good for evil by spending some of his money to treat his assailants and the crowd that gathered. It was just at dusk that the marshal was passing the lane near Shive's store when five men suddenly sprang from the lane and seized him. Before he could defend himself he was prostrate with a man holding each hand and foot.

The fifth man produced a wide paddle, and while the others held the marshal the man struck Shrope. With each blow the assailant counted in stentorian tones until he had reached forty-nine.

At first the crowd that gathered thought it was a real assault, and some excited men were about to call out the fire department, but those in the game informed them that it was the policeman's birthday and he would have to take his medicine. The man who wielded the paddle was Nathan Radline, and the four men who held the chief while the anniversary was remembered were James Shurts, Harry Gardner, Edward Fredenberg and George Swayze.

CORTLANDT PARKER'S WILL.

Jersey Jurist Leaves His Large Estate to His Family and Charity.

The will of the late Cortlandt Parker, the aged Newark jurist, who died two weeks ago, was filed for probate in the Surrogate's office in Newark yesterday. Aside from a few bequests to charity the large estate is divided equally among the eight surviving children. To each child, grandchild, and greatgrandchild the testator leaves $100 to be kept as a keepsake or memorial of himself. The interest of $5,000 for life awarded to a number of nieces and great nieces.

The testator leaves $3,000 to St. Barnabas's Hospital as a memorial to his wife; $5,000 to Trinity Episcopal church and a copy of Hoffman's picture of "Christ Disputing with the Scribes" to the Sunday-school.

To his wife's nieces, Mrs. Hale, Mrs. Tilton, and Mrs. Papasinatz, are left bequests of $1,000 each, while the heirs of the late Eaton Stone are to receive the remainder of the estate which was willed to the testator by Mr. Stone.

Congressman Richard Wayne Parker, Cortlandt Parker, and Charles W. Parker, the three eldest sons of the testator, are named as executors.

State Assessors at Work.

The New Jersey State Board for the Equalization of Taxes, sitting at Jersey City, did not finish taking testimony yesterday in the matter of the report of the railroads for a reduction in their assessments. Owing to the illness of Hugh Roberts, an important witness, the case went over until Tuesday.

Auto Cowards.

Frank Sarno, 9 years old, of Jersey City, was knocked down by an automobile on the Hudson Boulevard yesterday. The automobile sped on and the four men in it escaped. The boy will recover.

Mrs. D. M. Van Vliet and her daughters, of Washington avenue, are spending the month of August at Forest Lake. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Foster and their daughter, of New York, are sharing Mr. Van Vliet's home, during the absence of his family.

mony and success. The annual report shows that sixty new members have been added to the church roll. One member was lost by letter and eight by death.

Pastor Bailey has made 367 visitations and $3,476 has been raised for all purposes. As a preacher and pastor, Mr. Bailey is popular and he has united the members of the church and congregation in Christian work. The coming year gives promise of continued success.

THE ROYAL BOX.

King George of Greece is particularly devoted to youngsters and animals, his favorites among the latter being dogs.

When Crown Prince George of Servia refused to permit Hungarian customs officials to examine a boat in which he was traveling, the officials gave him a shower of bullets, but he was not hit.

The czar of all the Russias is extremely fond of music and specially delights in hearing played the balalaika, which is a species of guitar with only three strings.

Queen Alexandra has introduced a new fad in the way of buttons painted with portrait miniatures on vellum and surrounded with jewels. She has a set of nine buttons, each with a miniature of one of her grandchildren and set with amethysts.

The king of Siam when visiting Roskilde cathedral, Copenhagen, several weeks ago was weasured on the historical column on which the height of nearly all the soverigns of Europe is engrased. He proved to be of exactly the same height as the czar when the latter was measured there ten years ago.

Queen Wilhelmina.

No gentlewoman in Europe who has wealth to indulge her every wish lives more simple than does Queen Wilhelmina. She rises every morning at 7 o'clock, and at 9 o'clock the members of her household, led by her chambermaid, assemble before her, the Queen reads a passage from the Bible to them, and they pray together. Following this she begins the work of the day.

A Frog Barometer.

A curious barometer used in Germany and Switzerland consists of a jar of water with a frog and a little stepladder in it. When the frog comes out of the water and sits on the steps it is said infallibly to foretell rain.

PICNIC LUNCHEONS.

Many a housewife who finds no trouble in devising dainty and attractive menus for the home table declares herself 'phased" when it comes to the preparation of the picnic basket. Yet, it is not a difficult undertaking when one gets on to the "pull of the ropes." Even in the home meals, there must be forethought to see that all necessary materials are on hand. Even more so is this essential in putting up luncheon, for half the pleasure of a picnic depends on the efficiency of its commissary department, and any serious oversight when one is 20 miles from a lemon or any other desired edible is a misfortune hard to bear. Picnic luncheons should vary according to the prospective stage setting and the made of journey thither. If the party is to motor, sail or drive to its destination, with plenty of room for hampers and accessories, the bill of fare may be much more varied and comprehensive than when one goes on trolley or wheel or expects to tramp to the picnic grounds. In the latter case it is necessary to go in light marching order, everything as compact as possible, and things must be stowed away in boxes instead of baskets, that may be thrown away when the meal is finished. Individual drinking cups should be included in every luncheon outfit, and the new paper collapsible cups that now come for three or four cents a piece solve the question that was erstwhile a perplexing one. Paper napkins and table cloths, a whole set of the latter consisting of fancy cloth 42x56 and a dozen napkins to match, put up in stout envelope cases, may be bought at ten cents a set.

Tasty Addition to the Luncheon.

Tasty additions to the luncheon are a sourse of pigs' feet, veal loaf, broiled chicken, smoked salmon sliced thin, boned herrings, baked beans, chicken salad, put up in little individual paper cases, then packed in a large box and carried "right side up with care." Swiss cheese sliced thin never goes begging. Saratoga chips are tasty and easy to carry and serve. A pigeon pie is extremely English and extremely nice, as also lamb cutlets in apsic jelly.

Picnic Sandwiches.

It goes without saying that sandwiches are the backbone of all out-of-door luncheons, and the roster of delightful ones is long. The "binding" may be a light tender wheat bread, at least 24 hours old and cut wafer thin; may be brown bread or whole wheat bread cut thicker; may be a two-story affair, with both white and brown bread in amicable relations; may be substantial slices of rye or pumpernickel, a tender baking powder biscuit, a fluffy, melt-in-your mouth roll or cornbread or gems that are not too crumbly. The filling must accord with its binding, and its name is legion. With the dainty slices of wheat bread comes first a spreading of sweet butter applied with a light hand. Then comes the heart of the sandwich, which may be caviare mixed with a little lemon juice, anchovies pounded to a paste and ixed with equal quantities stoned and chopped olives and a sprinkling of minced parsley, a slice of chicken breast salted and prepared with a protecting leaf of crispy lecture moistened with mayonnaise, nasturtium leaves, blossoms and stems lightly salted, sprigs of watercress seasoned, minced chicken moistened with own stock, gravy or mayonnaise, equal quantities chopped chicken and ham, with a few minced truffles thrown in, a mince of ham and veal in combintion, or tongue and veal; wafer thin slices of boiled tongue or tongue is aspic cut in delicate slices and laid with equally thin slices of tomato salad and peppered between rounds of buttered bread.

Relishes for the Picnic Basket.

Among the tasty relishes for the picnic baskets are olives (opening the bottle and pouring off the liquor before packing), pickles, salted peanuts, radishes (not forgetting to put in the salt shaker), popcorn, young onions for those who are especially fond of them and tomatoes.

Sweets For Topping Off.

Among the sweets best for topping off the luncheon are currant tarts, carrying shells and jelly separately and putting together before serving; apple or berry turnovers, a glass of bar-le-duc or other jelly, chocolate and sponge cake, cookies and crullers, preserved ginger, crystallized fruits, and if there is to be a camp fire plenty of marshmallows for toasting.

Liquids.

As a large amount of liquid is awkward to carry, it is usually better to take a small bottle of something concentrated that may be dilnted with cold water when ready to serve the lunch. The juice of lemons may be squeezed out and made as sweet as desired; then bottled. Raspberry or cherry shrub is refreshing, allowing a couple of tablespoonfuls to each glass of cold water. Tea may be made quite strong, so as to bear reducing, carrying along lemons and block sugar to be added when serving. Grape juice is always appreciated. Ginger beer has its adherents, and a couple of bottles of claret add cheer and refreshment.

If coffee is carried it is better sweetened and "creamed" before starting, then poured in bottles with patent stoppers.

Fruits.

Anything from a watermelon down to strawberries unhulled with a little paper of powdered sugar to assist in their service goes well at a picnic. A few lemons should always be carried—a squeeze of lemon juice added to each cup of drinking water, making it not only more refreshing, but serving as a germicide in case there is anything out of the way with the water supply. In packing bananas, carry separately from the rest of the luncheon, as their heavy odor permeates everything laid near them.

Washington Pie.

Here is a simple rule for an old-fashioned cream cake, called in New England a "Washington pie":

Beat two eggs with a scant cup sugar, then add a cup and one-half flour, sifted several times over with a teaspoonful cream of tartar, a half teaspoonful soda and a pinch of salt.

Stir in gradually three tablespoonfuls cold water and a little lemon juice and bake in two layers

When cold, spread with a custard and serve.

INDUSTRIAL NEWS.

The average union scale of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes is said to be 23½ cents an hour, the average service day a fraction less than 10 hours and the average number of days worked a year is 300.

Indications are that at the St. Louis convention of the International Association of Machinists in September, James O'Connell, of Washington, D. C., will be elected president and George Preston, of the same place, general secretary-treasurer.

The indorsement of the project for a labor temple for Pittsburg by the Iron City Trades Council has resulted in subscriptions for stock from 15 new unions. There will be at least 50 organizations represented at the annual election of officers.

The Iron Trades Council of Pittsburg has decided to celebrate Labor Day this year by giving a picnic, instead of having a parade as in the past.

Electrical workers in the employ of the illuminating company of Cleveland have been granted an increase of 25 cents a day and some minor improvements in conditions.

The brass workers' conference at Birmingham, Eng., has asked trades unions to join in choosing an "old age pension day" on which national demonstrations could be held.

An expert who has been compiling data on strike declares that the greatest number of strikes occur in the building trades and that the second greatest number is in the textile trades.

The wage agreement with the United States Potters' Association expires October 1, but before this a conference representing both sides will probably be held at Philadelphia to agree upon a new list.

The establishment of a home for potters and the opening of an insurance feature in connection with the organization are among prominent features recommended by the executive committee.

The death benefit features of trade unions perhaps does not cut much of a figure in the statistics of economics, but investigation will develop that very considerable sums are devoted to this purpose.

The United Association of Plumbers, Gas Fitters and Steam Fitters of Chicago is urging a proposition to organize an association that shall build a home for the aged and infirm of the trade.

LAW POINTS.

The right to a mandamus to compel the governor to perform a merely ministerial duty is sustined in State ex rel. Irvine versus Brooks (Wyo.), 6 L. R. A. (N. S.) 750.

That a court of equity will not restrain a sale under power of sale contained in a mortgage because the statute of limitations has run against an action to foreclose it is declared in House versus Carr (N. Y.), 6 L. R. A. (N. S.), 510.

A contractor who fails to secure the architect's certificate of completion as required by his contract is held in Bush versus Jones (C. C. A. 3d C.), 6 L. R. A. (N. S.), 774, to be obliged in order to recover by showing a substantial completion of the building, satisfactorily to establish that the certificate was unreasonably withheld.

PROGRESS AND LABOR.

Peat artificially dried is being made into wood under heavy hydraulic pressure.

Germany is now building houses of sound proof blocks. These are made of a composition of gypsum sawdust and ashes.

Canada has begun to find quite an important market for maple sugar and maple syrup in Europe, where such sweets have been little known.

Re-inforced cement is now the favorite material with British builders of large chimneys. One already completed in London is 250 feet high, with a base twenty feet square, and a projected one at Northfleet will be 247 feet high and eight and a half feet in diameter, with a foundation eighteen feet square.

Spanish Country Girls.

Country girls in Spain seldom wear hats or bonnets of any kind. It was in Spain, by the way, that the custom of a bride wearing orange blossoms in her hair originated.

STORIES OF THE SECRET SERVICE

BY CAPTAIN PATRICK D. TYRRELL.

THE LINCOLN TOMB ROBBERS

Being an Account of the Attempted Desecration of the Grave of the Martyr President at Springfield in 1876, and the Capture and Conviction of a Gang of Counterfeiters That Preceded It.

By CAPTAIN PATRICK D. TYRRELL

(Copyright, 1905, by Marion G. Scheitlin.)

But the situation permitted the indulgence of no sentiment. The information given me by Swegles had in previous instances been accurate, and I had no reason even to surmise that he was playing me false in this case or that he had allowed himself to be gulled by Hughes and Mullen. Besides, my informant had given as one of the motives for the proposed crime the desire for the release of Ben Boyd, which I knew to be a consideration of the utmost importance to the men whose operations had been so abruptly curtailed by the plate cutter's incarceration.

The moment was one for action, even at the risk of finding later that the secret service had been led into unnecessary activity by misinformation. My informant had learned that certain St. Louis men, whose names he did not know, were parties to the plot. Previously a similar plot, emanating from the same sources, had been revealed to Chief of Police Wilkinson, of Springfield. In this plan James Kinealy had evidently been the promoter, and had decided to use the Lincoln counterfeiting contingent as his agents. Thomas J. Sharp, editor of the Statesman; Nathin L. Curtis, his assistant, and Vive G. Williams, a bartender of Lincoln, as the first step, opened a saloon in Springfield, which they made their counterfeiting headquarters as well as the place from which they could gather, without exciting suspicion, such information as they needed to aid them in their work of stealing the body of Lincoln.

From the facts that the sum of ransom money proposed in this plot and the later sum were the same and that the interests of all the men in both plots were closely allied, there was little doubt that one man had conceived the scheme to release Boyd, and there was also little doubt that the one man was James Kinealy. He was capable of concocting and trying to carry out such a plot.

The dream of the easy acquisition of $200,000 led the counterfeiters who had opened the saloon in Springfield into the lavish expenditure of money and dissipation. In one of these bouts Thomas Sharp confided to a woman of the town of Springfield that he expected soon to become one of the beneficiaries of the $200,000 ransom fund and intimated to her the plan by which the money was to be secured. This woman informed Chief Wilkinson of the drunken boasts of her admirer. Wilkinson immediately took steps to place additional guards over the Lincoln tomb and took such other precautions as indicated to the conspirators that their plan could not be carried out. It was in this first plot that the leaden casket containing the body of Lincoln was to be sunk in the Sangamon river till its hiding place should be revealed by Ben Boyd.

After coming into possession of the information concerning the second plot I sent Swegles back to Hughes to keep in touch with the movements of the conspirators as closely as possible. He succeeded so well in this that he was chosen to be one of the men to engage actively in the work, and the details of the plan were intrusted to him without reservation. He was to furnish the light spring wagon in which the casket was to be conveyed from Springfield. The plan to sink the casket in the Sangamon river, proposed in the first plot, had been abandoned, and instead the body was to be hauled swiftly from Springfield by relays of horses into the sand dunes of northern Indiana and buried. The conspirators calculated that the shifting of these dunes due to the action of the wind would soon obliterate all trace of wagon tracks and signs of burial and make a hiding place absolutely past the power of any man to find.

The ghouls were to keep track of the place of burial by taking measurements from some natural object, such as a tree, transmitting the key to the burial spot to Ben Boyd in Joliet. The negotiations for the return of the body, in exchange for his own release and the payment of $200,000 ransom, were to be conducted by Boyd on behalf of the counterfeiters. In order to render the opening of these negotiations the easier, the conspirators calculated, a plan would have to be devised by which the federal authorities could be easily convinced that Boyd could actually furnish the information concerning the location of the body—in short, they foresaw that Boyd would have to be in position to prove to the authorities that he had accurate knowledge of its whereabouts.

In order to overcome this obstacle it was decided that a copy of an English or some other foreign newspaper should be secured, a foreign paper being decided upon so that Boyd could convince the government representatives that the copy of the paper of which he had a part was not one that could have been obtained in any other way than the one claimed by him. This newspaper was to be torn into two pieces, in an irregular fashion. One piece was to be left in the Lincoln tomb, where it was certain to be found when the discovery of the loss of the body was made, and the other piece was to be sent to Boyd in prison.

THE FLARE OF A BULL'S-EYE LANTERN SHOT THROUGH THE BARS.

After the discovery of the work of the ghouls Boyd was to let it be known that he could solve the mystery and, to prove he told the truth, could produce the missing part of the foreign paper which, of course, would demonstrate to the authorities that the tomb robbers had sent Boyd the paper and with it the key to the location of the body.

In its details the plot was carefully worked out. So far had Swegles wormed himself into the confidence of the conspirators that on the night of the first of November they met in his room to complete the details of the plot. Five days later I learned that Tuesday, November 7, had been chosen as the night to commit the crime, this date being chosen on account of its being presidential election day, on the night of which, the criminals judged, the excitement incident to the receiving of the returns would serve to shield them from any attention they might attract under ordinary circumstances. Hughes, Mullen and Swegles were to open the tomb, extract the casket and load it into the waiting wagon. Swegles' part of the preliminaries was to secure the wagon and driver, which he assured his coconspirators had been done, and after the work at the tomb had been done he was to accompany the contractor furnishing the conveyance into Indiana. It had also been decided that the trio should go to Springfield on the night of November 6, in order to be able to make such preliminary surveys and arrangements as might be found necessary.

On the theory that, with the information in hand, there could be no difficulty in preventing the conspirators from carrying out their plan, there had been no dissent among the government employes as to the wisdom of going further and permitting the tomb robbers to progress far enough with their work to enable the law officers to capture the criminals redhanded. Robert T. Lincoln, son of the martyr president, and Leonard Swett had been kept fully informed of the conception and development of the plot and had agreed that the capture of the counterfeiters in their initial grave-robbing effort would be preferable merely to frightening them out of the attempt, a course that had been pursued in the instance of the plot of eight months before. At a conference at which Mr. Lincoln was present the services of Elmer Washburn, who had in the meantime been superseded in the chiefship of the secret service; John McDonald, who had assisted in the capture of Ben Boyd, and John McGinn and George Hay, Pinkerton men, were provided for to assist in the capture of the vandals. Owing to the importance of the case Allan Pinkerton had assigned his best two men.

Mr. Lincoln protested against the plot being allowed to proceed to the point where profane hands might actually be laid on his father's coffin, but Mr. Swett insisted that an overt act must be committed by them before the vandals could be successfully prosecuted, and our plans were not changed.

This conference was held in the afternoon, and at nine o'clock the evening of the same day Mullen, Hughes and Swegles swung aboard the front platform of the front coach of the Alton train just as it moved out of the Chicago station. McGinn, Hay and I boarded the last sleeper of the same train, after having satisfied ourselves by careful shadowing that the professional counterfeiters, now amateur tomb robbers, were aboard. Washburn and McDonald were to go to Springfield on the next train and arrive there at four o'clock on the afternoon of the day set for the robbery. We arrived at Springfield two hours late and registered at the St. Nicholas hotel under assumed names. We found that Mullen and Hughes, also under false names, had registered at the St. Charles hotel, a small house not far from the St. Nicholas. They had retired to gain rest before entering on their bold work and had left orders to be called at ten o'clock in the morning.

An hour before that time I received a call by appointment from John T. Stuart, of the Lincoln guard of honor, in whose office Abraham Lincoln had read law. We proceeded at once to the Lincoln monument, in Oak Ridge cemetery, where I was introduced to John C. Power, custodian of the Lincoln tomb, with whom I made a thorough examination and mental survey of the monument structure and surrounding grounds. A spot was selected at which one of the detectives could be stationed from which he could hear the robbers at work on the sarcophagus. Custodian Power was told that during the afternoon two men whose descriptions were given would appear at the tomb and that any questions asked by them should be answered with the customary courtesy accorded visitors to the monument.

It was about three o'clock in the afternoon that Hughes and Swegles appeared, paid the usual fee and entered false names in the visitors' register. Hughes asked many questions, which were fully and truthfully answered. Mullen, as we found later, had remained in the city to collect such tools as he thought necessary for forcing open the tomb and marble sarcophagus. At five o'clock Detective Hay was dispatched to the cemetery to inform Custodian Power that the other officers were coming, and two hours later, after a conference in the hotel where the work of each man had been assigned to him, we reached the monument.

The day had been dark, and at six o'clock all daylight had faded from the cemetery. Inside Memorial hall the darkness was intense. By those of my readers who have seen the burial place of Abraham Lincoln it will be remembered that Memorial hall is at the south end of the monument structure and the catacomb containing the body at the north end, 175 feet away. I had selected Memorial hall as the best hiding place for our men, Swegles having promised to inform us in our hiding place when the right moment was at hand for us to appear at the door of the catacomb and thereby entrap the ghouls at their work. Swegles was to work with Hughes and Mullen until the sarcophagus was opened and the casket ready to be loaded into the wagon. Then he was to go for the conveyance, which was supposed to be hidden near by. While on this mission he was to make his way around the base of the hill, come to the door of Memorial hall and give the signal that the time for action had come. That there might be no mistake in the darkness a countersign, the word "Wash," had been agreed upon.

We had been concealed in Memorial hall in almost breathless quiet for about two hours, when suddenly the flare of a bulls-eye lantern was shot through the bars of the iron door leading into the hall, and we knew that the conspiracy was rapidly being put into actual execution. From their hurried examination of the hall by the aid of the lantern the ghouls evidently satisfied themselves that no one was inside. At any rate, they departed in a moment and made around the base of the monument to the north end, where lay the body they were running such desperate risks to secure. We knew that the next few minutes would be fraught with events that might mean death to any of us. I now had more reason than ever before to believe in the truthfulness of Swegles and that he would keep his promise to signal us when the right time arrived. So we waited for this signal, and at last it came.

If this story were a fancy of my brain instead of a narrative of facts the current of it would here take a sudden turn from the lines I am compelled to pen. For more than a year I had plotted to outwit the shrewd and desperate criminals with whom we were dealing and, up to this point, had been successful. As soon as Swegles had given the signal we moved cautiously out of Memorial hall and I ordered the others to follow me.

At the giving of this order every man drew his revolver, to be prepared for the fight that we all believed inevitable. In doing so Detective Hay, of the Pinkerton force, accidentally discharged a percussion cap in the old-style Colt's revolver he carried. As the detonation was not loud I paid little attention to it, and ran swiftly around to the door of the catacomb, with the others behind me. The staple containing the lock of the iron door had been sawed and filed off, and the door stood a few inches ajar.

I called on whomsoever was within to surrender. There was no response. I called again and then listened. Not even the sound of breathing was audible. I then struck a match. The tools used by the ghouls lay scattered over the floor and the sarcophagus was battered to pieces in such a way as to allow the casket to be moved lengthwise toward the door. The vandals had fled.

There is but one word that adequately describes the sensation that came over me, and that is "cheapness." After weeks of careful planning to catch red-handed the men whose criminality had taken on so depraved a turn that they would resort to the theft of the body of the most beloved American, we found that they had outwitted us. As quickly as I could recover my presence of mind after the shock of surprise over finding the catacomb empty except for the desecrated sarcophagus, I ordered my assistants to separate and scour the shrubbery surrounding for the ghouls.

Going back, it occurred to me that the ghouls might have sought concealment on the upper parts of the structure. In the shadow I saw the figures of two men whom I could not discern clearly enough to identify them. It never occurred to me that they might be other than Hughes and Mullen, and I called out for the men below to come up. I fired at them, and they returned the fire, running at the same time to the northeast corner of the terrace. I fired again and again. The shot was answered, the bullets whistling past my head. Then one of the men shouted:

"Tyrrell, is that you?"

I made no answer, believing that one of the men was Hughes and knowing he would recognize my voice. Again the excited question was asked, and I still kept silent. It took but a moment, however, for the pursued men to make themselves known as McGinn and Hay, the Pinkerton men, who had mounted the steps in the hope of finding the ghouls hidden there.

Thus for a time was the most serious and dastardly plot ever devised turned into a farce. Our prey had escaped, and in order to justify ourselves against the ridicule that would be heaped on us when the events of the night became known I immediately took up the trail of Hughes and Mullen. After finding they had breakfasted at a farmhouse about seven miles from Springfield the next morning, they were again lost to us. There could now be no rest till the men were run to earth. Ten days later they were located in the saloon at 294 West Madison street and arrested by Detectives Simmons, of the Chicago city force; McGinn, of the Pinkertons, and Elmer Washburn and myself, of the secret service.

They were taken to Springfield, indicted and tried on the charges of robbery and larceny, there being no specific statute at that time against grave robbing, and sent to the penitentiary for a year. Their counsel, in the trial of the case at Springfield, raised the cry that the secret service had "put up a job" on his clients in order to get them out of the way for counterfeiting operations, but the absurdity of that defense was too apparent to save the counterfeiters from prison.

This is the true record of a plot that failed. It is not known to this day why Hughes and Mullen left the tomb after Swegles went after the team he was supposed to have, but which, in fact, did not exist. One theory is that they heard the detonation of Hay's revolver and fled. Another is that they left the tomb to meet Swegles and the driver, and instead saw the officers rushing on them. Whatever may be the correct theory, their escape from the tomb before we reached it was merely one of the innumerable breaks in the plans of all detectives—except in story books.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

Professor Fritz Knorr, of the Colorado Agricultural College, has found tobacco growing wild in the Montezuma valley of that State. He believes that tobacco was raised years ago by the cliff-dwellers in that part of the country.

The date of the dedication of the McKinley monument at Buffalo has been set for September 5.

George H. Worthington, of Cleveland, O., has a stamp collection that experts value at $300,000. It is said to be the finest in the United States.

The Fifth Avenue Baptist church at New York, Mr. Rockefeller's church, is not nearly large enough to hold the people who desire to hear the new pastor.

General and Mrs. Leonard A. Wood will pass the Summer on Cape Cod.

The Bible which King Edward is to present to Bruton church, at Williamsburg, Va., on the occasion of its consecration on October 10 next, was sent recently to Ambassador Bryce at Washington, who will forward it to the church officials.

One of the most valuable relics of the great hunter, Daniel Boone, is his powder horn, which is now in the possession of Charles G. Shanks, a resident of Claysville, Ind.

Prof. Henry Van Dyke left Princeton recently for his summer cottage in Keene Valley, in the Adirondacks, and his usual summer campaign on the mountain tops and along the streams. Professor Van Dyke is said to be strongly opposed to President Wilson's plan of transforming Princeton University into a collection of "residential squads."

Mrs. John Driscoll, of 217 Grant avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Several years ago I made a statement for publication regarding the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills, and said statement still holds good in every particular. If I were to make a single change in it, it would only be to make it stronger, for during the past few years I have known many people to use Doan's Kidney Pills, and have yet to hear of a case in which the remedy failed to do the work it is claimed to do. My own case was a dull aching pain in the small of the back and in the sides. It clung to me incessantly and hard work seemed to increase it. I was subject also to hard backaches, and spells of dizziness when stooping. I was generally weak and depressed. I tried plasters and used many different remedies without finding relief, and being finally led to get a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's pharmacy, began using the remedy, finding, at length, the relief I have described in the testimonial I gave for publication in 1898."

WILL REFUSE RENOMINATION

lick and Montgomery are councilmen-at-large. It is generally considered that only one councilman-at-large should come from a single ward and hence there is a strong movement for Mr. Mellick's renomination. It is not reported that he will accept but every influence will be brought to bear to get him to do so. He has been a most valuable man in the councilmanic chamber and every energy will be bent to have him consent to take another term.

If Mr. Daniel should decline absolutely to run again in the third, someone living west of Plainfield avenue will be urged to accept. Duncan W. Taylor is most prominently mentioned. He is a member of the county committee and is affiliated with the New Idea, but he has a host of friends among the regulars. Townsend Rushmore, R. H. McCutcheon and W. T. Kirk also have many friends who would like to see them in the Council.

Should Mr. Mellick refuse to take another term, it has been suggested that Depew, Hall, Iremonger, Butler or Erickson would be satisfactory to all factions for councilman-at-large.

One of the leaders said today that as a councilman-at-large should come from the Third ward there is a possibility of Roger F. Murray, Dr. F. C. Ard, Joseph Shellabarger, L. E. Waring, William C. Kinney, Percy H. Stewart, W. M. Wherry or Henry C. Irons being named. They are all good men and any one of the eight would be a credit to the city.

A. D. Edgar has been boomed in the First ward in the event of William L. Gloak's refusal to run again. Charles S. Sminck also has some friends who would favor his nomination.

In the Fourth ward, there has been talk of Joseph L. Moore and R. O. Cumback. Winfield S. Angleman would make a crack-a-jack man for the place but it is not likely that he could be prevailed upon to give up the required time to the duties.

The Cottonwood Tree.

The cottonwood tree endures great extremes of temperature and when the roots can reach a good supply of moisture it successfully withstands several droughts. It is a fast growing tree and demands plenty of light. On irrigated lands cottonwoods have been known to attain a diameter of fourteen inches in eight years.

A Running Regiment.

The Bersaglieri are the men of Italy's crack regiment. They never walk, but are trained to run instead, and their appearance at a review always creates the wildest enthusiasm among the people, who think that there is no other regiment in the world that could accomplish such feats. And perhaps they are right.

PLANS FOR THE SILVER SERVICE PRESENTATION

NEW JERSEY COMMISSION ANNOUNCES PREPARATIONS ARE COMPLETE.

The commission having in charge the presentation of the silver service to the battleship New Jersey met in the Governor's office at Trenton yesterday and completed arrangements for the event, which is to take place at 3 o'clock next Wednesday afternoon. The members present were Adjutant-General Breintnall, President Minch, of the Senate, and Speaker Lethbridge, of the House, the absentees being Governor Stokes and Secretary of State Dickinson. Secretary Edward W. Gray, of the commission, and Dr. C. E. Godfrey, of the adjutant-general's office, were also present.

Dr. Godfrey called upon Captain Kimball, of the New Jersey, yesterday and presented a detailed report to the commission. The New Jersey will be lying in the North River, at the foot of Ninety-sixth street, New York, Wednesday afternoon. Guests will be expected to assemble at St. Mary's slip, between Ninety-fifth and Ninety-sixth streets, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. They will be taken aboard the battleship on cutters, so that all may be assembled before 3 o'clock, when the Governor and his personal and general staff will go aboard.

Prior to doing so the staff will meet at a hotel and don full dress uniform. Upon coming aboard the Governor and his staff will be received by Captain Kimball and his staff, and, after a proper exchange of courtesies, Governor Stokes will formally present the silver service, which will be accepted by Captain Kimball. Following this the guests will be invited to inspect the ship, when the affair will be at an end.

Invitations will be issued to the former members of the silver service commission, to military and naval officers and to a limited number of State officials. Owing to the fact that the battleship will depart immediately from New York, the invitation list will be closely restricted. The committee has notified guests that the only approach to St. Mary's slip is down Ninty-sixth street. This may be reached either by the Ninth avenue elevated or the Subway.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union of New Jersey has prepared 1,000 "ditty" bags, and was anxious to present them to the crew of the New Jersey at the same time as the silver service. Captain Kimball, however, thought that this would be overcrowding the ship, and Tuesday afternoon was fixed for "ditty" bag presentation.

MAYOR FAGAN RATHER THAN "GOV." SOMMER.

"New Ideaites" Fear Sheriff's Candidacy for Governor Would Harm Mayor.

About a dozen admirers of Mayor Mark M. Fagan, who are desirous of seeing him re-elected Mayor of Jersey City, had a conference in that city Thursday night at which it was resolved that the indorsement of Sheriff Frank H. Sommer as the Gubernatorial candidate of the Republican League for Equal Taxation and Limited Franchises might prove a handicap to Fagan in the ensuing contest.

It was said that the reason advanced was that many of the voters of Jersey City were imbued with the idea that Mr. Sommer was Puritanical in his ideas, and that his election as Governor might interfere with their way of thinking how the affairs of a community should be conducted. It was plainly intimated by the Fagan men that Sommer ought to withdraw, so that the "new idea" men could insist upon Senator Everett Colby being put forward as a candidate, but Mr. Sommer has not withdrawn. He stands pat.

George L. Record told the conferees that the reelection of Mayor Fagan was the paramount issue with the "new idea" wing of the Republican party in Jersey City, and they could not stand for any candidate whose indorsement as such might interefere with the Mayor's chances.

LAKE HOPATCONG DAYS

Many Plainfielders Enjoying Summer Season at the Favorite Resort.

REGATTA ON SATURDAY

Carl Steiner Second In Swimming Contest—Stryker Hoagland in the Canoe Race.

New Jersey's largest and prettiest water sheet, Lake Hopatcong, is enjoying the greatest season in its history this year and Plainfield is contributing a good-sized share of the summer visitors. Local residents have found in the resort an ideal place to spend a vacation and they are to be seen all about the sixty miles of shore line, either in hotels and cottages or in temporary camps. On Sundays, when the New Jersey Central conducts its popular excursions, it is not an unusual thing for 200 people from this city to leave the train at Nolan's Point.

Freeholder and Mrs. S. P. T. Wilbur have been occupying their cottage on the mainland all summer and it is seldom without Plainfield guests. Clarence Teel has been enjoying "Sam's" hospitality since last Thursday and "Tom" Hanna and David J. Carney were recent visitors. Mr. and Mrs. E. Arthur Janke also have a cottage along the shore front and are known about the lake as being among the most expert and enthusiastic motor boat operators at the resort. Another popular Plainfield cottage is located on Halsey island and is occupied by Floyd D. Woodhull and family, pioneer summer residents at Hopatcong. Roy Woodhull is captain of the "Gladys," one of the Black Line steamers plying the lake.

Among the camps, the largest from a Plainfield standpoint is "Ram's Horn," located on Halsey island and conducted by "Jack" Hall and Tom DeMeza. The regulars there the past week beside these two were Morris Fairhurst, of Paterson; Edward Baker, Thomas M. Muir, Alfred Osmun, John Duckworth and Harvey Morrison, all of Plainfield, the last three returning home today. Their places will be taken by other local young men for a week or two weeks' stay. Visitors at the camp yesterday were Mrs. Edward Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Baker, Miss Elizabeth Winn, Miss Mary Jahn, Miss Julia Downing, William McCullough, Charles Hillier and Bertram C. Firstbrook.

A short distance from "Ram's Horn" on Halsey island is "Camp Walton," named after the renowned Izaak, of fishing fame. In it are Frank and Dudley Wilcox, of Watchung avenue; John Schofield, of Carlton avenue, and Carl Strong, of Belvidere avenue. They live up to the memory of Walton and without question are the most successful fishermen who cast lines in the coves where the perch, pickerel and bass have their hiding places.

Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Kuhns, of Sandford avenue, are camped on the mainland near Pospect point and are always entertaining friends. Mrs. Tighlman Kuhns was a guest this week.

"Camp Umptarara" is the somewhat peculiar name adopted by Stryker Hoagland and Carl Steiner, of the borough, who are leading the simple life beneath canvas at Nolan's point. Mr. Steiner's father, Charles Steiner, of Jackson avenue, was with them from Thursday until yesterday and had "the time of his life." It was his first vacation in twenty years and he had such a splendid time he declares he will spend all next summer at the lake.

The Lake Hopatcong Yacht Club held its annual regatta Saturday and the "Umptarara" boys were entered in several events. Carl Steiner won second prize, a handsome silver fob, in a seventy-five yard swimming contest and really was entitled to first. The winner got a big start on the other nine competitors by diving from the stake boat before the word was fully out of the mouth of the referee. Hoagland and a partner from Paterson were fifth in a half-mile canoe race, doubles, against a field of ten. Hoagland was also in a canoe race tilting contest but was bested in two attempts. He "died" hard, however, and left one opponent with a bleeding nose and the other with a handsomely decorated eye. He, himself, escaped without a bruise.

Anne Eliza Williams.

After an illness of several weeks, Mrs. Anne Eliza Williams died Saturday at the home of her nephew, John Dunham, 208 East Fourth street. She as 75 years of age. The funeral will be from the home of her nephew tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock and there will be a special service at Mount Olive Baptist church at 2 o'clock.

STANDS HIGH AMONG WEST POINT GRADUATES

ROGERS GRADUATED 3D IN CLASS OF 111 AND GETS GOOD ASSIGNMENT.

The assignments to corps, regiments and other organizations of the second lieutenants who were graduated from West Point in June, have been given out. Eight were sent to the engineer corps, six to the field artillery, eighteen to the coast artillery, twenty-six to the cavalry and fifty-two to the infantry. Among the eighteen assigned to the coast artillery, Lieut. N. P. Rogers, Jr., of this city, stands fifth in lineal order, and inasmuch as he was number thirteen in a class of 111, he is considered to have made a good start in his military career.

The artillery corps is an exclusive branch of the service and in a class by itself. In general orders No. 57, of the War Department, March 20, 1907, for appointment to the coast artillery corps provides that all candidates whether from the army or civil life, who do not successfully pass the examination for the coast artillery, but who successfully pass the examination for cavalry, field artillery and infantry will be arranged in the general merit list of their respective classes, according to the standing in the subjects prescribed for the examination for these arms of the service and will be eligible for appointment therein. First Lieutenant Cortlandt Parker has been assigned to the Sixth Field Artillery and will take station at Fort Riley.

PERKINS AND SMITH DISCUSSED SITUATION

BUT "BIG GUNS" WERE ABSENT FROM G. O. P. OUTING.

Politics was the least thing that concerned the Union County Republicans on their annual outing to Witzel's Grove, L. I., Saturday, one day being given up almost entirely to pleasure. There was a notable absence of the "big guns," such as United States Senator Charles Kean, Congressman Charles N. Fowler, but there were a number of lesser lights there to make it interesting. There were no State politics aboard, but those from the county turned out in large numbers. It was said by the leaders that there was less political gossip than at any previous outing held. Not a single boom was started.

During the sail from Elizabethport to Witzel's Grove, Assemblyman Randolph Perkins was closeted with County Chairman F. H. Smith and they held a long conference. Afterward, the Assemblyman said that while he recognized the opposition to him from the local option forces he had not seen anything thus far that would warrant him from changing his mind as to seeking a renomination. He had received assurances from many friends throughout the county of their support.

In discussing the Gubernatorial situation, it was conceded that Judge Fort and Judge Mahlon Pitney are the strongest candidates today. Charles N. Codding spoke strongly in favor of Chandler Riker, but he appeared to be alone.

It was about two o'clock when the boat reached Witzel's Grove, and after dinner, the afternoon was spent in playing various games and taking it easy. Three innings of a baseball game were played, Assemblyman John R. Moxon pitching for one side, against Edward Bauer, who was on the opposing team. The Assemblyman was knocked out of the box and everybody forgot to keep score.

Funeral Charles S. Cullinan.

The funeral service of Charles Slorah Cullinan, the eighteen months old son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Cullinan, of 308 Prescott place, were held from the home of the parents yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. In the absence of Rev. L. R. Howard, the services were conducted by Rev. E. E. Roberson, of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church. There was a large display of floral tributes. The burial was in Hillside cemetery.

Switch Tower Open.

The new switch tower recently completed at the East End of the city by the New Jersey Central, was put into use for the first time yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, and the entire equipment was found to be working in perfect order. Frank Naylor was put in charge. Michael Griffin is the night operator. The only officials present at the opening of the tower were the superintendent of signals and Trainmaster A. D. Edgar.

New State Chairman.

Robert Hudspeth, of Hudson county, on Saturday accepted the chairmanship of the State Democratic Committee.

MUMMERS COME AGAIN

New Plainfield Theatre Opens for its Third Season Successfully.

PRETTY DECORATIONS

Interior Presents a Harmony In Restful Tints—Attractive Bookings for Early Dates.

The third season of the New Plainfield theatre opened Saturday, and it is scarcely necessary to say the opening was successful. Manager William Counihan has demonstrated that he makes everything he touches successful, and anything but a success was hardly to be expected. The beautiful house was well filled at both matinee and evening performances, and the offering, "The Vanderbilt Cup," was enjoyed as much as at its first appearance here last season.

The company was a thoroughly capable one, and did full justice to all the situations. The humor "went" as crisply as when the play first appeared on Broadway; there was even a quip or two that Broadway didn't hear. The audience lacked the "society" atmosphere, because everybody in the "set" is out of town, constructively, if not actually.

There were many comments on the handsome decorations that have made the house one of the prettiest in the show world. The interior is spick and span, and in perfect harmony at every point. The pink and green tones present a restful ensemble, and the new curtains, handsome themselves, blended well with their surroundings.

The house has been redressed downstairs, as well as upstairs. The dressing rooms have been newly carpeted and brightened, and all parts of the structure are more attractive.

The theatre staff has been changed but little. Charles M. Suhr will be the orchestra leader, as last year, and the threatregoers are assured of good music, under competent direction. The orchestra played unusually well Saturday. The ushers have a new chief, William Hoffman. Nelson Peterson, Hugh Gray and Elmer Hoffman are in charge of the seats on the orchestra floor and the balcony. The only important change in the mechanical department is the accession of Leonard Daubner to charge of the properties.

A most attractive list of plays has been prepared for the first months of the season. Some of the early bookings include: "The College Widow," which will be here on Wednesday; the new Shubert play, with Richard Golden in "The Other House," on Thursday; Amelia Bingham, in a new play, "George Washington, Jr.;" Marie Cahill, in "Marrying Mary;" Hap Ward, who was so successful here last season, in "NotYet, But Soon;" "The Red Mill;" De Wolf Hopper in "Happyland;" "The Gingerbread Man;" "Simple Simon Simple;" the Grace Cameron Opera Company in "Little Dolly Dimple;" Mary Mannering, in "Glorious Betsy;" "Salomy Jane;" "Fascinating Flora;" "Three of Us;" "Coming Thro' the Rye;" "Road to Yesterday;" Williams and Walker; John Drew; Elsie Janis and Lula Glaser. All these will appear here before the holidays. A rich promise, truly.

Manager Counihan's new house, the Majestic, at Perth Amboy, will open on September 20, with Michael Shannon, who has been assisting Mr. Counihan here, in charge. The opening attraction will be "The Belle of Mayfair." Leonce Texier, who is assistant treasurer at the New Plainfield, will go with Mr. Shannon to the Majestic as treasurer.

Manager Counihan will be a very busy man this season. All the bookings for Perth Amboy will be made from here, and he is interested in road attractions for which he will book. Still, waste no sympathy on W. Counihan. He has the hustle bug, and grows a crop of em-bon point on work.

MRS. MARY L. VAIL DIES, LIFE-LONG RESIDENT HERE.

Last April she had a severe paralytic stroke and never entirely recovered. She was eighty years of age and had been a life-long resident of this city.

CONVENTION AT ALFRED

Fully 100 From Here Will Attend Seventh-day Baptists' Annual Session.

UNIVERSITY REUNIONS

Mrs. J. R. Truell a Graduate of 1867, to Be Present—Conference at Nile, N. Y.

Elaborate arrangements are being made for the general Conference of the Seventh-Day Baptist church to be held at Alfred, N. Y., August 21-26, when delegates from all parts of the country, including at least a hundred from this city and New Market, will attend. The conference is similar to the one held here a few years ago, and it will bring together all of the important heads of the various departments of the denomination.

Prior to the general conference, but in connection with it, a convocation of the ministers of the denomination wil be held this week at Nile, N. Y. Among those who will attend are Rev. George B. Shaw, of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, and Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, editor of The Sabbath Recorder. This conference was only inaugurated a few years ago and is intended as a time when the various pastors can get together and discuss different phases of church work. It also affords an opportunity for the pastors to prepare and decide upon any measures they wish to bring before the general conference looking toward an advancement of the denominational interests.

An event of more than ordinary interest at the time of the general conference will be a reunion of many of the older classes graduated from Alfred University. Among the classes arranging for a reunion is the one of 1867. Mrs. J. R. Truell, of this city, was graduated from the university in that class and she proposes to attend the reunion. As far as she is able to learn there are about twelve other members of the class living.

In the later classes there are a large number of graduates residing here and a concerted effort is being made to secure as large an attendance as possible for the reunions to be held during conference week. Special programs are being prepared and altogether the affair promises to be one of the most important in the history of the denomination.

PATRICK KANE DIES SUDDENLY FROM DYSENTERY

WELL KNOWN CONTRACTOR SUCCUMBS WHILE VISITING AT SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Succumbing to an acute attack of dysentery while visiting a friends at South Plainfield, yesterday, death came suddenly to Patrick Kane, the well known local contractor. Mr. Kane had been suffering from an attack of dysentery for two weeks past. Saturday he felt sufficiently recovered to make the trip to South Plainfield, where he planned to spend Sunday with a friend.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Kane was overcome by a severe attack of dysentery. A physician was summoned from Metuchen and everything possible was done for the sick man, but to no avail. Death came in about two hours. His brother, Alexander Kane, was informed of the fatal attack and the body was brought to this city.

Mr. Kane was well known here as a contractor. He was forty-three years of age and was born in Ireland. He lived at 417 Cottage place. His wife died about seven months ago and three young children, two boys and a girl, survive.

The funeral will be from the home of his brother, Alex. Kane, 312 Fillmore avenue, tomorrow morning at 8:15 and requiem mass will be said in St. Mary's at 9 o'clock. The interment will follow in St. Mary's cemetery.

Advocated Local Option.

Rev. E. H. Curtis, of Newark, who is agitating local option throughout the State, made an address at the Scotch Plains Baptist church yesterday. Rev. T. Moore-Smith, the pastor, referred to local conditions, and said a good word for that cause.

Held For Grand Jury.

On a charge preferred by William Steel, a youth, Thomas Ryan, 23 years old, a laborer, of 1047 West Front street, was held without bail for the grand jury by City Judge Runyon this morning. He acknowledged his guilt.

Mike Readington Again.

Michael Readington, 37 years old, an old offender, was fined $5 or 20 days in jail by Judge Runyon in the city court this morning.

MR. TILLMAN WON'T RUN

Rahway Man, 'tis said, Will Not be a Candidate for Assembly Nomination.

MR. DANIEL BOOMED

Plainfield Councilman and a Former County Clerk Both Mentioned For Nominations.

Assemblyman Peter Tillman, of Rahway, will not be a candidate for renomination. That statement is made on the authority of some on the inside of the Republican leaders' camp, but Mr. Tillman, himself, is silent on the subject. It is said that he will make formal announcement when the proper time comes, and in the meanwhile the leaders will cast around for another to take his place. The Rahway man has already served three terms and believes that the office should go to some other man.

It developed at the annual outing at Witzel's Grove, L. I., on Saturday, that Assemblyman Randolph Perkins had not changed his decision to again come before the voters for a renomination and election. Deputy Clerk of the Supreme Court Charles N. Codding, of Westfield, was on hand on Saturday to say a good word for Mr. Perkins but it is reported that he found very little Perkins' sentiment. The Westfielder has served three trms and there appears to be a strong feeling in favor of his retirement.

As Assemblyman John R. Moxon, of Elizabeth, has survived but one term, it is reported on good authority that his renomination is almost certain, despite the fact that he voted for the re-election of John F. Dryden to the United States Senatorship. Moxon has a host of friends in Elizabeth as well as throughout the county and it is doubtful if anyone will oppose his candidacy.

There has been considerable talk of nominating Councilman Leslie Daniel, of this city, in place of either Perkins or Tillman. Mr. Daniel is a resident of the Third ward and is a New York lawyer. He was formerly president of the Plainfield Common Council and is now chairman of the finance committee of that body. It is not known whether he would accept but it is stated that there would be no opposition if he could be pursuaded to allow his name to go before the convention.

Former County Clerk William Howard, of Rahway, is also mentioned, in place of Mr. Tillman. He has a big fellowing and is a thorough organization man.

MRS. SIMS CELEBRATES HER NINETIETH BIRTHDAY.

Regularly Attends Church Service Despite Her Advanced Age.

Mrs. Mahala Sims, one of the oldest residents of this city, is today celebrating the ninetieth anniversary of her birthday. While there were no pre-arranged plans for the event, a number of friends and neighbors have taken occasion to call and extend their best wishes and congratulate Mrs. Sims upon attaining such an advanced age. Her faculties are unimpaired, and barring a slightly defective vision, she enjoys excellent health.

The event is of double significance because it was seventy-three years ago this month that Mrs. Sims united with the First Baptist church, and besides being the oldest member, she has been an exceptionally regular attendant and faithful member. Her absence from the services is a rare thing, for when she has been unable to walk because of bad weather some thoughtful friend or neighbor has sent a carriage for her.

Mrs. Sims is a native of Plainfield and has always lived here. When a young girl she became a member of the family of the late Manning Stelle, and remained with that family until Mr. Stelle's death several years ago. For a number of years she has made her home with Mr. and Mrs. Theodore I. Runyon, of Putnam avenue.

Five Dogs Shot.

Their term of imprisonment expired, five borough dogs which were brought to the North Plainfield pound last week, were shot this afternoon by Chief Marshal Weiss because no owners came to redeem them.

Edward Bergen, 37 years old, a driver, arrested for drunkenness Saturday, was fined $3 or ten days in jail by Judge Runyon this morning.

FELL IN MOLTEN METAL AND SERIOUSLY HURT

NATHAN WARDNER WILL RECOVER FROM A BAD ACCIDENT.

Nathan Wardner, of West Eighth street, who was so seriously burned at the Potter Press Works, where he is employed, is convalescing slowly, although not able to leave the house yet. Mr. Wardner, together with a fellow-employe, was carrying a large ladel of hot metal for a casting to be made in the foundry, when in turning a sharp angle, Mr. Wardner slipped. He lost his hold on his end of the ladel and was pitched head first into the hot metal which upset and was running about the floor.

One side of the face was frightfully scalded and all of the hair burned off that side of the head. His hands, arms and legs were also scalded more or less. Fellow-workmen about the place at the time believed that the man would be burned to death before he could be rescued.

He did not lose consciousness, however, and in a few minutes he regained his feet. Although he suffered intense pain he went to the wash room, cleaned his hands and face and rode his wheel home before the ambulance reached the press works. He refused to go to the hospital. A physician was summoned to the house and Mr. Wardner has been confined to his bed ever since. His escape from instant death was considered miraculous.

JUMPED FROM TROLLEY RATHER THAN WALK BACK

HORACE GOLDSTEIN SEVERELY INJURED ON WATCHUNG AVENUE LAST NIGHT.

Rather than be carried a block beyond his home, Horace Goldstein, who lives at 232 East Fourth street, jumped from a rapidly moving main line trolley car on Watchung avenue last evening and is today confined to his home with a choice collection of bruises and abrasions as a result of landing heavily on his back. The accident happened near East Fourth street at shortly after 9 o'clock last evening.

Goldstein, who had been to Westfield, was returning home on the trolley. The car was crowded, and he could not attract the conductor's attention to have the car stopped at the East Fourth stree corner. He pushed his way to the platform and jumped off, while the car was going at full speed, without giving any signal to the conductor. The passengers saw him fall heavily, striking on his back and head. The car was stopped and several rushed to his assistance. He was picked up and carried to the sidewalk, where it was found that he was stunned by the fall. Doctors Carman and Hedges were summoned, and Goldstein was carried to a nearby house. An examination showed several painful bumps and scratches, but no broken bones. Goldstein, who is past fifty years of age, is suffering greatly from the shock, but his condition is not dangerous.

The accident attracted a crowd of several hundred people, and it was for a long time believed that the old man's injuries were of a fatal nature.

MR and MRS. C. BRANTINGHAM WEDDED TWENTY-FIVE YEARS

Anniversary Appropriately Celebrated at Their Home in South Plainfield Saturday.

Celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brantingham entertained a number of their friends and relatives at their home on Lehigh avenue, South Plainfield, Saturday afternoon. Guests to the number of nearly two score came from New Brunswick, Brooklyn, and Jersey City to tender their congratulations.

A collation was served at the house in honor of the occasion and on the table was a mammoth wedding cake, marked "1882" and "1907." Mr. and Mrs. Brantingham have one daughter, Mrs. Harry Klinger, of Jersey City. The couple were married by the late Rev. T. A. Armstrong, when he was pastor of the South Plainfield Baptist church.

Tenant Must Vacate.

In the action brought by Henry Eggerding against William Jeroloman for rent due him, Justice Snape ruled in favor of the landlord in the borough court this morning. Jeroloman has been ordered to vacate the premises by Saturday.

Rector a Weekly Commuter.

Rev. George A. Warner, of the Church of the Holy Cross, is spending the month at Shelter Island, coming to Plainfield on Sunday for the regular services. Mrs. Warner is also at Shelter Island.

SAUNDERS FOR MAYOR

He May be Induced to Run on Consolidation and Joint Sewer Platform.

LEE AS HIS OPPONENT

Councilman, It Is Said, Would Get Republican Nomination—Townsend and Arnold Mentioned.

Provided he can be induced to run, it is said that there is a strong probability that the Democrats of North Plainfield will nominate former Mayor William L. Saunders for mayor to succeed Newton B. Smalley, Republican, who has held the office for ten years. The platform upon which it is planned to conduct his campaign includes consolidation with annexation and joint use of the Plainfield sewer system, both of which propositions meet with the hearty approval of the borough's most distinguished Democrat.

Mr. Saunders is the father of the consolidation and annexation movement and it is believed that the strength he would draw from the Republican ranks on such a platform would insure a victory for the Democrats and would bring about this much advocated scheme of merger with Plainfield. The Bi-municipal Consolidation commission, it will be recalled, reported recently to both governing bodies that as a result of its searching investigation consolidation with annexation would be a great improvement on present conditions. Among the membership of the commission were some who originally opposed consolidation, notably Charles W. McCutchen, the largest property owner in North Plainfield and one of the borough's most prominent men.

The North Plainfield Sewage Disposal Commission, among whose membership were also prominent men originally opposed to consolidation, reported recently that the best solution of the sewerage problem in the borough would be an agreement with Plainfield for joint use of its plant. Neither of these problems are partisan questions, but it is well known that Mayor Smalley and his political friends generally oppose both schemes.

Mayor Smalley is strongly opposed to consolidation although he heartily favors annexation. He is also against the scheme for a joint use of the Plainfield sewer disposal disposal plant, desiring an independent system in the borough. This position on his part has given rise to talk favoring the nomination of Councilman Charless L. Lee as the Republican candidate. Mr. Lee is said to share Mayor Smalley's views on both subjects.

Another prominent Democrat whose name is freely mentioned in Democratic quarters in connection with the nomination is Samuel W. Townsend. Mr. Townsend, it is said, would run a better chance than Mr. Saunders, in getting the nomination from the party, buit it is said that he could not command as much Republican support. A Democratic leader said today that either one would defeat Councilman Lee, or Councilman James K. Arnold whose name is mentioned for the Republican nomination, at least three to one. Mr. Arnold has much strength in the organization and it is said that he would accept a nomination.

When Mr. Saunders was asked today regarding his attitude on the mayoralty, he said:

"If I felt sure that I could bring about the abandonment of the office of mayor of North Plainfield and the union of our borough with Plainfield I would consent to run. But I am not sure that that end would be attained, although I feel sanguine that consolidation with annexation would win by a large majority if put to a vote of our people. I am not in a position to afford the proper time to the duties of the office but, as I say, if the union could be brought about in such a way I would gladly do anything in my power to that end."

Mr. Saunders admitted that he had been approached on the subject several times during the last few weeks.

Mary Watson Hollister.

Death came to Miss Mary Watson Hollister Ruthven, yesterday at the home of niece, Mrs. John Lefferts Ludlum, of East Front street. Mrs. Ruthven was the widow of the late John Ruthven, of New York city. She was ninety-four years of age and had been living in Plainfield but a short time. Funeral services will be held at her niece's home tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood cemetery Wednesday morning. There will be a commital service at the grave.

Plainfield Lodge, No. 297, Jr. O. U. A. M., will receive several propositions for membership at its meeting tonight.

Socrates' Little Joke.

Socrates had his joke. It was his custom to foregather now and then with a convivial circle of philosophers, geometers and others. On such occasions at the stroke of 2 a. m. he would rise (it is reported of him that he always could rise) and address the chair.

"Mr. President," he would say, "I move you that this circle now go home and square itself."

And his credit was such and people were so used to taking him seriously that it came to be believed that the squaring of the circle was an impossible thing.—Puck.

Autographs and Holographs.

"An autograph," said an antiquary, "is worth nothing, while a holograph may be worth $1,000 or more. An autograph of a man is his simple signature. His holograph is one of his signed letters, and its value depends on its interest. Some men are such fools that they think autographs valuable and holographs worthless. I know a man who found in his grandfather's chest a lot of important letters of Franklin, Washington, Aaron Burr, Hamilton, Andre and Jefferson. He read these letters; then he burned them, first cutting out the signatures. For the signatures he got 50 cents apiece or thereabouts. For the letters in their entirety he would have got from $100 to $500 apiece. By this loss of about $24,000 the man learned the difference between an autograph and a holograph."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

—Miss Naomi Staats, of the local telephone office, has gone west, where she will visit relatives for several weeks. She will be accompanied by her mother.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

In the team match between the Park Golf Club and the Middlebrook Country Club at Bound Brook, Willet Gano, of the latter club, made a new eighteen hole record with two 39's. This is the best score at match play.

The friends of Robert Abbott are disappointed in that he has failed to make a better showing in outside tournaments this season, and they can hardly account for it. When playing on the local course he has no trouble in turning in a low score, but on other links he seems to fail to get even among the lowest scores. The intercollegiate golf championship which he won last year, has since been taken by another collegian and Abbott appears to be out of the running for honors.

Visiting golfers who have played over the course at the Plainfield Country Club this season, speak in high praise of it. Not only the greens, but the course itself offers exceptional opportunities for good work, and it is believed that when some of the club's best players return in the fall the course record will be broken.

The weekly dinner-dances will be resumed at the Plainfield Country Club on Saturday afternoon and continued every Saturday until October 1.

After an absence of several weeks from the Plainfield Country Club course, Dudley H. Barrows was again seen there on Saturday. While his score of 81 was not especially low, it was good enough to give him points for the Golf committee cup, which he had to divide with Howard G. Lapsley.

Julius E. Erickson, who is spending the month at the seashore, came home Saturday and was among the contestants for the Golf committee cup at the Plainfield Country Club. He posted a score of 95, 10-85.

The weekly competition for the Golf committee cup at the Plainfield Country Club is especially close this season, there being a narrow margin between the leader and several other contestants. It will be no runaway match for anyone.

DIAMOND DUST.

As the result of poor judgment on the part of the officials of the Inter-City Amateur League there was no game at Crescent Oval, Saturday, and the fans who were anxious to see a contest were obliged to go to Scotch Plains. The officials will probably say that they are not responsible for the action of Dunellen or Raritan withdrawing from the league, but it was nothing if not poor judgment to admit those clubs in the first place. Somerville was anxious to join the organization and would have made a strong bid for the pennant, besides making the rivalry that brings in money, but it was the opinion of some of the officials that Somerville was too far away. This objection was not raised when Raritan was taken in. If the league had been composed of Clinton Avenue, Y. M. C. A., Scotch Plains and Somerville there would have been a close and even race to hold the attention of the fans during the season, and Plainfield would have been assured of a game every Saturday. It is the hope of the fans that if a league is formed next season, Somerville will be given a chance to join and will be invited to attend the organization meeting. While the closing days of the league season are interesting in a way, the race being narrowed down to Clinton Avenue and Scotch Plains, it would be far more exciting if Somerville were contending for honors. For the first season the league has done well enough, but there are mistakes to be overcome before another season is essayed.

The Laurels, of Bound Brook, are scheduled to play Clinton Avenue at Crescent Oval, Saturday, and it will be an easy proposition for the local nine. The former team has realized all season that it was outclassed by other league nines.

It has been the opinion of many fans that O'Loughlin, the Clinton Avenue catcher, is not heavy enough to hold Randolph, but his record shows that he has accomplished the feat in a way that brings victory. He may not be quite so good throwing to bases, but he pluckily holds Randolph's swift delivery and when it comes to stick work he can push the leather with any of the players.

All things considered, Captain Craig's team made a good showing. The players were handicapped at the start, not having been together before and changes were frequently necessary for one reason or other, and this didn't help matters.

Sammy Hope, who once upon a time pitched for the Plainfield team and more recently has been in the Atlantic League, was picked up a few weeks ago by Connie Mack, of the Philadelphia Athletics. A few days ago he was given an opportunity to work against Cleveland and he made such a poor showing that Mack advised him to return to his former berth for a post-graduate course.

The Laurels, of Bound Brook, having received word from Raritan that they had dropped out of the league, the scheduled game was not played Saturday. The Mono F. C. played at Bound Brook.

WHERE "JIM" SMITH SPENDS THE SUMMER

AT ELBERON THE SENATOR KEEPS EYE ON JERSEY POLITICS.

Former United States Senator James Smith is resting at his summer home at Elberon, but he is keeping tab on New Jersey politics in season and out of season, says a writer in the Jersey City Journal. Elberon became historic in 1881 as the place where the martyred President James A. Garfield died. Old residents point out the route from the station across the beautiful lawns where a track was laid in one night that the railroad car with President Garfield might be brought to the door of the cottage on the bluff, where he died September 19. The visitor asks first to be shown the Garfield cottage and the occupants of the steam automobiles and carriages that go up and down Ocean avenue pass slowly by while the natives point out to strangers the second floor where Garfield's life slowly went out. It is one of the chief show places of the Jersey coast. This summer the stranger coming up the drive to the Garfield cottage will sometimes find former Senator Smith sitting on the comfortable veranda. Should time and convenience permit the Senator is quite apt to show the visitor through his historic summer home. He bought the Garfield cottage and he lives there during the warm season.

The interior of the house is remarkable for its architectural features, which were very much in advance of the time in which it was built—1876. Owing to the careful manner in which it was constructed the house is still in a most excellent state of preservation. The kitchen of the cottage is on the second floor. As one approaches from the hall a broad flight of steps leads to the dining-room, which is almost half a story higher than the main floor. A short stairway from the pantry leads up to the kitchen, which is over the porte-cochere that separates the servants' quarters from the rest of the house. The walls of the dining-room and halls are in part paneled in hard wood of artistic pattern, while the walls of one room are covered entirely with cork. One fortunate thing about this house, in which the whole country is interested, is that its present owner is careful to preserve it in all its original details. Near the former Senator's summer home are grouped other cottages of his, in one of which lives Peter Hauck, Jr., and in another James Smith, third. Peter Hauck the elder, and Michael T. Barrett live there also.

President Garfield was shot by Charles J. Guiteau, in Washington, on the morning of July 2, 1881. He lingered for over a month in the White House, and was then removed to the seashore, but he died not long after his removal to Elberon. Guiteau was hanged June 30, 1882.

HOLDS SISTER BY EAR AND AVERTS DROWNING.

Ten-Year-Old Boy Saves Younger Child From Death in Greenwood Lake.

Greenwood Lake, Aug. 12.—Mildred Frank, six years old, daughter of John L. Frank, of 154 Verona avenue, Newark, had a narrow escape from drowning here Thursday, but was saved by her ten-year-old brother, Louis, with whom she had been boating on the lake.

The girl in stepping from the rowboat to a dock missed her footing and slipped in the water. Her brother made a grab for her when she came up, and caught her by the right ear, until her father, who had been watching them, reached his side and pulled the girl from the water.

The girl and boy with their parents, are stopping at the Marion Park Rod and Gun Club, Sterling Forest. The children were playing in a rowboat close to the shore. After they had tired of the sport they pulled into the dock. The boy got out of the boat first, and held a line attached to it while his sister got out. When she fell overboard he shouted for his father, who was nearby. The little girl is none the worse for her experience.

THANKS TO OUR SENATOR.

It is safe to say that the result of the comic sheets' persistent reference to the proverbial Jersey mosquito has cost this State millions of dollars and no matter how deserved the prodding has been, we have suffered irreparably, as any citizen, let alone a real estate dealer, can attest. It is therefore, a matter of rejoicing that the day is fast approaching when our beautiful and thrifty little State will not longer be entitled to be known as "the mosquito-nest." For this, and many other blessings, we must offer thanks to the recent Legislature, which has done its share in the improvement of conditions.

Especially are we grateful, in this particular connection, to Ernest R. Ackerman, who, as the representative of Union county in the Upper House, did meritorious work in ridding New Jersey of the slander, if such it may be called. It was our excellent Senator, who gave his direct attention as a member of the appropriations committee, to the task of obtaining the necessary means for the work planned by Professor Smith to banish the pesky creature from "our midst." The previous Legislature had ordained that a campaign should be inaugurated to drive the "skeeter" from our borders, but unfortunately the measure enacted for this object carried no appropriation with it. Early action to remedy such a shortcoming was imperative and the Senator from Union was equal to the occasion. In his characteristic way, Mr. Ackerman gave his undivided attention to the subject and as a result Prof. Smith was supplied with the necessary funds. What the latter has accomplished is apparent to every man, woman and child. The mosquito is no longer a tormentor and the comic papers have been robbed of one of their favorite space fillers.

Referring to the appropriation for this purpose, for which Mr. Ackerman is largely responsible, the Newark Evening News says:

"The Philadelphia Press frankly admits that 'In no State has there been such a persistent and intelligent war waged on the mosquito as in New Jersey. * * * The Hackensack meadows, which have been furnishing Newark, Elizabeth and Jersey City with mosquitoes since time out of mind, is not now yielding its usual supply.' The same paper also notes the improvement that has been made in Staten Island since Professor John B. Smith's methods were applied there by Dr. Darlington. Further commendation comes from another source. The Jersey City Journal say that 'The fact that Jersey City has been almost wholly free from mosquitoes thus far this summer shows what preventive measures at the right time will do. The few dollars spent under the direction of State Entomologist Smith in ditching the Hackensack meadows was one of the wisest expenditures of money ever made. It is to be hoped that before next summer every foot of the meadows will be ditched and all stagnant pools looked after.'

"Jersey City was the last place of importance in North Jersey--Bayonne excepted—to refuse to spend a dollar for mosquito extermination. Its Board of Health tried year after year to get even a small appropriation to begin the work, but without success. The action of the State induced Jersey City to join the crusade last year, with the results acknowledged in the paper quoted; a marvelous accomplishment for a single year's labor and expense.

"When New Jersey is rid of its mosquito pest; when comfort is assured those who would delight to dwell here were it not for these noxious insects; when malaria is no longer carried by these stinging plagues, and the good health of all the coast communities of the State is improved, the value of property will almost double and people from other States will flock here in greater numbers than ever before. It must not be understood that the mosquito problem is practically and entirely and permanently solved. It is not. As has been said in these columns, time and again, the work must be continued, the ditches watched and kept open, the rain-barrels emptied and all who have mosquito-breeding premises must care for them. But the money thus far spent, and whatever is yet to be spent in the same methods, is among the wisest expenditures the State and the city have ever made."

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Henry W. Savage has the reputation of exploiting the right kind of material in the right kind of way, but in "The College Widow," the Geo. Ade comedy, which come to the New

"Matty" McGowan, in "The College Widow," at New Plainfield Theatre Aug. 14.

Plainfield theatre Wednesday night, Mr. Savage is said to have fairly and fully outdone himself. A surpassingly capable company of some forty people and a production of great beauty places the attractiveness of the play beyond dispute(especially as the piece itself is the cleverest of its kind presented in many years.

A sensation entirely new and novel is said to be the climax of the third act in P. H. Sullivan's latest four act comedy drama by Joseph Byron Totten, which is booked to appear at the New Plainfield theatre on Thursday night. This special feature is in the form of a "Race For Life" across a plain between a wild steer to which Bronco Bob, the hero of the play, is strapped, and a wild bronco ridden bareback by an Indian maid. This scene is said to be the most hair-raising effect ever attempted by a melodramatic stage.

Richard Golden, the quaint comedian, assisted by an unusually capable company, is scheduled for appearance at the New Plainfield theatre on Friday night, in Harry and Edward Paulton's latest comedy offering, "The Other House." So much has been said of the new comedy that the Messrs. Shubert have arranged to offer it to New York playgoers for a season of six months at the Madison Square theatre commencing August 19.

"Little Johnny Jones," the musical play by George M. Cohan, which has made one of the greatest successes of recent years will shortly be presented in this city by a company of seventy-five people, including a specially selected cast and a chorus which is spoken of as one of the largest and most efficient in America. This engagement is regarded by our theatregoers as one of the most important events of the theatrical season, and if indications do not fail it will attract a large and fashionable audience. It will be seen at the New Plainfiel theatre on Saturday.

A comedy elephant is introduced in the new musical comedy, "Playing the Ponies," which comes to the New Plainfield theatre on Monday night, in which Yorke and Adams will make their annual appearance in this city as stars under B. E. Forrester's management. Lanier DeWolff, Vivian Maxwell, Antoinette Mafera, Helen Tompanz, Eva Mull, Francis Parre, Lucia Johnson and Josephine Buimer, compose the famous pony ballot that is one of the features with this organization.

Monte Carlo.

There is only one day in the year on which the inhabitants of Monte Carlo are allowed to gamble at the casino tables. That day is the Prince of Monaco's birthday.

A Very Queer Dresser.

A very queer man in the matter of dress was the fifth Duke of Portland. His eccentric grace always, it appears, ordered three frock coats to every suit. When the weather was hot, he wore one only, when it was a little less hot two, and when it was cool all three. Besides these, he always kept three greatcoats in wear, so that when winter came on he wore three frock coats and one greatcoat, as it advanced three frockcoats and two greatcoats, while, when there was a real frost, he turned out in all the six.

A Queer Lizard.

An extraordinary reptile habit is described in a book by R. L. Ditmars, of the New York Zoological park. A large Mexican horned lizard, excited by an attempt to measure it, emitted a rasping sound and expelled a jet of blood, which struck a wall four feet away and formed a trail of 103 large spots along the floor. The blood came from the eyelid, momentarily much swollen. Shooting blood from the eye has been long attributed to this creature, but it seems so rare that naturalists have doubted its reality.

The Siamese Language.

Siamese, like other oriental languages, is very poetic. Thus a laborer is "luk can," the son of hire, and the thumb is "me mu," the mother of the hand. In this respect the Siamese resembles the ancient Greek. Hesiod spoke of the hand as "pentozon," the five branched (the modern pugilist's bunch of fives"); of a snail as "phereoikos," the house carrier; of a cuttlefish as "anosteon," the boneless.

Against Perkins.

The Presbyterian Bulletin, the official publication of the First Presbyterian church, of Cranford, in a recent number, contained what was virtually an appeal against the renomination of Assemblyman Perkins. Perkins, antagonized by the local option people, cannot look to the liquor interests for support, for he stood in the forefront of the fight for the retention of the Bishops law last fall.

An Italian Custom.

In Italy they have a novel way of advertising vacant apartments. In placed of the card inscribed "Rooms to Let" or "Apartments," a white cloth about the size of a napkin flutters from the casement, notifying the passerby that the rooms can be rented.

Snake Climbing.

A snake does not climb a tree or brush by coiling around it, but by holding on with its scales. A snake on a pane of glass is almost helpless.

JACOBS AT NETHERWOOD

362 CHILDREN AT CAMP

Addressing an audience of more than 300 little New York children, F. H. Jacobs, the "singing evangelist," of Brooklyn, told the story of his conversion to Christianity at the Netherwood Camp yesterday afternoon with great effect. Mr. Jacobs, who is well-known to Plainfielders because of his evangelical crusades in this city on several occasions, attracted nearly 500 people to the afternoon service at the camp yesterday. He spoke simply and with great force of his own personal experiences, telling the audience, inthe form of a story of how he, a German immigrant, came to this country and found employment on a farm. He was entirely absent from Christian influences, and the first years in this country started him on in a way that would make anything of him but a Christian. He spoke forcefully of his conversion, which was accomplished by a sudden realization of the life he was leading. A German, known to the men on the farm, as "UncleClaus," was instrumental in the conversion. Mr. Jacobs has been active in evangelical work since he was a young man. The lesson from the experience was shown by the speaker to be that God works through the simplest mediums, and that even children can turn others to the Christian life.

The service was largely of a musical character, Mr. Jacobs leading the chorus of children in the more familiar of the gospel hymns. The singing was especially hearty. Miss May Voorhees was at the melodiand and Whitney Frazee supplied the cornet obligato. Mr. Jacobs sang "He Lifted Me" as an offertory and Whitney Frazee rendered "Jesus Saviour Pilot Me" as a cornet solo. During the service, two of the children at the camp, Mary and Helen Tudor, sang "Jesus Will Take Care of You," and Mary Miller sand the Glory Song. A collection, amounting to nearly $20 was taken for the work.

There are at present 362 children at the camp from New York. This is the largest number which has been accommodated at Netherwood since the work was begun, seven years ago. The conditions in New York city are such that there are scores of children and mothers eager to come to the camp in this city every time Miss Curry goes to New York. A delegation of some thirty children, who were supposed to return to the city with Miss Curry last week, refused to leave the camp with Miss Curry. Miss Curry accordingly went in alone, but brought out thirty-five mothers and children with her when she returned, making the record attendance of 362 at the camp.

Miss Deady Buried.

The funeral of Miss Agnes E. Deady, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Deady, was held from her parents' residence, 522 West Fifth street, this morning at 8:30. Requiem mass was said by Father Delehanty at St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock. The bearers were Edward Connors, William Eyck, Arthur Newman, William Edmundson and Martin Hibbetts. The interment was in St. Mary's cemetery.

VERSE WORTH READING.

A Game for Two.

Let us play that the world is bright,
Let us play that the day is fair;
Let us play that there is no spite
And that kindness is everywhere:
Let us play that I am a boy
And that you are a laughing maid,
That beyond us is only joy
We may journey to, unafraid.

Let us play that the things denied
Are the things which we do not crave;
Let us play that our path is wide
And that roses beside it wave:
Let us play that what we may claim
Is all we care to possess;
Let us play that life is a game
For a prize, which is happiness.

Let us play that the day is long,
That we've passed where misfortune hides;
Let us play that my arms are strong
And that glee in your breast abides;
Let us play that I am a boy
And that you are a laughing maid,
That beyond us is only joy
We may journey to, unafraid.
—S. E. Kiser.

The Far-Off Call.

If out beyond the city's farthest edge
There were no roads that led through sleepy towns,
No winds to blow through any thorny hedge,
No pathways over hazel-tufted downs,
I might not, when the day begins, be sad
Because I toil among the money-mad.

If out beyond the distant hill there lay
No valley graced by any winding stream,
And if no slim, white steeples far away
Might mark the spots where drowsy hamlets dream,
I could, perhaps, at midday be content
Where striving millions at their tasks are bent.

If far away from noise and strife and care
There were no buds to swell on waiting trees,
No mating birds to spill upon the air
The liquid sweetness of their melodies,
I might, at sunset be serene and proud
Because a few had seen me in the crowd.
Chicago Record-Herald.

Fate.

It had to be. We had to meet.
It is too late. You can't retreat.
You had to smile. I had to bow.
It was not strange you must allow.
You had to stop. I had to speak.
No explanations need we seek—
'Twas fate!

You had to blush. I had to talk.
You had to nod. We had to walk.
You had to hear. I had to tell.
'Tis thus the goddess weaves her spell.
And then, at last—it had to be.
'Tis very simple now to see—
'Twas fate!

We had to love unto the end.
A single path we had to wend.
You cannot go another way.
The scheme ordained you must obey;
We must conform with the design,
I must be yours. You must be mine.
'Twas fate!
—Town Topics.

Darwinian.

Big fish eat the little fish
Swimming in the sea,
The hawk will chase the chicken
And devour it with great glee.

Dogs pursues the rabbit,
And says it's just in fun;
All creation tries to get
Some creature on the run.

And man, despite his wisdom,
Keeps following the plan
Of his ancestral origin,
And whips his fellow-man.

Though peace that's universal
Would be a joy profound;
We'll have to evolute some more
Before it gets around.
—Washington Star.

Song.

Last night I made a mimic grave
Deep in the meadow grass,
Believing in that calm retreat
My spirit's storm would pass;
My wearied vision sought content
Where late had flamed the sun,
Night, with a mystic, wood-wind theme,
Her sympathy begun.

But, oh, how dim are sun and stars
Seen through a mist of tears!
How dull the happy sounds of earth
To sorrow-deafened ears!
Love, at thy shrine three costly gifts
I offer as we part,
A withered hope, a trust betrayed,
And last—a broken heart.
—Mary Coles Carrington, in Harper's Magazine.

How It Happened.

My Uncle Jim, he made a speech,
'Twas full of thoughts sublime.
Its mighty echoes sought to reach
The corridors of time.
And shake their vast foundations sure
With its reverberant notes.
And incidentally secure
My Uncle Jim some votes.

But when we stanch, determined men
Heard what he had to teach,
We found out also that the pen
Is mightier than the speech.
For, while we gazed with trusting pride
And craned our royal necks,
The rated foeman, just outside,
Was busy writing checks.

Behind the Hill.

O masters, say, where shall I find
A healing for each ill—
Nepenthe for the burdened mind?—
"Just, just behind the hill!"

Masters, where lies the Port of Dreams,
Sacred and sweet and still,
Guerdoned with glamours and with gleams?—
"Just, just behind the hill!"

Masters, the house of perfect peace,
Where shall I touch its sill,
Hearing within joy's glad increase?—
"Just, just behind the hill!"
—Clinton Schollard in New York Sun.

Nice to Have Money.

It is nice to have money, but better, my honey,
To have what no money can buy—
The dimples that wimple upon the sweet river
When spring raips the rose from the sky!
It is nice to have money, but nicer, my honey,
To have what no money can bring—
The love and the glory of love's golden story
The lips of true love ever sing!
It is nice to have money, but money's not all—
For me the spring silver, the gold of the fall!
—Baltimore Sun.

Merry Failures.

Be a failure if you must,
Let ambition go to rust,
Hold that fame's a foolish prude,
Eat of husks for want of food;
But remember this, my son,
Do not be a dismal one!

Be a merry failure! Let Troubles only mirth beget.
Take the edge from fortune's wrong
With the magic of a song.
Folks will say, observing you,
"Wish I were a failure, too!"

Pupil of John L.

At one time in his career John L. Sullivan, formerly heavyweight champion, gave lessons in boxing, but the average pupil lacked much of the fortitude necessary, for John was a vigorous instructor. A young man once went to the great fighter and arranged for a course of ten lessons. At the end of the second lesson, pretty well battered up, the young man said he thought he had enough. "Enough!" said his teacher in astonishment, "why, you haven't learned—" "I know," the young man interrupted. "But I'll tell you how it is: There's a fellow I dislike, and I arranged for this course so as to lick him in a fight. But on second thought I have decided it will be just as well to send him down here to you to take the rest of the lessons."

THE TOO FRANK PERSON.

Some Plain Truths as Set Forth by a Woman Writer.

We all know—and respect—and avoid—such persons; the world is full of them—too full for the general comfort of its other inhabitants. And frequently what they call the truth is not abstract at all, but is merely the expression of their own particular (and frequently erroneous) opinions. Yet as they utter it they glow with spiritual pride and feel themselves in the same boat as the Christians of the Catacombs and the rest of the noble army of martyrs; never realizing that their cause is no tenet of an inspired creed, but merely an embodiment of their own pet prejudices; and their sacrifices on its behalf is neither their own life nor wealth, but merely the feelings and the sentiments of other people, says Woman's Life. Such persons are very fond of remarking that they owe it to themselves to say exactly what they think; it never seems to occur to them that they likewise owe it to others to conceal what they think, if such thoughts be inimical to the general pleasantness and well being of society at large; yet surely they have never been taught that their duty to themselves comes before their duty to their neighbors.

Pathos in Little Girl's Exclamation of Wonder.

It was a case of the meeting of extremes. A beautifully appointed baby carriage, enameled in white and with all its fittings and coverlets of snowy spotlessness, was being trundled along an uptown street, says the New York Times. In it lay a pink-and-white baby, nestling amid frills of lawn and lace. Approaching from the other direction was a group of little Italian children, evidently on their way home from school. Dressed in heavy-looking clothes of every possible color, the only uniformity presented was the general hue of dirt, which seemed to be common to the clothing, as well as the hands and faces, of all. Certainly the contrast between the baby in the carriage and the children on the street—many of them scarcely more than babies themselves—could not have been more marked. Something of this seemed to impress the children. Pausing for a moment, they gazed at the carriage with admiring eyes, while one little girl, braver than the rest, peering under the hood to get a better look at the occupant, exclaimed: "My! What a whiteness!"

Elephant vs. Crocodile.

An African hunter once found a large crocodile hanging in the fork of a tree about ten feet from the ground. As the place was fully half a mile from any water, it was difficult to account for the crocodile's strange position. When questioned upon the subject the natives explained that it was put there by an elephant. It seems that when the elephants wade into the Lake Ngami to bathe the crocodiles are in the habit of worrying them and biting their legs. Sometimes when an elephant is annoyed beyond endurance it picks its tormentor up and puts it among the branches of a tree and leaves it there. —Tit-Bits.

Why Caged Birds Die.

"So the canary's dead, eh?" said a dealer. "It was a fine bird, too—well worth the $40 you paid me for it. But I don't wonder it died. You would keep it hanging near the ceiling. That is why so many birds die. They shouldn't be kept up high at all. Their cages should be on tables, not hooks. Up near the ceiling the air of a room is very bad, especially at night. Indeed, at night, if you burn oil or gas, the air is insupportable up there. And particularly in rooms where smoking goes on—you know how smoke, like all other impurities, mounts—it is bad to hang birds high. Why can't the world remember the old catch: "Birds hung high ever die!"

Good Location for a Doctor.

Two young physicans were exchanging news for the first time since their graduation from the medical school. "I was surprised when I heard you'd settled at Beech Hill," said one to the other, laughing. "I've always heard it spoken of as such a healthy suburb. I wondered if you'd find any patients there." "My dear man," said his classmate, earnestly, "it is a healthy suburb, but it is also the stronghold of football; every family has its automobile, and there never was such a place before for giving children's parties. I'm doing splendidly, thank you."—Youth's Companion.

Love and the Man.

Men are delighted to be told that they are never absent from the thoughts of their sweethearts, but the husband finds this consciousness a trifle wearing. As bad as the clinging vine is the woman who makes her devotion too incessant. She is never tactful, never conscious that he wants to be alone occasionally, never capable of making herself and her affections a novelty to him. And this is a fatal error on the part of any woman. —Exchange.

Napoleon's Famous War Horse.

Marengo, the famous war charger of Napoleon, is said to have been the greatest horse known to modern history. The emperor rode Marengo for the last time in the battle of Mount St. Jean, where the horse received his seventh wound. The steed died at the age of 36 years.

DEPENDS ON THE POINT OF VIEW.

Can a man be on the loose when he is tight?

All men of mark don't write—some put crosses.

We can't trust a dark girl; she can never be fair.

It's only a near man who can make money go far.

How can a man be in a temper when he is out of temper?

Why did the sunbeam? Because he saw his own sunrise.

Why did the deerstalk? Because they saw the antelope.

What set the deerstalking more? The dreadful stagnation.

A man of letters most eagerly sought after is the postman.

Nothing lowers a man so much as walking about on his uppers.

Occasionally some of the most strenuous objectors to flat racing go flat hunting.

The women do their best to get into court, and the men do all they know to keep out.

Those who live in lighthouses can never complain of the surroundings being too dark.—Ally Sloper.

MISERIES OF THE GREAT.

Bacon was avaricious, and his greed led him to disgrace.

De Foe had more than one dose of Newgate and the pillory.

Cervantes was poor and constantly annoyed by his creditors

Cowper was all his days overshadowed by the gloom of insanity.

Gibbon was gouty. He grew so stout he could not dress himself.

Palestrina lived in poverty most of his days, and died in great want.

Tasso was poor most of his days. His miseries finally drove him mad.

Julius Caesar had a weak digestion and was subject to epileptic fits.

Peter the Great was half crazy most of his life through drink and rage.

La Sage was poor all his life. In old age he was dependent on his son.

Selden was once sent to prison for his attack on the divine rights of kings.

Mohammed was an epileptic, and his visions were those of a diseased mind.

GIRLS AND MOTHERS.

A mother who has her daughter's confidence need never fear that she will stray far from the home teachings.

The daughter who has confidence in her mother will never go to others with her little heartaches and her burdens.

A son may, by contact with the rough world, sometimes outlive his early home influences—a daughter rarely does.

A daughter is, in nine cases out of ten, the reflection of her mother. The training of the girl of 15 is shown in the woman of 50.

It is a heart-sickening fact that one of the great evils in home life is the lack of confidence between mothers and daughters.

It is the mother who is a mother who makes the home a confessional for her children. Anything said there is never repeated.

The mother who realizes that the whole strength of her children's lives depends upon the foundation which she builds for them has mastered the great principles of successful motherhood.

SUNFLOWER PHILOSOPHY.

A Lovely Character never gets mad; her feelings are hurt.

If angels are as nice as girls of 10 or 12 we shall be satisfied.

The only thing some men are ever willing to save is the country.

The only way some women have of showing their love is by jealousy.

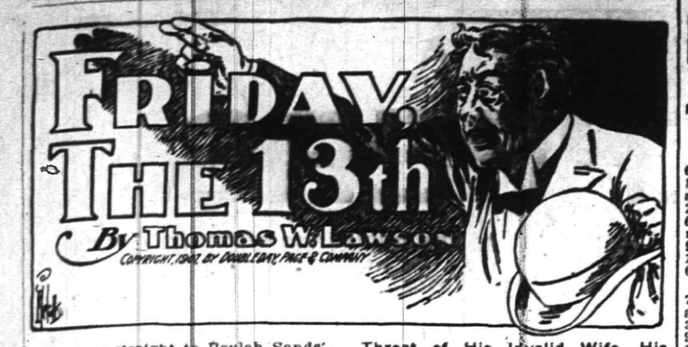
The woman who tells everything she hears always hears so much, too.

Politicians and pugilists are very similar in the matter of their retirements.

If a girl is homely it is safe to assert that she is a great deal of help to her mother.

What has become of the old-fashioned girl who said she wouldn't marry the best man living?

When you do exactly as you please, remember you are the only person pleased.—Atchison (Kan.) Globe.



Bob went straight to Beulah Sands' office, I to mine. I had been there but a moment when I heard deep, guttural groans. I listened. The sound came louder than before. It came from Beulah Sands' office. With a bound I was at the open door. My God, the sight that met my gaze! It haunts me even now when years have dulled its vividness. The beautiful, quiet, gray figure that had grown to be such a familiar picture to Bob and me of late, sat at the flat desk in the center of the room. She faced the door. Her elbows rested on the desk; in her hand was an afternoon paper that she had evidently been reading when Bob entered. God knows how long she had been reading it before he came. Bob was kneeling at the side of her chair, his hands clasped and uplifted in an agony of appeal that was supplemented by the awful groans. His face showed unspeakable terror and entreaty; the eyes were bursting from their sockets and were riveted on hers as those of a man in a dungeon might be fixed upon an approaching specter of one whom he had murdered. His chest rose and fell, as though trying to burst some unseen bonds that were crushing out his life. With every breath would come the awful groan that had first brought me to him. Beulah Sands had half turned her face until her eyes gazed into Bob's with a sweet, childish perplexity. I looked at her, surprised that one whom I had always seen so intelligently masterful should be passive in the face of such anguish. Then, horror of horrors! I saw that there was something missing from her great blue eyes. I looked; gasped. Could it possibly be? With a bound I was at her side. I gazed again into those eyes which that morning had been all that was intelligent, all that was godlike, all that was human. Their soul, their life was gone. Beulah Sands was a dead woman; not dead in body, but in soul; the magic spark had fled. She was but an empty shell—a woman of living flesh and blood, but the citadel of life was empty, the mind was gone. What had been a woman was but a child. I passed my hand across my now damp forehead. I closed my eyes and opened them again. Bob's figure, with clasped, uplifted hands, and bursting eyes, was still there. There still resounded through the room the awful guttural groans. Beulah Sands smiled, the smile of an infant in the cradle. She took one beautiful hand from the paper and passed it over Bob's bronzed cheek, just as the infant touches its mother's face with its chubby fingers. In my horror I almost expected to hear the purling of a babe. My eyes in their perplexity must have wandered from her face, for I suddenly became aware of a great black head-line spread across the top of the paper that she had been reading:

"FRIDAY, THE 13TH."

And beneath in one of the columns:

"TERRIBLE TRAGEDY IN VIRGINIA"

"The Most Prominent Citizen of the State, ex-United States Senator and Ex-Governor, Judge Lee Sands of Sands Landing, While Temporarily Insane from the Loss of His Fortune and Millions of the Funds for Which He Was Trustee, Cut the Throat of His Invalid Wife, His Daughter's, and Then His Own. All Three Died Instantly."

In another column:

"Robert Brownley Creates the Most Disastrous Panic in the History of Wall Street and Spreads Wreck and Ruin Throughout the Country."

A hideous picture seared its every light and shade on my mind, through my heart, into all my soul. A frenzied-finance harvest scene with its gory crop; in the center one living-dead, part of the picture, yet the ghost left to haunt the painters, one of whom was already cowering before the black and bloody canvas.

Well did the world-artist who wrote over the door of the madhouse: "Man can suffer only to the limit, then he shall know peace," understand the wondrous wisdom of his God. Beulah Sands had gone beyond her limit and was at peace.

The awful groaning stopped, and an ashen pallor spread over Bob Brownley's face. Before I could catch him he rolled backward upon the floor as dead. Bob Brownley, too, had gone beyond his limit. I bent over him and lifted his head, while the sweet woman-child knelt and covered his face with kisses, calling in a voice like that of a tiny girl speaking to her doll: "Bob, my Bob, wake up, wake up; your Beulah wants you." As I placed my hand upon Bob's heart and felt its beats grow stronger, as I listened to Beulah Sands' childish voice, joyishly confident as it called upon the one thing left of her old world, some of my terror passed. In its place came a great mellowing sense of God's marvelous wisdom. I thought gratefully, of my mother's always ready argument that the law of laws, of God's and nature, is that of compensation. I had allowed Bob's head to sink until it rested in Beulah's lap, and from his calm and steady breathing I could see that he had safely passed a crisis, that at least he was not in the clutches of death, as I had at first feared.

Bob slept. Beulah Sands ceased her calling and with a smile raised her fingers to her lips and softly said: "Hush, my Bob's asleep." Together we held vigil over our sleeping lover and friend, she with the happiness of a child who had no fear of the awakening, I with a silent terror of what would come next. I had seen one mind wafted to the unknown that day. Was it to have a companion to cheer and solace it on its far journey to the great beyond? How long we waited Bob's awakening I could not tell. The clock's hands said an hour; it seemed to me an age. At last his magnificent physique, his unpoisoned blood and splendid brain pulled him through to his new world of mind and heart torture. His eyelids lifted. He looked at me, then at Beulah Sands, with eyes so sad, so awful in their perplexed mournfulness, that I almost wished they had never opened, or had opened to let me see the childlike look that now shone from the girl's. His gaze finally rested on her and his lips murmured "Beulah."

"There, Bob, I thought you would know it was time to wake up." She bent over and kissed him on the eyes again with the loving ardor a child bestows upon its pets.

"Good Bob Has Come Back to Play with Buelah."

He slowly rose to his feet. I could see from his eyes and the shudder that went over him as he caught sight of the paper on the desk that he was himself; that memory of the happenings of the day had not fled in his sleep. He rose to his full height, his head went up, and his shoulders back, but only from habit and for an instant. Then he folded Beulah Sands to his breast and dropped his head upon her shoulder. He sobbed like a father with the corpse of his child.

"Why, Bob, my Bob, is this the way you treat your Beulah when she's let you sleep so your beautiful eyes would be pretty for the wedding? Is this the way to act before this kind man who has come to take us to the church? Naughty, naughty Bob."

I looked at her, at Bob, in horror. I was beginning to realize the absolute deadness of this woman. From the first look I had known that her mind had fled, but knowledge is not always realization. She did not even know who I was. Her mind was dead to all but the man she loved, the man who through all those long days of her suffering she had silently worshiped. To all but him she was newborn.

At the sound of "wedding," "church," Bob's head slowly rose from her shoulder. I saw his decision the instant I caught his eye; I realized the uselessness of opposing it, and, sick at heart and horrified, I listened as he said in a voice now calm and soothing as that of a father to his child: "Yes, Beulah, my darling, I have slept too long. Bob has been naughty, but we will make up for lost time. Get your hat and cloak and we'll hurry to the church, or we will be late."

With a laugh of joy she followed him to the closet where hung the little gray turban and the pretty gray jacket. He took them from their peg and gave them to her.

"Not a word, Jim," he bade me. "In the name of God and all our friendship, not a word. Beulah Sands will be my wife as soon as I can find a minister to marry us. It is best, best. It is right. It is as God would have it, or I am not capable of knowing right from wrong. Anyway, it is what will be. She has no father, no mother, no sister, no one to protect and shield her The 'system' has robbed her of all in life, even of herself, of everything, Jim, but me. I must try to win her back to herself, or to make her new world a happy one—a happy one for her."

CHAPTER VII.

An old gambler whose life had been spent listening to the rattle of the drop-in-bound-out little roulette ball, was told by a fellow victim, as his last dollar went to the relentless tiger's maw, that the keeper's foot was upon an electric button which enabled him to make the ball drop where his stake was not. He simply said: "Thank God. I thought that prince of cheats, Fate, who all through life has had his foot on the button of my game, was the one who did the trick." Long suffering had driven the old gambler to the loser's bible, Philosophy! Cheated by man's device, he knew he had some chance of getting even; but Fate he could not combat.

Bob Brownley had thought himself in hard luck when his eyes opened to the fact that he had been robbed by means of dice loaded by man, but when Fate pressed the button he saw that his man-made hell was but a feeble imitation, and—was satisfied, as whoever knows the game of life is satisfied, because—he must be. Bob's strong head bowed, his iron will bent, and meekly his soul murmured: "Thy will be done."

That night he married Beulah Sands. The minister who united the grown-up man and the woman who was as a new-born babe saw nothing extraordinary in the match. He murmured to me, who acted as best man to the groom, maid of honor to the bride, and father and mother to both: "We see strange sights, we ministers of the great city, Mr. Randolph. The sweet little lady appears to be a trifle scared." My explanation that she and Mr. Brownley were the awful survivors of the awful tragedies of the day was sufficient. He was satisfied when he got no other response to his question: "Do you take this man to be your wedded husband?" than a sweet childish smile as she snuggled closer to Bob.

Bob and his bride went south to his mother and sisters the next day. He left to me the settlement of his trades. He instructed me to set aside $3,000,000 profits for Beulah Sands-Brownley, and insisted that I pay from the balance the notes he had given me a few weeks before. There remained something over $5,000,000 for himself.

The leading Wall street paper, in its preaching on the panic, wound up with:

"Wall street has lived through many black Fridays. Some of them have been thirteenth-of-the-month Fridays, but no Friday yet marked from the calendar, no Saturday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday yet garnered to the storehouse of the past was ever more jubilantly welcomed by his Satanic Majesty than yesterday. We pray Heaven no coming day may be ordained to go against yesterday's record for tigerish cruelty and awful destruction. It is rumored that Mr. Brownley of Randolph & Randolph, either for himself or his clients cleared $25,000,000 of profit. We believe that this estimate is low. The losses coming through Robert Brownley's terrible onslaught must have run over $500,000,000. Wall street and the country will do well to take the moral of yesterday's market to their heart. It is this: The concentration of wealth in the hands of a few Americans is a menace to our financial structure. It is the unanimous opinion of 'the Street' that Robert Brownley could never have succeeded in battering down the price of sugar in the very teeth of the Camemeyer and Standard Oil support as he did yesterday, without a cash backing of from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000. If a vast aggregation of money owners deliberately place themselves behind an onslaught such as was so successfully made yesterday, why can that slaughter not be repeated at any time, on any stock, and against the support of any backing?"

When I read this and listened to talk along the same lines, I was puzzled. I could not for the life of me see where Bob Brownley could have got five to ten millions' backing for such a raid, much less fifty to a hundred. Yet I was forced to confess that he must have had some tremendous backing; else how could he have done what I had seen him do?

Bob left his wife at his mother's house while he went to Sand Landing to the funeral. After the old judge and his victims had been laid away and the relatives had gathered in the library of the great white Sands mansion, he explained their kinswoman's condition and told them that she was his wife. He insisted upon paying all Judge Sands' debts, over $500,000 of which was owed to members of the Sands family for whom he had been trustee. Before he went back to his mother's, Bob had turned a great calamity into an occasion for something near rejoicing. Judge Sands and his family were very dear to the people of the section, but his misfortune had threatened such widespread ruin that the unlooked-for recovery of a million and a half was a godsend that made for happiness.

Two days after the funeral Bob's dearest hope fled. He had ordered all things at the Sands plantation put in their every-day condition. Beulah Sands, uncles, aunts and cousins had arranged to welcome her and to try by every means in their power to coax back her lost mind. They assured Bob that barring the absence of Beulah's father, mother, and sister, there would not be a memory-recaller missing. Bob and his wife landed from the river packet at the foot of the driveway, which led straight from the landing to the vine-covered, white-pillared portico. Bob's agony must have been awful when his wife clapped her hands in childish joy as she exclaimed, "Oh, Bob, what a pretty place!" She gave no sign that she had ever seen the great entrance, through which she had come and gone from her babyhood. Bob took her to the library, to her mother's room, to her own, to the nursery where were the dolls and toys of her childhood, but there came no sign of recognition, nothing but childish pleasure. She looked at her aunts and uncles and the cousins with whom she had spent her life, bewildered at finding so many strangers in the otherwise quiet place. As a last hope they led in her old black foster-mother, who had nursed her in babyhood, who was the companion of her childhood and the pet of her womanhood. There was not a dry eye in the library when she met the old mammy's outburst of joy with the puzzled gaze of the child who does not understand. The grief of the old negress was pitiful as she realized that she was a stranger to her "honey bird." The child seemed perplexed at her grief. It was plain to all that the Sands home meant nothing to the last of the judge's family.

Bob brought her back to New York and besought the aid of the medical experts of America and of the Old World to regain that which had been recalled by its Maker. The doctors were fascinated with this new phase of mind blight, for in some particulars Beulah's case was unlike any known instances, but none gave hope. All agreed that some wire connecting heart and brain had burned out when the cruel "System" threw on a voltage beyond the wire's capacity to transmit. All agreed that the woman-child wife would never grow older unless through some mental eruption beyond human power to produce. Some of the medical men pointed to one possibility, but that one was too terrible for Bob to entertain.

The first anniversary of their marriage found Bob and his wife settled in their new Fifth avenue mansion. He had bought and torn down two old houses between Forty-second and Forty-third streets and had erected a palace, the inside of which was unique among all New York's unusual structures. The first and second floors were all that refined taste and unlimited expenditure of money could produce. Nothing on those splendid floors told of the strange things above. A sedate luxury pervaded the drawing-rooms, library, and dining-room. Bob said to me, in taking me through them, "Some day, Jim, Beulah may recover, may come back to me, and I want to have everything as she would wish, everything as she would have had it if the curse had never come." The third floor was Beulah's. A child's dainty bedroom; two nurses' rooms adjoining; a nursery, with a child's small schoolroom and a big playroom, with dolls and doll houses, child's toys of every description in abandon, as though their owner were in fact but a few years old. Across the hall were three offices, exact duplicates of mine, Bob's, and Beulah Sands' at Randolph & Randolph's. When I first saw them it was with difficulty that I brought myself to realize that I was not where the gruesome happenings of a year before had taken place. Bob had reproduced to the minutest details our down-town workshop. Standing in the door of Beulah Sands' office I faced the flat desk at which she had sat the afternoon when I first saw that hideous result of the work of the "System." I could almost see the little gray figure holding the afternoon paper. In horror my eyes sought the floor at the side of the chair in search of Bob's agonized face and uplifted hands. As I stood for the first time in the middle of Bob's handiwork, I seemed to hear again those awful groans.

"Jim," Bob said, "I have a haunting idea that some day Beulah will wake and look around and think she has been but a few minutes asleep. If she should, she must have nothing to disabuse her mind until we break the news to her. I have instructed her nurses, one or the other of whom never loses sight of her night or day, to win her to the habit of spending her time at her old desk; I have told them always to be prepared for her awakening, and when it comes they are instantly to shut off the rest of the floor and house until I can get to her. Here comes Beulah now."

Out of the nursery came a laughing, happy child-woman. In spite of her finely developed, womanly figure, which had lost nothing of its wonderful beauty, and the exquisite face and golden-brown hair and great blue eyes, which were as fascinating as on the day she first entered the offices of Randolph & Randolph; in spite of the close-fitting gray gown with dainty turned-over lace collar, I could hardly bring myself to believe that she was anything but a young child. With an eager look and a happy laugh she went to Bob and throwing her arms about his neck, covered his face with kisses.

Climate.

The shade temperature rarely if ever reaches 100 degrees in England. In northwst India, however, a temperature of 125 degrees is not uncommon, while in the deserts of Africa and Arabia the thermometer has registered over 130 degrees.

The Whippoorwill.

Though the whippoorwill's two cream speckled white eggs are laid with seeming carlessness on the ground, she is not careless with her young, picking them up as a cat does a kitten if danger threatens.

Chile.

Chile, which has the reputation of being the most progressive of the Spanish speaking countries, has over 3,000 miles of railroad and 11,000 miles of telegraph.

CLINTON AVE. TRIUMPHS

Local Nine Clinches Hold on Championship by Defeating 'Plains.

THE SCORE WAS 6 TO 4

1,000 Fans Witness Fine Exhibition —Randolph Was In Great Form.

Clinton Avenue practically clinched the Inter-City Amateur League championship on Saturday when it defeated its most dangerous opponent, Scotch Plains, by a score of 6 to 4, at the 'Plains. The contest was witnessed by nearly 1,000 enthusiastic fans. While the score was close it does not give an adequate idea of the fine pitching by Randolph. He was invincible, only allowing one hit up to the ninth inning. This was a two-bagger by Allen, but he died on third trying to reach home.

The home team had an off day and gave Hewitt poor support, several hits getting by the infield, which should have been gathered in. This, together with a decision by Umpire Feiring of Brit Martin's left field drive in the seventh inning, which netted Clinton Avenue one run and took Martin to second base after two men were out, told the tale. The hit was questionable and many believed it to be foul. The decision threatened trouble for a time as it came at a critical time, the score being one to one.

Scotch Plains scored its first run in its half of the second. Frentz flied to left field, Schott dropped the ball and Frentz was safe. O'Loughlin tried to throw him out while stealing second and the leather went into center field, bringing Frentz home.

Clinton Avenue scored in the third inning. Hewitt gave Giles a pass and he went to second on Brit. Martin's drive to left field and then scored on Baldwin's error at short of Emery's infield hit. Three more tallies were marked up in the seventh and two in the ninth. When the 'Plains started their half of the ninth, they made a desperate effort which gave the game a regular suburban finish.

Hewitt hit to short-stop and went out at first. Flanney found a safe spot in right garden. Baldwin flied to Schott in left and on an error of the fielder he reached first, but Flannery was doubled at second. This made two outs and left a man at first. Allen came up and placed a hit in left, scoring Baldwin. Frentz selected the same spot and scored Allen from second. Albert hit to Jack Martin, who fumbled the ball, and Frentz crossed the plate. Schreinbeck ended the excitement which was at fever heat, by popping a foul fly to O'Loughlin. The score:

GOOD SCORES IN THE P. C. C. WEEKLY EVENTS

COURSE CONDUCIVE TO FAST PLAYING —PARK CLUB COMPETITIONS.

Dudley H. Barrows marked his return to the Plainfield Country Club course, on Saturday, by making a score of 81 from scratch in the weekly competition for the Golf Committee cup. He was tied with Howard G. Lapsley for first honors, the latter returning an 81 with a handicap of 9. H. E. Butler finished in second place with an 83, while W. Lester Glenney took the one remaining point with an 84, one stroke being added to his gross score of 83.

There was a large field out to take part in the weekly competitions and as a rule the scores were low. The condition of the course is conducive to fast play and even those in Class B post good scores.

For the Green committee cup, for Class B members, W. F. Merrill won first honors with a net score of 76, while C. C. Burke, Sr., finished second with a 78 and Hugh F. Fox with a net score of 82 received the one point. Dudley H. Barrows, besides dividing first honors for the Golf committee cup, also won a leg on the Scratch cup with a score of 81.

These scores were posted for the Golf committee cup:

Dudley H. Barrows, 81, 0—81; Howard G. Lapsley, 90, 9—81; H. E. Butler, 89, 6—83; W. Lester Glenney, 83, plus 1—84; Henry D. Hibbard, 88, 4—84; Julius E. Erickson, 95, 10—85.

The scores for the Green committee cup were as follows:

W. F. Merrill, 98, 22—76; C. C. Burke, Sr., 90, 12—78; Hugh F. Fox, 97, 15—82; C. P. Hamilton, 104, 20—84; W. L. C. Glenney, 104, 19—85.

While a large number, for the time of the year, competed for the President's and Golf Club cups at the Park Golf Club, but few of the players posted their scores; just enough to count points for the trophies. F. A. Hubbard won first honors for the President's cup, with a net score of 76. E. A. Lyon finished second with an 88, while Charles B. Morse came in third with a 91. However, Mr. Morse took first honors for the scratch trophy with a gross score of 102. Mr. Hubbard and A. W. Kenworthy finished second and third with scores of 104 and 108. These scores were posted for the two cups:

F. A. Hubbard, 104, 28—76; E. A. Lyon, 114, 26—88; Charles B. Morse, 102, 11—91; A. W. Kenworthy, 108, 15—93.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

An electric light bulb past its useful days makes an excellent stocking darner.

If the fat in the dripping pan catches on fire, pour in at once a little milk, and the flames will be instantly quenched.

To renovate black lace, wash the lace in water to which a little ammonia has been added, then rinse it in strong coffee.

Porch tables that have become warped and dry by rain and hot weather may be restored to usefulness by covering them with common tea matting. Wind and weather will then have no effect on them.

Tops of fruit cans can be cleaned if they are placed in sour milk or vinegar and left until the mold comes off easily when they are washed in water. They should also be scrubbed with a brush to clean the grooves in the side of the lid.

FITZ AS A RACE JUDGE

Pugilist One of the Officials at the Matinee Meet.

NOTEWORTHY PROGRAM

All the Events Closely Contested, and a Large Crowd Enjoyed the Attractive Card Run Off.

The program offered by the Fair Acres Driving and Riding Association at the matinee races, Saturday afternoon, attracted one of the largest crowds of the season to the Gentlemen's Driving Park. There were four races on the card, one pace and three mixed, and every one was closely contested. The entry list comprised a number of the best horses from this city and vicinity and they worked in a way that made every race an exciting one.

As an extra attraction, "Bob" Fitzsimmons consented to act as one of the judges, deciding to forego the pleasure of taking in the G. O. P. outing. Fitz showed that he was well up in horse racing and whenever the result was close his decision was found to be right every time. The other judges were Dr. Butler, of Westfield; David C. Smalley, Adam Blair, of this city, and C. M. Sterling, of Cranford.

George Conover's "Roanview" won the first race handily in 2:30½ and 2:22½. Mayor N. B. Smalley's "Aloysia" took the second race, finishing first in the first and third heats and running second in the second heat. The time was 2:32, 2:32¼ and 2:31½. The third race was won by William Kingston's "Steve K.," J. B. Guttridge's "Sidney Leland" giving him a hard rub for the honors. The last race was taken by C. M. Sterling's "Lawrence D.," in 2:38 and 2:41.

Next Saturday's matinee will be a strong attraction, as the prizes comprise eight handsome cups. The club is making great preparation for its Labor Day meet, when several money prizes will be offered.

The summary of Saturday's races follows:

TO REPAIR FIRE HOUSE

Common Council Appropriates $1,613 for the Purpose in Awarding Contracts.

NETHERWOOD'S NOISES

Complaint Made That Gas Engine Exhaust at Rushmore Works Constitutes a Nuisance.

Remonstrating against a gas engine exhaust at the Rushmore Dynamo Works, which they claim disturbs the peace and quietude of their homes in the day time as well as through the night, a petition signed by hundreds of residents of the Netherwood section of the city was presented to the Common Council at its adjourned meeting last night. Among those who signed the petition are A. V. Davies, Henry L. Hall, A. F. H. Streuli, A. M. Wilcox and Howard J. Runyon.

The petitioners claim that the noise is so annoying that it has become a nuisance and they urge the Common Council to take immediate steps to stop it. The petition was referred to the public affairs committee and will receive early consideration.

A report on several bids received at the last meeting was presented by Chairman Henry D. Hibbard, of the fire committee, and on the recommendation of the other members the bid for the repairs to the West Second street fire house was awarded to Wyman & Haberle for $1,613; that for 300 bushels of oats to Percy S. Dayton for 50½ cents a bushel and that for coal for the various fire houses, to the Consumers Coal Company for $5.73 per ton.

Charles H. Hand and other property-owners on Watchung avenue petitioned to have a building line established on that avenue, and this was referred to the street and sewer committee. This petition is the result of the recent action of W. R. Coddington and Walter Manning erecting a new building on the avenue near the railroad, four feet outside the recognized line.

The petition of Whittal Collington for permission to build an addition to his building at 211 Richmond street, and use hollow concrete blocks, was referred to the street and sewer committee as was also one from W. W. Mills for permission to erect a building at 126-128 Madison avenue, and use hollow concrete blocks.

Three special policemen, Harold Warren, Harry Berkowitz and Thomas Flatley, were appointed by Mayor Fisk, and confirmed by the Common Council.

The petition from W. J. Counihan and Frey Ivamy, asking for improvements in Pruden's alley, was reported back by Mr. Gloak, who stated that the $600, the amount necessary to lay a concrete pavement there, had been collected, and the work would be started soon. Mr. Gloak also offered a resolution, which was adopted, authorizing the street and sewer committee to have a flag walk laid in front of the city's property at 500-510 New street, the expense to be borne by the city.

DRUBBED O'LOUGHLIN.

New Brunswick Crack Players Turned Tables on Local "Pro."

Tracy L. Smith and Mortimer A. Wilson, the two crack players of the New Brunswick golf club turned the tables on "Marty" O'Loughlin, the Plainfield professional by giving him the worst defeat he has yet had this season, Sunday, on the links at New Brunswick, by defeating his best ball 8 up in 36 holes. The match started in the morning, but all three were not at the top of their game. O'Loughlin made 74, Smith 80 and Wilson 82. However, the local cracks were 5 up on the first eighteen holes. In the afternoon all took a brace and Smith made the second best score of the year on these links etting a 73. O'Loughlin made 75 and Wilson 80. The locals were three up on this eighteen holes, making 8 up on the 36.

It was expected O'Loughlin would break the amateur record of this course made and held by Smith, but the greens were not in the best of condition and O'Loughlin's drives were at times too far. This defeat makes up for the defeat the two local players suffered at the hands of "Marty" on the links here Thursday afternoon when he defeated their best ball 1 up on 36 holes. A large crowd followed the match.

THINK HE IS GOOD CROOK

Police Convinced that Boarding House Thief is Old Hand.

FACES SECOND CHARGE

Held For the Grand Jury Under Two Separate Counts—Victim Yearns for a Wallop at Him.

Another charge was made this morning against John Murn, the sneak-thief arrested yesterday afternoon just as he was preparing to take a train with two suit cases full of stolen apparel. The first charge, on which Murn was held for the Grand Jury yesterday afternoon, was made by Richard Bryan, who forced Murn to open a suit case at the station, after he had missed some things at his boarding house on North avenue, where Murn had been staying.

There was a variegated lot of stuff in the cases Murn carried, and the police were not surprised when Frank Skidmore, a bridge worker employed by the Central Railroad, who is staying at the North avenue house, came to the station house after the hearing and found a missing strick-pin, some shirts and a dress suit case among Murn's luggage. He made the second charge this morning, and City Judge Runyon held Murn in another $200 for the Grand Jury.

Murn denied his guilt yesterday afternoon, alleging that some one must have put the stuff in his cases, but he acknowledged it this morning. He came into the court room with a cut showing under his eye where Bryan biffed him after getting his goods back. Skidmore looked longingly at the other eye, and expressed indifference to prosecuting his complaint.

"I just want a wallop at him," he confided to Judge Runyon.

Murn told the court that drink must have led him to commit the theft, but the police believe he is a good crook. Detective-Sergeant John Flynn found a big bunch of keys on him, and he and Chief Kiely are convinced that he makes a practice of working boarding houses. His record will be investigated. He says Phillipsburg is his home.

MAY NAME M'CUTCHEN

Real Purpose of Borough Republican Leaders Said to be His Nomination.

MR. SAUNDERS STRONG

Popular With Democrats Who Are Likely to Nominate Him—Mr. McCutchen Is Out of Town.

It was learned last night by a representative of The Daily Press that it is said that the Republican leaders in North Plainfield are really grooming Charles W. McCutchen for the mayoralty to succeed Mayor Newton B. Smalley, whose term expires on January 1 next. The boom for Councilman Charles L. Lee, it is also stated, was started with the purpose of feeling the public pulse and to detract attention from the true purposes of those who propose to have Mr. McCutchen named for the office, provided he can be induced to run. He has been approached on the subject by some of the leaders within the last few weeks.

Mr. McCutchen is the largest property owner in the borough and has always taken much interest in its welfare. The manual training department of the public school system is one of his gifts to that municipality. During the annexation campaign some few years ago, he was one of the chief opponents to the scheme and his standing and influence had much to do with the result of that election. More recently, however, he signed the unanimous report of the Bi-municipal Consolidation Commission, which recommended annexation with consolidation.

There does not appear to be any opposition among the Democrats to the nomination of former Mayor William L. Saunders, who may be induced to run provided the platform of the Democrats will be consolidation with annexation and joint use of the city's sewage disposal system.

Mr. Saunders is out of town at present and his attitude could not be learned.

OLDEST ASSESSOR A VICTIM OF CANCER

A. S. BANGHART, A GREAT UNCLE OF E. F. SHEPPARD, IS DEAD.

Abram S. Banghart, seventy-seven years old, the veteran assessor of Lebanon Township, and the great uncle of Edgar F. Sheppard, of Westervelt avenue, died at his home in Glen Gardner, Saturday, of cancer of the stomach. He was born in Lebanon Township and always resided within its limits. He had held township office for forty-nine years, and enjoyed the distinction of being the oldest assessor in the State, having rounded out twenty-eight consecutive years as such. He was a brother of the late State Senator David H. Banghart, of Hunterdon county, who also died of cancer.

At the outbreak of the Civil War Mr. Banghart was commissioned a captain by Governor Olden, and later Governor Joel Parker made him recruiting officer for this district, and he filled the position with so much satisfaction to the State authorities that upon his retirement he was presented with a handsome sword for faithful and valuable service. Mr. Banghart's great-grandfather, Jacob Banghart, who came here in 1740, with his wife and five sons from Germany, was identified with the settlement of this section, and the grandfather of Mr. Banghart was an employe of the historic iron foundry, the ruins of which still stand on the Exton farm, a mile south of this village. He there helped make cannonballs for Washington's army during the Revolutionary War.

The home of this ancestor was located on the site of the present State Tuberculosis Sanitarium, and it was the homestead of the Banghart family for 133 years. Mr. Banghart married Miss Esther Martenis, a sister of the late Judge Peter Martenis, in 1857, and four children blessed the union, all of whom are living, as follows: Mrs. Ida Johnson, of Phillipsburg; Frank Banghart, of Bloomsbury; Mrs. Emma Madigan, of Elizabeth, and Mrs. Eva Hagerman, of Phillipsburg. Mr. and Mrs. Banghart celebrated their golden wedding in March last, surrounded by their children and a number of friends.

Struck On the Head By Door.

MR. MELLICK'S POSITION

Desires to Retire from Council But May Take Unanimous Renomination.

MR. FISK WANTS HIM

The Mayor and Others Urge Him to Continue—He Defines the Conditions.

Recognizing his almost invaluable services in the Common Council, friends of George P. Mellick, a member-at-large from the Second ward, are urging him to accept a renomination as exclusively announced in the Daily Press on Saturday. As told then it is by no means certain that he can be induced to continue in office, but the prospects are now more hopeful.

Confirming The Daily Press statement, Mr. Mellick spoke freely last night concerning his inclination to retire at the end of the present term, but he admitted that a condition might arise where he would be impelled to look upon the matter in another light. Should his constituents in the Second unanimously desire him to serve another term, the able councilman, and there never has been a better one, confesses that it would be a duty to the city for him to accept no matter how much his personal wishes might otherwise influence him.

"As you know," said Mr. Mellick last night to a representative of The Daily Press, "I am deeply interested in our city and am always willing and glad to use my humble efforts in its behalf. It has been my intention to retire at the end of my present term, but Mayor Fisk and others seem to want me to continue. I like to do whatever I can for Mr. Fisk and if he believes I can be of any assistance to him as a councilman and if my constituents so desire, I think it would be my duty to accept a renomination. One thing I would like to make plain. That is, I will not allow any contest to be made so far as I am concerned. I would not seek the nomination; neither would I enter into any fight for election."

It is said to be hardly possible that the New Idea people would place any obstacle in Mr. Mellick's way, especially in view of his excellent record in the Councilmanic body. As stated by The Daily Press on Saturday, Mr. Ginna has positively said that he desires to spend the winter in Florida and does not want another nomination.

REV. MR. NICKERSON'S FATHER PROMINENT IN NEW ENGLAND TOWN.

Franklin Nickerson, father of Rev. A. C. Nickerson, of this city, who died Tuesday morning last, had been a resident of Nantucket for nearly eighty years. Born in Barnstable, at Cotuit, he came to Nantucket at the age of eleven years and was for some time employed in the store of his elder brother, the late Joseph Nickerson. At the time of the great fire, in 1846, he had been for some years one of the firm of Nickerson & Waitt. The fire destroyed both stores of this firm, one dealing in groceries, the other in shoes, hats and caps. After the fire, Mr. Nickerson built the store at the corner of Main and Federal streets, Nantucket, doing business there many years, and also conducting a branch establishment on Orange street. Mr. Nickerson's health seriously failed in the early sixties, and his retirement from business some years later was an enforced one. This handicap of physical enfeeblement he carried with him to the limits of extreme age, he having lived to enter his ninetieth year.

Franklin Nickerson was married in 1840 to Priscilla Chase Morris, eldest daughter of William W. Morris, of Nantucket. There was one son by this marriage, Rev. Alfred Chase Nickerson, pastor of All Souls' Unitarian church. Mrs. Nickerson died in April, 1847, and on November 19, 1849, Mr. Nickerson married Eliza Jane Hallett, of Hartford, Ct. By this marriage two daughters came to bless the household, the eldest dying in early childhood, the younger being Miss Emma Louise Nickerson.

PERKINS MEETS LEADERS

Holds Conference With City Clerk MacMurray and City Judge Runyon.

COUNTS ON SUPPORT

Assemblyman Says Mr. MacMurray Favors His Candidacy for a Renomination.

That Assemblyman Randolph Perkins is bound to leave no stone unturned in his effort to make a showing at the county convention is quite evident inasmuch as the Westfielder is busying himself these days in visiting the leaders in various sections. This morning he spent in conference with City Clerk MacMurray and City Judge William N. Runyon, the head of last year's New Idea campaign, joined in the pow-wow.

Mr. Perkins has been frequently quoted as saying that Mr. MacMurray is heartily in favor of his renomination and he counts upon the local leader for suport at the convention. Mr. MacMurray has declined to say anything for publication except that he is a personal friend of the Westfielder. It is not believed probable that City Judge Runyon will give Mr. Perkins any aid, especially when it is remembered that the actions of the leader of the Republican minority in the Lower House at Trenton has generally stood for policies opposed to the New Idea plans, excepting when he voted against John F. Dryden.

Mr. Perkins also counts on some support from Factory Inspector Andrew McCardell. It is said that he believes that County Chairman Frank H. Smith is against him, but Mr. Smith, himself, declares that he is taking no part in the squabble.

After the conference, Mr. Perkins left in his automobile for Rahway where he attended a meeting of the Hahn investigating committee, which is looking into the condition of affairs at the Rahway Reformatory. He declined to talk for publication regarding his candidacy for a renomination.

CANNED BEEF FOR SUPPER, FIVE OF FAMILY SICK

GEO. W. SCRIBNER AND FOUR CHILDREN SUFFERING FROM PTOMAINE POISON.

As the result of eating canned beef for supper last Friday evening, George W. Scribner and his four children, of East Sixth street, are seriously ill at their home, suffering with ptomaine poisoning. Mrs. Scribner, the only member of the family who is not sick, had supper at a neighbor's house that evening.

The four children, with their father, ate heartily of the potted beef for their supper and late that night were seized with violent cramps. Mrs. Scribner, who had not been at home for supper, was alarmed at the sufferings of the others and summoned Dr. W. Kempton Browning. A diagnosis showed that all five were suffering from acute ptomaine poisoning. Mr. Scribner feels convinced that the trouble came from the meat, for nothing else which they had at the meal could have caused it.

While none of the partakers of the canned beef are in a dangerous condition, it will be several days before they entirely recover from the effects of the poisoning.

Funeral of Patrick Kane.

The funeral services of Patrick Kane were held from St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock this morning, where there was a large gathering of relatives and friends. Father Delehanty was the celebrant of the requiem mass. There were many floral tributes. The burial was in St Mary's cemetery and the pall-bearers were Michael Keeney, Andrew Benford, Patrick Kearns, Charles Callahan, Daniel Conway and William Ryan.

New Gas Service Pipes.

The gas departmen of the Public Service Corporation has completed the work of making new service pipe connections on the south side of Front street, in the business sections, and work has been started on the north side. This will be finished before the brick paving is started on that thoroughfare.

Back From Camp Wanamassa.

Fred Martin, Edward Hardingham, Edward Wigman, John H. McCullough and R. F. Randolph have returned home after a vacation sojourn at Camp Wanamassa, Deal Lake. There are now ten Plainfielders at the camp.

Miss Rena Holmes, of Belmont avenue, left today for a two weeks' stay at Ocean Grove.

MEEKER GETS CONTRACT

Highest Bid for Laying Permanent Pavement Decided Most Satisfactory.

CALLAHAN FOR SEWERS

Elizabeth Contractor Awarded the Job of Extending Sanitary Sewers—Work to Begin Soon.

C. M. Meeker received the contract for brick paving, and T. Foster Callahan, of Elizabeth, the contract for building the proposed sanitary sewers, at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night. Mr. Meeker's bid was $39,441.32, Pennsylvania Clay Company brick to be used. The bid submitted by Mr. Callahan, which was accepted, was $24,089.20.

In deciding the brick paving question, City Engineer Gavett presented a report giving the four lowest bids as follows:

T. J. McGovern, Layton brick, $36,742.90, which was irregular and thrown out; Hassam Paving Company, Layton brick, $37,734.38; Hassam Paving Company, Clearfield Company brick, $38,366.16; C. M. Meeker, Pennsylvania Clay Company brick, $39,441.32.

The report stated that a test of the various kinds of brick included in the bids, had been made and that the Pennsylvania Clay Company brick, known as "Brady's Run," came up to the standard, while the others did not.

Following the report, Mr. Gloak, acting in the absence of Chairman Ginna, of the street committee, said that he would offer a resolution awarding the contract to Mr. Meeker, if assured that his bid would be accepted by the Common Council. The assurance being given, he forthwith offered the resolution, which was adopted, all the members present voting in favor.

The resolution stated that the bid of Mr. Meeker was the lowest satisfactory bid received and that he be awarded the contract after the necessary papers in the contract are executed. The successful bidder will be given ten days in which to prepare the papers for approval. The Pennsylvania Clay Company has given a bond for $20,000, agreeing to furnish shipments of brick within twenty days of the time ordered, it being understood that the entire number shall not be ordered at one time. This will protect the city and contractor and prevent any delay in the progress of the work.

Similar action was taken by the Common Council in the case of Mr. Callahan's bid for the sanitary sewer work. He is also given ten days in which to execute the necessary papers and have his bond approved. It is not known how soon Mr. Meeker will strat his work, or Mr. Callahan begin the sewer work, but it will probably be within the next two or three weeks, or just as soon as the bonds are approved.

It has been decided by City Engineer Andrew J. Gavett to start the brick paving at Park avenue and Front street and go through Park avenue to Fourth street. All of the sewer and other pipe connections have been made underground on Park avenue, between Front street and the bridge, the necessary connections will b made as far as Fourth street. East and West Front street and Watchung avenue will be paved afterward. Contractor C. M. Meeker says that barring trouble in getting materials or unforeseen accidents, he will complete the job before cold weather arrives.

Bridge Work Progressing.

The bridge construction gang at work on the New Jersey Central in this city put in the third section of the new structures at Park and Watchung avenues, last night. The fourth and last section will be put in position next week, when all four tracks will be opened for regular traffic. The company will lay concrete walks beneath the Watchung and Park avenue bridges.

Will Collect Mail at 3.15.

Postmaster E. H. Bird has at last secured the new time-cards for the letter-boxes throughout the city and they are being put in position. One change will be noted. The time for the collection of mail Sunday afternoons will be 3.15 instead of 3.45 o'clock, as heretofore. This will give the needed extra time at the postoffice to assort the mail before sending it out of town.

Will Rebuild Commercial Mills.

A. L. Cadmus, of Plainfield avenue, whose Commercial Mills were partially destroyed by fire a few months ago, has decided to rebuild the old walls and the work will be started at once.

Mrs. A. D. Edgar, of East Front street, has recovered from an illness that detained her at home for several days.

CAKE WALK AT TRUELL HALL.

John Taylor and Partner Take the Cake and Gold Prize.

John Taylor and his partner, Miss Melinda Brown, of this city, won the prize at the cake walk given at Truell Hall, last night, under the direction of Arthur Smith, head waiter. Three couples engaged in the cake walk for a cake containing a $2.50 gold piece, and it was the unanimous opinion that John Taylor and his partner were entitled to it. They were heartily applauded by the guests and their friends to the number of over 200.

The affair was a great success and proved a pleasing form of entertainment.

Second Sight Accusation.

A 14-year-old girl complained to Chief Kiely this morning that the woman for whom she worked as housemaid had accused her of stealing two stick-pins. The little girl was indignant. The woman had made no complaint, so the police had no part in the case. The girl was advised to leave the place, and leave the woman to make the next move. The employer made the charge against the little girl after a visit to a clairvoyant. She said the seeress declared the girl had the pins.

His Sanity Questioned.

An examination is to be made as to the sanity of Samuel Matthews, the Piscataway man who was committed to jail last Sunday, after having tried to kill his wife with an axe. Matthews is not a drinking man, and no cause can be ascribed for his outbreak of murderous passion. His friends are inclined to believe that he is insane. County Physician Suydam will make the examination early this week.

Match Burns Eyelid.

An attempt to show that a lighted match resulted in the injury of William Gray, of East Third street, yesterday morning. The oil didn't ignite, but the head of the match flew off when Gray struck it, and buried itself in its eyelid. The burn is a painful one, and the irritation has affected his eye. He abandoned the experiment.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

In their anxiety to win Saturday's game from Clinton Avenue, the Scotch Plains team and supporters passed the fever heat and indulged in personalities that should have been cut out. It was a bitter pill for the Plains aggregation to swallow, but they could not withstand the superior playing of their opponents. Randolph had his opponents completely at his mercy, allowing but one hit up to the ninth inning. The home team could not possibly hope to win when it made such a poor showing with the stick. The Clinton Avenues are entitled to the honors and the fans will join in giving them their due.

Clinton Avenue and the Laurels, of Bound Brook, will cross bats at Crescent Oval, Saturday.

Sparks is doing some fine pitching for the Phillies. Beating the Cubs twice in the same series is whipping them over some.

There is a strong likelihood that a rule will be passed next season prohibiting pitchers from rubbing the shine off of new balls.

McGraw's team leads in home runs. They have made eighteen of the boundary bingles, which exceeds the number made by any other club in either big league.

Chicago defeated the Philadelphia Athletics in two games on Sunday, the score in each contest being 1 to 0.

Larry Doyle, of the Giants, leads the National League batters, according to the latest averages. He has a percentage of .368 for sixteen games.

Each of the two New York teams has won two games in one day, the Nationals twice—from St. Louis and Pittsburg—and the Americans once—from Chicago.

There are few first basemen as good as Bob Unglaub at digging up low throws.

The Northwestern League appears to have the star base runner of the county. His name is Rowan, and he plays with the Spokane Club. He has stolen fifty-four bases in eighty-four games.

GOLF.

Although the present golf season in the East is only at its height, it has already become remarkable because of the many record breaking performances. From early spring there has scarcely been a week in which records of an exceptional nature have not been returned over nearby links.

Shortly before he sailed in quest of international fame, Alec Smith, Nassau Country Club professional, went round his home course in 66. This, it was believed, would probably stand for a long time, but Smith had not been here long after his return from abroad when he did Nassau in 65. This represents about the best golf ever played by the former national open champion.

Scarcely less meritorious was the recent 60 credited to Walter J. Travis at Garden City. The veteran amateur had on various occasions been round between 71 and 75, and it seemed almost beyond human possibility to do much better over this long and trying circuit, covering a playing length of 6,400 yards. Travis holed a 3 at the 400-yard sixteenth and rimmed the cup for a 2 at the home hole. In the open handicap at Shinnecock Hills on Saturday Travis made a 71, equalling the course record.

Jerome D. Travers, of Montclair, went to Wilmington in June and in addition to winning the tournament at the Country Club succeeded in breaking both the 18 and 36 hole records with rounds of 73 and 79 for a total of 152. In private match at Euclid during the national championship week Travers established a new record with an even 70, and his 77 at the Wykagyl Country Club was another new mark. Since Travers made the round, however, Seymour Dunn, the Wykagyl "pro," cut this mark a stroke.

A few weeks ago at Montclair Marshall Whitlatch put in a great day. He started one morning with a round of 79 and after luncheon returned a 75. Not satisfied he started out for a third circuit of the links and this time his persistence was rewarded with a score of 70, which broke the old record held by Travers by a stroke.

About this time Dave Hunter, the Essex County Country Club professional, broke all records for the lengthened course at Hutton Park with a score of 67. The best an amateur has ever accomplished there is 73. In the recent professional tournament at Van Cortlandt Park Gilbert Nicholls made two rounds in 69, breaking the old record of 70. Nicholls followed this up with another 69 at Maplewood last week. This was also a record.

The handicap committee of the Massachusetts Golf Association is busily engaged upon a revision of the handicap for the fall season. Notice has been sent out to the club handicappers, with the request that the club lists be checked up with the state list and changes and additions sent to the state committee.

Thus far 177 changes have been made in he handicaps since the issue of the spring list, while fifty-three names have been added. It is believed that more than three hundred corrections will be made and more than one hundred new names placed on the alphabetical list. The latter will then contain more than twenty-three hundred names.

So far as bringing the fields together is concerned, the handicapping has given better results, more than half the players in each tournament being grouped at scores within ten strokes of the scratch score of the links. On the other hand, there have been several cases of players returning a winning score considerably below the scratch score of the links. The usual explanation has been that the player on the day in question went around in lower figures than he ever had in practice. In other words, he played better than the average of his best game.

The new list will be ready for the Essex County club tournament at Manchester, August 29 to 31. On the first Saturday in September and every Saturday thereafter up to the end of October there will be a handicap at one of the clubs in the association, for which the list will be available.

HARDMAN AUTOTONE
THE WONDERFUL SELF-PLAYER.

For the busy man who has not had time to study music, or having studied has not had time to devote to piano playing to keep in practice so that he might execute the sort of music he likes to hear, th Hardman Autotone Piano is a great boon, for it enables the tired and fagged out office worker to sit down at will and soothe himself with the music of the masters, being able to execute it perfectly by means of this wonderful self-player.

So with the busy housewife who with the cares of home and of children, perhaps, finds little time to keep her fingers as nimble as they once were and to keep brushed up on music. To the woman as well as to the man the Hardman Autotone comes as a great relief. Any moment of the day that a woman may wish for music, she can sit down without previous preparation and play anything she may wish to hear—sacred music, operatic music, classical compositions, up to the most difficult oratorios.

Children, too, may play the Hardman Autotone almost equally well with grown folks. Even though children have had musical instruction they cannot always attain that degree of proficiency in execution which enables them to play the music of the great composers with the degree of accuracy necessary to a proper rendition; and when there are children's parties in the house and the little folks would like to dance the Autotone will help them to just the sort of music that will most delight them.

For the young man at college the Hardman Autotone is a real blessing, enabling the boys to have ragtime if they wish it or better music if they are inclined that way—but all the time some music.

In fact, the Hardman Autotone is a universal instrument which can be played by any one with splendid effect, and it is something that should be in every home.

We make it easy for any one to buy an Autotone.

Come in any time and hear it played, and learn prices and terms.

We will be glad to send you our beautiful Piano Book telling you all about this wonderful instrument and other pianos we sell.

It is free for the asking.

OLD PARTY LEADERS ARE FINANCIAL ALLIES

ALDEN FREEMAN SAYS THEY ARE ASSOCIATED IN BIG COMPANIES.

Alden Freeman, of East Orange, Chairman of the Independent Voters' County Committee of Essex County, gave out on Sunday a statement regarding the meeting of independent voters to be held in Newark Aug. 19, at which George W. Tomkins, independent candidate for Mayor of Newark last year; Judge Elwood C. Harris and Herman B. Walker, of Orange, will speak, and it is hoped 10,000 independents will attend.

"The purpose of this meeting," said Mr. Freeman, "is not to form a new party. The issue is becoming very sharply defined between special privilege on one side and the rights of the great body of citizens on the other side.

"It has long been conceded in New Jersey that the State administration, whether in the hands of the Democrats or Republicans, rarely appoints any one to the bench, to a prosecutorship or to any board of assessment or taxation who is not acceptable to the railroad, Public Service Corporation, insurance, banking, trust company and brewery combines, which, working hand in hand, rule New Jersey today. Glance at the list of directors of the Public Service Corporation and you will find side by side the names of William C. Heppenheimer, treasurer of the Democratic State Committee, and Ferdinand W. Roebling, President of the Roebling Wire Works, of which Senator Briggs, Chairman of the Republican State Committee, is treasurer.

"Look at the list of directors of the Federal Trust Company, of Newark, ex-Senator Smith, the Democratic boss, who retires from politics with the regularity of an actress or prima donna from the stage, is president. Then there are Joseph M. Bryne and Gottfried Krueger, who are the connecting links with the Union National Bank of Newark, in which we find Judge Gray, of the Courts of Appeals (also among the Public Service directors), and the presidents of the Prudential Insurance Company, the Public Service Corporation, the Fidelity Trust Company and the Feigenspan Brewing Company. In the Federal Trust Company we find also the boss of Union county, Hamilton S. Kean, a brother of Senator Kean, and Peter Hauck, Jr., president of the Home Brewing Company.

"The most recent and significant accession to this financial combine is the election of William S. Gummere, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of New Jersey, as a director of ex-Senator Smith's Federal Trust Company, of Newark."

Mr. Freeman added that the control of both political parties by these men and interests with their various allies, the bosses of other counties, has become a serious matter for representative government in New Jersey.

According to the plans of the independents, extra ballot boxes will be provided in every election district which petitions for them so that those who may be challenged or who may be sensitive about voting at primaries at which it is the intent of the law they should not vote may vote. Mr. Freeman also says that the problem might be solved if the independents of both parties should rise to the occasion and unitedly vote at the primary of either old party.

WILLIAM L. SAUNDERS!

It would be a wise move on the part of the Democrats in North Plainfield to nominate William L. Saunders for the mayoralty. In the first place they could agree upon no one so well qualified, for it is very doubtful if there is a single man in the whole borough who would so fit a man for the place. He has already demonstrated his aggressiveness and progressiveness in that office and aside from that fact he is most deeply interested in the welfare of the community of which North Plainfield is a part. In the business world, the former mayor has given ample proof of his rare ability as an executive, the great manufacturing concern of which he is the head really being a monument to his achievements.

In addition to all this, the fact that Mr. Saunders stands for a definite policy regarding the borough's future should make him the "man of the hour" for his party. There is nothing of the politician in his makeup. He is frank and above-board in all his ideas and methods and especially so concerning those relating to the movement to unite the borough with the city of Plainfield, of which he is the father. Should he be named, there would be a clear cut issue upon which to conduct the campaign. Consolidation with annexation would be the slogan and the result of that election would finally decide the proposition one way or the other.

Woman Ties Up Crook.

New York, Aug. 13.—Not content with catching George Marthesi, eighteen years old, of No. 459 East One Hundred and Forty-ninth street, who broke into her home at First street and Havemeyer avenue, Westchester, early yesterday, Mrs. Margaret Bossman tore his shirt into strips, made a rope of them and tied him securely. When the police arrived some time later they found Marthesi done up in a neat package, all ready for delivery. The burglar fought the heroine, blackening one of her eyes, but she hung on like grim death. Finally she bore him to the ground with an avalanche of swings and scratches. When she got him down Mrs. Bossman called for her daughter, Ida, and the two women tore the burglar's shirt off his back and bound his wrists and ankles. He pleaded hard for his liberty, but Mrs. Bossman refused to listen.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. E. Larson, of Fairview avenue, accompanied by their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Long, of Chester, Pa., are enjoying a two weeks' automobile trip through the mountains of New Hampshire.

WITH DOSE OF ACID HE ENDS HIS LIFE

JOHN RENNER, SEPARATED FROM FAMILY; COMMITS SUICIDE IN ELIZABETH.

John Renner, a German, aged fifty years, of Elizabeth, and a former resident of Newark, committed suicide some time Sunday night by taking a big dose of carbolic acid at the boarding-house of John Meakin, 1025 East Grant street, in Elizabeth.

Renner was found lying dead in ben when called to come to breakfast, and the empty bottle that had held the poison was lying beside him. He was a cabinet-maker by trade, and was in the employ of Heidritter Brothers, lumber merchants, of Elizabethport. Renner came to Elizabeth July 3 from Newark, where he had a wife and one child. He had been separated from his family for some time. Worrying over this is supposed by the police to have caused him to kill himself.

The body was removed to Stiner's morgue, Elizabethport.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

"The College Widow," by George Ade, which will appear at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night, was the greatest success of the year in New York. The main topic of the comedy is football and a very pretty and well connected plot strings the four acts together. Aside from the main story there are several counterplots and a rich lot of characters are introduced. Mr. Ade, himself a graduate of one of the smaller universities, gives some rare views of the minor college town. A dozen characters who have little to do with the plot give the observer his lasting impressions of "The College Widow." The football recruit from the foundry taking a special course in art; the painfully shy freshman, "Bub" Hicks of Squantumville, who becomes Sport Hicks in three short months; the town marshal and "the prominent waitress," all these are so human that the play has a surpassing freshness.

The first melo-dramatic attraction at the New Plainfield theatre will be a real thriller, "The Cowboy and The Squaw" showing Western Ranch life in Montana. A feature of the piece is in the introduction of a race between a wild steer and a wild bronco showing the rescue of the hero Bronco Bob by Silver Heels, an Indian maid. The play will be seen Thursday night.

"The Other House," the new comedy which the Messrs. Shubert will present at the Madison Square theatre, New York, August 19, will have its premiere here at the New Plainfield theatre on Friday night. "The Other House," which is the joint work of Harry and Ed. Paulton, authors of "Ermine," "Niobe," and "Dorcas," is said to be the best ecort of the Paultons. The story of the play records the trials and hardships of an aged inventor, who is aiming to better the condition of his fellow workers. Although not in any sense of the word a problem play, it deals in a clean cut and frank manner with existing social conditions in the mill town, and though almost seeming paradoxical has a well defined and logical plot and yet remains a comedy.

No production of a musical kind was made last season that created such a flood of favorable criticisms as "Little Johnny Jones." Everybody spoke of "Little Johnny Jones" as the most original, the most thoroughly American, and the most clever entertainment of the kind that has been witnessed for many years, and it has stamped George M. Cohan as one of the most gifted authors and composers who is now supplying the stage with entertainment. The same beautiful and stupendous production that made "Little Johnny Jones" one of the notable attractions of last season will be seen in this city, Saturday, matinee and night. The scenery is spoken of as realistic and beautiful and includes three full stage sets of enormous size and massiveness. The wardrobe is also promised as being very beautiful; many consider it the most extravagantly gowned show in America.

Actors and actresses have peculiar fads, and there is no telling what direction these fads will take. One actress will collect souvenir post cards. Another wants stick pins. Still another wants spoons and others want hatpins. Plainfield department stores will do well to keep an eye out for Miss Juliet Wood, who will play at the New Plainfield theatre with Yorke and Adams on August 19. Miss Wood is said to possess a very bad case of stocking habit. Most of the divinities of the farce and musical comedy stage are noted for the elegance and super-abundance of their hosiery, but Miss Wood is credited with being at the top of the tree in this respect.

Mrs. Mary J. Powell.

Mrs. Mary J. Powell, wife of Clement Powell, died yesterday afternoon at her home, 678 West Fourth street, following a long illness. She is survived by a husband. The funeral service will be held from St. Mary's church, tomorrow morning, and the burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

Dammers EYESIGHT SPECIALIST

ONE DAY ONLY.

Parlors of Hotel Kensington, Plainfield.

Friday, August 16

HOURS—9.00 a. m. until 4.00 p. m.

Your eyes will be examined by THE DAMMERS SCIENTIFIC METHOD. Positively the only absolutely correct way to fit glasses.

NO DROPS USED.—Those who have been examined for GLASSES by men who claim to examine eyes by the old, incorrect way, which is done by everyone who supplies glasses but us, will be agreeably surprised by our scientific and wonderful methods of fitting glasses.

We correct your eye defects by looking in the eyes, taking the exact scientific measurements of the focus and shape of the eyes.

NO QUESTIONS ASKED, no trying glasses on your face, until we have determined your exact optical error.

The old tedious and tiresome way of trying to fit glasses is either putting drops in the eyes, which often causes BLINDNESS, or by trying on a lot of glasses, and asking you "Can you see these letters?" or "Do these glasses make you see better?"

After your Optician does a lot of guessing and has your eyes all out of shape, you think you have been examined.

Think this over, and you can readily see that you have been doing your own examining, and that is no doubt the reason you have had trouble to get glasses correct.

THIS IS ABSOLUTELY THE HIGHEST CLASS WORK DONE IN FITTING GLASSES IN AMERICA—DON'T SUFFER WITH HEADACHE.

We have produced astonishing results from brain fag, nervous debility, insomnia, dizziness, nausea, WATERY EYES, blurry vision, and other troubles caused by EYE STRAIN. We have corrected by the use of glasses cross eyes and Astigmatism by our scientific methods.

Says Japan Can Whip U's.

Chicago, Aug. 13.—Prof. Frederick Starr, anthropologist of the University of Chicago, believes Japan could defeat the United States in war. He says it is a mistake to send a great American fleet into the Pacific, as the ships are quite likely to show how inefficient the navy is. His views were presented in an address on "Japan" Sunday in All Souls church. Among the pointed statements he made were these: "Japan, from our standard, has not a superior as a world-power today. I am not afraid of a yellow peril. I think of what the peril has been. Where are the red men and the black men? We are inclined to think Russia's army was rotten. But Russia was the only power which stood a chance with Japan."

Four Die in Shipwreck.

New York, August 14.—Running at reduced speed through a thick haze off Stratford Shoal Light, Long Island Sound, near Bridgeport, Conn. the Neptune steamer, Tennessee, cut in two and sunk the three-masted schooner Myronus at 3.30 o'clock yesterday morning. The schooner sank two minutes after she was struck, and four seaman were lost. The passengers on the Tennessee were thrown into a panic, but none was injured and all were later transferred to the Maine of the Norwich line and brought to New York. The Tennessee, practically uninjured, except for a smashed rail, followed under her own steam. Both vessels were on their way to New York when the collision occurred.

TELEGRAPH OFFICES HERE FEEL STRIKE

HAVE TROUBLE TRANSMITTING; MESSAGES RECEIVED SUBJECT TO DELAY.

The influence of the telegraph operators' strike in New York and other parts of the country is being felt in this city today, where all commercial business is being accepted at the Western Union and Postal offices subject to delay. General conditions at the Western Union office are slightly improved over those at the Postal office, for the company has a few wires working between here and New York, while the Postal office is practically out of business.

Operator Pendergast at the Postal office, was able to get New York but once this morning, and then he received but two messages. At different times during the day he would make an effort to get the office in New York, without success.

At the New York office of the Western Union the company is pressing clerks and everyone available to handle the business, and considerable delay is occasioned. At the local office of the company about one-third of the usual business is being done today. Many persons wishing to send telegrams have hesitated doing so when informed that they will be received subject to delay, preferring to use other means of communicating with ther relatives or friends. The telephone has proved a friend indeed to hundreds of Plainfielders in carrying on their business out of town.

Conditions have not improved in New York today, despite the claims of the company officials, and a meeting has been called for later in the day when it will be decided whether the operators on leased wires will be called out. Those who are managing the strike seem determined to make the tie-up as complete as possible in their efforts to exact what they claim is only due them.

RAILROAD CENSURED BY CORONER'S JURY

LEHIGH VALLEY MANAGEMENT HELD NEGLIGENT AS RESULT OF A DEATH.

The inquest to fix the responsibility of the death of James E. Sherman, the rural delivery mail carrier, who was instantly killed at the crossing of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, near Roycefield, last Friday morning, was begun in the Somerset Court House at Somerville yesterday morning before Coroner Fred A. Wilde and a jury of business men. The examination of the witnesses was conducted by Assistant County Prosecutor Johnson. There is much indignation over the killing of Sherman among the farmers of South Somerville, owing to the alleged dangerous condition of the crossing.

Witnesses at the inquest yesterday testified that in approaching the crossing it was impossible to see the smoke of a locomotive more than 800 feet away. Michael McGinley, the engineer of the express which killed Sherman, testified that his train struck the mail carrier's wagon at the rate of fifty-five miles an hour. The horse was killed and the wagon and Sherman's body were carried on the pilot of the engine a half a mile, he said, before the train was brought to a standstill. The engineer said he saw Sherman drive on the crossing and jerk the reins so that the horse raised its head and an instant later he heard a crash and saw a bunch of letters and loose postage stamps come through his cab window.

He testified that he blew his whistle and had taken every precaution to avoid the accident. Henry Staats, a farmer's boy, who saw Sherman killed, testified that he saw him urge his horse up the steep incline.

Arthur Demaray and James Aten, farmers, testified that they had hairbreadth escapes on the crossing and that engineers frequently failed to give warning at this point.

The coroner's jury rendered a verdict holding the Lehigh Valley Railroad criminally negligent and recommended that the crossing be protected in the future.

Sherman was buried from his late residence on Bridge street, Sunday. He was the third occupant of the house who has recently met a violent death on the railroad. Mrs. Mary McCarthy, one of Mrs. Sherman's neighbors, who called to tender her sympathies Sudnay, fell down a flight of stairs in the house and broke her collar-bone.

Missionary Starved Himself.

New York, August 13—Investigation by Coroner's Physician Albert T. Weston of the death of Peter H. Peters, an itinerant missionary, established the fact yesterday that he had died in St. Vincent's Hospital of starvation. He was dying when admitted to the hospital, on Aug. 6, and succumbed twelve hours later. Before his death he gave the physicians to understand that he was a Christian Scientist. Acuaintances of Peters say he was not a follower of "Mother" Eddy. Peters was fifty years old and had been blind for seventeen years. He was taken to St. Vincent's Hospital from the Minetta Mission, at No. 12 Sixth avenue. The Rev. Samuel H. Hale, a colored minister who conducts the mission, gave refuge to Peters a month ago. The latter became ill and refused food for a week before his death. He was afflicted with an incurable ailment, and was accustomed to try fasting to obtain relief. The body is in the Morgue, where it awaits a claimant.

Plainfield in the Olden Days...

Re-printed from The Constitutionalist

From the issue of Sept. 23, 1869:

"Workmen are now engaged in making cells in the 'lock-up' on Cherry street. Look out now, young fellows!"

"The Plainfield city tax is only 37 cents on the hundred dollars, a percentage small enough to satisfy any reasonable man. Now if our Common Council will stop talking about nothing, commence practical business, and judiciously expend the money for things that are needed, the advantages of a city charter will be apparent to all and the cost of it oppressive to none."

"On Thursday evening of last week, a new Fire Company was organized in this place, who will take possession of 'Gazelle's' as soon as the new steamer for that company arrives. She will thereafter be known as 'Warren, No. 3.' The following officers were elected in the new company: Barnamas Moore, foreman; Gottfrey Herold, first assistant; John Cass, second assistant. The company numbers some 20 members and are just the kind of men to do duty. 'Warren, No. 3' will be located in North Plainfield."

"We notice that active preparations have commenced for the erection of two new engine houses, on Second street, between Cherry and Mechanic streets. One of them is designed for 'Zephyr H. and L. Co., No. 1,' and the other for 'Gazelle Engine Co., No. 1.' The 'Zephs' have waited patiently two years for that house, and we are glad that their long deferred hopes are about to be realized. The contract has been awarded to John King for the carpenter work and Isaac Pangborn for the mason work. The contract calls for the completion of the house by Dec. 1. Price $6,100. The front will be a double one of 30 feet. Graham & Co., architects."

From the issue of October 7, 1869:

"Pursuant to public notice, the Democracy of Plainfield assembled in their room, Saturday evening, 2nd inst., for the purpose of electing delegates to the forthcoming county and district conventions. Joseph W. Yates was appointed chairman and John Gilligan, secretary. The following named gentlemen were selected as such delegates:

"County convention—Daniel J. Marshall, James E. Martine, John B. Brown, John Simpson, Levi Hetfield, Joseph W. Yates, John M. Gilligan.

"What is the matter and who has charge of our town clock. Sometimes we hear it tolling out twelve o'clock when it should strike one, and visa-versa. We believe the clock was bought by contribution, and for several years was regulated by different parties, who volunteered to keep it in motion, but as that has got to be 'played out,' we think it the duty of the Common Council to attend to the matter, and see that a competent person is employed to keep the clock in running order. It belongs to the city and the city should take care of it."

ABANDON BITULITHIC.

After a Trial, New Brunswick Returns to Brick.

New Brunswick, after paving three streets with bitulithic pavement, has gone back to brick as a paving material, at the demand of taxpayers. Residents on the streets paved with bitulithic complain that the pavement gives forth an odor of tar during hot days. Within the last few months the city has awarded four contracts for street paving with brick, and the price of each job has been an advance over a previous one.

A couple of months ago the city of New Brunswick was able to pave with Mack block for $2.25 per square yard. The next two jobs cost $2.35 per square yard, while the last bids for the work are $2.64 for the same kind of brick. Contractors claim that the high price of materials and labor and the increased freight rates have caused the increase in the bids.

Week's Services at Netherwood.

Paul Loizeaux was in charge of the evening meeting at the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp last night. Music was a feature. Tonight, the Plainfield Rescue Mission will conduct a service there and tomorrow evening the Plainfield Band will render a concert program for the children in the auditorium. Thursday evening the meeting will be in charge of Clarence Titus, of Roselle.

Netherwood Auditorium Wired.

Through the donation of George E. Hall and John D. Loizeaux, of the camp committee, electric lights have been installed at the new auditorium at the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp. The wires have been strung and eight 16-candle power lights have been installed. This will make it possible to have the evening's entertainment of the week held out doors.

SIMPLE TRICK WITH CARDS.

Will Mystify Ordinary Spectators, and Is Not Easy to Detect.

One of the simplest tricks to perform, but one not easily detected, can be executed by using a tapered deck of cards as shown in the figure. A cheap deck of cards is evened up square, fastened in a vise and planed along the edge in such a manner that all the pack will be tapered about one-sixteenth inch. This taper is exaggerated in the illustration, which shows one card that has been turned end for end.

It is evident that any card reversed in this way can be easily separated from the other cards in the pack, which makes it possible to perform the following trick: The performer spreads the cards out, fan like, and asks an observer to withdraw a card, which is then replaced in any part of the pack. After thoroughly shuffling the cards the performer then holds the deck in both hands behind his back and pronouncing a few magic words produces the card selected in one hand and the rest of the pack in the other. This is accomplished by simply turning the deck end for end while the observer is looking at his card, thus bringing the wide end of the selected card at the narrow end of the pack when it is replaced. The hands are placed behind the back for a double purpose, as the feat then seems more marvelous and the observers are not allowed to see how it is done.

FOR THE BARBER SHOP.

Inverted Clock a Boon to the "Man in the Chair."

Every barber shop has a clock which is invariably placed on the wall opposite the big mirror which faces the customer in the chair. The clock face is reversed as seen in the mirror, and it is a severe strain on the eyes to figure out the correct time. A jeweler in Glendine, Mont., has now invented a sane clock for barber shops. The figures on the dial are reversed, and the hands move just opposite to those of ordinary clocks. The result is the reflection in the glass is so "you can understand it." To demonstrate, hold this page in front of a mirror and read the time of the clock in the illustration.

OTTER CAME HOME AGAIN.

Pet Returned to Owner After Brief Hour of Freedom.

A curious instance of animal instinct and attachment in an otter is related by a Cork correspondent of the London Field. A few months ago in that city a man caught a live otter. Bringing the animal home, after some time, he succeeded in taming it, and trained it to fish.

One day he took it to the river for a swim, and while there it killed some fish, but succeeded in getting off the strap to which it was attached. After waiting some hours in a vain endeavor to induce the animal to leave the water the owner gave up in despair and returned home.

Late that night, while in bed, this man heard a scratching at the front door of his cottage, and to his great surprise, when he opened the door, in walked the otter, which he then secure. The most remarkable feature of this story is the fact that this man lived about a mile from the river and that his cottage was one in a row.

Odd Place for Bird's Nest.

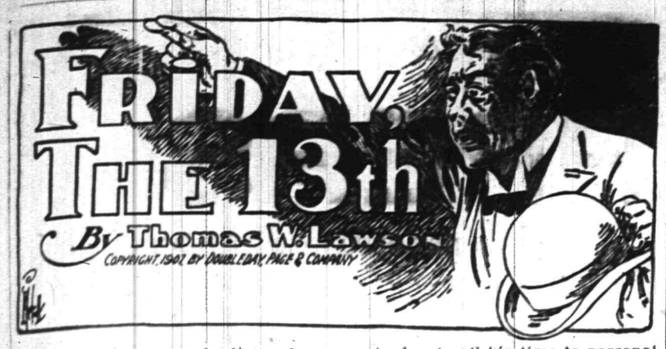
A thrush has built her nest at the back of the neck of the sculptured angel on the memorial to William Thimos Kine, the author, in St. Margaret's churchyard, Keddington, near Louth.

The memorial is protected by a wire cage, through which the bird managed to find its way. The cage also protects the birds, for no boys can possibly get at the nest, which now shelters the mother bird and five little thrushes.—London Evening Standard.

"Flat" Life Among the Birds.

A curious friendship has been observed here. A blackbird built her nest in a quiet covert in this neighborhood, and after laying four eggs she was joined by a thrush, who also laid four eggs in the same nest. Owing to the sheltered nature of their retreat, the hospitable blackbird and her friend hatched the double brood in peace.

This appears to be the earliest recorded instance of the maisonette in ornithology.—The Scotsman.



"Good Bob has come back to play with Beulah," she said, "she knew he would. They told Beulah Bob had gone away to the woods to gather pretty flowers. Beulah knew if Bob had gone to the woods he would have taken Beulah with him. Now Bob must play school with Beulah." She sat at her desk and opened her child's school-book. With mock severity she said, "Bob, c-a-t. What does it spell?" For half an hour Bob sat and played scholar and teacher by turns with all the patience of a fond father. With difficulty I kept back the tears the sad sight brought to my eyes.

For the first year of Bob's marriage we saw but little of him at the office. The Exchange saw less. He had wandered in upon the floor two or three times, but did no business and seemed to take but little interest.

"The Street" knew Bob had married the daughter of Judge Lee Sands; the victim of Tom Reinhart's cold-blooded Seaboard Air Line deal. Otherwise it knew nothing of the affair. His friends never met his wife. Occasionally they would pass the Brownley carriage on the avenue or in the park and, taking it for granted that the beautiful woman was Mrs. Brownley, they thought Bob a lucky fellow. It seemed quite natural that his wife should choose seclusion after the awful tragedy at her home in Virginia. But they could not understand why, with such cause for mourning, the exquisite figure beside Bob in the victoria should always be garbed in gray. After a while it was whispered that there was something wrong in Bob's household. Then his friends and acquaintances ceased to whisper or to think of his affairs. With all New York's bad points—and they are as plentiful as her church spires and charity bazaars—she has one offsetting virtue. If a dweller in her midst chooses to let New York alone, New York is willing to reciprocate. In her most crowded fashionable districts a person may come and go for a lifetime, and none in the block in which he dwells will know when his coming and going ceases. When a New Yorker reads in his newspaper of the man who lives next door to him, "murdered and his body discovered by the gas man" or the tax collector, the butcher or the baker, as the case may be, he never thinks he may have been remiss in his neighborly duties.

There is no such word as "neighbor" in the New York city dictionary. It may have been there once, but, if so, it was long ago used as a stake for the barbed-wire fence of exclusive keep-your-distance-and-we-keep-our-distance-until-we-know-youness. It is told of a minister from the rural districts, an old-fashioned American, who came to New York to take charge of a parish, that he started out to make calls and was seized in the hall of what in civilization would have been his next-door neighbor. He was rushed away to Bellevue for examination as to his sanity. The verdict was: "Insane. Had no letter of introduction and was not in the set."

Shortly after the first anniversary of his wedding Bob gave up his office with Randolph & Randolph and opened one for himself. He explained that he was giving up his commission business to devote all his time to personal trading. With the opening of his new office he again became the most active man on the floor. His trading was intermittent. For weeks he would not be seen at the Exchange or on "the Street." Then he would return and, after executing a series of brilliant trades, which were invariably successful, he would again disappear. He soon became known as the luckiest operator in Wall street, and the beginning of his every new deal was the signal for his fast-growing following to tag on.

From time to time I learned that Beulah Sands was making no real improvement, though in some details she had learned as a child learns. But there was no indication that she would ever regain her lost mind.

Strange stories of Bob's doings began to seep into my office. For long periods he would disappear. Neither the nurses in charge of his wife, nor his brother, mother, and sisters, for whom he had purchased a mansion a few blocks above his own, would hear a word from him. Then he would return as suddenly as he had disappeared, and his wild eyes and haggard face would tell of a prolonged and desperate soul struggle. He drank often now, a habit he had never before indulged in.

For ten days before the second anniversary of his marriage he had been missing. On the morning of the anniversary he appeared at the Exchange, wild-eyed and dare-devil reckless. The market had been advancing for weeks and was at a high level. Tom Reinhart and his branch of the "System" were working out a new fleecing of the public in Union and Northern Pacific. At the strike of the gong Bob took possession of the Union Pacific pole and in 30 minutes had precipitated a panic by his merciless selling. Our house was heavily interested in the Pacifics, although not in connection with Reinhart and his crowd. As soon as I got word that Bob was the cause of the slaughter. I rushed over to the Exchange and working my way into the crowd, I begged a word with him. He had broken both stocks over 50 points a share and the panic was raging through the room. He glared at me, but finally followed me out into the lobby. At first he would not heed my appeal, but finally he said, "Jim, it is too bad to let up. I had determined to rub this devilish institution off the map, but if it really is a case of injury to the house, it's my opportunity to do something for you who have done so much for me, so here goes." He threw himself into the Union Pacific crowd first giving an order to a group of his brokers, who jumped for a number of other poles. Almost instantly the panic was stayed and stocks were bounding upward two to five points at a leap. Bob continued buying Union Pacific and his brokers other stocks in unlimited quantities. Nothing like such a quick turn of the market had been seen before. His power to absorb stocks seemed to be boundless. It was estimated that personally and through his brokers he bought over a million shares before he joined me and left the Exchange.

I looked at him in wonderment. "Bob, I cannot understand you." I said at last as we turned out of Broad street into Wall. "It seems as if you work with magic. Everything you touch turns to gold."

He wheeled on me. "Yes, Jim you are right. Gold, heartless, soulless gold. But what is the dross good for? What is it good for to me? To-day I suppose I have made the biggest one-man killing in the history of 'the Street.' I must be an easy twenty-five millions richer in gold than I was this morning, and I had enough then to dam the East river and a good section of the North. But tell me, Jim, tell me, what can it buy in this world that I have not got? I had health and happiness, perfect health, pure happiness, when I did not have a thousand all told. Now I have fifty millions, and I know how to get fifty or five hundred and fifty more any time I care to take them, and I have only physical and mental hell. No beggar in all the world is so poor in happiness as I. Tell me, tell me, Jim, in the name of God, if there is one—for already the game of gold is robbing me of my faith in God—where can I buy a little, just a little happiness with all this cursed yellow dirt? What will it get me in the next world, Jim Randolph, what will it get me? If I had died when I was poor, I think you will agree with me that, if there is a heaven, I should have stood an even chance of getting there. Now on a day like to-day, when you see the results of my work, the results of my handling of unlimited gold, you must agree that if I were taken off I should stand more than an even show of landing in hell where the sulphur is thickest and the flames are hottest."

We were at the entrance of Randolph & Randolph's office as he poured out this terrible torrent of bitterness. He glared at me as a dungeon prisoner might glare at his keeper for his answer to "Where can I find liberty?" I had no words to answer him. As I noted the awful changes in every line of his face, the rigid hardness, the haunted, nervous look of desperation, which seemed a forerunner of madness, I could not see, either, where his millions brought any happiness. His hair, which once was smooth and orderly, hung over his forehead in an unparted mass of tangled curls, and here and there showed of white. Bob Brownley was still handsome, even more fascinating than before the mercury entered his soul, but it was that wild, awful beauty of the caged lion, lashing himself into madness with memories of his lost freedom.

"Jim," he went on, when he saw I could not answer, "I guess you don't know where I can swap the yellow mud for balm of Gilead. I won't bother you with my troubles any longer. I will go up-town and see the little girl whose happiness Tom Reinhart needed in his business. I will go up and show her the pictures in this week's Collier's of the fine hospital for incurables that Reinhart has so generously and nobly built at a cost of two and a half millions! The little girl may think better of Reinhart when she knows that her father's money was put to such good use. Who knows but the great finance king may dedicate it as the 'Judge Lee Sands Home' and carve over the entrance a bas-relief of her father, mother, and sister with Hope, Faith, and Charity coming from the mouths of their hanging severed heads?"

Bob Brownley laughed a horrible ringing laugh as he uttered these awful words. Then he beat his hand down on my shoulders as he said in a hoarse voice, "Jim, but for you I should have had crimps in that jackal philanthropist's soul by now and in the souls of his kind. But never mind. He will keep; he will surely keep until I get to him. Every day he lives he will be fitter for the crimping. Within the short two years since he finished grilling Judge Sands' soul, he has put himself in better form to appreciate his reward. I see by the press that at last his aristocratic wife has gold-cured Newport of its habit of dating back the name Reinhart to her scullionhood, and it has taken her into the high-instep circle. I read the other day of his daughter's marriage to some English nob, and of the discovery of the ancient Reinhart family tree and crest with the mailed hand and two-edged dirk and the vulture rampant, and the motto, 'Who strikes in the back strikes often.'"

He left me with his laugh still ringing in my ears. I shuddered as I passed under the old black-and-gold sign my uncle and my father had nailed over the office entrance in an age now dead; an age when Wall street men talked of honor and gold, not gold and more gold.

In telling my wife of the day's happenings I could not refrain from giving vent to the feelings that consumed me. "Kate, Bob will surely do something awful one of these days. I can see no hope for him. He grows more and more the madman as he broods over his horrible situation. The whole thing seems incredible to me. Never was a human being in such perpetual living purgatory—unlimited, absolute power on the one hand, unfathomable, never-cool-down hell on the other."

"Jim, how does he do what he does? I cannot make out anything I have read or you have told me, how he creates those panics and makes all that money."

"No one has ever been able to figure it out," I answered. "I understand the stock business, but I cannot for the life of me see how he does it. He has none of the money powers in league with him, that's sure, for in the mood he has been in during the past two years it would be impossible for him to work with them, even if his salvation depended on it. has to-day made more money than any one man ever made in a day since the world began, and he had only commenced his work when he quit to please me. As I stand in the Exchange and watch him do it, it seems commonplace and simple. Afterward it is beyond my comprehension. At the gait he is going, the Rockefeller, Vanderbilt, and Gould fortunes combined will look tiny in comparison with the one he will have in a few years. It is beyond my power of figuring out, and it gives me a headache every time I try to see through it."

CHAPTER VIII.

A number of times during the following year, and finally on the anniversary of the Sands tragedy, Bob carried the Exchange to the verge of panic, only to turn the market and save "the Street" in the end. His profits were fabulous. Already his fortune was estimated to between two and three hundred millions, one of the largest in the world. His name had become one of terror wherever stocks were dealt in. Wall street had come to regard his every deal, from the moment that he began operations, as inevitably successful. Now and again he would jump into the market when some of the plunging cliques had a bear raid under way, and would put them to rout by buying everything in sight and bidding up prices until it looked as though he intended to do as extraordinary work on the up-side as he was wont to do on the down. At such times he was the idol of the Exchange, which worships the man who puts prices up as it hates him who pulls them down. Once when war news flashed over the wires from Washington and rumor had the cabinet members, senators, and congressmen selling the market short on advance information, when the "Standard Oil" banks had put up money rates to 150 per cent and a crash seemed inevitable, Bob suddenly smashed the loan market by offering to lend one hundred millions at four per cent; and by buying and bidding up prices at the same time, he put the whole Washington crowd and its New York accomplices to disastrous rout and caused them to lose millions. He continued his operations with increasing violence and increasing profits up to the fourth anniversary of the tragedy. On the intervening anniversary I had been compelled by self-interest and fear that he would really pull down the entire Wall street structure, to rush in and fairly drag him off. But with his growing madness my influence was waning. Each raid it was with greater difficulty that I got his ear.

Finally, on the fourth anniversary, in a panic that seemed to be running into something more terrible than any previous, he savagely refused to accede to my appeal, telling me that he would not stop, even if Randolph & Randolph were doomed to go down in the crash. It had become known on the floor that I was the only one who could do anything with him in his frenzies, and my pleading with him in the lobby was watched by the members of the Exchange with triple eyed suspense. When it was clear from his emphatic gestures and raised voice—for he was in a reckless mood from drink and madness and took no pains to disguise his intentions—that I could not prevail upon him, there was a frantic rush for the poles to throw over stocks in advance of him. Suddenly, after I had turned from him in despair, there flashed into my mind an idea. The situation was desperate. I was dealing with a madman, and I decided that I was justified in making this last try. I rushed back to him. "Bob, good-bye," I whispered in his ear, "good-bye. In ten minutes you will get word that Jim Randolph has cut his throat!" He stopped as though I had plunged a knife into him, struck his forehead a resounding blow, and into his wild brown eyes came a sickening look of fear.

"Stop, Jim, for God's sake, don't say that to me. My cup is full now. Don't tell me I am to have that crime on my soul." He thought a moment. "I don't know whether you mean it, Jim, but I can take no chances, not for all the money in the world, not even for revenge. Wait here, Jim." He yelled for his brokers, and several rushed to him from different parts of the room. He sent them back into the crowd while he dashed for the Amalgamated-pole. The day was saved.

said at last as we turned out of Broad street into Wall. "It seems as if you work with magic. Everything you touch turns to gold."

He wheeled on me. "Yes, Jim you are right. Gold, heartless, soulless gold. But what is the dross good for? What is it good for to me? To-day I suppose I have made the biggest one-man killing in the history of 'the Street.' I must be an easy twenty-five millions richer in gold than I was this morning, and I had enough then to dam the East river and a good section of the North. But tell me, Jim, tell me, what can it buy in this world that I have not got? I had health and happiness, perfect health, pure happiness, when I did not have a thousand all told. Now I have fifty millions, and I know how to get fifty or five hundred and fifty more any time I care to take them, and I have only physical and mental hell. No beggar in all the world is so poor in happiness as I. Tell me, tell me, Jim, in the name of God, if there is one—for already the game of gold is robbing me of my faith in God—where can I buy a little, just a little happiness with all this cursed yellow dirt? What will it get me in the next world, Jim Randolph, what will it get me? If I had died when I was poor, I think you will agree with me that, if there is a heaven, I should have stood an even chance of getting there. Now on a day like to-day, when you see the results of my work, the results of my handling of unlimited gold, you must agree that if I were taken off I should stand more than an even show of landing in hell where the sulphur is thickest and the flames are hottest."

We were at the entrance of Randolph & Randolph's office as he poured out this terrible torrent of bitterness. He glared at me as a dungeon prisoner might glare at his keeper for his answer to "Where can I find liberty?" I had no words to answer him. As I noted the awful changes in every line of his face, the rigid hardness, the haunted, nervous look of desperation, which seemed a forerunner of madness, I could not see, either, where his millions brought any happiness. His hair, which once was smooth and orderly, hung over his forehead in an unparted mass of tangled curls, and here and there showed of white. Bob Brownley was still handsome, even more fascinating than before the mercury entered his soul, but it was that wild, awful beauty of the caged lion, lashing himself into madness with memories of his lost freedom.

"Jim," he went on, when he saw I could not answer, "I guess you don't know where I can swap the yellow mud for balm of Gilead. I won't bother you with my troubles any longer. I will go up-town and see the little girl whose happiness Tom Reinhart needed in his business. I will go up and show her the pictures in this week's Collier's of the fine hospital for incurables that Reinhart has so generously and nobly built at a cost of two and a half millions! The little girl may think better of Reinhart when she knows that her father's money was put to such good use. Who knows but the great finance king may dedicate it as the 'Judge Lee Sands Home' and carve over the entrance a bas-relief of her father, mother, and sister with Hope, Faith, and Charity coming from the mouths of their hanging severed heads?"

Bob Brownley laughed a horrible ringing laugh as he uttered these awful words. Then he beat his hand down on my shoulders as he said in a hoarse voice, "Jim, but for you I should have had crimps in that jackal philanthropist's soul by now and in the souls of his kind. But never mind. He will keep; he will surely keep until I get to him. Every day he lives he will be fitter for the crimping. Within the short two years since he finished grilling Judge Sands' soul, he has put himself in better form to appreciate his reward. I see by the press that at last his aristocratic wife has gold-cured Newport of its habit of dating back the name Reinhart to her scullionhood, and it has taken her into the high-instep circle. I read the other day of his daughter's marriage to some English nob, and of the discovery of the ancient Reinhart family tree and crest with the mailed hand and two-edged dirk and the vulture rampant, and the motto, 'Who strikes in the back strikes often.'"

He left me with his laugh still ringing in my ears. I shuddered as I passed under the old black-and-gold sign my uncle and my father had nailed over the office entrance in an age now dead; an age when Wall street men talked of honor and gold, not gold and more gold.

In telling my wife of the day's happenings I could not refrain from giving vent to the feelings that consumed me. "Kate, Bob will surely do something awful one of these days. I can see no hope for him. He grows more and more the madman as he broods over his horrible situation. The whole thing seems incredible to me. Never was a human being in such perpetual living purgatory—unlimited, absolute power on the one hand, unfathomable, never-cool-down hell on the other."

"Jim, how does he do what he does? I cannot make out anything I have read or you have told me, how he creates those panics and makes all that money."

"No one has ever been able to figure it out," I answered. "I understand the stock business, but I cannot for the life of me see how he does it. He has none of the money powers in league with him, that's sure, for in the mood he has been in during the past two years it would be impossible for him to work with them, even if his salvation depended on it. The mention of any of the big 'Sye-has to-day made more money than any one man ever made in a day since the world began, and he had only commenced his work when he quit to please me. As I stand in the Exchange and watch him do it, it seems commonplace and simple. Afterward it is beyond my comprehension. At the gait he is going, the Rockefeller, Vanderbilt, and Gould fortunes combined will look tiny in comparison with the one he will have in a few years. It is beyond my power of figuring out, and it gives me a headache every time I try to see through it."

CHAPTER VIII.

A number of times during the following year, and finally on the anniversary of the Sands tragedy, Bob carried the Exchange to the verge of panic, only to turn the market and save "the Street" in the end. His profits were fabulous. Already his fortune was estimated to between two and three hundred millions, one of the largest in the world. His name had become one of terror wherever stocks were dealt in. Wall street had come to regard his every deal, from the moment that he began operations, as inevitably successful. Now and again he would jump into the market when some of the plunging cliques had a bear raid under way, and would put them to rout by buying everything in sight and bidding up prices until it looked as though he intended to do as extraordinary work on the up-side as he was wont to do on the down. At such times he was the idol of the Exchange, which worships the man who puts prices up as it hates him who pulls them down. Once when war news flashed over the wires from Washington and rumor had the cabinet members, senators, and congressmen selling the market short on advance information, when the "Standard Oil" banks had put up money rates to 150 per cent and a crash seemed inevitable, Bob suddenly smashed the loan market by offering to lend one hundred millions at four per cent; and by buying and bidding up prices at the same time, he put the whole Washington crowd and its New York accomplices to disastrous rout and caused them to lose millions. He continued his operations with increasing violence and increasing profits up to the fourth anniversary of the tragedy. On the intervening anniversary I had been compelled by self-interest and fear that he would really pull down the entire Wall street structure, to rush in and fairly drag him off. But with his growing madness my influence was waning. Each raid it was with greater difficulty that I got his ear.

Finally, on the fourth anniversary, in a panic that seemed to be running into something more terrible than any previous, he savagely refused to accede to my appeal, telling me that he would not stop, even if Randolph & Randolph were doomed to go down in the crash. It had become known on the floor that I was the only one who could do anything with him in his frenzies, and my pleading with him in the lobby was watched by the members of the Exchange with triple eyed suspense. When it was clear from his emphatic gestures and raised voice—for he was in a reckless mood from drink and madness and took no pains to disguise his intentions—that I could not prevail upon him, there was a frantic rush for the poles to throw over stocks in advance of him. Suddenly, after I had turned from him in despair, there flashed into my mind an idea. The situation was desperate. I was dealing with a madman, and I decided that I was justified in making this last try. I rushed back to him. "Bob, good-bye," I whispered in his ear, "good-bye. In ten minutes you will get word that Jim Randolph has cut his throat!" He stopped as though I had plunged a knife into him, struck his forehead a resounding blow, and into his wild brown eyes came a sickening look of fear.

"Stop, Jim, for God's sake, don't say that to me. My cup is full now. Don't tell me I am to have that crime on my soul." He thought a moment. "I don't know whether you mean it, Jim, but I can take no chances, not for all the money in the world, not even for revenge. Wait here, Jim." He yelled for his brokers, and several rushed to him from different parts of the room. He sent them back into the crowd while he dashed for the Amalgamated-pole. The day was saved.

Move on Hunahakists.

New York, August 13.—The publication yesterday of the arrest of Kissak Jelalian as an accomplice in the murder of Hovhanes Tavshanjian and his confession to District Attorney Jerome, has followed by amazing revelations of the Hunahakist conspiracy. Raids made early in the morning on information furnished by Jelalian placed in the possession of the police startling array of murderous weapons and deadly poisons which were awaiting use by the band that has been terrorizing wealthy Armenians. "I have evidence enough to send ten men to the electric chair," was the statement made yesterday by Deputy Police Commissioner Woods to one of the better class of Armenians, who has been aiding the authorities in getting to the bottom of the far-reaching plots of the Hunchakist society. While both the Deputy Commissioner and the District-Attorney are keeping their movements secret, it is understood they have reached a point that insures the punishment of the leaders of the gang.

NEW DUNELLEN TEAM WOULD PLAY IN LEAGUE

MANAGER BOGARDUS WILL OFFER HIS NINE TO FILL THE GAP.

If Raritan drops out of the league, there will be an applicant ready to take her place for the rest of the season, at the league meeting tomorrow night. The team prepared to fill the gap is Dunellen.

Manager Robert Bogardus said last evening that he was willing to put his team into the race, and intended to offer it to the league for consideration tomorrow night. The Dunellens organized late—several weeks after the Dunellen league team, which blew up, started in, and for that reason their schedule is not overburdened. The players are imbued with the real baseball spirit, and want to play the game for the game's sake. They are ready to stick out the schedule no matter what it means in the way of disappointments. Their devotion to the sport for sport's sake was evidenced in their organizing when their town was apparently given over to another team.

Manager Bogardus said yesterday that the weaker places in the nine could easily be strengthened if the team were admitted to the race, and the games would not afford any loafing spots on the way to the season's end. The league should be ready to welcome some successor to Raritan. The excision of Raritan's dates will lead to something of a schedule mix-up, which would be avoided by shifting the dates to a new team.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Not a Local Question.

"The liquor question," says the Trenton True American, "is a local question."

This is not entirely true. It is true that the local option advocates would make the question of licenses or no license purely a local question, and that the Sunday saloon advocates would make the matter of Sunday opening one for local option. Before any locality can decide either of these questions for itself, however, the authority for the locality to exercise such option must be delegated by the Legislature. The liquor question is wholly and solely a State question, as is every question of local government and police power, until authority is delegated by the State to the locality. Under such option law, either as to Sunday selling or no license, Cape May would have nothing to say as to what should be the excise regulation in Essex, but a Senator or Assemblyman from Cape May has an equal voice with any other legislator in saying whether or not local option in excise matters shall be granted to any part of the State. South Jersey may be opposed to letting down the bars to Sunday selling, as North Jersey is supposed to be opposed generally to no license, but neither section can obtain local option on either phase of the liquor question without the consent of the other section to a general law delegating such local authority in the matter. For these reasons, the News suggested that the politicians of both parties get together and find a way out of the liquor muddle by letting the people settle the two questions for themselves, with the referendum. It is not to be expected that South Jersey Senators will declare themselves in favor of local option on the Sunday selling question, more than it is likely that a majority of North Jersey members will declare themselves flatly in favor of local option on the no license question. Whether either form of local option is to be granted, however, is a State question, and must be settled by the whole State. Political expediency, if no better reason, might suggest that it is a safer plan to let the voters of the whole State settle both questions for themselves, by referendum vote, than for either party or any candidate or set of candidates to attempt to settle it by declaring for either side of the controversy without consideration or regard for what the popular demand may be in the matter. Whether or not the News's suggestion bears fruit the only way to settle the liquor question so it will stay settleid is to let the people settle it for themselves and it is as logical and sensible to permit a majority of the people of the State to settle what the State's excise policy shall be as it is to allow the people of a smaller locality to settle the local excise policy for themselves. A referendum vote on the establishment of the local option system is simply applying to the etsablishment of the system the same principle by which it is to be applied after establishment.—Newark News.

Opposition to Perkins.

The Plainfield Daily Press advises against the renomination of Assemblyman Perkins. It does not doubt the Assemblyman's ability to make a good fight, but calls attention to the lack of wisdom in opposing the strong exhibition of public opinion which has appeared in this county. The "new idea" forces are said to be much opposed to him, the local option people are among his bitterest political enemies, and the organization, which generally knows something about whether a candidate is strong enough to win or not, is said not to favor Mr. Perkins. "It is not a matter of record," adds the Press, "that the ambitious Assemblyman has ever consulted with his constituents regarding matters of public moment. As a matter of fact, he has acted without consuting anyone, and his acts have not always been such as his people would have them." Possibly among other things, the Press has in mind Mr. Perkins's attitude on the Vanderbile cup race, which not only did not meet the wishes of his constituents in this county, but was frowned upon by the State generally. The forces working against Mr. Perkins are so strong that it would seem as if the battle would hardly be worth his while. Evidently something is wrong with the Assemblyman in this county, and the sources of the opposition are such as to arouse widespread doubt as to whether he can possibly hope to win.—Elizabeth Journal

HEALTH BOARD REBUFFED

Somerset Freeholders Decide that Green Brook's Condition is not its Affair.

TO GET AUTO FUNDS

Act On Grade Crossing Danger—Collector to Borrow $20,000—Other Business.

The regular meeting of the Somerset County Board of Chosen Freeholders was held in the court room in Somerville yesterday. It was resolved that the county collector be authorized to collect the amount due the county from the automobile license funds, less the cost of the signs purchased. A communication was received from the North Plainfield Board of Health in reference to the unsanitary condition of Green brook, between Norwood and Giraud avenues, and asked that the foul and decayed matter be removed and that such action be taken as is necessary to prevent the formation of stagnant pools of water in the bed of the brook. It was the sense of the board that this matter does not come within its jurisdiction and the communication was ordered placed on file.

It was also decided that the clerk be authorized to notify the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company that it is the sense of the members of the board that the company should take such measures as may be necessary to protect the traveling public at the railroad crossing at Belle Mead during the night time, and that the company is requested to protect the same. It was also decided to re-advertise for bids for the construction of Sach's bridge to be received on Wednesday, Sept. 4, at the Court House, at 2 o'clock and until 2:30, and then to be opened by the board.

Clerk Sutphen was authorized to purchase the necessary primary election ballot boxes. The county collector was authorized to borrow $20,000 in anticipation of taxes. A communication from the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company stated that the company would give the matter of removing four poles along the Kline's Mills road its early attention.

The board will meet at the Court House on Wednesday, Sept. 4, at 10 o'clock to receive bids for the heating, plumbing and electrical appliances for the new Court House.

The report of a recent meeting at North Branch was read. At this session the bridge near the hotel there was accepted, and the Garrigan bridge was left in the hands of the committee to be approved when completed.

Mr. Fitzga declared that the W. T. Kirk Co. had promised the iron for the Union avenue bridge to be delivered on the grounds soon. A communication from State Road Commissioner Hutchinson was read. It referred to the inspection of roads repaired and the road committee was authorized to inspect the roads with him.

AND STILL THEY COME.

347 Children at Netherwood Camp and More Expected Today.

Miss Sara Curry, matron at the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp, took in a delegation of New York children from the camp yesterday and brought out others in the afternoon. There are now 347 mothers and children from the city at the camp. This evening the full Plainfield band will be at the camp and will render a full program of popular music in the auditorium. The electric lights recently installed will be used for the first at the concert.

Because of the serious illness of one of the co-workers with Miss Curry at the Little Missionary's Day Nursery in New York, Miss Curry went in again this morning. She will probably bring out more children with her tonight on her return.

Funeral of Mrs. John Ruthven.

Rev. George A. Warner, rector of Holy Cross church, conducted the funeral service of Mrs. John Ruthven, who died Sunday, at the home of her niece, Mrs. John Lefferts Ludlum, 713 East Front street, yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The service was simple in nature and only attended by the relatives of the deceased. The interment was at Greenwood cemetery this morning at 10 o'clock, and there was a short commital service at the grave.

Stole Two Chickens.

The thief of two chickens from her coop was reported to police headquarters yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Annie Edelstrom, of West Third street. She said the henhouse was broken open during the night.

FORT AND COLLINS LEAD

Sentiment at State Committee Meeting Divided for Gubernatorial Nomination.

TO HAVE 1,147 DELEGATE

Owing to Fractional Arrangement Representation, However, Will Be About 1,300—Call Is Issued.

Perhaps the real sensation of the day at the Republican State Committee meeting at Trenton yesterday was the apparently growing sentiment in favor of ex-Judge Gilbert Collins, of Hudson. That he would make an acceptable candidate to the machine Republicans seemed to be the opinion of some of those who were giving thought to the matter. Collins will probably be the choice of Hudson. Governor Stokes was put down as a Collins man.

David Baird, of Camden, has been said to favor Collins after Fort. State Treasurer Daniel S. Voorhees, of Morris, intimated that Collins would suit him, as his only object was the defeat of Judge Mahlon Pitney. Judge John Franklin Fort has loomed up as a formidable candidate. As it looked last night, Fort and Collins were the real rivals of Chandler W. Riker, of Essex; Mahlon Pitney, of Morris, and Vivian M. Lewis, of Passaic, running in about the order named. Frank H. Sommer, of Essex, was a dark horse, growing rather darker during the day. Colonel Samuel D. Dickinson, of Hudson, and C. Asa Francis favor Collins.

Chairman Briggs and temporary Chairman Yard issued the formal call last night for the holding of the Republican convention for the nomination of a candidate for Governor at Taylor Opera House at noon on Wednesday, September 19, as exclusively announced in yesterday's Daily Press. The number of delegates to be chosen is 1,147. The representation will, owing to the fractional arrangement, amount to about 1,300. This was the plan adopted at the convention held in 1904, when Edward C. Stokes was nominated for Governor.

"HONEST" FINDER OF WALLET RETURNS IT

BUT EXTRACTS $40 BEFORE GIVING WAY TO HIS CONSCIENCE.

What might be termed comparative honesty was exhibited by the finder of a wallet lost last week by Frederick A. Martin, of Jackson avenue. He returned the wallet, but thriftily rewarded himself before succumbing to the sufferings of conscience.

The wallet contained $40 in money some blank checks and a number of Mr. Martin's cards. Because of the latter, Mr. Martin had some hope of getting his property back. He didn't hear of it for several days, however, and yesterday he had begun to resign himself to its loss, when the wallet was delivered by mail.

Glowing with increased faith in his fellow men, Mr. Martin hurriedly opened the wallet to feel his runaway forty between his fingers once more. He didn't have the feel. The forty was not there. The blank checks, the cards, and a few memoranda were in their places, but not even one of the forty dollars gazed back at it's owner eager eye. In the place where the money once was Mr. Martine found this note:

"This wallet is to good to lose."
"Honest."

And there was nothing to indicate that the writer meant anything ironic by the signature. It had the air of modest recognition of self-worth. The Martin would like to meet "Honest," and express personal appreciation of his integrity.

Mrs. Powell Buried.

Requiem mass was conducted by Father Delehanty at St. Mary's church this morning at 9 o'clock for Mrs. Mary J. Powell, wife of Clement Powell, who died Monday. The pall bearers were Francis Connelly, James Kyle, Jorn Donnelly, Dennis Kilbride, Thomas McCue and Morris Shannon. Previous to the church service, there was a service at the home, 678 West Fourth street. The interment was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Edward L. Patterson to Build.

Edward L. Patterson, of Park avenue, has accepted plans for a handsome residence to be erected by him on West Seventh street. The contract price is about $12,000 and Cuzen, Rimmer & Apgar have the contract.

Miss Aedel Strong, of Brooklyn, is spending her vacation with her cousin, Miss Ethel VanNess, of DeKalb avenue.

BRUTALITY AT RAHWAY

Insanity and Death of One Laid to Beating at State Reformatory.

HAHN PROBERS AT WORK

Boy, Ill with Rheumatism and Heart Disease, Has Hose Played on Him—Another's Head Laid Open With Blackjack.

Sensational tales of brutal, inhuman treatment at the New Jersey Reformatory at Rahway, as told by Charles Crater, of Elizabeth; Charles Krebs, of Newark, and William Dennis, of Mt. Holly, three young inmates, quickened the Hahn investigating committee, which swooped down unexpectedly on the institution yesterday, into the decision to meet there again Monday morning to continue the testimony.

The condition of affairs, as revealed by the three witnesses yesterday, if true, would rank the institution almost with medieval punitive creations. Stories of having been beaten by the guards and officials, of having been hand-cuffed to pipes head-high while sick with rheumatism and heart disease, and then having had a hose turned on the sick body, amazed John H. Backes, Assemblymen Simon Hahn, Mark A. Sullivan, John D. Van Blarcom and Randolph E. Perkins, who heard the statements.

Crater testified to the truth of the "hose treatment" on him. Krebs said that he had been subjected to the same, only he was beaten with a blacksnake whip until there were stripes on his back, instead of having the hose turned on him. Dennis told a story of having had his head opened up by a blackjack in the hands of Assistant Superintendent Abbott. He also gave Mr. Backes a hint which he will follow up. It was to the effect that an inmate, now dead, by the name of Cope, had been beaten unmercifully twice by guards. He said that many attributed his apparent insanity to those beatings. The newspapermen present noticed the delicacy with which Mr. Backes handled the Cope story, and expect developments. It may rival the Enoch Silvers case.

Between now and Monday Mr. Backes will be busy getting material together for a full day's work. He will also try to devise a scheme that will permit the committee to be certain that none of the inmates who desire to testify will be punished in any way by the guards or officials. From the attitude of Dennis and many others who talked during the inspection to the Assemblymen, Mr. Backes feels that many more would be willing to testify if they were assured of immunity and would not be put back in the "red suit" grade for giving information against the officials. Everything will be done to make the investigation thorough.

Aside from this, the committee is of the opinion that the institution is sadly in need of money. The accommodations are of the crudest because of the crowded conditions just now. The new wing will not be sufficient to satisfy the needs either, because there are 475 inmates now in the institution.

Unless the present Legislature, at the earliest possible time, will change the appropriation bill so that $38,000 of the $300,000 set aside for the new wing may be used for heating and lighting the wing, when built, it will be useless. Thus the present unsanitary conditions will prevail all winter if the Legislature does not see fit to change the law.

As soon as the inspection had been completed Counsel Backes, with the members of the committee, had a consultation as to what should be done. The members of the committee and their counsel put all the stories they had heard together and decided to take testimony at once.

Before doing so, however, they called in Superintendent Martin and informed him that serious charges had been made against his management of the institution. He told the committee that he was surprised and promised to aid them in every way. When he left the room he wore a troubled look. He was worse when Mr. Backes asked him and Assistant Superintendent Abbott to leave the room while testimony was being taken. The two officials, with several other attaches of the institution, remained outside the door eagerly waiting for any news that might be carried out.

Mr. Backes had the numbers of a string of inmates to whom either he or the committee members had spoken during the inspection regarding their treatment.

NOT TO RENOMINATE HIM COUNCILMAN-AT-LARGE

HERBERT BUXTON TO BE NAMED AS A WARD COUNCILMAN THIS FALL.

It is generally reported in the regulars' camp that Councilman Herbert Buxton, whose term expires this fall will not be run again as a councilman-at-large. Under present contions it has been considered advisable to have him renominated as a ward councilman. Mr. Buxton left today for the Catskills where he will spend a two weeks' vacation with his family.

As Councilman Charles L. Randolph, a ward member from the Fourth, has removed to the Third ward, it is likely that Mr. Buxton will run in his place as a nominee for ward councilman. There has been some talk of nominating Mr. Randolph again in the Third ward.

A rumor was circulated yesterday that there was some opposition to the renomination of Councilman William L. Gloak so far as the organization is concerned. This story proves to be untrue as the leaders are unanimously in favor of his going back to the Common Council for another term.

CANINE AND ITS OWNER SHOT ON SAME NIGHT

ONE ALLEGED SHOOTER MULCTED; OTHER HELD FOR GRAND JURY.

Vito Ameano, of Berkeley Heights, appeared as complainant and plaintiff in two actions before Justice Joseph Clark, of Scotch Plains, this morning. He charged Michael Acuntzo, of Berkeley Heights, with having shot him after a row, on July 9, with a shotgun, in one case, and asked damages from Steven Dubell, for the shooting of a dog, in the other.

Acuntzo, it was alleged, wounded him in the ear and back. The trouble between the two is long-standing. He was moved to take the matter to court, it was said, because Acuntzo had won his son from him, and the yo uth was siding with his father's enemy. Justice Clark held Acuntzo in $100 bail for the Grand Jury.

The shooting of the dog occurred on July 9 also. The case was proved, and Justice Clark awarded the plaintiff $25 damages. In both cases Ameano was represented by Walter L. Hetfield, Jr.

NEW MARKET POND DRAINED THIS MORNING

BIG CATCHES IN THE MUD WHEN SLUICE GATES WERE OPENED.

All New Market sat down to fish dinners today, if reports be true, for New Market pond was drained this morning, and it was simply a case of going out onto the muddy bed and picking up fish. All the small boys in the town were on the shores of the lake with baskets when, shortly after 9 o'clock, the sluice gates in the dam were opened and the water rushed out into the brook, draining the pond. Fish and Game Warden Miller, of Somerset county was there, and the draining was done under his supervision.

The pond was dry, except for a small channel through it, within a few hours, and then it was that the ever present small boy could be seen picking up the fish struggling in the mud or crowding together in the channel. All sorts of stories are current by now as to the size of the biggest fish found in the pound. Late telephone reports put the maximums at twenty-three inches, but there are still some of the finny monsters to be struggled with and landed. Some of the fish were fortunate to escape through the sluice, and it was at this point that most of the "fishing" was done, and the big catches landed.

The pond is periodically drained about this time of year by the fish warden in order to reduce the number of the carp, which breed in great quantities in the pond and the streams of the vicinity. The carp is a foe to many of the better fish and this means is taken by the State for their extermination. The pond will be left dry for the rest of the week, after which time the sluice gates will be closed again and it will be allowed to fill up. Because of the recent dry weather, the water was lower than usual today when the pond was drained.

Mrs. George Ball and family, of Linden avenue, have returned home from Shoeshone, N. Y., where they spent three weeks.

RESULTS OF BRICK TEST

Percentage of Loss Estimated by Experiments with Various Types is a Rattler.

"BRADY'S RUN" THE BEST

Its Loss But 18½ Per Cent.—Two Examinations Made With Practically the Same Results.

City Engineer Gavett has prepared a detailed report of the test made of the various samples of brick considered for the proposed paving in the business section of the city. As stated in the Daily Press of yesterday, the samples submitted by the Pennsylvania City Company, better known as "Brady's Run," stood the severe test, showing the less percentage of loss.

The first test was made by J. W. Howard, a consulting engineer of New York. Six samples, eighteen bricks in all, were tested. They were kept in a rattler, a cylinder of standard size, making 1,800 revolutions a minute, for several hours. The percentages of loss at the end of the test was as follows:

Layton brick, 39½ per cent; Clearfield brick, 26¼ per cent; Pennsylvania Clay Company brick, 18½ per cent.

Afterward samples were tested at the Pond Machine Tool Works for the purpose of verification, and the result was practically the same. The samples were thrown into a rattler with heavy castings and allowed to go through the process five times and the percentage of loss was almost the same as shown by the first test.

"JIMMY" DOUGHERTY AGAIN ON HIS JOB.

Popular Room Clerk Returns to Work After a Year's Illness.

James H. Dougherty, of Philadelphia, formerly the popular room clerk at the Hotel Kensington, has returned to his old position after an absence of over a year during which time he has completely recovered his health. After leaving Plainfield, "Jim," as he is best known, went to his home in the Quaker city, where he was under treatment at a hospital. His former proprietor, J. A. Staats, kept in touch with him all the time, and when the latter received a letter this week from "Jim" saying that he was well and strong again and ready to return to work, he immediately wired him that his old position awaited him.

"Jim" was always popular with the employes and patrons of the hotel, because of his willing ways. A few years ago he was one of the leading members of a well-known minstrel troupe and his sweet tenor voice won for him many friends. Many patrons of the hotel have been entertained by his singing of popular songs. He was given a warm reception when he returned to the hotel today and he has been busy ever since receiving the congratulations of his friends.

DISTRICT COURT.

Judge Newcorn Comes From Atlantic City to Hold Session.

District Judge William Newcorn, who has been staying at Atlantic City, came to town long enough to hold court this morning. Only one contested action was down for adjudication, that of the New York Safe Company against M. Armstrong, a plumber, in replevin.

Title in the safe was declared for the company, and six cents damages was allowed for unlawful detention of the property. Counsel fee of $5 and costs were granted. Nelson & William N. Runyon appeared for the company.

A half a dozen minor cases were disposed of, and then Judge Newcorn adjourned court until August 28. He returned to Atlantic City.

New Ward Maps.

A new set of maps of the four city wards was hung in Mayor Fisk's office this morning. They show the macadamized streets, the sidewalks, the water pipes, the fire hydrants, the electric lights, the fire alarm and police boxes, the fire houses, police headquarters, school houses, outlines of the fire district and the names of all property owners. They are the most complete the city ever prepared, and will enable the mayor to talk more intelligently, on short notice, of improvements and such things with committees and citizens.

Last Excursion Tomorrow.

Warren chapel's annual excursion to Asbury Park, tomorrow, will be the last one of the season from this city, and as the weather conditions promise to be perfect, and it is the height of the season at the shore for all attractions, one of the largest crowds is expected to make the trip.

FOR GARBAGE DISPOSAL

Board of Trade to Push Campaign for Improvement On.

LECTURES BY EXPERTS

Most Approved Systems To Be Explained at Meeting in September—Paper By Health Officer.

With the first meeting of the Board of Trade after the summer suspension, on September 5, the campaign for the improvement of garbage disposal in this city will be resumed. The Board has decided to take an energetic part in the movement, and encouraged by Mayor Fisk, the organization has taken steps to push the crusade against the present unsatisfactory system along.

At the September meeting several of the latest and most approved systems of handling the garbage of a city of Plainfield's size will be presented to the public. Health Officer Leon R. Thurlow will open the meeting with a paper on the problem, and several experts will follow him with talks on different systems. Both utilization and reduction systems will be explained in detail.

By the utilization method power is generated, and the garbage returns an immediate benefit to the municipality. A plant showing the system at its best is in use in a borough near Montreal, Canada, of about Plainfield's size. At a plant of that sort even the ashes are burned. The fire generated is very hot and the ash is reduced to clinker that may be used on road work or for filling in. The residue is very fine, and is easy to dispose of. Mayor Fisk and members of the Health Board will probably inspect the plant near Montreal next month.

Charles Wheelwright, of the American Extraction Company, of Providence, R. I., will speak on the reduction system. The talks will be illustrated by stereopticon views.

AMOS ANDREWS AS A MINING DIRECTOR

WORK AT HARCUVAR MINES IN ARIZONA UNDER WAY AS HE SUGGESTED.

As one of the directors of the Harcuvar Copper Company, with mines in Yuma county, Arizona, Amos Andrews, superintendent of the Plainfield-Union Water Company, recently returned after a six weeks' visit of investigaton of the mines. Mr. Andrews, who is a mechanical engineer of recognized ability in this city, made the trip to look over the mining ground and to consult with the other directors as to methods of developing the claim. His office of director of the company, recently organized with Hon. John J. Hawkins, of Prescott, Arizonia, as its president, will keep in touch with the mechanical progress at the mines, now being worked, and as advisor to the company when some of the unworked claims are to be exploited in the future.

The Harcuvar mines are located in the Ellsworth Mining district, on the Arizonia and California railroad in the Harcuvar mountains, near Cunningham pass, Yuma county, Arizona. The company holds nine full mining claims, comprising the following mines: "Sunny Side," "Triumph," "Ada," "Mystic," "Treasure Trove," "Mountain Queen," "Harcuvar," "Midget" and "Arroyo." The metal which has been mined has been taken from a vein highly mineralized in copper. The ore body in one place has been found to reach a depth of nine feet and assays as high as 30 per cent in copper and $35 to the ton in gold.

The present concern acquired the claims this spring and has already perfected and commenced work on an extensive plan of development. The company is now running a tunnel a distance of 250 feet to tap the contact at a depth of about 200 feet. A shaft will then be sunk, and drifts and cross cuts established. The work is now well under way, and it is planned to install air compressor equipment in the fall.

SCHOOL FOR POLICEMEN

Department Heads Plan for the Improvement of the Force.

COURSE IN ENGLISH

Others in Law, First Aid, and Physical Energy—New Book of Rules Being Prepared By Committee.

Carrying out their plans for the steady improvement of the police force along all the lines of its work, Mayor Fisk and the Police Board have made arrangements for the establishment of a school of instruction for patrolmen. The school will be designed to teach the cops several things besides hard-and-fast rules of the department.

Among the courses will be a sensible one in the use of English. Some of the policemen haven't paid much attention to rhetoric and composition and their written reports suffer in clarity and brevity. Prof. Herr, of the Plainfield Business College, will organize a class in English for such cops as need the instruction, and it is hoped to make the effect of the teaching apparent in a short time. Those patrolmen whom it is thought ought to take the course have been approached regarding it, and they have received it in an appreciative spirit.

Lectures on the laws governing arrests will be given by City Judge Runyon, or some other authority, and first aid to the injured instruction will be given by City Physician C. B. Lufburrow.

The rules of the department, which are badly in need of revision, will be brought up to date, and the policemen will be required to learn them thoroughly. Preparatory to revising the rules, the Police Board has sent to a number of cities for copies of their rules, on which to base the new book. The best in all of them will be incorporated in the forthcoming volume.

Physical instruction will be part of the schooling. If arrangements now pending are carried out, Bob Fitzsimmons, the pugilist, will teach the cops a thing or two that will be useful in their business. The ex-heavyweight champion had a long talk with Mayor Fisk on the subject at the executive's office yesterday afternoon.

When the new school has been established it is Mayor Fisk's idea to have yearly examinations of the policemen to keep them up on the things they will be expected to know. The records of the examinations will figure in the promotions of the policemen.

PASTOR HAS NOT DECIDED TO ACCEPT WESTERN CALL.

Rev. Dr. Shaw Arrives At No Decision Regarding North Loup Invitation.

Rev. George B. Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, who recently received a call to the denominational church at North Loup, Nebr., has not yet announced his decision as to whether he will accept or not, but it is the feeling among his people that he will remain in Plainfield.

North Loup is the centre of a large farming district, and the Seventh-Day Baptist church is one of the largest and most important in the denomination. The members are very active in church work and the parish is constantly growing. Since the resignation of Rev. T. L. Gardner, who leaves to accept the editorship of The Sabbath Recorder, the church has been much concerned about his successor, and the members have been urging Mr. Shaw to accept the pastorate.

PLAYED CRAPS BY CANDLE AND WERE "PULLED IN."

Backyard Game Was Interrupted by a Vigilant Cop on Plainfield Avenue.

Flickering gleams of light that had something mysterious about them attracted the attention of Policeman Martin Vanderweg to the yard of the house at 221 Plainfield avenue. Vanderweg sleuthed into the place and found Charles Cassett and Oscar Green, colored, earnestly engaged in shooting craps by the rays of a candle.

"Come seven," said Oscar yearningly.

"Come with me," remarked the cop, as he dropped a hand on each shoulder.

Oscar and Charles were full of virtuous promises in the city court this morning, and Judge Runyon suspended sentence.

One of our clients owed $48 between four people. His salary is $14 weekly; rent $12 monthly. SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

The Dunellen Field Club, of which Robert Bogardus is the manager, is anxious to take Raritan's place in the Inter-City Amateur League, and play out the schedule. Manager Bogardus says that he has a team that is as strong as any in the league and would make it interesting. He will communicate with the league officials with a view to having his team admitted.

The New Brunswick baseball fans are anxious to secure Walter Nelson as catcher for their team. One of the local papers says: "He puts life into the team. His catching thrills."

Mathewson helped to put the Giants back in second place on Monday, and now that the team is at home for a long stay it should have no difficulty in climbing the ladder.

One thing must be conceded by all fair minded fans and that is that while the New York National pitchers have been doing as good work as usual, they have not received the support as in past seasons. It is for this reason that many games have been lost. Both the in and outfield have not been playing up to the standard.

President Ebbets, of the Brooklyn Nationals, is his own scout, and he succeeds in digging up his share of promising young blood.

Third base of the Highlanders has not been as well covered since Conroy was shifted from that position. Provided the team had a good short stop an advantageous change would be to place Conroy at third and Moriarity in left field. The third station is now poorly cared for.

The fans will turn out in large numbers Saturday at Crescent Oval to see the coming champions, Clinton Avenue, play the Laurels, of Bound Brook. The team deserves a warm reception. A record of nine victories and only two defeats for the season is one to be proud of.

In a majority of cases the men released by Clark Griffith, of the New York Americans, have signed with other teams and are now doing fine work. This can be said of Hahn and Dougherty, now with the Chicago Americans. They are considered among the best players on the Windy City team.

GOLF.

The only tournament of interest to golfers in the metropolitan district this week is the three days' affair scheduled for the Manhanset Manor Country Club on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Most of the entries thus far received are from among the cottage colony at that end of Long Island.

Probably the most prominent amateur likely to start is Walter Kobbe, 2d, of Baltusrol, and runner-up to Walter J. Travis in the Shinnecock tournament last week. Others who have sent in their names are Otto Pickhardt, of Shelter Island; J. G. Dettmer, of Englewood; C. E. Sawyer and T. T. Rushmore, of Garden City. The course, which consists of eighteen holes, is in excellent condition at present.

Unquestionably golf of a more brilliant nature will be played in the open tournament to begin today on the links of the Ekwanok County Club, Manchester, Vt. The fact that Jerome D. Travers, of Montclair, the national champion, has entered naturally lends additional interest to the occasion. Travers won at Ekwanok a year ago.

The chief trophy to be competed for is the first president's cup, for which there will be a thirty-six-hole medal play qualifying round. The thirty-two with the lowest scores will earn the right to continue on at match play. The beaten sixteen of the first thirty-two will have a chance to compete for the Manchester cup. Previous winners of the first president's cup were: 1900, John H. Brooks; 1901, Charles B. Macdonald; 1902, Walter J. Travis; 1903, F. J. O. Allsopp; 1904, A. M. Reed; 1905, A. L. White; 1906, Jerome D. Travers.

Dave Honeyman, professional of the Arsdale Golf Club, has broken another record. This time he displayed his exceptional ability by returning an eight-hole score of 76 over the links of the Cranford Golf Club. The best previous professional mark was 77, made by David Patrick.

Both of Honeyman's rounds were made in 38, and the card included a 6 at the ninth hole of the first round. He also took 5 at the same hole the next time round, and as it is a comparatively easy 4 Honeyman considers that he threw away at least three strokes. The Cranford course is one of the longest nine-hole circuits in the country, covering a playing length of more than 3,300 yards.

Scores of ambitious golfers are practising hard for the fifth annual championship tournament of the Western Women's Golf Association, to be held at the Midlothian Country Club, near Chicago, August 26 to 30. There will be the usual eighteen-hole medal play qualifying round, with the sixteen leading contestants to continue at match play. Side competitions have also been arranged.

Plainfield in the Olden Days...

Re-printed from The Constitutionalist

From the issue of October 21, 1869:

"A narrow escape from fire occurred at the residence of Mrs. Brown, on the corner of Fifth and Union streets, last Thursday night. A young man, a member of 'Zephyr H. and L. Co. No. 1,' while passing the house, saw a bright light inside, and rushing into the house, found a lamp filled with kerosene, or some other kind of oil, on fire, and the mantelpiece, on which the lamp set, already beginning to blaze. A gentleman and lady were gazing upon the burning lamp with horror, not daring to venture near it. Our interpid 'boy in blue' snatched the lamp from the mantelpiece, and hurled it through the window, and extinguished the flames. The gentleman thanked him and asked who he was thanking. The laconic answer was, 'A Fireman,' as he walked away. Good."

"The old cracked bell of the 2nd Presbyterian church has been replaced by a new one, manufactured by Harrison & Davis, of New York. It weighs 1558 lbs., and cost $700. Its sonorous notes pealed forth upon the quiet air on Sabbath last, and proved that it was the best sounding bell in the city. Now let there be a new church built."

"MARTIN-WINANS—In this city, Wednesday, Oct. 20, by the Rev. Mr. Day, Mr. Augustus H. Martin and Miss Hannah B. Winans, both of this city.

"May many swallows flock around this Martin, and he and his bird glide happily through life."

Attention! Voters!

"To the polls, Voters of Plainfield, and cast your suffrages solid for the following ticket:

"For Senator, James T. Willey.
"For sheriff, Michael Doyle.
"For Assembly, James Ritchie.
For coroners, Lewis Braun, Stephen Jackson, Ayres Leeson.

"Because James T. Willey for Senator is a gentleman eminently fitted for the position, unimpeachable on the score of character, ability and experience, and in whose hands, as Senator, the honor of New Jersey, the rights of the County and Union, the interests of the people, and the dignity of the white race will rest secure.

"Because Michael Doyle for sheriff is a practical business man, the architect of his own fortune, intelligent, clear-sighted, of gentlemanly bearing, and possessing an unsullied reputation as a citizen.

"Because James Ritchie is the very best man in the District for the House of Assembly, thoroughly practical in judgment, of decided ability, spotless private character, the friend of the masses, and the sworn enemy of corruption, extravagance and rascality of every name and hue.

"Because Messrs. Braun, Jackson and Leeson for coroners, are in all particulars worthy and competent.

"Vote the whole ticket."

STILL ANOTHER CLAIMANT FOR ENGLISH MILLIONS

MORRISTOWN WOMAN WANTS SHARE OF SIR THOS. MOORE'S WEALTH.

Mrs. Steward Wilson, of Cleveland street, Morristown, has recently proven, she believes, a clear title to a share in the estate of Sir Thomas Moore, of England, which has for many years been tied up in the courts of Great Britain, and which Mrs. Wilson has been informed amounts to something like $80,000,000. Her lawyers have lodged a claim to a share of the estate for her, her descent from Sir Thomas Moore being clear. Sir Thomas had, it is said, three sons, Thomas, Joseph and Benjamin, the dates of their birth being well authenticated. All three came to America in 1725 and located in the southern part of this State. When an announcement of the death of their father was received here the eldest son, Thomas, returned to England to take possession of the estate. Several years later Thomas died intestate, leaving no issue, and his two brothers, still living in New Jersey, claimed the estate and filed their claim in the proper English court. While their claims were being adjusted Benjamin died, also intestate and leaving no issue, and the estate then vested in Joseph, the sole remaining heir. Joseph's eldest son, Edminster, whose baptism and death are of record, and who remained in this country, left, surviving him, three sons, Joseph, John and Gersham, all three of whom enlisted in the Patriot army at the time of the Revolutionary War. John was killed during the war, his brothers surviving, and among their children Ruth Moore, a daughter of Joseph, married John Stites, they being the grandparnets of Mrs. Wilson. All of the births, marriages and deaths, back to Edminston, are traced in family Bibles, now in possession of Mrs. Bolsterli, who is a descendant of Gersham Moore. Mrs. Wilson, who is about sixty years of age, says there were always family legends regarding the fortune awaiting them in England, when she was a child. She declares they are no longer a myth, but their title to the fortune is a well authenticated fact and only awaits the action of the English courts to give them some enjoyment of it.

Dress Rehearsal.

"The Cowboy and the Squaw" company, which will present the play for the first time at the New Plainfield theatre Thursday night, held a dress rehearsal at the playhouse last night. The company is an excellent one and the play carries all the marks of success. A big black and white steer, which will be used in one of the scenes, arrived in the city yesterday, and was used at the rehearsal.

Plainfield, N. J., August 14, 1907.

And now it is the Rahway reformatory that is under fire, and the startling testimony concerning the outrageous conditions said to exist there promises to equal, if not surpass, the horrible situation at the State asylum at Trenton. New Jersey's institutions appear to be a bad lot so far as their government is concerned, and it is high time that there was a "house cleaning" all around.

Should George P. Mellick retire from the Common Council at the expiration of his present term, the city would suffer a heavy loss for there is no man among the present membership and furthermore none among the past personnel who have used their endeavors more for the advancement of the municipality's interests. To use a time-worn phrase, he is "the right man in the right place," and it is the sincere wish of the community that he decide to continue his valuable services.

Perhaps its utter ignorance of local affairs and conditions, is responsible for the statement in another paper that the scheme for permanent pavements includes Fourth street, from Watchung avenue to Park avenue and Front street, from Watchung avenue to Central avenue. As everyone knows, the only part of Fourth street included in the ordinance is a strip at the intersection of Sycamore street and that the only section of Front street that will be improved in this manner is from Watchung avenue to Madison avenue.

If the boroughites really desire to have the annexation and consolidation problems settled for all time, there is no better way of bringing that vexing question to a head than by making it the issue of the coming campaign which appears to be the plan of both parties. Let the Republicans name Charles W. McCutchen, a leader among the "antis" during the last annexation campaign, as their candidate, and let the Democrats nominate William L. Saunders, the warmest advocate of union with Plainfield and annexation with Union county. Such a scheme would be the most satisfactory way of solving the problem.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

New dramatists have so quickly learned the knack of pleasing the people as George Ade, whose greatest success, "The College Widow," comes to the New Plainfield theatre tonight. His career as a writer for the stage is practically comprised in five years, and his earlier works were not evolved without some hesitation and a deal of hard work in rewriting. However, in the last three years, he has had as many all-season successes on Broadway and seven companies are presenting his plays and musical comedies on the road. By the time he was ready for "the widow" he had become familiar enough with the mechanics of play-writing to complete the book in a month. He revised it but once and then it stood the fire of criticism from George Marion, Mr. Savage's stage director, who is Ade's intimate friend but also his most cautious adviser.

The chorus in "Little Johnny Jones," which will appear at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night, is just about as sprightly a company of sweet feminity as has lately been assembled on any local stage. Mr. Cohan's choruses are always sprightly; otherwise they're not there. There are song hits galore in "Little Johnny Jones," but the ones that are whistled and hummed the most are "Good Bye, Flo," "Nesting in a New York Tree," "Give My Regards to Broadway" and "Yankee Doodle Boy."

The Messrs. Shubert have decorated "The Other House," the new comedy, which will be presented here for the first time on Friday night, with an elaborate cast, which includes among others Richard Golden, Edwin Mordaunt, William Humphreys, Martin G. Brown, Jack Dean, John Hughes, William Lawrence, Sarah C. Vickar, Katherine Florence, Ruth Allen, Adelaide Manola and Gertrude Swiggett.

There is a little bungalow hidden away somewhere in the hills of Western Iowa, and to this place Ramsay Morris sometimes steals away—far away—from that hectic place called Broadway. Surely in that favored spot he must have caught some of the local color that is giving to his new play, "Under Suspicion," so much purity and charm. "Under Suspicion" tells a simple story of the plain, clean-living people of the Middle West country. Its atmosphere is a new one to the melodramatic stage, where it stands in contrast to the ruling melodrama like the coolness and inspiring freshness of a May morning compared with the sultry and tempestuous summer heat. "Under Suspicion," with an exceptional cast headed by the clever young leading man, Wallace Worsley, will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre on Tuesday, August 20.

P. H. Sullivan says he will use twenty-four people, one-half a dozen animals and a 60-ft. carload of scenery to properly present his latest production, "The Cowboy and The Squaw," which comes to the New Plainfield theatre Thursday night.

Yorke and Adams and a company of fifty will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre on August 19, in Aaron Hoffman's successful musical comedy, "Playing The Ponies," which is one of those rattling humorous conceits which is ever popular filled to the brim with charming satire up-to-date specialties and all that goes to form two hours and a half of solid pleasure and wholesome laughter. The cast includes beside the stars, such well known metropolitan favorites as: J. Aldrich Libbey, Maude Campbell, Bobby Harrington, Juliet Wood, Catherine Trayer, Arthur Sullivan, Grace Childers, Jack Clinton, Laurie DeWolff, Frank W. Martin, Helen Tompanz, Linton DeWolff, Vivian Maxwell, Russell Hill, Eva Mull, Roy Burke, Antoinette Mafera and Joe Daly, the famous Pony Ballett, the Knickerbocker Sextette, and the singing and dancing chorus of twenty.

Sunday Trip to the Mountains.

It's cool in the mountains now. Take a trip on the New Jersey Central's popular priced excursion on August 18 to Manch Chunk, for $1.-50, or Lake Hopatcong for $1. Train leaves Plainfield for Manch Chunk at 9:20 a. m., and for Lake Hopatcong at 9:51 a. m. 8 14 4

HOURS—9.00 a. m. until 4.00 p. m.

Your eyes will be examined by THE DAMMERS SCIENTIFIC METHOD, Positively the only absolutely correct way to fit glasses.

(NO DROPS USED.) Those who have been examined for GLASSES by men who claim to examine eyes by the old, incorrect way, which is done by everyone who supplies glasses but us, will be agreeably surprised by our scientific and wonderful methods of fitting glasses.

We correct your eye defects by looking in the eyes, taking the exact scientific measurements of the focus and shape of the eyes.

NO QUESTIONS ASKED, no trying glasses on your face, until we have determined your exact optical error.

The old tedious, and tiresome way of trying to fit glasses is either putting drops in the eyes, which often causes BLINDNESS, or by trying on a lot of glasses, and asking you "Can you see these letters?" or "Do these glasses make you see better?"

After your Optician does a lot of guessing, and has your eyes all out of shape, you think you have been examined.

Think this over, and you can readily see that you have been doing your own examining, and that is no doubt the reason you have had trouble to get glasses correct.

We have produced astonishing results from brain fag, nervous debility, insomnia, dizziness, nausea, WATERY EYES, blurry vision, and other troubles caused by EYE STRAIN. We have corrected by the use of glasses cross eyes and Astigmatism by our scientific methods.

ARRAINGING TO FINISH SHOOTING AT SEA GIRT

CO. K. MEMBERS WILL HAVE TO MAKE SPECIAL TRIPS TO THE RANGES.

Because of the short time given to the local military at Sea Girt when Co. K was in camp there, it has been impossible for many of the men to finish their shooting for qualifications. There are several of the local shooters who have not yet had opportunity on the ranges for qualifying as marksmen and sharpshooters, and it is planned to have these men go to the shore in small squads for several Saturdays to come. The first party is expected to go to the shore Saturday.

Special orders issued today call for a meeting of the company at the armory Monday evening. On this occasion, the members are asked to turn in their haversacks, canteens and mess kits, which they used during the stay at Camp Stokes. Arrangements will be completed at this meeting for the men who have not yet finished their shooting to submit dates when they can get off to leave town for a day at Sea Girt. About fifteen members of the company have shooting to do or finish for ranking qualifications, and the company officers plan to have this finished up as quickly as possible, so that the number of qualifying marksmen and sharp shooters may be definitely known.

The State makes provision for this shooting to be done each year while the various companies are in camp, but this year there was such an extensive program of manoeuvres and special shooting contests to be carried out that several of the local shooters found no opportunity for the individual work at the ranges. Some of the other companies are behind in the shooting as well as Company K and it will be necessary for members from various cities to make special trips to the ranges if they wish to have an opportunity to qualify.

SMOKING CAR EXCITEMENT.

William R. Townsend In the Center of It At Interlaken.

Things happened to William R. Townsend, secretary of the Union County Tax Board, on an early morning train from Asbury Park to Elizabethport, today. Mr. Townsend, on his way from his nightly resting place at the shore to his office in Elizabeth, sat in the smoking car blissfully pulling after-breakfast comfort from a cigar. At Interlaken the cigar blew up. Somebody had played a joke on Mr. Townsend, and given him a trick smoke. In the excitement immediately following the explosion, Mr. Townsend bobbed his head agitatedly, and his hat blew out of the window. It sailed into a lakelet near the track.

Mr. Townsend's hat is a real-made-by-a-native-under-water Panama, and he never, never will abandon it to any such fate as threatened it at Interlaken. He had the train stopped, and rescued the hat. He had to wade in the water to do it.

WIRE SERVICE BETTER.

Conditions at Western Union Are Much Improved.

Local telegraph conditions are much improved today, especially at the Western Union office at the North avenue station, where Manager Schermerhorn reports that he has six New York wires working. While business is accepted subject to delay, but little inconvenience is experienced in sending telegrams. More xperienced operators are working in the main office of the Western Union in New York and the general business is being handled more quickly.

There is practically no change in conditions at the local office of the Postal Company. Operator Pendergast has but one wire and he appears to be more completely tied up. Occasionally he gets New York, but the amount of business handled either way is small.

CRIME MAY RESULT IN DOUBLE MURDER

SHOOTING OF TWO MEN LIKELY TO PROVE DUAL FATALITY.

Elizabeth, Aug. 14.—What will probably prove a double murder occurred early yesterday morning at Chrome, Middlesex county, which is a part of the town of Roosevelt. The victims are two Hungarians, Frank Katto, aged twenty-two, and single, and Michael Monar, aged thirty-three, who has a wife and three children living at Chrome. The man who shot them is a countryman of theirs, aged eighteen, but whose name is not yet known here. He was arrested and locked up in the police station at Chrome, whence he will be removed to Perth Amboy. The injured men were brought shortly before 8 o'clock yesterday morning on a train from Chrome to the Alexian Hospital here, where it was found that Monar was mortally wounded, he being shot in the abdomen just above the bladder, and that there was no hope for his recovery. His companion, Katto, was shot in the right breast just below the heart, the bullet passing through his body. It was found under the skin, back of the right shoulder blade.

The physicians say the young man's condition is critical and he has only a very slight chance of recovery.

The men are employed in the Chrome steel works, and were on their way to their daily toil when the shooting took place. The man who did it stepped up to them, they say, on the street and asked one:

"Are you Frank Katto?"

The latter replied he was and the assassin then whipped out a revolver and fired four shots, two each at Katto and Monar. The wounded men staggered and fell to the ground. Their assailant then fled, but was subsequently captured. The victims declare they do not know of any cause or provocation for the act.

It is thought the man who attacked them may possibly have been rendered insane by the heat, as the deed has every indication of being the work of a lunatic.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Mr. Burke's Methods.

J. Frank Burke is engaged in an effort to curb the saloons to the point of denying them legal existence. With that we have no quarrel. He is paid for the work that he does and that is no more than right. Mr. Burke has the support of the churches. Honest, God-fearing men are behind him. So they should be. The one puzzle about Mr. Burke and his labors in New Jersey is his ability to hold the support with which he began, while he resorts to such tactics as have characterized his frequent attacks upon Peter Tillman, one of the Union county Assemblymen. At a time when Mr. Tillman was so ill that for many days none conversant with his condition could see any chance of his recovery, Mr. Burke thinks that he should have been in Trenton, attending to his labors as a legislator. Only a few days ago, in an address the assault upon Mr. Tillman was renewed and he was denounced as a traitor. It does not seem possible that Mr. Burke can know the facts and still attack Mr. Tillman as he does, and yet, if he does not know the facts, he shows an inattention to details which should be utterly foreign to the work of such a public crusader.—Perth Amboy Chronicle.

A Candidate Eliminated.

A pretty substantial boom for the nomination of Elvin W. Crane for Governor on the Democratic ticket was started in Essex county some days ago but was promptly nipped in the bud when it was brought to his attention by his declaring that he would not consider such a proposition. It must be a matter of regret to Democrats all through the State that such an available candidate and one who posses so many elements of strength as Mr. Crane is thus eliminated from consideration as a candidate. Mr. Crane as a compromise candidate embodies about all the qualities that Democrats throughout the State could ask for in a nominee around whom they could rally and conduct a rousing campaign.

This is all said with full consideration of the fact that Democrats throughout Union county and none more heartily than members of the party in Summit will give to James E. Martine of Plainfield their firm support for the Gubernatorial nominations. But it does not necessarily follow that Mr. Martine's contest will be successful for no one can foresee the complications liable to arise at a State convention. In the event of inability to secure the nomination of Mr. Martine we have heard no name thus far advanced for the honor who would be so certain to lead the party to success as Mr. Crane. He would carry with him the distinction of a long and honorable service as Prosecutor of the Pleas in Essex county, and of having brought the party nearer to success when he opposed Foster M. Voorhees than any Democratic nominee in fifteen years and that too under peculiarly trying conditions. He would go into the fight with the reputation of more than a quarter of a century's close connection with politics and public life and without the least taint of a scandal of any kind attached to his career, something that few women in public affairs of today can boast.—Summit Record.
